

漫画人

JAPANESE
POP CULTURE
& LANGUAGE LEARNING

$4.50

MANGAJIN

No. 29

JAPANESE SOFTWARE SPECIAL

what's available in the US

Kachō Shima Kōsaku does Kyoto

本誌
29
74470 78600 9
MANGAJIN

CONTENTS

page 9

page 32

page 63

FEATURES

特集 tokushū

9 Political Cartoon

Newly elected Prime Minister Hosokawa seems to be having problems pruning the mighty oak left behind by the LDP.

11 Software Special

No more excuses! It's time to teach your computer Japanese. Douglas Horn examines the current Mac vs. PC options and provides a summary of Japanese application software available in the US.

42 Interview with Takeuchi Akira, creator of Garcia-kun

Manga artist Takeuchi Akira has created something of a stir with his new series about a foreign laborer (外人労働者, gaijin rōdōsha) in Japan.

DEPARTMENTS

連載/コラム

rensai/koramu

4 Letters & Bloopers The readers write.

7 Brand News Quick pickling.

16 A Taste of Culture: Elizabeth Andoh Japanese kitchen utensils are as distinctive as Japanese cooking.

20 Book Review Sakaiya Taichi's What Is Japan? (English translation of a Japanese best seller) is a prime example of the popular Nihon-ron ("theories about Japan") genre.

32 Basic Japanese: Stylized Kanji

Most kanji characters are actually highly stylized pictures. In the graphic arts, however, the process can go backward, and kanji are altered to take on the shape of the objects they represent. MANGAJIN presents a selection of these "visual puns."

88 Vocabulary Summary

90 MANGAJIN • MONO More stuff for study and fun.

94 Classifieds

MANGA

漫画

manga

28 Calvin and Hobbes, by Bill Watterson

30 The Far Side, by Gary Larson

38 Tanaka-kun • 田中くん, by Tanaka Hiroshi

40 OL Shinkaron • OL 進化論, by Akizuki Risu

42 Garcia-kun • ガルシアくん, by Takeuchi Akira

52 Sanshirō no Koi • 三四郎の恋, by Maekawa Tsukasa

63 Kachō Shima Kōsaku • 課長島耕作 (Part II), by Hirokane Kenshi

漫画人

MANGAJIN

Editor & Publisher
Vaughan P. Simmons

Translation Editor
Wayne Lammers

Advising & Contributing Editors
Peter Goodman, Karen Sandness
Frederik L. Schodt, Jack Seward

Contributing Writers/Editors
Elizabeth Andoh, Azby Brown, Cheryl Chow,
Douglas Horn, Richard Matthews, Okuyama
Ikuko, Shinoda Tomohito & Gretchen

Associate Editor
Ben Beishline

Editorial Assistant
Virginia Murray

Art & Graphics
Ashizawa Kazuko

Business Manager
Kathy Saitas
Tel. 404-590-0092 Fax 404-590-0890

Subscription/Office Manager
Mary Ann Beech
Tel. 404-590-0091

Marketing Manager
Greg Tenhover
Tel. 404-590-0270

Advisory Board
Doug Reynolds,
John Steed, William Yamaguchi

Cover by Kazuko

Printed in U.S.A.

MANGAJIN (ISSN 1051-8177) is published 10 times a year, monthly except January and July, by: Mangajin, Inc., 200 N. Cobb Pkwy., Suite 421, Marietta, GA 30062.

Second class postage paid at Marietta, GA 30060 and additional offices. Postmaster: Send address changes to: MANGAJIN, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065. USPS # 006137.

Subscription prices:

$30/year in US, $45/year in Canada.

Overseas (except Japan) subscriptions:

$70/year

Exclusive agent in Japan:

Sekai Shuppan Kenkyu Center,
Minami Aoyama 2-18-9, Minato-ku, Tokyo
Tel. 03-3479-4434, Fax 03-3479-5047.

Subscriptions in Japan: ¥9,000 and ¥8,000/year

Editor's Note

As a free-lance translator back in the 1980s, I held out against computers as long as I could. I preferred to work on a typewriter. My typewriter had a correction key, but in practice, I would just keep on typing (with plenty of XXed out sections) and then scribble changes in pencil on the finished page. Finally, in 1987, my best client told me I would have to get a computer or they would not be able to send me any more work. That, in a way, was what led to the creation of MANGAJIN.

At any rate, it's a fact that MANGAJIN would not be possible without computers and desktop publishing.

Our most recent reader survey showed that 86% of our readers owned or used a computer. (I'm embarrassed to say that the survey was done over a year ago, but if anything, we would expect that number to have increased.) For the other 14%—watch out! Your time may come sooner than you think.

In most issues we will keep the "Computer Corner" to a couple of pages, but we want to start including a Q&A department. We especially welcome stupid questions that even the editor can answer. Questions from people who have actually used a computer before will probably go to Douglas Horn.

For over three years, MANGAJIN has maintained the same old worn-out price, and I'm sure many of you have grown tired of it. In the next issue we will introduce our new price. To make the transition smoother for those who may find change unsettling, we will honor our old promotional offers through the end of this year.

Even at our new cover price of $4.95, I firmly believe that MANGAJIN is still a bargain. In our last survey (mentioned above), readers said they spent an average of 3.5 hours with each copy of MANGAJIN. Where else can you get three and a half hours of quality entertainment for only $4.95?

P.S. See page 7 for info on our new Basic Japanese book!

The name MANGAJIN is registered in the U.S. Patent & Trademark Office.

Copyright © 1993 by MANGAJIN, Inc. All rights reserved.

• Calvin and Hobbes, by Bill Watterson, from The Essential Calvin and Hobbes, copyright ©1988 Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editors Press Service, NY • The Far Side, by Gary Larson, from The Far Side Gallery 2, copyright ©1986 Universal Press Syndicate. Also from Wiener Dog Art, copyright ©1990 Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editors Press Service, NY • Tanaka-kun, by Tanaka Hiroshi, first published in Japan in 1989 by Take Shobō, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Take Shobō. • OL Shinkaron, by Akizuki Risu, first published in Japan in 1990 by Kōdansha, Ltd., Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Kōdansha, Ltd. • Garcia-kun, by Takeuchi Akira, first published in Japan in 1992 by Futabasha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Futabasha. • Sanshirō no Koi, by Maekawa Tsukasa, first published in Japan in 1990 by Take Shobō, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Take Shobō. • Kachō Shima Kōsaku, by Hirokane Kenshi, first published in Japan in 1987 by Kōdansha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Kōdansha.

Japan And The Art Of Landing Feet First.

The Daruma Doll is a Japanese good luck symbol, bottom-weighted to always land feet first. To make a wish, you paint the face of the eyes. When the wish comes true you gratefully paint in the other eye. This is the non-business side of Japan you need to know in order to understand its business side. All the books you need to fully know the real Japan are now at KINOKUNIYA (Kin-oh-kunee-yah—in both English and Japanese).

KINOKUNIYA BOOKSTORES
The Largest Japanese Bookstore Chain in The U.S. and Japan

San Francisco
(415)567-7625

San Jose
(408)252-1300

Los Angeles
(213)687-4490

Torrance
(310)327-6577

Costa Mesa
(714)334-9986

Seattle
(206)507-2477

New York
(212)765-1461

New Jersey
(201)941-7500

3½" X 4" PADDED CALENDAR
FITS MOST DAY PLANNERS

A-KANJI-A-DAY 1994 Daily Calendar

by MARJORIE E. HEY

Featuring:

- Kanji used in newspapers
- ON-KUN readings
- Stroke order
- Sample compounds

$11.50* Gift Boxed

add $3.00 shipping and handling (USA only)

*CA residents add 8.25% sales tax

ALSO AVAILABLE:

- Weekly and Monthly Kanji Calendars
- Japanese Software
- Personalized in Japanese/English Business cards, Note Pads, Labels, Book Plates, Rubber Stamps, Tiles, Photo Mugs, Luggage Tags, Shirts, Keychains, and Magnets
- Japanese Typesetting

Call or write for your FREE Gift Catalog

HEY PUBLISHING CO.

28150 Avenue Crocker, Unit 201

Valencia, California 91355

(805) 295-5905

On-line Info Service

Gateway Japan

Enjoy immediate access to a wealth of information on Japan. GJ On-line:

- is user friendly
- features full-text search and retrieval
- requires no experience
- provides personalized assistance & technical support
- has LOW rates and no hidden costs

Information available includes:

- government releases
- policy, business & research reports
- joint venture activities
- statistics & export/trade "how tos"
- news clips & bios
- opinions & perceptions
- exchanges, fellowships & grants
- details on organizations—including:
Focus Japan: A Resource Guide to Japan-Oriented Organizations (see MANGAJIN classifieds for more information)

For FREE brochure call: 202-265-7685

Gateway Japan/NPA
1424 16th St., NW, #700
Washington, D.C. 20036

Letters to the Editor

MANGAJIN welcomes comments by letter or fax, although we reserve the right to edit for clarity or length. Please address correspondence to: Editor, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065-1119. Fax: 404-590-0890

日本語の投書も大歓迎です。日本在住の方は世界出版研究センターへ送っていただいて結構です。〒107東京都港区南青山2-18-9, Fax: 03-3479-4436

MANGAJIN in class

In our special summer Japanese program which has just ended, we offered two experimental MANGAJIN classes. Nineteen intermediate level students signed up, and the reactions were so positive that we will add two special MANGAJIN classes to the Fall term regular schedule. We hope even more students will join us to make a third class.

T.I. MCCARTHY

The Japan-America Society of Washington (D.C.), Inc.

In the next issue we'll publish more information on how the classes were organized and run for this bold experiment. If there are any other teachers out there using MANGAJIN, please let us know your methods, too.

Suspense-less drama

An interesting point in relation to the Tanaka-kun "Hannin" story from No. 27: Tanaka-kun says, "With suspense dramas you can usually tell who's guilty by the casting." Japanese friends tell me that in fact the "bad guys" are always cast from the same group of actors who only play "bad guy" parts, and so from the beginning of the sasupensu dorama, the viewers already know who the hannin is. Given this, many Japanese say that sasupensu dorama are boring. However, others counter that the most important part of enjoying drama is appreciating how the actors play their roles—freed from the worry of "whodunit," appreciating individual performances becomes that much easier. However, there's obviously a market for Western-style suspense drama, too.

DAVID EDWARDS
Fukuoka, Japan

Rising Sun

Like your review of Michael Crichton's book Rising Sun in No. 18, Rebecca Mundy's review (No. 28) of the film drawn from that novel reflects your publications's reluctance to deal honestly with anything that might seem critical of Japan. This squeamishness is fundamentally detrimental to Japanese-American relations.

STAN HOCHMAN
New York, NY

Would you believe we have had comments from Japanese readers that some of our material was racist? Our goal is to strike a balance (without becoming boring), so I guess we'll continue to try to offend at least some people on both sides of the Pacific.

We really prefer the role of dispassionate observer and reporter—above the fray—but our writers, being more human, sometimes have a point of view, and we generally let them express it.

The Atlanta Option

What's this I see on the front page of the LA Times? I am a gay subscriber to your excellent magazine. But I will never ever send another check to Marietta, Georgia.

DON STORY
Long Beach, CA

The clipping with this letter was a story about the decision by Cobb County (of which Marietta is the county seat) to cut off all funding of the arts. This apparently grew out of an earlier plan to fund only art that supported traditional family values, and it is seen as a backlash against recent political gains made by homosexuals in Atlanta.

Actually, we'd love to move our offices to California or New York, but we just can't give up the cheap rent here in Marietta. Fortunately, we have maintained our PO box in Atlanta, so those who can't bear to send a check to Marietta can use this address: Mangajin, PO Box 49543, Atlanta, GA 30359.

The Occasional Blooper

One of the first things I did upon arriving in Japan was to purchase a radio. Primarily, it was kept tuned to the English language broadcasts of AFRTS (Armed Forces Radio and Television Service), but from time to time, for practice, I would tune in the Japanese stations. One morning, I heard my first Japanese weather report: "Ichiji ame ga furu desho." Meeting with a friend around noon, I remarked, "The weather forecasting system here is certainly advanced. They are predicting rain at one o'clock." Of course, my friend laughed and informed me that "ichiji" which does mean "one o'clock," has the meaning of "occasionally" in this context.

JAMES L. WAYMAN
Pebble Beach, CA

Ultra Blooper

I originally began learning Japanese because of my interest in Japanese science fiction animation, so I am always interested in any new entries to the Bandai Super Video Collection. The package fronts are in Japanese, but there is always at least one line of English on the back. I picked up one tape recently that was entitled ウルトラ戦士スーパーミュージック (Urutora Senshi Sūpā Myūjikkū, "Ultra-Warriors Super Music") on the front, so imagine my surprise when I turned it over and discovered that the title was given in English as "Ultra Worriers Super Music."

JUDITH D. FISHER
Northbrook, IL

We'll send you a Mangajin T-shirt if we publish your language (Japanese or English) blooper. Send to: Bloopers, PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

INTERNATIONAL TRADERS • TEACHERS • ECONOMISTS • COMPUTER ENGINEERS • FINANCIAL SPECIALISTS • MARKETERS • BIOLOGISTS • INTERNATIONAL TRADERS • TEACHERS • ECONOMISTS

Where do Japan-related companies go to meet talented, qualified people to fill their needs?

DISCO's International Career Forums

When the world's sharpest young minds meet the world's most successful companies, connections are bound to be formed. At DISCO International Career Forums international companies connect with the pick of the year's brightest Japanese-speaking university graduates. These same university graduates connect with companies that have a need for talented bilingual people with engineering, business, accounting or research skills.

DISCO, Development of Information Services for Career Opportunities, has been bringing great minds together for nearly 20 years. Through our renowned Nikkei Placement Guide series and international job fairs, we specialize in bringing Japan-affiliated companies and bilingual job seekers together. To find out how you or your company can participate in an International Career Forum, please call the DISCO office nearest you.

NEW YORK Tel: 212-489-2040	BERLIN Tel: 030-893-23-24	LONDON Tel: 071-493-1533
--------------------------------------	-------------------------------------	------------------------------------

The 4th Annual International Career Forum in Berlin
October 30-31, 1993

The 4th Annual International Career Forum in Boston
November 5-7, 1993

The 4th Annual International Career Forum in San Francisco
February 25-27, 1994

DISCO
2-12 Shimomiyabi-cho
Shinjuku-ku, Tokyo 162
Tel: 03-5228-0262
Fax: 03-5228-0324

INTERNATIONAL TRADERS • TEACHERS • ECONOMISTS • CHEMISTS • TELECOMMUNICATIONS SPECIALISTS • TRANSLATORS • PHYSICISTS

Weatherhill

PUBLISHERS OF FINE BOOKS ON ASIA AND THE PACIFIC

Tengu Books

A NEW WEATHERHILL IMPRINT

BUTTERFLIES OF THE NIGHT MAMA-SANS, GEISHA, STRIPPERS, AND THE JAPANESE MEN THEY SERVE by Lisa Louis

A fascinating tour of Japan's infamous mizu shōbai—the nightlife industry that caters to the sensual needs of Japanese men. From cabarets to the most refined geisha houses, Lisa Louis exposes a complete portrait of Japanese nightlife. Wide-ranging interviews paint a surprising picture of the women of this world, the men they serve, the mob connections, and the mizu shōbai's crucial role in Japanese life and business.

224 pp. 6 1/4 x 9 1/4 ISBN 0-8348-0249-X $19.95
(HARD)

JAPANESE STREET SLANG

by Peter Constantine

The only comprehensive compendium of Japanese slang as it is used on the streets of Japan today. A useful tool to help non-native speakers of Japanese understand the forceful and colorful twists and turns of "street" Japanese, which also offers the general reader amusing and informative insights into Japanese thought and speech.

216 pp. 5 1/4 x 8 ISBN 0-8348-0250-3 $9.95
(SOFT)

ESSENTIAL KANJI by P.G. O'Neill

The classic guide to learning kanji, rigorously tested and refined by years of use in university classes. An integrated course for learning to read and write the 2,000 basic Japanese characters now in everyday use, a mastery of which makes it possible to read most modern Japanese.

328 pp. 5 x 7 1/4 ISBN 0-8348-0222-8 $16.95 (SOFT)

漢字をどれくらい覚、 the practical jitsuyō
[na] 実用的 [な] Jō
English-1 (language)
Ego 英語 2 (person)
Japanese 1 (language)
Nihon-go 日本語 2 (dictionary) shō 辞書
jiten 辞典; shūka 辞書
Noah S. Brannen (a
Noa Etsu Brannen
ノア・エツ・ブランナン

THE PRACTICAL ENGLISH-JAPANESE DICTIONARY by Noah S. Brannen

A pocket-sized dictionary containing nearly 8,000 entries both in romanization and Japanese characters. Introduces up-to-date, colloquial, and natural-sounding expressions to meet the needs of students, residents of Japan, and visitors. Includes a guide to Japanese grammar and pronunciation, a date conversion table, a listing of suffixes used in counting, and verb conjugation tables.

412 pp. 3 1/4 x 6 ISBN 0-8348-0187-6 Appendices $12.95 (SOFT)

Japan's Modern Myth

JAPANESE NAMES by P.G. O'Neill

The problems of reading Japanese names sometimes confound even the Japanese themselves. Japanese Names is a comprehensive dictionary of some 36,000 Japanese names by character and reading. "Indispensable. Easy to read and commendably exhaustive."—Times Literary Supplement

376 pp. 5 x 7 1/4 ISBN 0-8348-0225-2 $22.50 (SOFT)

JAPAN'S MODERN MYTH

The Language and Beyond by Roy Andrew Miller

Professor Miller analyzes the Japanese through their language and the myths and misconceptions they have built up around it. "A spirited new exploration of the Japanese obsession with their language . . . provocative, amusing, and in the end disturbing."—Asian Wall Street Journal.

312 pp. 6 1/4 x 9 1/4 ISBN 0-8348-0168-X Selected Bibliography Index $22.50 (HARD)

420 Madison Avenue, 15th Floor, New York, New York 10017-1107 Tel: 212-223-3008 Fax: 212-223-2584

To receive a catalogue or place an order: 300 Long Beach Blvd., Stratford, CT 06497 1-800-437-7840

Innovative uses of the Japanese language

ぬかよろこび Nuka Yorokobi “Rice Bran Joy”

Nuka (糠, rice bran) is used in a variety of ways in Japanese households; for example, it's used to make the pickled vegetables known as tsukemono (漬物), or, more specifically, nukazuke (ぬか漬). The problem is that nuka smells bad and is messy, so the people at Morinaga (better known for their candies) developed a product called Nuka Yorokobi to help housewives make nukazuke without the fuss and muss. Dissolve one package of Nuka Yorokobi in 2 cups of water, and soak cucumbers, eggplant, etc. overnight to get that “100 year pickle taste.”

The word nuka is also used in various figurative ways, and the expression nuka yorokobi (yorokobi is a noun form of the verb yorokobu, “rejoice”) is used to refer to “premature/unwarranted joy.” In that sense, it's not such a good name for a product, but apparently the pun value was considered to outweigh any negative implications the word might have.

Send us your examples of creative product names or slogans (with some kind of documentation). If we publish your example, we'll send you a MANGAJIN T-shirt to wear on your next shopping trip. In case of duplicate entries, earliest postmark gets the shirt. BRAND NEWS, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

OLD! from MANGAJIN

MANGAJIN's BASIC JAPANESE through comics

The next best thing to a complete set of MANGAJIN back issues!

Only $14.95/¥2500 in Japan
Softcover—160 pgs.—8¼ by 10 ¾

BASIC JAPANESE through comics

The first 24 Basic Japanese Lessons from MANGAJIN, compiled in book form! Each lesson takes a specific concept of basic Japanese—a phrase, word, or hard-to-grasp idiom—and carefully examines and explains it using examples from real manga. The lessons cover a wide array of expressions and illustrate usage and cultural context, conveying important points quickly and memorably. Beginners will find the concepts and explanations easy to understand and immediately useful, while old pros can pick up tidbits that add depth to their knowledge.

CONTENTS

- | | | |
|---|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1. Yoroshiku . . . | 8. Dōmo , the All-Purpose Word | 17. Baby Talk |
| 2. Sumimasen | 9. Dōzo | 18. Informal Politeness |
| 3. Hiragana & Katakana in Manga | 10. Baka , the Basic Insult | 19. Introductions |
| 4. Feminine Speech | 11. Shitsurei | 20. “—sama” Words |
| 5. Gaijin Bloopers | 12. ii , the “Good” Word | 21. Hesitating with Anō |
| 6. Ohayō gozaimasu & Omedetō gozaimasu | 13. Yatta! the Exclamation | 22. The Wide World of Desu |
| 7. Creative Kanji Readings | 14. Saying Goodbye | 23. Hai |
| | 15. The Concept of Komaru | 24. Hai (Part 2) |
| | 16. Counters and Classifiers | |

In the U.S., order through MANGAJIN...Tel: 800-552-3206 Fax: 404-590-0890
In Japan*, order through SSKC.....Tel: 03-3479-4434 Fax: 03-3479-5047

*available in Japan in November, 1993

劇画広告・世界は動く!

THE WORLD KEEPS CHANGING

— A Dramatic Comic Advertisement —

Businessman 1: Na, naniiii!?
"Wha, whaat!?"

Businessman 2: Tanoshimi ni shiteta terebibangumi ga kyanseru ni natta dakeda.
"It's just that the TV program he was looking forward to got cancelled."

FX: GAAAN
(an FX word indicating shock or realization)

The Yomiuri Shimbun, providing a morning circulation of 9.7 million and 4.7 million in the evening, is the most read newspaper in Japan. It is unquestionably the country's most prestigious and influential newspaper. Today, The Yomiuri Shimbun Satellite Edition can be read in the U.S., Canada, South America, and Europe via an undersea optical fiber communications cable across the Pacific, which enables our audience to read the news at zero time difference.

The Yomiuri Shimbun. Delivering world news to all of the world.

読賣新聞

THE YOMIURI SHIMBUN

THE YOMIURI SHIMBUN 1-7-1 Otemachi, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo, 100-55, Japan Tel:(03)3242-1111 Fax:(03)3246-0455
YOMIURI AMERICA, INC. 666 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10103 Tel:(212)765-1111 Fax:(212)765-1610

POLITICAL CARTOON

From the Asahi Shinbun (朝日新聞)

From the September 1 edition of the Asahi, this cartoon shows the new prime minister, Hosokawa, trying to restructure the public works budget, with little success. The current allocation, carefully balanced between five sectors, was worked out almost ten years ago under the guidance of political string-puller Kanemaru Shin (shown as the tree in our cartoon). Kanemaru is the one who reputedly accepted shopping carts full of money as political donations from various sources, including construction companies. Hosokawa says he wants to reform the budget structure to benefit consumers, rather than construction companies. Powerful special interest groups have kept the budget allocation more or less intact so far, and it will take Hosokawa some time to make changes in the old established structure from the Kanemaru era.

On Tree: '94 公共事業予算
Kyūjūyon Kōkyō Jigyō Yosan
1994 Public Works Budget

Hosokawa: 大ナタを 振るいたかった ん だが...
Ōnata o furuitakatta n da ga...
ax (obj.) wanted to swing/wave (explan.) but "I really wanted to wield the big ax, but..."

Kanemaru-tree: ま、来年 だ な
Ma, rainen da na.
well next year is (colloq.)
"Well, it'll be next year."
→ "Well, maybe next year."

Caption: 古い 枝ぶり そのまんま... か
Furui edaburi sono manma... ka old tree shape in that state (question)
The old tree shape: as it is.
→ So, the tree keeps its same old shape.

山田 紳
Yamada Shin
(Name of the Artist)—a "pen" name

- furuitakatta is the past form of furuitai, the "want to" form of furuu ("swing/wield"). Ōnata o furuu is literally "wield the big ax," meaning, "make drastic cuts (in the budget, etc.)"
- eda means "branches" and -buri is a suffix meaning "manner/style," so edaburi is a word referring to the shape of a tree.
- sono manma is a colloquial version of sono mama "as is/in that state" → "same old (shape)."
- The question particle ka is mostly rhetorical here. This is an example of the question form being used as a kind of self-confirmation of what one has figured out/observed, something like "So it's . . . , is it?/I guess." The delay before ka adds a feeling of disappointment/let down.

© Yamada Shin. All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1993 by Asahi Shinbun, Tokyo. English translation rights arranged through Asahi Shinbun.

LogoVista

E J

ロ ゴ ヴ ィ ス タ

TRANSLATION SUPPORT SYSTEM

English to Japanese Translation Software

Growing ties between the United States and Japan have created a great demand for the translation of English-language documents into Japanese, yet translation projects can be costly and frustrating. Recognizing the need to increase the speed and reduce the cost of translation, Language Engineering Corporation has developed LogoVista E to J.

LogoVista E to J can be used to translate a variety of English-language documents into Japanese: product literature, technical articles, news, and correspondence. By using LogoVista E to J, translators can increase productivity and ensure consistency of terminology.

Comprehensive, State-of-the-Art Dictionaries

High-quality machine translation depends on superior dictionaries. Drawing on authoritative references such as the Oxford English Dictionary and Logat's International Thesaurus, LogoVista E to J's Main Dictionary includes more than 100,000 entries covering the most frequently used English words.

The Main Dictionary can be supplemented by Technical Dictionaries and User Dictionaries. Nineteen Technical Dictionaries, which contain a total of over 715,000 business, scientific, and technical terms, are currently available. Users can also build custom User Dictionaries to meet their individual needs.

Broad Grammatical Coverage

LogoVista E to J draws on an extensive tradition of translation system development – over thirty years of pioneering research. Working together closely, a team of Japanese and American linguists has incorporated the latest advances in English analysis and Japanese synthesis into LogoVista E to J.

The Ability to Learn

LogoVista E to J's Translate Interactive feature allows users to choose an alternative translation of a word, a phrase, or an entire sentence. The system records the choices made by users through the Translate Interactive feature and uses that information to influence future translations. In this way, the system is customized as it is used.

An Easy-to-Use Interface

LogoVista E to J's basic functions can be learned quickly. Pull-down menus and a comprehensive help function reduce the need to refer to manuals.

Hardware and Software Compatibility

Versions of LogoVista E to J are available for the Macintosh, for Windows, and for UNIX workstations. LogoVista E to J can be used in conjunction with English and Japanese word processing software on both personal computers and UNIX workstations.

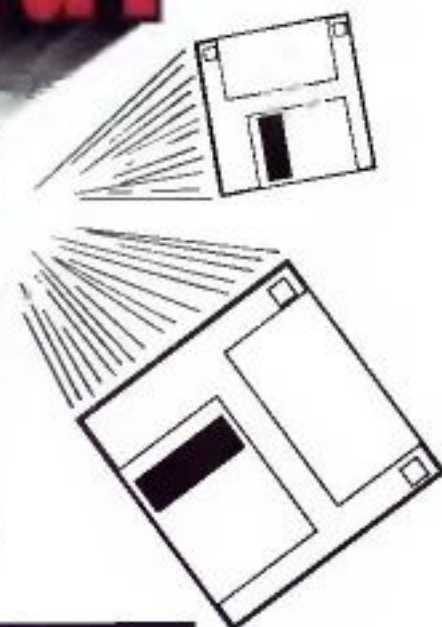

Language Engineering Corporation

385 Central Avenue, Belmont, MA 02178

Tel. (617) 489-8000 Fax (617) 489-3650

Software Special

Japanese Application Software in the US

When MANGAJIN did its first Japanese Software Special back in September 1990, we found less than 20 Japanese software products available in the US. This time we came up with over 120. The list includes word processors, translation programs, spreadsheets, desktop publishing applications, and loads of fonts—and none require special hardware to run. In fact, there is so much Japanese software readily available in the US today that you no longer have any excuse for not getting that Japanese letter, report, or newsletter written, laser printed, and out the door. Our software special has two parts.

PART 1—No More Excuses: Its Time to Teach Your Computer Japanese

Douglas Horn explores the basics of computing in Japanese, comparing the MacIntosh and PC approaches, and then makes recommendations for getting started from scratch.

PART 2—MANGAJIN's Definitive Guide to Japanese Application Software in the US

The second part of our special is a guide to over 120 Japanese software products available in the US, including descriptions, requirements, sources and prices. The guide is based on information furnished by developers, distributors, and retailers. The descriptions are only meant to be informative, and should not be taken as recommendation for any particular product or reseller.

You will see different prices from different sources in the listing, but keep in mind that price should not be your only consideration. You should try to determine which sources can provide you with the support you need—and remember that availability is also an issue.

No More Excuses! It's Time to Teach Your Computer Japanese

by Douglas Horn

WHERE DO I START?

If you just need basic word processing, some of the applications in our list will run on an ordinary US computer with an ordinary US operating system. But if you're serious about working in Japanese on the computer, and need more advanced functions—like desktop publishing—you'll need a Japanese operating system.

The operating system is the basic set of instructions that tell the computer how to respond to the signals coming from the keyboard, including what messages to display on the screen. It's possible to work in almost any language on almost any computer, if you have the right operating system. Applications, on the other hand, are designed for a specific task, such as word processing, illustration, desktop publishing, and so forth.

MACINTOSH SYSTEMS

In the US, Macintosh users have long had a leg up on PC users in the Japanese computing arena. KanjiTalk (the Japanese operating system for the Macintosh) was released in North America several years ago. Unfortunately, Apple sold KanjiTalk only through a small number of authorized resellers, some of which gave poor user support, if any.

KanjiTalk users still have to rely on their authorized resellers for support, but Apple's Japanese Language Kit (JLK—reviewed in Mangajin #27) is more readily available, and is supported via Apple's main support number (800-767-2775). A recent test call resulted in a ten minute wait before being told that a JLK support person would have to return my call, but they did have the right answer!

Macintosh users who want to teach their computer Japanese have two choices of operating systems: KanjiTalk 7.1, selling for $700 or JLK at $250. KanjiTalk includes seven TrueType fonts to the JLK's two, and KanjiTalk turns a Macintosh into a Japanese system, including Japanese menus, help and error message, where the JLK runs Japanese extensions over a standard US system, keeping everything but the Japanese applications in English.

Those who use their Macs for Japanese publishing or other professional activities should stick with KanjiTalk—the extra fonts and lack of application conflicts will make the system worthwhile. Occasional users of Japanese applications, on the other hand, would do well to use the JLK. The English manual, menus, and tech support will ease their lives considerably, and if the two TrueType fonts are not enough, there are several third party fonts to choose from.

Japanese printers, with Kanji fonts in ROM, are now finally available in the US, but unless you are doing a lot of printing, or need high quality output (600 dpi or above) you don't need one. Adobe Type Manager (ATM-J) will allow the Macintosh to print to standard laser printers.

PC COMPATIBLE SYSTEMS

The appearance of DOS/V in the US market a couple of years ago was a major step in putting IBM compatible PCs on equal footing with Macs. DOS/V is available from several vendors for as little as $165. Unfortunately, DOS/V still does not support Japanese printing on US printers. Fortunately, Microsoft Windows 3.1J is now available. Windows 3.1J requires DOS/V 5.0, but it will support Japanese printing to any Windows compatible printer.

What's more, Windows 3.1J has a built-in front end processor that looks and works very much like Apple's 'kotoeri' kana/kanji conversion program included in KanjiTalk 7.1 and JLK. Windows 3.1J also includes several utility programs, including Write-J, a simple word processor.

Windows 3.1J prints to any Windows-compatible printer, and like JLK, includes two Japanese TrueType fonts. It runs either Japanese or English Windows applications, but some users will choose to have a copy of both versions on their hard drive, because Windows 3.1J does get slowed down by the Japanese TrueType fonts, especially with type sizes over 12 points.

Windows 3.1J gobbles quite a bit of hard drive space, and adding Japanese fonts just compounds the problem. But its benefits, such as the ability to run so many applications, and the best Japanese printing you've ever seen from a normal PC and printer far outweigh its disk drive gluttony.

MAC vs. PC

Most people who already own a computer are probably not interested in what is available for the other platform. Mac users will stick with Apple to their last byte, and PC users are no different. But if you don't have a computer yet, and need to run Japanese applications, which system should you buy?

Until a few months ago, this was a no-brainer—Mac was the answer for Japanese computing. The release of Windows 3.1J, however, has forced users to rethink the conventional wisdom.

Microsoft Windows 3.1J and Apple's Japanese Language Kit are remarkably similar packages. Each contains two TrueType Kanji fonts, both use a similar interface, and each sells for a similar price. (though Windows J will cost a bit more when DOS/V 5.0's price is included.)

Even with Apple's recent price cuts, a Macintosh computer is still more expensive than a similarly powered PC clone. But Macs have always lost on price; people buy them because they are simpler to use. But unless low prices or plug-and-play capabilities are overriding issues for you, the two are a wash.

In Japanese computing, as in other computing arenas, the Mac versus PC question eventually comes down to software. The Macintosh currently has more Japanese applications available, and is Japan's fastest growing computer platform. But there are a wealth of Windows applications currently being localized for Japan. The Mac edge in available software is narrowing every day, and who will have the better software selection in the future is anyone's guess.

The question often comes down to the way the computer will be used. The Macintosh definitely has some innate advan-

(continued on page 85)

Japanese Application Software in the US

Go with what you know! With a list of over 120 software products it's not possible to review each one and make specific recommendations. In selecting a product, one of the best approaches is to use the Japanese version of an English language product that you are familiar with, assuming one is available. Japanese versions of programs generally keep their menus and commands true to the original English versions. This can save the users the hassle of trying to search Japanese menu commands that are often abbreviated, or written in unfamiliar technical language. One note: just because you are running matching English and Japanese versions of the same program, don't expect files to be compatible between them. Often they are, but many times they are not. Japanese PageMaker, for example can read English PageMaker files, but the reverse is not true.

PRICES AND SOURCES

Prices and sources are given for all products in this listing. Sources are abbreviated as follows.

C&T=Cheng & Tsui Company

CLR=Character Language Resources

CCIC=CCIC

PRC=Pacific Rim Connections, Inc.

PSP=Pacific Software Publishing, Inc.

QTC=Qualitas Trading Company

SS=SystemSoft

Addresses and telephone numbers are provided at the end of the listing.

SYSTEM SOFTWARE

—Mac—

Apple Japanese Language Kit (JLK)

Allows users to run Japanese applications without converting entire system to Japanese. English manual and support provided by Apple. Includes two fonts. Requires: 4MB RAM (more recommended); 20MB hard disk space; System 7/7.1 or higher; 1.4MB floppy drive. Sources: SS, QTC: $249; CCIC: $235.

KanjiTalk 9.07

Japanese language operating system with menus in Japanese. Supported by authorized resellers only. Requires: 2MB RAM; hard drive; 1.4MB floppy drive. Sources: CCIC, SS: $250.

KanjiTalk 7.1

Japanese language operating system with menus in Japanese. Supported by authorized resellers only. Requires: 2MB RAM; hard drive; 1.4MB floppy drive. Sources: SS: $699. CD-ROM version—CCIC: $590.

—PC—

DOS/V 5.0

Japanese operating system based on IBM's

PC DOS; supports English DOS applications and many Japanese applications. Requires: 286 or higher CPU; VGA display; 1MB RAM. (2MB recommended). Sources: CCIC, SS, C&T: $165; PSP: $195; PRC, QTC: $230.

Microsoft Windows 3.1J

Allows user to run US and Japanese Windows applications. Two Japanese TrueType fonts and several standard utilities included. Requires 386 or higher CPU; VGA display; 2MB RAM (4MB recommended); DOS/V 4.0 or higher; VJE Gamma front end processor; US keyboard driver for non-Japanese keyboards. Sources: SS, PSP: $215; PRC, QTC: $250; CCIC: $190. C&T w/US keyboard driver: $280, w/o US keyboard driver: $250. CD-ROM version—SS: $205; PSP: $215.

WORD PROCESSORS

—Mac—

Claris MacWrite II J 1.1v3

Claris' flagship word processor adapted to handle Japanese. Includes features culturally localized for Japan. Requires: 8MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07 or higher. Sources: CCIC: $500; SS: $525; PRC: $499.

EG Word 5.0

Japanese word processor; includes front end processor, EG Bridge 5.1. Includes 60,000 entry dictionary. Japanese documentation only. Requires: 2MB RAM; KanjiTalk 2.0 or later, or Apple Japanese Language Kit. Sources: CCIC: $495; SS: $565; PRC: $545; C&T, QTC: $599.

EG Word Classic 1.1

"Light" version of EG Word for 68,000 CPU Macintosh machines. Includes EG Bridge 5.0 front end processor. Japanese documentation only. Requires: 2MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 2.0 or higher. Sources: CCIC: $239; SS: $285; PRC, C&T: $295; QTC: $299.

Dynaware MacWord 2.0

For business documents; includes many DTP features such as write-vertical, master page layout, etc. Package includes MacVJE front end processor. Requires: 4MB and hard drive; KanjiTalk 6.07 or 7.1 or JLK. Sources: CCIC: $475; SS, QTC: $480.

Nisus Solo Writer v.1.32

Japanese word processor with extensive drawing capabilities. English and Japanese documentation. Requires: 4MB RAM; KanjiTalk 6.0.7 or later or Apple's JLK. Sources: CCIC: $370; SS, QTC: $395; PRC, C&T: $495.

Nisus 3.4L (Japanoso)

Full-featured word processing and graphics program. Allows multiple language input. "L" means "limited flag additions," which enables you to enter text in languages that use the standard roman character set. For Japanese requires: Mac Plus or higher; System 6.05 or later; KanjiTalk 6.07 or higher or JLK. Sources: CCIC: $370; SS: $395.

Turbowriter J 1.1

Japanese word processor with full Japanese text style support, including furigana. Imports Japanese text, and exports to DTP applications. Requires: MacPlus or better; 2MB hard disk space; System 4.1 or higher; JLK or KanjiTalk; QuickDraw or PostScript compatible printer. Sources: PRC, C&T: $395.

Turbowriter 2.2

Japanese-English business word processor. Requires: 2MB RAM (4MB for System 7); 650K hard disk space; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07 or later. Source: SS: $295.

UpWord 1.3s

Basic Japanese word processor for Macintosh. Requires: 2MB RAM; KanjiTalk 6.0.4 or later. Source: Jeffrey Turnbull, PO Box 517, Fairfield, IA 52556. Tel. 515-427-1990

WordPerfect 2.2J for Mac

Full-featured Japanese word processor; many graphic manipulation features. Requires: Mac Plus or above; 1.2MB RAM; 5MB hard disk space; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.0.5 or higher. Source: WordPerfect Corporation: 801-225-5000.

—PC—

EW+ 3.0

Full-functioned DOS Japanese word processor for IBM PS/2 and AT compatibles. Will print Japanese to US printers. 45,000+ entry dictionary. English manual optional. Requires: EGA or VGA display; 2MB+ hard disk space; DOS 3.0+. Sources: AT & PS/2 versions—PRC, C&T, QTC: $695. XT version—PRC: $695. w/ English Manual—C&T: $740.

Ichitaro 4.0 for DOS/V 5.0

A version of Japan's best-selling software application. Provides bitmapped fonts only, but is compatible with files created in the NEC version of Ichitaro. Requires: DOS/V 5.0 or later. Sources: CCIC: $620; PRC, QTC: $680.

JWP 1.01

Japanese word processor for US Windows 3.0 or later. WYSIWYG word processing. Requires: EGA or VGA display; 5MB hard disk space; MS Windows 3.0 or later; DOS 3.0 or later. By Stephen Chung (Internet or GENIE), free. (See MANGAJIN #28.)

KanjiWORD for Windows

Japanese word processor for US Windows. Includes screen and printing fonts, but also supports TrueType or PostScript. On-line English help, built-in front end processor, pop-up E-J dictionary. Requires: EGA or VGA display; US Windows 3.0 or later; DOS 3.0 or later. Source: PSP: $295.

KCOM 2

Japanese word processor with communications and fax sending capabilities. Includes Japanese font, and a variety of English fonts. Requires: IBM AT compatible computer; fax modem. Source: Kureo Technology: $350.

Microsoft Word for Windows 5.0J

Full-featured Windows word processor includes English spell-checking, graphics tools, grammar-checking and thesaurus. Also includes three Japanese True Type fonts. Requires: 386sx or higher CPU; 4 MB RAM; 5MB hard disk space (12MB recommended); MS DOS/V 5.0; MS Windows 3.1J. Sources: CCIC: $520; C&T, QTC: $580.

MOKE 2.1

DOS Japanese word processor for IBM & compatibles. Prints to standard printers. Includes two fonts. Requires: CGA, EGA, or VGA display; 4MB hard disk space; DOS 3.0 or later. Source: KiCompWare: 612-773-8621; $70. (See MANGAJIN #28.)

NJStar 2.1J+

DOS Japanese word processor for IBM & compatibles. Prints to standard printers. Includes 24 bit font, mouse support. Requires: EGA or VGA display; 3.2MB hard disk space; DOS 3.0 or later. Source: Hongbo Data Systems: $50. (See MANGAJIN #28.)

Smart Characters for Students 2.5

Japanese/Chinese word processor for IBM & compatibles. Creates hypertext documents. Displays furigana over kanji. Over 7,700 kanji included. Requires: EGA or VGA display; 3MB hard disk space; DOS 3.0 or later. Source: Apropos Inc.: $100. (See MANGAJIN #28.)

WordPerfect J for DOS/V 5.0

Full-featured Japanese word processor with text and graphic handling abilities. Mouse support, pull-down menus, and other features supported. Requires: DOS/V 5.0. Source: Q: $750.

Yukaro AT

DOS Japanese word processor for IBM AT, PS/1, PS/2 or compatibles. Allows simultaneous editing of two documents, and vertical text. Includes seven fonts. Prints to Japanese printers or HP compatible printers. Requires: EGA or VGA display; 3.5MB hard disk space; DOS 3.0 or higher. Sources: Full version—PRC, C&T: $520. Mini version: C&T: $390.

DESKTOP PUBLISHING

—Mac—

Aldus Kanji PageMaker 4.5J

Japanese version of the well-known DTP application. Supports vertical or horizontal writing, separate English and Japanese kerning, Japanese line break rules, and various Japanese word processors. Requires: 4MB RAM; JLK

KanjiWORD™

for Windows

Introductory Price
$199.00

KanjiWORD edits documents easily in Japanese and English. 日本語を書けます

- Save money by using your own English/European Windows system!
- Combines a user-friendly format with advanced bilingual editing
- Enter Japanese words in Kana-Kanji phonetically!
- Create accurate documents with pop-up English-Japanese dictionary
- Correct errors with on-line English spell checker
- Change menus and boxes to English or Japanese with the click of a mouse
- Import and Export a choice of text files to other systems!

1.28" 1.00" NUM INS Page 1

To order contact
Pacific Software
Publishing, Inc.
2737 77th Ave. SE,
Mercer Island, WA
98040, USA
Tel 206.232.3989
Fax 206.236.8102

KanjiWORD is a trademark of Pacific Software Publishing, Inc.
Microsoft Windows is a trademark of Microsoft Corporation.

or KanjiTalk 6.0.7 or later. Sources: CCIC: $995; SS, PRC, QTC: $1,139.

EG Book 1.6

Japanese desktop publishing program designed to work with EG Word. Supports vertical or horizontal text, graphic images, and text wrapping. Requires: 4MB RAM; KanjiTalk 6.0 or later, or Apple JLK. Sources: CCIC: $550; PRC: $799.

EG Bundle

Includes EG Word, EG Bridge, and EG Book. Requires: 2MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 2.0 or higher. Sources: CCIC: $785; SS: $935; PRC: $895; C&T: $799; QTC: $995.

EGForm v1.0

Used to create business forms. Includes EG Bridge 5.2. Requires: KanjiTalk 6.07 or 7.1; hard drive. Source: CCIC: $590.

Quark XPress 3.11J

Japanese version of the popular DTP application. Requires Macintosh Plus or higher; 8MB RAM; 20-40MB hard disk space recommended; KanjiTalk 7.1 or later. Sources: CCIC: $1450; SS, PRC: $1,595.

—PC—

Aldes PageMaker 3.0 J for Windows

Windows version of the well-known DTP application. Supports vertical or horizontal text, separates English and Japanese kerning, Japanese line break rules, and various Japanese word processors. Requires: Windows 3.0J/3.1J. Sources: PRC: $1,800; QTC: $1,579.

Bikan JALM 2.2

DTP application for MS Windows. Includes five fonts. Supports all windows printers. Requires: 640K RAM; MS Windows 3.0 or later. Sources: PRC, QTC $695.

Brushwriter New Series

Page layout application. Prints to HP and Epson compatible printers. Requires: EGA, VGA, or Hercules display; 640K RAM (2MB recommended); 5MB hard disk space for Font Card Version, 24-35MB for Soft Font version. Sources: Font Card version—C&T, QTC: $1,495. Soft Font version—C&T, QTC: $995.

UTILITIES

—Mac—

Adobe Streamline J 1.2

Font manipulation utility to convert bitmapped images into PostScript images (scale more easily/require less disk space than bitmaps). Requires: Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07 or higher. Source: CCIC: $275; SS, PRC: $295.

Contox/EDF

Converts EGWord documents to and from

Ichitaro version 3 format. Requires: Macintosh Plus or higher (PC version also available; call dealer for info). Sources: CCIC: $250

EG Bridgo 5.2

Japanese front end processor for kana to kanji conversion. Converts whole sentences. Main dictionary contains 80,000 entries, including gairaigo. Requires: (Call dealer for info.) Sources: CCIC: $160; SS: $175; QTC: $180.

EG Talk 1.4

Communications application for English or Japanese. Supports Japanese character input, transmission, and retrieval. Requires: (Call dealer for info.) Sources: CCIC: $340; SS: $365; QTC: $380.

Mac VJE 2.1

Front end processor for kana/kanji conversion. Requires: 2MB RAM; KanjiTalk 2.0 or later. Source: C&T: $249.

Mac VJE 2.5

Japanese front end processor with 80,000 word dictionary. For use with KanjiTalk 6. Requires: Mac Plus or higher; 4MB RAM; hard disk. Sources: CCIC: $160; SS: $180.

Mac VJE Gamma 1.0

Same as above for use with KanjiTalk 7. Requires: Mac Plus or higher computer; 4MB RAM; hard disk; KanjiTalk 7.0 or later. Sources: CCIC: $160; SS: $180.

(continued on page 24)

SystemSoft is Your One-Stop Source For Japanese Software on Macintosh and Windows Computers

We Support and Stock:

Apple JLK, Kanji-Talk 7.1
 Adobe Fonts & Apps • Aldus Apps
 Ambassador, Shasta
 Claris Apps • Deltagraph Pro
 Deneba Canvas • ErgoSoft Apps
 Microsoft • Nisus
 Quark ExpressJ • Turbowriter
 MacroMedia Director
 Various software upgrades... and much, much more.

For our full range of products see Mangajin's "Definitive Guide to Japanese Application Software in the U.S." in this issue.

The SystemSoft Advantage:

- Great prices.
- Full support for all of the products we sell.
- Bilingual support staff.
- Most packages available immediately.

Call SystemSoft for more information on these and other Japanese software products, or for the dealer nearest you.

 SystemSoft
1-800-882-8856

家庭用品

Katei Yōhin

Japanese kitchens are home to a dizzying array of unusual kitchen utensils and appliances.

by Elizabeth Andoh

Not meaning to belittle the talent required to produce fine cuisine, what often lies behind the artistry of Japanese food preparation is a wide range of cleverly designed implements. Actually, it is the combination of skill and tools that enables the Japanese cook to create the fabulous special effects we so admire. Trying to classify the incredible variety of ryōri dōgu (料理道具, kitchen equipment) and katei yōhin (家庭用品, household gadgets) found in contemporary Japanese kitchens is a daunting task, especially since decorative and practical considerations frequently overlap.

In a recent informal survey I took of my Japanese in-laws' and neighbors' kitchen drawers and cabinets, I found that cutting, slicing, grating and grinding devices accounted for about a quarter of the total clutter. Another 25 percent of the tools seemed devoted to making food preparation more convenient and the resulting food more attractive. In this latter category I include a wide variety of implements: molds for shaping rice, assorted gadgets such as gyōza (ギョーザ, dumplings) stuffing presses, egg boiling timers (submerged with the boiling eggs, these devices change color to indicate degree of hardness or softness), as well as bowls, strainers, and ladles.

In households with young children, rice molds to shape omusubi (おむすび, stuffed rice balls) into cars, trains, rabbits, and pandas continue to be popular

(my daughter, Rena, was particularly fond of pandas when she was in yōchien 15 years ago). Similarly, I was fascinated to see that there are now special gadgets that accomplish what I used to do with an ordinary knife; these wiener sausage cutters insert shallow slits in strategic locations so that when the sausage is boiled or sauteed it takes on the shape of a crab, octopus, penguin or tulip. Clearly, the Japanese interest—and pleasure—in visually exciting food is cultivated from a very early age.

Most of the remaining paraphernalia I saw in Tokyo kitchens related in some way to food preservation or energy use. This included major appliances such as refrigerators, hot water making machines (both yuwakashi-ki 湯沸かし器 for hot tap water and potto ポット thermoses for hot water for beverages such as tea), and rice cookers and warmers. Also included in this category are special devices such as vegetable pickling pots and fish dehydrating sheets, otoshi-buta (落とし蓋, “dropped lids” used to efficiently and effectively simmer, braise and poach foods) and mushiki (蒸し器, woven baskets used to steam foods). In addition, at least one drawer or shelf in every kitchen was filled with rolls of clear plastic wrap and foil, tea towels (ふきん, fukin), and plastic containers for storing leftovers.

Not everything I saw jammed into drawers, piled on shelves or hanging from hooks was directly related to food. There was a dizzying array of products designed to combat unpleasant smells, unwanted bugs, mold from dampness, and bags, cans and other containers to separate regular household waste (生ごみ, nama gomi, collected three times a week) from non-biodegradable garbage (分別ごみ, bunbetsu gomi, collected only once a week). Garbage disposal is a major problem in Tokyo, as it is in any bustling metropolis, and until manufacturers change their packaging techniques to eliminate plastics and other environmentally damaging materials, no real progress will be made.

Made from wood and bamboo, mushiki are designed to sit on top of an ordinary pot and are used for steaming foods.

© Abe & Kurata / Aji Ichimon-me, Shogakukan

• belittle = 過小評価する kashō hyōka suru • implements = 道具 dōgu • a daunting task = ひるませる仕事 hirumaseru shigoto • clutter = ごった返した物の山 gottagaeshita mono no yama • gadgets = 小道具 kodōgu • paraphernalia = 備品 bihin • a dizzying array = 目がくらむほどずらりとそろった me ga kuramu hodo zurari to sorotta • biodegradable = 上に還元可能な tsuchi ni kangen kanō-na • jumble = ごちゃごちゃ寄せ集めた様子 gocha-gocha yoseatsumeta yōsu

In contrast to the cramped jumble of the typical Japanese home kitchen, American domestic interiors seem sleek and spacious. Some of the more striking differences include the size and configuration of refrigerators and ovens. Comparing contemporary homes in both countries for a "typical" family of 3 or 4 people, Japanese appliances occupy about one-fifth the space of their American counterparts, and have numerous compartments with multiple functions, each with its own thermostatic setting. Although most Japanese housewives would probably enjoy having larger refrigerators and freezers, until the cost of living space and domestic energy (gas, electricity) is drastically reduced, I don't think you'll see any significant changes. Ovens, although nice to have, are not essential to making Japanese food. Most ovens sold in Japan are a combination of microwave-and-convection type with extremely limited interior space.

Another obvious difference in kitchens is the absence (in Japanese homes) or presence (in American homes) of dishwashers which, I suspect, may be one of the reasons that colds are so frequently passed from one family member to the next in Japan despite the careful wearing of face masks. (Cold germs can linger on chopsticks and tea cups after being washed in only lukewarm water.) Here again, consumer concern over space and energy costs discourage manufacturers from devel-

• sleek = 格好いい/粋 kakkō ii/iki • striking differences = きわだった相違点 kiwadatta sōiten • configuration = 構成 kōsei • drastically = 大幅に ōhaba-ni • lukewarm water = ぬるま湯 nuruma-yu

© Abe & Kurata / Aji Ichimon-ue, Shogakukan

This manga scene of a typical Japanese kitchen includes a yuwakashiki (center), a wall-mounted "instantaneous" water heater—there is no bulky tank like those found on American water heaters.

モケ
日本語 グループ

MOKE 2.1 enables anyone with an IBM PC or compatible computer, a hard drive, and a graphics monitor to enter Japanese. Japanese is entered via romaji. MOKE 2.1 can input hiragana, katakana, kanji, and ASCII. Japanese can be printed on Postscript printers, HP LaserJet II, and 9, 24-pin Epson compatible dot matrix printers.

Also available: Kanji Guess 1.0 with flashcard, multiple guess, Kanji fish, and GojuuOnjun quizzes.

- MOKE 2.1 – $69.95
 Kanji Guess 1.0 – $30.00

Additional $5.00 per copy for shipping and handling in the U.S. (Outside the U.S. and Canada add $10.00 each.)

Please check one format:

- 5 1/4 (360K) 3 1/2 (720K)

Payment made by: Check or money order
 MasterCard VISA TOTAL $ _____
Acct. # _____ Exp. Date _____
Signature: _____

Send to: KiCompWare, PO Box 536
Appleton, WI 54912 Tel. 612-773-8621

KiCompWare

LIFE IS TOO SHORT TO DRINK BAD COFFEE

Introducing:

Redford Enviro-Filters

- Reusable coffee filters made from all-natural fibers replace a 100-pack of paper filters.
- Help improve the environment by saving on paper waste.
- Healthier. No chemical additives, bleaches, dyes or binders. No transfer of dioxins or carcinogens.
- Makes a better tasting brew—perfect every time.

Mr. Reddi says, "Avoid disposables. Buy Re-usables."

Buy Redford Enviro-Filters where you shop for fine coffees or call us toll free at 1-800-344-9130

Also Available:

The Reddi Inline Water Filter

- Gives continual clean tasting sparkling clean water.
- Eliminates sediment and heavy metal in water.
- Filters out bad taste and odors.

The Official Coffee Filter of MANGAJIN

Three of the many specialized knives used by Japanese cooks: (l-r) yanagiba, deba-bocho, na-kiri bocho

oping a dishwasher designed to accommodate the small and asymmetrically shaped tableware used in most Japanese households.

Are there any Japanese kitchen implements that might enhance an American kitchen? During the many years I taught Japanese cooking in Tokyo and the U.S., three seemed to consistently fascinate and intrigue my American students—knives, suribachi, and otoshi-buta.

Historically, Japanese knives come in four configurations—the long, sword-like yanagiba (柳刃, literally “willow blade”), the broad, squarish na-kiri bocho (菜切包丁, literally “vegetable-cutting” cleaver), the hefty, pointed deba bocho (出刃包丁, the “blade that protrudes”), and the dagger-like kodoba bocho (小出刃包丁, “small protruding blade”). Although similarly shaped knives are used in many cultures, one distinctive feature of traditional Japanese blades is their asymmetrical cutting edge—finely honed on one side while lightly filed and polished on the other; all cooks are presumed to be right-handed (indeed in Japan the only two professions in which left-handedness is perceived to be an advantage is in baseball, and playing a string instrument such as the violin). In the hands of a skilled sushi chef the long, very sharp yanagiba makes slicing sashimi seem a cinch. Likewise, the ease with which broad, gossamer-thin sheets of radish, cucumber and carrots peel away from na-kiri knives (wielded by trained chefs, that is) makes most home cooks envious. Although no easy “sashimi slicer” has yet come to market, there are several types of katsura muki-ki かつらむき器, that enable near-novices to make beautiful broad peels

• asymmetrically shaped = 非対称型の形が不規則な hitaishōgata no/katachi ga fukisoku-na • intrigue = (-の)興味をひく (-no) kyōmi o hiku • a cinch = ちょろい choroi/yōi-na koto • gossamer-thin = 極めて薄い kiwamete usui

New Version

Use Your PC to Master Japanese and Chinese

Enjoy learning Asian languages with Smart Characters for Students™ word processor and vocabulary tutor. Unlike other word processors, Smart Characters combines reading, writing, translating, and vocabulary study tools to assist non-native speakers who may have only minimal foreign language skills. The result is an effective tool for word processing and foreign language study.

- Displays furigana, bpmf, and pinyin in a variety of styles to help you pronounce unknown or forgotten characters.
- The built-in vocabulary tutor teaches kanji and hanzi rapidly and effectively so you can read without notes. Create your own lessons and contribute to or select from the User's Group library, including each month's vocabulary from Mangajin magazine.
- Use the word processor to display or create sophisticated interactive hypertext lessons to learn or teach technical topics such as grammar and usage.
- Write and print any character; over 7700 are included.
- Handy on-line hypertext references and dictionaries include English notes to speed reading and writing. Optional dictionaries may be added and instantly accessed. The optional radical and stroke dictionary makes a particularly handy rapid reading tool.
- Version 2.5 provides better typography, more dictionary options, and is easier to use. Just $99.95. Call or write for a free brochure.

知字

Apropos Customer Service: 8 Belknap St., Arlington, Massachusetts 02174. 800-676-4021

The Future of Information Management Requires Multi-Lingual Computing

Partial List of Japanese Products:

- Japanese PostScript Printers
 - Apple's Japanese Language Kit for System 7.1
 - FontWorks PostScript Fonts
 - Adobe ATM & PostScript Fonts
 - Kanji PageMaker-J 4.0
 - FreeHand-3.1J & FreeHand-3.1A
 - TurboWriter Japanese 2.0 & Shasta
 - SoloWriter
 - TwinBridge Japanese for MS Windows 3.1
 - MicroSoft Japanese Windows 3.1
 - JALM & KanjiMaker
 - DOS-V
- 한글
日本語 عربي Español
עברית Русский
中國語言 Ελληνικά

Pacific Rim Connections

1838 El Camino Real, Suite # 109,
Burlingame, California 94010, USA
Tel: 1-(415) 697-0911
FAX: 1-(415) 697-9439

What is Japan?,
Sakaiya Taichi. New York:
Kodansha, 1992. 252
pages, $25.00 (hardcover).

reviewed by Richard Matthews

This is the latest in a long line of Nihon-ron 日本論 (“Theories About Japan”) books. Concocting these theories is something of a national pastime in Japan, and this book provides the western reader with a good example of that manifestation of the Japanese psyche. Be forewarned, however, that Sakaiya’s book is a combination of original insights, worn-out clichés, and pop anthropology—perhaps typical of the genre.

In these heated times, both Japanese and Americans badly need something that would answer this book’s title question, without deteriorating into either a nationalist polemic or a specious defense. Taichi Sakaiya has attempted to produce just such a work—one that seeks not to accuse or to excuse, but simply to explain. At times, he succeeds. A former MITI man, he is candid about the role of government in the country’s postwar recovery and rise. But he also makes very clear that government policies and actions are not the whole answer: “Modern Japanese politicians, bureaucrats, and business leaders do not sit down together to craft national plans. They never have.”

Sakaiya lays bare the “secrets” of Japanese management, showing how they contributed to the excellence in mass-production manufacturing that he says is the main reason for Japan’s meteoric rise. But he also explains why Japanese management techniques can lead to stultifying inefficiencies in other fields. His account of the government’s historic role in helping farmers is a persuasive explanation for the noted deference of modern Japanese to government and other authority. His account of the evolution of honne and tatemae as essential elements of official power is nearly brilliant.

But the soul of the book is Sakaiya’s intention to paint a coherent portrait of a people following an inexorable path of culture, hewn from their particular experiences and circumstances. Here, he is much less successful than a reader might wish.

His first problem is the frequent use of clichéd assertions that almost everyone has heard and that, in some cases, arguably aren’t even true. He contends, for example, that the education system “eliminates all pleasure from school life.” As tough as Japanese schools are, no one who has ever visited them could honestly purvey such hyperbole. As evidence of Japan’s equitable distribution of wealth, he insists the country has no beggars: “They do not exist.” This is, at best, a mild deception. Tokyo’s train stations are filled at night with homeless vagrants, although it is true that they do not beg passersby for money.

Worse, perhaps, are the inconsistencies and contradictions that arise within Sakaiya’s own arguments. Sometimes they are trivial: he argues that culture has caused the Japanese to shun materialism and to prefer simplicity, yet elsewhere he says Nara-era people were fond of ostentation, and those of the Warring States period were materialistic.

Other contradictions are more serious. The core of his explanations for Japanese behaviors is his apparent belief that culture, once formed, is immutable and very nearly all-powerful, controlling everything people think and do. He takes the reader back to the 700s and beyond to explain behaviors of the 1990s. Yet, after having described Japan’s well-known lifetime employment and company loyalty as the product of long tradition, he later discusses the “casual labor” system of industrial workers of the prewar years. “In the thirties, Japan had the highest rates of labor turnover in the world. Employees were fired regularly and had no legal protections.” This is clearly a radical change in societal values and behavior, yet he apparently does not feel that it attacks his underlying argument.

Sakaiya cannot resist repeating many of the ritual incantations that everyone makes regarding the origins of Japanese culture—it is an isolated country, its customs were formed by rice-growing, etc. He goes further than most in trying to give evidence to support these notions, but is not always wholly convincing.

His long excursion into “pop” cultural anthropology and armchair sociology often produces some rather unusual theories. According to Sakaiya, the Japanese never domesticated horses or other animals, so they never developed a feel for dominating human beings; thus there was no slavery. Yet surely the feudal structure of ancient Japan required a significant ability to "dominate" people; this was a country, after all, in which members of the samurai class had the legal right to strike down any peasant who offended them in any way.

• nationalist polemic = 愛国主義的論難 aikoku shugi-teki ronnan • specious defense = もっともらしい弁護論 mattonorashii bengoran • candid = 率直な sotchoku-na • meteoric rise = ぱっと上がった patto agatta • stultifying inefficiencies = (他方面での功績を) 台なしにする非能率 (tahōnen de no kōseki o) daimashi ni suru hōritsu • deference = 服従 fidōjū • inexorable = 曲げられない magerarenai • clichéd assertions = 紋切り型の主張 monkirigatu no shuchō • purvey such hyperbole = そんな誇張を伝える sonna kochō o tsutaeru • inconsistencies = 非一貫性 hikansei • contradictions = 矛盾 mujun • immutable = 不変 fuhen • ritual incantations = 儀式的な決まり文句 gishukiteki-na kimari monku

Sakaiya misses the mark particularly widely when he gets into religious issues. His long discourse on the Japanese willingness to believe in multiple religions shows that he doesn't truly grasp the meaning of "belief" for other peoples.

Related to this questionable understanding of religious thought is the assertion that medieval scientists were often burned at the stake as witches because they wanted to increase material wealth. Apparently, Sakaiya not only doesn't understand why the church went to such extremes to protect its dogma, he can't appreciate the motivation of the scientist to find truth for its own sake. This may help (inadvertently) to explain the lack of creativity among Japanese that he decries elsewhere.

One of the most interesting aspects of Japanese behavior that Sakaiya discusses is, unfortunately, only briefly mentioned and then left largely unexplained. "For Japanese, to leave the soil and organizations of Japan and reside overseas is to cease to be a Japanese," he writes. People from most countries can mingle easily with those of other cultures, adopt some habits or styles, and still retain their identities—but Japanese, he says, cannot.

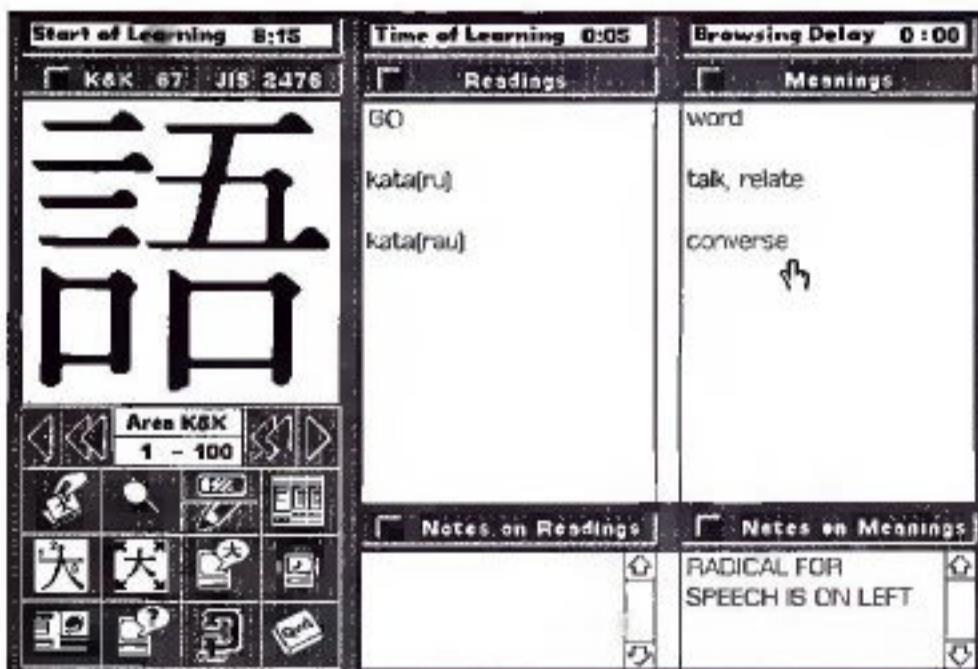

The easy explanation, which Sakaiya offers, is the old one about Japan having been isolated for so many centuries. Yet it has been 140 years since Perry's Black Ships forced the country open, and every Japanese living today has had considerable opportunity for exposure to and contact with the rest of the world. That opportunity, the author admits, has been largely passed up.

This seeming inability to be comfortable with outsiders may be one way in which Japanese people are truly "unique," and it is disappointing that Sakaiya stopped where he did. This book goes a long way toward laying the foundation for a genuinely probing inquiry into this phenomenon, but in the end doesn't attempt it. It's a rude habit of reviewers to complain that an author should have written another book, but somebody still needs to write that one.

Still, it must be said that the book Sakaiya did write is fascinating in parts, if finally flawed. Its accounts of history and its analysis of the social, geographic and psychological factors that shaped Japanese culture are interesting, and potentially useful to the reader who can spot the contradictions and the outlandish exceptions.

Richard Matthews serves on the editorial board of the Atlanta Journal.

• dogma = 教義 kyōgi • inadvertently = 心にもなく/不本意ながら kokoro no ma nakuffidon'i nagara • decries = 非難する hinan suru • mingle = つき合う tsukiau • flawed = 欠陥がある kekkan ga aru • outlandish exceptions = 風変わりな例外 fūgawari-na reigai

Contains every character in daily use, with pronunciations, meanings, compounds, stroke orders, self-tester, and flashcard printer

Now, get all 2,000 kanji on screen! Great for review and testing!

MacSUNRISE Script

by Wolfgang Hadamitzky

- Contains all the hiragana and katakana
- Uses a unique grapheme search screen
- Creates customized "kanji sets"

Are you serious about learning Japanese? Get MacSUNRISE Script, the most flexible and comprehensive kanji program available. It includes readings, meanings, compounds, recorded pronunciations, note windows, stroke orders, a browser, a quiz button, a kanji finder, and a flashcard printer, plus an easy-to-use customizer for creating "kanji sets" in any order or combination. Works on Macs with HyperCard 2.+. Send $5 for a demo disk (applies to purchase). Prices: 100 kanji, $99 • 500 kanji, $249 • 2,000 kanji, $499. Site licensing available. Credit cards and purchase orders gladly accepted.

for a free brochure or further information, contact—

USE OUR NEW TOLL-FREE NUMBER!

STONE BRIDGE PRESS, P.O. BOX 8208, BERKELEY, CA 94707 • TEL 800-947-7271 • FAX 510-524-8711

Hanko in the business world

A long-running television show called "Mito Komon," a period drama, is about an elderly man travelling throughout Japan with two companions. Many incidents occur on their way: a girl is kidnapped, or an honest, hard-working family is swindled. Mito Komon helps the poor and innocent. Each week's climax involves the villain's discovery of the true identity of this unassuming old gentleman. Holding up an 印籠 inrō, a compact medicine box bearing the "double hollyhock" crest of the Tokugawa family, one of the companions makes a thunderous proclamation: "Who do you think this man is? This is vice-shogun Mitsukuni Tokugawa, you impudent fool! Have respect if you fear for your life!"

The chaos comes to a halt: the villain, victim, and everybody else fall to the ground, prostrating like spiders—so overwhelming is the symbol on the retired warrior's medicine case. Relishing another victory, Mito Komon laughs while his retainers grin with delight at their master's greatness.

Nowadays no one prostrates himself, but the corporate seal imprint of a major company inspires as much respect as Mito Komon's box of medicine.

The role of the corporate seal

The 社名印 shamei-in or 会社印 kaisha-in is a "company seal"—it is categorized as a 法人印 hōjin'in since it represents a 法人 hōjin (corporation). It is larger than seals for individuals and is often black and square. Corporate seal impressions have a weighty image. This is especially true of corporations which have taken over whole cities or towns. There's an expression for these corporate towns: 企業城下町 kigyōjōkamachi (kigyō = industry or corporation; jōkamachi = castle town, a feudal lord's fief). The car manufacturer Toyota, situated in Toyota City of Aichi Prefecture, is a prime example. The seal for such a company is even more awe-inspiring than that of provincial barons or feudal lords of the past.

The 代表者印 daihyōsha-in is the seal of the company or organization representative, and needs to be registered. This seal is to corporations what jitsu-in is to individuals. The company seal is square, but the daihyōsha-in in contrast is round. It is customary for the name of the company to be engraved around the periphery and, in the center, the title of 代表取締役 daihyō torishimariyaku ("head director and representative" for a company) and the person's name.

Another handy seal

Another important kind of seal used in a business setting is the 割り印 wari-in. Two pieces of paper (such as copies of a contract: 契約書 keiyakusho) are placed side-by-side, and the wari-in is stamped at the joining of the pages. Half of the image appears on both pieces of paper, proving that they were stamped at the same time. This is called a "tally impression." Two persons who enter into a contract can later confirm the authenticity of their documents by the mark of this seal, which is also called 契印 kei-in. The seal is made in an elongated oval shape for convenience.

Stamping the day away

The Japanese stamp inkan all day long. The vibrations of all this stamping are like the heartbeats of the Japan islands—almost an earthquake. The higher one climbs up the corporate ladder, the more time he or she spends stamping papers. It is common to jokingly refer to a manager as a "paper-stamper." The great writer Mori Ogai described his experience with seals aptly:

行く春をただべたとと印を押す

"Spring goes away while stamping flap-flap."

by Sawane Fumitoshi

暮らしで知る日本の素顔

金沢で日本語と日本文化

Eurocentres courses receive the generous support and close cooperation of the Ishikawa prefectural Board of Education.

The programme provides opportunities to experience Japanese culture, history and tradition along with intensive language instruction.

Optional programmes include calligraphy, zen practice, industrial/cultural visits and weekend excursions—to name a few. Learn Japanese ways of life while staying with a Japanese family.

Eurocentre Kanazawa is a small cosmopolitan world with participants from many countries. Together they learn the Japanese language and culture, and also about each other.

A course unit lasts 4 weeks; more than one may be taken at a time.

Eurocentres is a non-profit foundation devoted to the teaching of languages to adults. We teach English, French, Italian, Spanish, German, Russian and Japanese in the countries where it is spoken.

For a brochure please write to:

EUROCENTRES

ユーロセンタージャパン
EUROCENTRES JAPAN

東京都千代田区神田駿河台 2-12 深井ビル4F
Fukai Building 4F, 2-12 Kanda Surugadai
Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo 101
Phone: (03)3295-5441 Fax: (03)3295-5443

(continued from page 15)

Mode Nihenge

Allows use of KanjiTalk 6.0.7 under English System 7.0. Requires: 4MB RAM; KanjiTalk 6.0.7. Source: C&T: $225.

SweetJAM 7.1

Provides Japanese input and output for English-language applications, without KanjiTalk or JLK. System 7/7.1 and TrueType font compatible, includes two Japanese TrueType fonts. Requires: 160K RAM; 2MB hard disk space. Sources: PRC, C&T, QTC: $349.

—PC—
EW-FAX

Fax interface and conversion utility for EW+, enables users to send Japanese (Shift-JIS) and/or English text via Intel SatisFAXtion-compatible fax modems. Requires: IBM AT, PS/2 compatible computer with 384K conventional memory; 1MB hard disk space; DOS 3.0 or later; EW+; Intel SatisFAXtion-compatible fax modem. Source: PRC: $250.

TwinBridge

Japanese front end processor for US versions of MS Windows 3.0 and 3.1. Basic Edition includes bitmapped fonts. Professional Edition includes scalable outline fonts. Requires: IBM AT compatible computer; VGA display; MS Windows 3.0 or later; 1MB RAM and 3MB hard disk space for Basic Edition, 2MB RAM and 6 MB hard disk space for Professional Edition; Windows compatible printer. Sources: Basic Edition—PRC, C&T, CLR, PC Express: $299. Professional Edition: $599. Note: Twinbridge 3.2, shipping in October 1993, will add many new features.

VJE Gamma

Front end processor required to use Japanese applications under MS Windows 3.11. Available separately. (May also be bundled with MS Windows 3.11, or Windows applications. consult dealer.) Source: C&T: $180.

ILLUSTRATION

—Mac—

Adehe Dimensions 1.0 J

(Call for info.) Source: SS: $295.

Adehe Illustrater 3.2 J

Japanese version of the well-known application. Requires: Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07 or higher. Sources: CCIC: $870; SS: $895; PRC: $995; QTC: $1,000.

Adehe Phetoshop 2.01 J

Japanese version of the scanning and photo manipulation application. Requires: 8MB RAM; 20-40MB hard disk space recommended; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07 or higher. Sources:

CCIC: $1,100; SS, PRC: $1,195; QTC: $1,295.

Adobe Premier 2.0 J

Digital video creation tool for editing off-line video. Requires: Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; 80MB hard disk space; KanjiTalk 6.06 or later; Quickdraw version 1.2 or later. Sources: CCIC: $850; SS: $895.

Aldus Freehand 3.1a J

Japanese version of the popular US application. Requires: Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07 or higher. Sources: CCIC: $895; SS, PRC: $925; QTC: $888.

Claris MacDraw II J 1.1

Japanese version. Requires: Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07 or higher. Source: PRC: $649.

Claris MacDraw Pro 1.5 J

Japanese version of business graphics software. Requires: 4MB RAM (5MB required when using KanjiTalk 7); KanjiTalk 6.07 or later. Sources: CCIC: $ 610; SS: $649.

Claris MacPaint 2.0 J

Japanese version; includes 38 customizable paint and fill patterns. Requires: Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07+. Sources: CCIC: $230; SS: $235; PRC: $225.

Deneha Canvas 3.06J

Complete graphics environment combining pixel manipulation with Bézier-curve control. Supports typographical effects for Roman or

雙橋 TwinBridge™ Multi-Lingual System for Windows

Breaks The Language Barrier

Open Your Windows with TwinBridge and DO CHINESE/JAPANESE !!

- Chinese version allows Japanese Kana, Russian and Greek processing
- Built-in Japanese Kanji dictionary contains more than 50,000 phrases
- DOS-V NOT NECESSARY, JAPANESE WINDOWS - NOT NECESSARY
- Includes 5 input methods for Japanese, 10 for Chinese
- Use Chinese/Japanese in English Version Windows
- Supports Windows operating in networks or OS/2
- Supports most functions of English Software

★ Extensive compatibility with English Version Windows Application Software, such as...

Address	Fractaline Graphics	Publisher
Amiga	Hiware Graphics	WinKazPro
Apprentice	Lotus Improva	Word for Windows
Excel	VirgoMaker	Word Perfect 5.2
File Pro for Windows	PowerPrint	Word Perfect...

!! Chinese & Japanese made easy !!

雙橋電腦資訊公司 620 S. Garfield Ave., Suite 201
Alhambra, CA 91801 USA
Tel: (818) 293-1661 Fax: (818) 293-1665

CHARACTER LANGUAGE RESOURCES
2130 Sawtelle Blvd., #300B
Los Angeles, CA 90025
Tel: (400) 569-2099 Fax: (310) 996-2505

Japanese fonts. Requires: Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07+. Sources: SS, PRC, QTC: $575.

Deneba UltraPaint 1.0J

Entry level graphics program. Requires: 2MB RAM; Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07+. Source: SS: $325.

—PC—

Hanako for DOS/V

(Call for info.) Source: QTC: $680.

Nenga Clip Art

Japanese calligraphy and symbols for New Year cards. Includes TIFF, CGM, and YAL format clip art. Requires: IBM PC compatible computer; English or Japanese illustration program. Source: PRC: $75.

MACHINE TRANSLATION & DICTIONARIES

—Mac—

Ambassador

Letter-writing program which uses templates to create "parallel" documents in English and Japanese. Does not translate existing documents, but allows quick document creation for basic business communication. Requires: Mac Plus or better computer; 2MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.05+. Source: CCIC: $290; SS, QTC, Language Engineering Corp.: $295.

Auto Annotator

Translation tool to assist human translation; translates Japanese text files into Smart Characters documents annotated with pronunciation and glosses to facilitate understanding. Includes user-editable dictionary. Requires: 640K RAM; 2MB hard disk space; Smart Characters for Students. Source: Apropos Software: $279.

Loge Vista E to J

Machine translation program using syntactic transfer method with semantic processing and context-free phrase structure grammar. Includes over 415,000 entries in main dictionary and 19 technical dictionaries. Requires: 8MB RAM (16MB recommended); 30MB hard disk space (up to 50 MB with all 19 technical dictionaries); DOS/V 5.0; Windows 3.1J. Sources: SS, Language Engineering Corp.: $1,995; QTC: $2,000.

MacKojien 1.0

Japanese to Japanese dictionary, the computer version of Japan's standard reference book, Iwanami Kojien. Contains 200,000 words and 2,000 graphics. Requires: Mac Plus or higher; CD-ROM drive. Sources: PRC, C&T: $499.

rSTONE 1.0

Japanese to English dictionary desk accessory. Includes user-editable dictionary, and customizable dictionary sets. Main dictionary includes 45,000 entries. Requires: 2MB

RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 2.0+. Sources: PRC, C&T, QTC: $349.

rSTONE 2.0

English to Japanese version of 1.0 (above). Main dictionary includes 46,000 entries. Requires: 2MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 2.0+. Sources: PRC, C&T, QTC: $349.

Sbasta Dictionary E to J

English to Japanese dictionary containing 100,000 Japanese definitions for 40,000 English words. Allows creation of custom dictionaries. Requires: 4MB RAM; 65 MB hard disk space; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07+. Source: SS: $195.

The Translator 2.0

English to Japanese translation program capable of translating up to 20,000 words per hour. Dictionary contains 57,000 words; multiple user dictionaries can be created. Requires: Mac SE30 or higher; 4MB RAM; 20 MB hard disk space; JLK or KanjiTalk 2.0+. Sources: PRC, C&T, QTC: $1,195.

The Translator Mini-Translator

Scaled-down version of The Translator runs on low-end Macintoshes. 25,000 word dictionary. Requires: Mac Plus or higher; 2MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 2.0+. Sources: PRC, C&T, QTC: $595.

The Translator Technical Term Dictionary

Dictionary of 35,000 computer related technical terms to supplement The Translator's dictionary. Requires: The Translator (will not run on Mini Translator). Sources: PRC, QTC: $399.

WordHunter

Collection of 12 Japanese and Japanese/English dictionaries on CD-ROM. Requires: (Call for info.) Source: QTC: $599.

—PC—

EZ Japanese Writer

Converts basic English sentences into Japanese, or directly input or edit in Japanese. Includes standard word processor features. Requires: VGA display; 640K RAM; 2MB hard disk space; DOS 2.11 or later; expansion slot for internal circuit board. Source: PRC, C&T, EJ Bilingual: $1,200. (Reviewed in MANGAJIN #13).

EZ Japanese Reader

Provides phonetic readings for kanji and places English meanings after key words in Japanese text documents. Requires: VGA display; 640K RAM; 3MB hard disk space; DOS 3.1+. Sources: PRC, C&T, EJ Bilingual: $700 (with Kanjiboard); $300 (without Kanjiboard).

EZ Japanese Speaker

Provides pronunciation of Japanese text (hiragana and katakana) documents via Sound Adapter connected to parallel printer port. Requires: VGA display; 640K RAM; 500K hard disk space; DOS 3.3 or later; KanjiBoard, headphones. Sources: PRC, C&T, EJ Bilingual: $125.

(continued on following page)

JAM

The Japanese Attachment to the Macintosh

Fast
Efficient Comprehensive Powerful

JAM™, the front-end software that allows you to use your favorite applications — from Microsoft Word to PageMaker to Excel — in Japanese without buying a new operating system for your Macintosh. JAM™ can save you hundreds, even thousands of dollars by obviating the need for new OS — like KanjiTalk — which is a total loss in power. Get it now! Call 1 (800) 527-2607 to find out more.

1 (800) JAPAN-07

© 1990 GETCO, Inc. All rights reserved. JAM™ is a registered trademark of GETCO, Inc. Microsoft, Word, PageMaker, and Excel are trademarks of Microsoft Corporation. KanjiTalk is a trademark of Apple Computer, Inc. All other trademarks are the property of their respective owners.

GETCO, Inc., 10000 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 1000, Beverly Hills, CA 90210

OTHER APPLICATIONS

—Mac—

Aldus Persuasieu 2.1 J

Japanese version of presentation graphics program. Requires: Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07+. Sources: CCIC: $720; SS: $755; PRC, QTC: $749.

Claris FileMaker Pro-J 1.0 v2

Japanese version of database management program. Requires: Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07+. Sources: CCIC: $645; SS, PRC: $699.

Claris MacProject II v.2.1 J

Japanese version of project management application. Requires: 4MB RAM; KanjiTalk 6.07+. Sources: CCIC: $775; SS: $799.

Claris Werks

Japanese version of the integrated package—word processor, spreadsheet, graphics, database and communication. Requires: Mac Plus or higher; 4MB RAM; KanjiTalk 6.07+. Sources: CCIC: $575; SS: $595.

Deltagraph Pre 2.0 J

Graphics application for engineering, scientific, and business graphics. Requires: Mac Plus or higher; 4MB RAM or KanjiTalk 6.07+. Source: SS: $375.

Hypercard 2.0 J

Japanese version of the scripting language. Accepts English or Japanese text, graphic, video, and sound objects. Requires: 2MB hard disk space; JLK or KanjiTalk Sources: CCIC: $130; SS, PRC: $134.

Macromedia Sound Edit Pre-J

(Call dealer for info.) Source: SS: $345.

Macromedia Sound System Pre-J

(Call dealer for info.) Source: SS: $395.

MacMind Accelerator v.3.0

Allows users to compile video movies from computer animations and digital video clips. Requires: (Call dealer for info.) Source: SS

Macromind Director 3.1.x-J

Tools for creating professional media presentations, animations, and interactive video. Requires: (Call for info.) Source: SS: $1,795.

Macromind Mediamaker

Allows editing of animations video presentations, and other multimedia compilations. Requires: (Call dealer for info.) Source: SS

MacMind Three-D-J

(Call dealer for info.) Source: SS: $2,195.

MediaTracks-J

Network training software which allows users to create, edit, and play Macintosh screen activities. (Call dealer for info.) Source: SS

Microsoft Excel 4.0J

Japanese version of the US spreadsheet application; many Japanese-specific functions added. Requires: Mac II or higher; 4MB RAM; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07+. Sources: CCIC: $520; SS: $599; PRC: $655; QTC: $649.

Microsoft Mail J 2.0 Server

(Call dealer for info.) Source: SS: $699.

Microsoft Mail J 2.0 Workstation

(Call dealer for info.) Source: SS: $2,599.

—PC—

Lotus 1-2-3 J for DOS/V

Japanese version of the spreadsheet application. All menus in English; Japanese font names in Japanese. Optimized for Japanese operation. Requires: 2MB RAM; DOS/V 5.0 or later. Sources: PRC, QTC: $980.

Lotus 1-2-3 J for Windows J

Japanese Windows version of the spreadsheet application. Menus and help are in Japanese. Requires: 4MB RAM; DOS/V 5.0+; Windows 3.0J/3.1J. Sources: PRC, QTC: $980.

Microsoft C/C++ 7.0A 3C DOS/V

Microsoft C/C++ development system. (Call for info.) Sources: SS, PSP: $895.

MS Excel for Windows 4.0J

Microsoft's Japanese version of the Windows spreadsheet. Requires: 4MB RAM; 10MB hard

(continued on page 96)

NJSTAR™ Japanese Word Processor

“NJStar demonstrates itself to be the most usable Japanese word processor for DOS... At $50 it's an excellent buy for anyone with a PC and an interest in Japanese.”

—Douglas Horn, Mangajin Magazine

NJStar Features:

- User friendly interface with pull-down menu and mouse support, easy to use.
- Easiest inputs of Japanese Kanji, Hiragana, and Katakana via Romaji
- Automatic Romaji to Kana/Kanji lookup with user definable dictionary.
- Ability to read Kanji and give Japanese pronunciation and English explanation.
- Configurable key strokes, screen color, screen help, and many other parameters.
- Rich editing functions: block operations, macros, search/replace and multi-file editing.
- Supports EGA 19 lines, VGA 25 lines and Super-VGA 30s line Japanese display.
- Supports most dot matrix printers, Inkjet, and HP, Canon and Postscript laser printers.
- Supports JIS standard, read/write EUC-JIS, New-JIS, Old-JIS, NEC-JIS and Shift-JIS.
- Generates PCX files for FAX transmission or for importing to desktop publishing software.
- It does not require Japanese DOS, and it works under Windows as a DOS application.
- Chinese version is available with same user interface and 20 Chinese input methods.

NJSTAR Japanese V2.1j plus—US $49.95 • NJSTAR Chinese V2.1 plus—US $69.95

To order please include $10 per copy for international shipping and handling. Shareware versions are also available for $10 per copy. Please send your personal US dollar check or US dollar bank check to:

Hongbo Data Systems • PO Box 866 • Kensington NSW 2033, Australia

Telephone/Fax: +61-2-399-9876

南
極 星

Calvin and Hobbes

by WATTERSON

1

2

3

4

1

Calvin: "I love Saturday morning cartoons."

→ 土曜日の朝のアニメって最高だなあ。
Doyōbi no asa no anime tte saikō da nā
 Saturday 's morning 's cartoons/animation as-for best/great are (emph.)

- Saturday morning cartoons 米国では子供達が家にいる (学校がない) 土曜日の朝のテレビは人気アニメが多い。
- anime ("cartoon[s]") is from English "animation."

2

Calvin: "What classic humor!"

→ 昔ながらのユーモア!
Mukashinagara no yūmoa!
 classic humor

3

Calvin: "This is what entertainment is all about."

→ これこそまさしくエンターテイメントだよね。
Kore koso masashiku entāteimento da yo ne.
 this indeed surely entertainment is (emph.) (colloq.)

- we also considered translating this as, "Kore koso entāteimento sono mono da yo ne."

4

Calvin: "... Idiots, explosives, and falling anvils."

→ ...まぬけな奴、ダイナマイト、それから落っこってくる鉄のカナトコ。
... manuke-na yatsu, dainamaito, sore kara ochikkotte kuru tetsu no kanatoko.
 stupid guys, dynamite, and (after that) falling iron anvils

- idiot ばか者、まぬけ。
- explosive 爆発物
- anvil かなとこ、金敷き台

Calvin and Hobbes

by NEWMAN

1

2

HOW COME YOU RECEIVE ALL THESE MAGAZINES?

3

4

1

Calvin: "Wow! Three new magazines for me today."

- わあ! 今日 は 僕 に 新しい 雑誌 が 3冊 も 来てる よ!
Wa! Kyō wa boku ni atarashii zasshi ga san satsu mo kiteru yo!
 wow today as-for I/me to new magazine(s) (subj.) three (counter) even have come (emph.)
- the suffix -satsu is used for counting books, magazines, etc.

2

Calvin: "Yesterday I got five. I love getting all this mail."

- 昨日 は 5冊 来たんだ。たくさん 郵便 を 受け取るの 大好き なんだ。
Kinō wa go satsu kita n da. Takusan yūbin o uketoru no daisuki nan da.
 yesterday as-for five (counter) came (explan.) much mail (obj.) receive (nom.) like a lot (explan.)
- mail は 算数形で集合的に郵便物をさすため、this で修飾してある。
 - all this mail はこれだけたくさんの郵便物、の意。

3

Hobbes: "How come you receive all these magazines?"

- なんでこんなに 雑誌 が 届く んだい?
Nan de konna ni zasshi ga todoku n dai?
 why this much magazine(s) (subj.) arrive (explan.) (question)
- how come + 節でどうして、なぜ (why) の意に用いる。

4

Calvin: "I went to the library and filled out all the subscription cards that said 'bill me later'."

- 図書館 に 行って、「後払い」って書いてあった 購読 申込み書 toshokan ni itte, "atobarai" tte kaite atta kōdoku mōshikomisho library to went-and pay later (quote) was written subscription application form
- 全部 に 名前 を 書き込んだんだ。
zenbu ni namae o kukikonda n da.
 all on name (obj.) wrote in (explan.)
- subscription 定期購読、予約購読。subscription card で購読申込み書。
 - all the subscription cards that said ... ~ と書いてある購読申込み書すべてに。
 - bill me later 支払方法にはいろいろあるが、こう書いてあるときは普通、申込み書を送ると出版社から雑誌と請求書が送られてきて、この請求書とともに小切手を同封するか、クレジット・カードの番号を書いて送り返す。

THE FAR SIDE by Gary Larson

ザ・ファー・サイド ゲリー・ラーソン

On pad: Just plain nuts!
 単なる キチガイ!
Tannaru kichigai!
 simple/just crazy

- plain 単なるの、ただの、全くの
- nuts 気ちがい、ばか

Animal Nerds

動物のマヌケ

Caption: Animal Nerds

動物 の マヌケ
Dōbutsu no manuke
 animal of blockhead(s)/idiot(s)

Wolf: "Hey! Hi, you guys! What's going on?"

→ あれっ! やあ、君たち、何してるの?

Are! Ya, kimitachi, nani shite-ru no?
 hey well/hi you what doing (?)

- nerds がり勉屋、世間知らずで雰囲気をおち壊しにする者。
- you guys の guy は普通男性をさして“やつ,”“あいつ”の意味に用いるが、you guys は“君たち,”“あなたたち”などの呼びかけに使われ、この場合は必ずしも相手が男性だけとは限らない。
- what's going on = what is going on で逐語的に約すと“何が進行しているのか”となるが“何してるの”“どうしたの”の意の常套句。

POLITENESS LEVELS

Codes used in Mangajin

(PL4) Politeness Level 4: Very Polite

Typically uses special honorific or humble words, such as nasaimasu or itashimasu.

(PL3) Politeness Level 3: Ordinary Polite

Typified by the verb desu, or the -masu ending on other verbs.

(PL2) Politeness Level 2: Plain/Abrupt

For informal conversation with peers.

- “dictionary form” of verbs
- adjectives without desu

(PL1) Politeness Level 1: Rude/Condescending

Typified by special words or verb endings, usually not “obscene” in the Western sense of the word, but equally insulting.

The politeness levels found in Japanese frequently have no counterpart in English. This can cause problems for translators. The words suru and shimasu would both be rendered simply as “do” in English, but in Japanese there is a very clear distinction between the “politeness” levels of these two words. In a more extreme case, shiyagaru would also be translated simply as “do” in English, but in Japanese this word is openly offensive. To avoid confusion or embarrassment, we label our translations using the codes on the left.

Learning Japanese from manga is a good way to get a “feel” for these politeness levels. You see words used in the context of a social setting.

The danger in “picking up” Japanese is that even though most Japanese people appreciate the fact that you are interested in learning their language and will give you “slack” as a beginner, misused politeness levels can be pretty grating on the Japanese ear, even if they do not reach the point of being truly offensive.

How can I be safe? Politeness Level 3 can be used in almost any situation. Although it might not be completely natural in a very formal situation, it will not cause offense. If you want to be safe, use PL2 only with friends and avoid PL1 altogether.

These levels are only approximations: To simplify matters, we use the word “politeness,” although there are actually several dimensions involved (formality, deference, humility, refinement, etc.). While the level of respect (or lack of it) for the person spoken to or spoken about can determine which words are used, verb forms are determined largely by the formality of the situation. Thus, it is difficult to label the verb irassharu (informal form of an honorific verb) using this simple four-level system. In such cases we sometimes use combined tags, such as (PL4-3).

Rather than trying to develop an elaborate system which might be so confusing as to actually defeat the purpose, we feel that this system, even with its compromises, is the best way to save our readers from embarrassing situations.

PRONUNCIATION GUIDE

Pronunciation is probably one of the easier aspects of Japanese. Vowel sounds don’t vary as they do in English. While English uses the five letters a,e,i,o,u to make 20 or so vowel sounds, in Japanese there are 5 vowels and 5 vowel sounds—the pronunciation is always constant. There are only a few sounds in the entire phonetic system which will be completely new to the speaker of English.

The five vowels in Japanese are written a,i,u,e,o in rōmaji (English letters). This is also the order in which they appear in the Japanese kana “alphabet.” They are pronounced:

- a like the a in father, or ha ha!
- i like the i in macaroni
- u like the u in zudu
- e like the e in get, or extra
- o like the o in solo

The length of time that a vowel sound is held or sustained makes it “long” or “short” in Japanese. Don’t confuse this with what are called long or short vowels in English. The long vowel in Japanese has exactly the same pronunciation as the short vowel, but it’s held for twice as long. Long vowels are designated by a dash over the vowel (dōmo, okāsan), or by repeating the vowel (iimasu).

The vowels i and u are sometimes not fully sounded (as in the verb desu or the verb ending -mashita). This varies between individual speakers and there are no fixed rules.

Japanese consonant sounds are pretty close to those of English. The notable exception is the r sound, which is like a combination of the English r and l, winding up close to the d sound. If you say the name Eddie and touch the tip of your tongue lightly behind the upper front teeth, you have an approximation of the Japanese word eri (“collar”).

Doubled consonants are pronounced by pausing just slightly after the sound is formed, and then almost “spitting out” the rest of the word. Although this phenomenon does not really occur in English, it is somewhat similar to the k sound in the word bookkeeper.

The n sound: When it is not attached to a vowel (as in na,ni,nu,ne,no), n is like a syllable in itself, and as such it receives a full “beat.” When n is followed by a vowel to which it is not attached, we mark it with an apostrophe. Note the difference between the word for “no smoking,” kin'en (actually four syllables: ki-n-e-n) and the word for “anniversary,” kinen (three syllables: ki-ne-n).

The distinctive sound of spoken Japanese is partly due to the even stress or accent given to each syllable. This is one reason why pronunciation of Japanese is relatively easy. Although changes of pitch do occur in Japanese, in most cases there are not essential to the meaning. Beginners are probably better off to try for flat, even intonation. Rising pitch for questions and stressing words for emphasis are much the same in English.

Lesson 29 • Stylized kanji

Most kanji (漢字, “Chinese characters”) are actually highly stylized pictures. For example, the kanji for “river” (川) started out as a drawing of a river that became increasingly stylized until it evolved into its present form. In the graphic arts, however, sometimes the process goes backwards, and kanji are altered to look more like the thing they represent, usually with a humorous twist. (The phonetic symbols hiragana and katakana can also be given the same kind of graphic twist.) In this issue we give you some examples of these “visual puns.”

Enlivening manga titles

Manga are a visual medium, so it’s not surprising that the artists will be creative with the lettering and kanji in the titles. The strip Neko de Gomen! (“Excuse Me for Being a Cat”) is about a girl who changes into a half-human half-cat form when she gets upset. In the title, the kanji 猫 (neko, “cat”) has been altered to look like a cat’s face, and the daku-ten (the diacritical marks that change te [て] to de [で] and ko [こ] to go [ご]) are drawn as paw prints. Finally, the tip of the ん is a cat’s tail.

© Nagano Akane / Neko de Gomen!, Kōdansha

猫 で ごめん!
Neko de Gomen!
 cat am-thus sorry/forgive me
Excuse Me for Being a Cat!

The title for the gag manga Kyōryū Kānibaru (“Dinosaur Carnival”) is stylized to look like a dinosaur’s spiked tail and jagged teeth. The series features talking dinosaurs with human characteristics.

© Ueda Etsu / Kyōryū Kānibaru, Shogakukan

恐竜 カーニバル
Kyōryū Kānibaru
Dinosaur Carnival

One of the most common stylizations is putting a star in the upper part of the kanji 星 (hoshi, “star”). 日 represents “sun,” so the ancient Chinese who made up the character 星 either realized that stars are actually suns like our own or simply incorporated 日 because both the stars and the sun are heavenly bodies. In any case, the best-known example of a star in the 日 of 星 is probably Takahashi Rumiko’s popular Urusei Yatsura series, but there are plenty of others.

© Takahashi Rumiko / Urusei Yatsura, Shogakukan

うる星やつら

Urusei Yatsura

Annoying People or People from Planet Uru

- the title Urusei Yatsura is a pun based on the word urusai (“pesky/obnoxious/annoying”). In certain styles of slang masculine speech, the vowel combination -ai- changes to -ei-, so urusai becomes urusei. The kanji for star/planet, 星, can be read sei in combinations, and is used here for the sei in urusei. Written this way, urusei can also mean “the planet Uru” (somewhat like 火星 Kasei means “Mars”). The word yatsura is simply a plural form of yatsu, a slang word for “guy/fellow.” The Urusei Yatsura series has been translated into English, and is popular among fans in the US who know it as “Those Annoying Aliens.”

© Unose Ken'ichi / Rotte no Hoshi, Shogakukan

ロッテの星

Rotte no hoshi

Lotte 's (name)

Lotte's Hoshi/Star

- Lotte refers to the Lotte Orions, a Japanese professional baseball team. (Lotte is the name of the huge candy company that sponsors the team.) In the manga series, Lotte's pitcher is named Hoshi, a convenient coincidence, since he is also their “star.”

The presence of ghosts or spirits is often indicated by 火の玉 (hi no tama, lit. “fireball,” similar to a will-o'-the-wisp) in Japanese folklore. The manga series Yūyū Hakusho (“Astral Visit Report”), about a young “spiritual detective” who fights evil supernatural beings, uses hi no tama as part of the kanji 幽 (yū, used to refer to spirits or the spirit world).

幽遊 白書

Yūyū Hakusho

astral visit white paper/report

Astral Visit Report

- the kanji 遊 refers to “play,” but also carries the meaning of “meander(ing)/wander(ing).”

© Togashi Yoshihiro / Yūyū Hakusho, Shueisha

More manga titles

This story, featured in MANGAJIN No. 22, is about a man who discovers a warp in time and tries to use it for betting on the horses, but is eventually trapped by it. The leftmost part of 時 (日, representing the sun) has been drawn as a clock.

時の向こう側

© Okazaki Jirō / After Zero, Short Short, Shogakukan

時 の 向 こ う 側
 Toki no Mukō-gawa time 's other side
The Other Side of Time

A racy story from the weekly manga magazine Shūkan Manga Times has the title Juku-jo, Mijuku-jo, Sōjuku-jo. The kanji for “woman/female” (女, onna), has been drawn as a pair of women’s legs. Other small touches include hearts in the kanji 熟 and lips in 早.

熟女 未熟女 早熟女

© Toyoda & Tanemura / Juku-jo, Mijuku-jo, Sōjuku-jo, Hōbunsha

熟女 未熟女 早熟女
Juku-jo Mijuku-jo Sōjuku-jo mature/ripe girl not yet mature girl fast/early mature girl.
Mature Girl, Immature Girl, Early-maturing Girl

Set in the days of feudal Japan, Sansū Ōji is a parody of samurai drama manga. The “math prince” is a right triangle-wielding mercenary mathematician who helps those in mathematical distress—for a fee. In addition to freeing people from arithmetical oppression, he also takes on evil mathematicians.

算数王子
Sansū Ōji
Math Prince

算数王子

© Nakayama Yūya / Math Prince, Shogakukan

Ads and product names

The Yupiteru cordless answering-machine phone is called Koko Ose Irumi. Buttons on the phone light up to guide users through its various operations. The kanji 押, meaning “push,” has been rendered as a hand with an extended, pushing finger.

ココ 押せ イルミ
Koko Ose Irumi
 here push illum(nation)
Push-Here Illumination

- irumi can be short for “illumination,” or “illuminated.”
- ose is an abrupt command form, but that's OK in this kind of application.

A visual and verbal pun

Loyal MANGAJIN readers may remember this item from the feature story on creative product names in issue No. 14. Clothing manufacturer Renown named their anti-bacterial odor-resistant socks 通勤快足 (tsūkin kaisoku, “commuting [with] pleasant feet”), a pun based on 通勤快速 (tsūkin kaisoku, “commuting express [train]”). The pun is made possible by the fact that the kanji for “speed” (速) and the kanji for “foot/leg” (足) can both be read soku. It's made even more viable by the fact that the other kanji, 快 (kai), really means “pleasant.” 快速 (kaisoku), the word for “express [train]” literally means, “pleasant speed,” i.e. making few stops, so the combination 快足 (kaisoku), although not a “real word,” is a good way to express the idea of “pleasant/happy” feet.

The kanji 足 (ashi, “foot/leg”) has been drawn with a footprint on top, somewhat ironic if you consider that the kanji is a stylized depiction of the side view of a leg, with the foot on the bottom.

通勤快足 Tsūkin Kaisoku
 commuting pleasant feet Commuting (with) Pleasant Feet

– is a pun based on –

通勤快速
Tsūkin Kaisoku
Commuting Express (Train)

レナウン 抗菌 防臭 ソックス
Renoun kōkin bōshū sokkusu
 (name) anti-bacterial odor-resistant socks
Renown Anti-Bacterial Odor-Resistant Socks

Game software

The name of the game is Soft-Boiled Hero—the name of a video game for the Sūpā Famikon (“Super Nintendo” in the US), that is. The unlikely hero is a soft-boiled egg called Eggman (エッグマン Eggman). Eggman battles his way through 12 scenarios, meeting such foes as the Egg Monster and the Hard-Boiled Army. The kanji 半熟 (hanjuku) literally means “half-ripe” or “half-mature,” but refers to “soft-boiled” when it comes to eggs. The first stroke of 半 has been replaced with Eggman’s likeness. The kana below the title show that the kanji normally read as ei-yū (“hero”) are to be read hiirō, from the English.

Top: ああ、世界よ 半熟 なれ...!!

Aa, sekai yo hanjuku nare...!!
ah world (address) soft-boiled become

Ah, world, become soft boiled!

Center: 半熟 英雄

Hanjuku Eiyū
Soft-Boiled Hero

Bottom: はんじゅくヒーロー

Hanjuku Hiirō
Soft-Boiled Hero

- the line A sekai yo, hanjuku nare is a parody of the well-known line A seijōki yo, eikyū nare, (ああ星条旗よ永久なれ, reputedly a line from the Japanese version of the American national anthem, but translating more like the title “Stars and Stripes Forever”).

Toys

Gaijin tarento and physical fitness instructor Chuck Wilson teamed up with toy-maker Tomy to produce these sets of finger-strengthening toys called ゆびトレマシーン (yubi tore mashin, “finger training machine”). There are three varieties, and they come boxed with a small bag of candy. (A cardboard cut-out “doll” of Wilson is also included.) The kanji for yubi (“finger”) is 指, but it’s written in hiragana here, with fingers forming the yu and the bi.

Top: チャック・ウイルソンの
Chakku • Uiruson no
Chuck Wilson’s

Bottom: ゆびトレマシーン
yubi tore mashin
Finger Training Machine

- tore is an abbreviation of torēningu, from English “training,” and mashin is from English “machine.”

Magazine headlines

The kanji for “forest” (森, mori) is simply the kanji for tree (木, ki) repeated three times. 森のめぐみ (Mori no Megumi, “Blessings of the Forests”) was the title of an article in Sunday Mainichi about the loss of forests in Japan. One of the trees in the kanji 森 has been drawn as real tree, instead of the usual stylized pictograph.

© 1992 Sunday Mainichi

森のめぐみ

Mori no Megumi

Forest's blessing

The Blessing(s) of Forests

- megumi is the noun form of the verb megumu (“bless/bestow”).

The recession has hit everyone, even kids. The video game magazine Famikon Tsūshin ran a feature entitled ビンボーゲームライフ (Binbō Gēmu Raifu, “Game Life for the Poor”) about enjoying games during tough economic times. The feature outlined such strategies as playing demo games for free at department stores and entering drawings to win game cartridges. Binbō can be written with the kanji 貧乏, but here it is written in katakana, using bottles (bin in Japanese) to form the bin and sticks (bō in Japanese) to make the bō.

© 1993 Famikon Tsūshin

Top: 不況に打ち勝つ
Fukyō ni uchikatsu recession to conquer/overcome
Beat the Recession

Center: ビンボー ゲーム ライフ Binbō Gēmu Raifu
poor game life
Game life for the poor

Bottom: 緊急 特集 Kinkyū tokushū
emergency special edition
Urgent Special Report

田中くん Tanaka-kun

by タナカヒロシ / Tanaka Hiroshi

ツメのあか

Title: ツメのあか Tsume no Aka fingernail off/under dirt
Fingernail Dirt

- 爪の垢を煎じて飲む tsume no aka o senjite nomu is an old expression meaning literally "brew tea from the dirt under (someone's) fingernails and drink it." One normally says it of a person one admires/wants to emulate (or thinks someone else should emulate), the idea being that whoever drinks such a tea will absorb some of the person's (admirable) qualities.

1

Boss: 田中くん、お茶!
Tanaka-kun, o-cha!
(name-hon.) (hon.)-tea
"Tanaka-kun, tea!" (PL2)

FX: ムツ...
Mu! (effect of suppressed anger)

- the honorific prefix o- tends to be used with cha ("tea") at all politeness levels, and regardless of whose tea it is.

2

Tanaka-kun: エラソーに...
Erasō-ni...
self-importantly
"(He's always) so bossy..." (PL2)

- erasō is the adjective erai ("eminent/important [person]") with the suffix -sō indicating "an air/appearance of," so erasō-ni implies "[act/speak] with an air/appearance of importance/authority." Though erai is a word of praise, erasō has negative connotations, implying the person is acting more important than he really is.

3

Tanaka-kun: ツメのあか入れてやる。
Tsume no aka irete yaru.
fingernail/off/under dirt put in give/do to
"I'll put some of my fingernail dirt in it." (PL1-2)

FX: ホジホジ
Hoji hoji (effect of digging/picking under his nails)

- irete is the -te form of ireru ("put in"); yaru after the -te form of a verb often means "do for (someone) as a favor," but it is also used for the meaning of "do (something mean/harmful) to someone."
- the notion of the underling who takes secret revenge on an abusive master by putting something dirty in his food or drink is no doubt universal.

4

Boss: おかしい なー、今日は...
Okashii nā, kyō wa... strange/odd/wrong (exclam.) today as-for "Something's wrong (with me) today." (PL2)

ミスばかりしてる。
Misu bakkari shite-ru.
mistakes only am doing/making
"I keep making mistakes." (PL2)

お茶を飲んでからどーもヘンだ。
O-cha o nonde kara dōmo hen da.
(hon.)-tea (obj.) since drinking somehow strange/odd is "Ever since I had some tea, something's out of whack." (PL2)

- okashii and hen da are synonyms meaning "strange/odd/not normal."
- misu is abbreviated from the katakana rendering of English "mistake"; the verb form is misu (o) suru (shite-ru is a contraction of shite-iru, from suru, "do/make").
- bakkari is a colloquial bakari ("only"). The expression ... bakari shite-iru is literally "[I am] doing only/nothing but..." → "[I] keep doing..."
- kara = "from," and kara after the -te form of a verb basically means "from the time" that action took/takes place, so it can become either "since" or "after" in English depending on the tense of the verb.
- by drinking the tea, the boss has unknowingly absorbed some of Tanaka-kun's (less than admirable) qualities.

田中くん Tanaka-kun

by タナカヒロシ / Tanaka Hiroshi

反 対

1

Newscaster: つぎの ニュース です。
Tsugi no nyūsu desu.
next news is
“And now the next news.” (PL3)

- tsugi is a noun meaning “next,” so the particle no is necessary when modifying another noun.

2

Newscaster: 某市で街並みを西欧風にと電柱を地下に埋設する計画がありましたか...
Bō-shi de machinami o seiō-fū ni to denchū o chika ni maisetsu suru keikaku ga arimashita ga... plan (subj.) existed but “So-and-so city had a plan to bury the telephone poles underground to give the town a Western European look, but...” (PL3)

Title: キャスター
Kyasutā
[news]caster
News Anchor

- 某 bō by itself means “a certain/an unnamed person” and is like saying “Mr. X/Mr. So-and-so”; with the appropriate suffixes added it is also used to create a variety of generic names/aliases.
- the particle ni indicates direction/aim/purpose and combined with quotative to is essentially similar to... ni suru tame ni, “in order to make it...”
- machinami o seiō-fū ni to denchū o chika ni maisetsu suru is a complete thought/sentence (“bury telephone poles underground to give the town a Western European look”) modifying keikaku (“plan”).

3

Newscaster: おまわぬ反対に市当局は困惑しております。
omowanu hantai ni shi tōkyoku wa kanwaku shite-orimasu.
unexpected protest by/in face of city authorities as-for are perplexed/puzzled “faced with unexpected protests, city authorities are in a quandry.” (PL4)

Tanaka-kun: ふーん...だれが反対してるのかなー。
Fūn... dare ga hantai shite-ru no ka nā hmm who (subj.) is protesting (explan.) I wonder “Hmm... Who could be protesting it, I wonder?” (PL2)

- omowanu, though still used idiomatically, is essentially an archaic equivalent of omoi mo yoranai, an expression meaning “unexpected/unanticipated.”
- konwaku shite-orimasu is a more formal/polite equivalent of konwaku shite-imasu, the PL3 form of konwaku shite-iru (“be perplexed/puzzled”).
- fūn with a long vowel represents a low hum/grunt sounded mostly in the back of the throat with a rising intonation at the end. It basically expresses interest/understanding.
- hantai shite-(i)ru is from hantai suru, the verb form of hantai (“protest/objection/opposition”).

4

Sign: 市役所 Shiyakusho
City Hall

Sound FX: ワンワンワンワンワンワンワンワン
Wan wan wan wan wan wan wan wan
Woof woof woof woof woof woof woof woof

1

OL 1: さっき 頼んだ コピー は?
Sakki tanonda kopii wa?
a while ago requested copies/copying as-for
“(Have you made) the copies I asked you for a while ago?” (PL2)

OL 2: スイマセーン。すぐ やります。
Suimase-n. Sugu yarimasu.
sorry immediately will do
“I’m sorry. I’ll do it right away.” (PL3)

- tanonda is the plain/abrupt past form of tanomu (“request/ask a favor”). Sakki tanonda is a complete thought/sentence (“requested a while ago”) modifying kopii (“copies/copying”).
- ending with wa essentially requests/demands a response/explanation regarding what precedes the wa, something like “what’s the status of . . . ?”

2

Salaryman 1: きんのう の データの 集計 は?
Kinō no dēta no shūkei wa?
yesterday's data of tallying/computation as-for “(Do you have) the results of the data from yesterday?” (PL2)

OL 2: スイマセーン。今日中には。
Suimase-n. Kyō-jū ni wa.
sorry within today as-for “I’m sorry. (I’ll have it for you) by the end of the day.” (PL3)

- shūkei is written with kanji meaning “gather” and “tally/calculate” and can refer either to the process of bringing the data together and calculating the appropriate totals, or to the results obtained from that process.
- -jū ni after a time word means “within (that time frame).”

3

Salaryman 2: あのね。
Ano ne.
“Say, . . .” (PL2)

OL 2: はい、すみません。
Haai, suimase-n.
yes sorry
“Yes, sir. I’m sorry.” (PL3)

- ano (or anō) is a hesitation word similar to “uhh.” It is often used to get someone’s attention, and by itself it feels like “Excuse me.”

4

Salaryman 2: まだ 何も 言っていないけど。
Mada nani mo itte-nai kedo.
not yet nothing haven't said but “I haven’t asked you anything yet.” (PL2)

OL 2: あっ、はい、あの、すみませんっ。
A! hai, ano, suimasen!
“Ah, yes, I mean, I’m sorry.” (PL3)

- mada followed by a negative means “(not) yet.”
- nani mo followed by a negative means “(not) anything” → “nothing.”
- itte-(i)nai is the negative of itte-iru (“have/has said”) from iu (“say”).
- kedo (literally “but”) here serves merely to “soften” the end of the sentence.
- a! is an exclamation of surprise/sudden awareness.
- here ano is being used as a true hesitation word, “uhh/I mean,” while she momentarily grasps for what to say next.

1

A: 2時に喫茶店で待ち合わせして映画観て
Ni-ji ni kissaten de machiawase shite eiga mite
2:00 at coffee shop at meet-and movie see-and
"At two o'clock meet at a coffee shop, see a movie, and"

早めの夕食は Hayame no yūshoku wa
earlier dinner as-for やっぱりイタリア料理かな。 yappa itaria ryōri ka na
after all Italian cuisine I wonder

"I guess for an early dinner it's Italian food after all." (PL2)

- eiga (o) mite = "watch a movie and..." The kanji used here for the -te form of the verb miru ("look/watch/see") implies more attentive viewing than the ordinary 見る miru.
- hayame no is an adjective meaning "(a little) earlier than usual," from hayai ("early").
- yappa(ri) = "after all (is said and done)." Colloq. for yahari.

2

A: 軽く飲む店はどこ...と
Karuku nomu mise wa... to light drink(ing) shop as-for and "Someplace for light drinks... and..."

Book: グルメガイド
Gurume Gaido
Gourmet Guide

B: なんだよ、デートのマニュアルか?
Nan da yo. Deto no manyuaru ka?
what is (emph.) date for manual (?)
"What's that? A date manual?" (PL2)

ひえー Hiē
"Yikes!"

- using the question marker ka directly after a noun (manyuaru ka) makes abrupt-sounding questions.

3

A: いや... 企画書なんだ。
Iya... kikakusho nan da.
no plan document (explan.) is
"No... it's a planning document." (PL2)

- iya ("no") is a colloquial form of ie.
- sho attached to nouns = "application/-document/-petition."
- nan da (colloq. for na no desu) gives an explanatory tone.

4

Father: ま、よからう。
Ma, yokarō.
well probably fine/OK
"Well, I suppose it's OK." (PL2)

Daughter: じゃ、じゃ、行ってきます。
Ja Papa, itte-kimasu.
"In that case, Papa, I'll see you later." (PL3)

- yokarō is a colloquial equivalent of ii darō ("probably OK/guess [it's] OK") used by older people.
- itte-kimasu (literally, "I'll go and come back") is said whenever leaving one's house/office, etc., with the intention of coming back.

ガキア君 Garcia-kun

by 竹内 章

Takeuchi Akira

Photo courtesy of Hōchi Shinbun

Featured in the popular manga weekly アクション ("Action"), Garcia-kun depicts the life of a gaijin rōdō-sha (外人労働者, "foreign laborer") who has come to Japan to earn money for his family back in Colombia. The protagonist, Garcia-kun, is exceedingly honest, hard-working, and does his best to resist the temptations of the big city. The portrayals of Japanese characters in the series are sometimes brutally honest in exposing the difficulties many Japanese people have in dealing with foreigners. Feeling that this manga communicated some important information about Japanese attitudes, we arranged for permission to feature it in MANGAJIN. At the same time, we asked free-lance writer/translator Azby Brown to interview the artist, Takeuchi Akira, and find out more about the man behind Garcia-kun.

An Interview with Takeuchi Akira, creator of Garcia-kun

by Azby Brown

Since its first appearance two and a half years ago, Garcia-kun has garnered a significant amount of attention both in the manga world and in the popular press. Dealing as it does with the touchy issue of immigrant labor, one might expect Garcia-kun to have raised a bit of controversy, but the response seems to be overwhelmingly positive, an appreciative audience applauding Takeuchi's ability to explore the issues of racism and the life of the undocumented underclass in an unthreatening but sympathetic manner. We spoke with Takeuchi at his home in Akita (the far north of Japan) to learn more about his motivations, goals and inspirations for this unusual, and at times provocative, comic strip. His responses were sometimes disarmingly straightforward.

It seems that your manga Garcia-kun has generated a bit of interest among those foreigners in Japan and overseas who have had the opportunity to read it. Are you surprised by this?

Yes, very. I really never thought about what the response of foreigners would be. You see, I rarely get the chance to speak with non-Japanese.

Are there many South American laborers near where you live in Akita?

No, I've never seen any.

Does that mean Garcia-kun isn't based on an actual person?

That's right. I took the name from the Colombian author [Gabriel] Garcia Marquez.

So, you were influenced by Marquez' writing?

No, I haven't actually read any of it.

Have you lived overseas? Or visited South America?

No, I've never been out of Japan.

Then where do your images of foreigners come from?

Mostly from the media—TV, movies, magazines. I think a lot about the changes in Japanese society, and invent imaginary interactions. You see, Japanese are really clumsy when it comes to dealing with foreigners. It's largely due to the centuries of forced isolation the country experienced. So now Japan has become an economic power and attracts a lot of people from all over the world whose single goal is to make money; most of whom are not really prepared for living and interacting in such a different culture, so problems are bound to arise.

• brutally honest = 冷酷なほど率直に reikoku-na hodo sotchoku-ni • garner = 集める atsumeru • touchy issue = めんどろな問題 mendō-na mondai • undocumented underclass = 記録に現われない下層 (の人々) kiroku ni arawarenai kasō (no hitobito) • provocative = 挑発的な chōhatsuteki-na • disarmingly straightforward = 心をやわらげるほど正直な kokoro o yawurageru hodo shōjiki-na • clumsy = ぎこちない gikochinai

Your portrayal of foreign laborers in your strip are generally quite sympathetic, and readers seem to identify with Garcia-kun. Is raising Japanese consciousness about racism and the imbalances of society one of your goals?

No, not really. In fact, I hardly think about it. I want to amuse people. Manga can touch on social issues, but if it's not funny, it's not good manga. But what people find funny is sometimes unpredictable; it's important to be able to see the amusing side of the difficulties of daily life.

It sometimes seems that Garcia-kun is too good to be true. He works hard, never complains, is honest; while the Japanese in your strip often seem manipulative or dishonest. Are you trying to draw an intentional contrast?

If by that you mean am I generalizing and saying "Japanese are likely to behave this way and it's bad," or "Foreigners are good people who are treated badly by Japanese society," the answer is absolutely not. I think this tendency to divide things into "good" and "bad," to look for the causes of problems, to assign responsibility, is purely a Western thing. Japanese can read Garcia- kun and laugh, and sympathize with the characters, but it doesn't follow that they will see it as a criticism of Japanese society. In fact, I really think Japanese people are the happiest in the world and feel no need to criticize. In the postwar period, no one is deeply dissatisfied with anything.

Nevertheless, people are receiving your strip as an unprecedented kind of social commentary . . .

And that may become a problem. In fact, if people expect Garcia-kun to be social criticism, then it will become hard to continue. If the message is too clear, then it stops being funny. To me, Garcia-kun is an anti-hero story. He unintentionally induces behavior in people, forcing them to undergo small crises or reveal their weaknesses, but he himself remains largely untouched. Perplexed at times, but unsuffering. My image of Garcia-kun as a real person is someone who comes to Japan to work for the sake of his family back home—and in fact, I'm introducing them in a strip which appears soon, in which Garcia returns to Colombia. He's unusually silent because he suppresses his own feelings for the sake of his family.

This is, then, a very fictional, idealized portrayal. In fact, you seem to be giving Garcia some very Confucian characteristics.

You might say so. Just as Garcia doesn't question why things happen to him, Japanese feel no need to either. They simply surrender themselves to the demands of their social relationships. And I'm not critical of this at all. It's something I wish foreigners would make more effort to understand.

So will we be seeing Garcia-kun for a long time? Or are you working on something else?

I think it will continue, but as I mentioned, it may be difficult to continue in the same vein. My publishers are encouraging me, though. But in fact, there are a lot of other things I would like to do as well, and not just new manga. I'm happy about the good response Garcia-kun has gotten, but I put a lot of things aside to concentrate on it. I'm very happy with my regular job as a sign painter. Manga is not my whole life.

The best of both worlds

Japan Related

A CROSS-CULTURAL TRADE JOURNAL

Japan Related is an effort to correct the knowledge imbalance among people who need to know about Japan the most—Americans working day-to-day with Japanese bosses, colleagues, subordinates, suppliers and customers. Japan Related's mission is to provide Americans with the information they need to relate comfortably to the Japanese and succeed in a Japanese management environment.

- Interviews
- Case Studies
- Cultural Problems and Solutions
- Communication Tips
- Intercultural Manners and Advice
- Book Reviews
- Information about Japan, its people and the language

Send in this form for a free copy of Japan Related

Name _____

Address _____

Apt. No. _____

City _____

State _____

Zip _____

Send to:

Japan Related
1046 Vance Ave. NE
Atlanta, GA 30306

1

Title: ファルタ デ マノ (人手不足)
Falta de Mano (Hitode busoku)
Falta de Mano (Shorthanded)

- hitode, literally “person’s hands,” refers to “workers/helpers,” and -busoku is from fusoku (“insufficient”), so hitode busoku refers to “a shortage of being shorthanded.”

Boss: ガルシア君、悪いけどバケツ洗ってね。
Garushia-kun, warui kedo baketsu arette ne.
(name-hon.) bad but buckets (please) wash okay?
“Sorry Garcia, but (please) wash the buckets, okay?” (PL2)

Garcia: はい。
Hai
“Okay.” (PL3)

- warui (lit. “bad”) + kedo (“but”) is often used to mean “it’s bad (of me to ask) but . . .” when requesting a favor, like the English expressions, “I’m sorry to trouble you but . . .” or “I hate to have to ask you this but . . .”
- aratte is the -te form of arau (“wash”), here being used as an informal request/gentle command.
- ne at the end of a request or command urges compliance, like “(do it), okay?”

2

Sound FX: グラリ
Gurari
Wobble (effect of something shaking/tottering unstably)

Boss: すまないね。人手不足でね。
Sumanai ne. Hitode busoku de ne.
(apology) (colloq.) shorthanded (cause/reason) (colloq.)
“Sorry, it’s just that we’re so shorthanded.” (PL2)

でも、これもりっぱな仕事だからね。
Demo kore mo rippa-na shigoto dakara ne.
but this also worthy/respectable work is because/so (colloq.)
“But this, too, is a (perfectly) respectable job, so . . .” (PL2)

- sumanai is an informal version of the apology sumimasen.

3

Garcia: でも、日本たくさん人いるのに。
Demo, Nihon takusan hito iru no ni.
but Japan many people has/have/exist even though/when “But Japan has lots of people.” (PL2)

Boss: ダメだよ、日本人は。
Dame da yo, Nihonjin wa.
no good/useless is/are (emph.) Japanese people as-for “Japanese are useless.” (PL2)

- Garcia has omitted ni wa after Nihon (“Japan”) and ga after hito (“people”).
- no ni gives the feeling of “how can you say that even though . . .”
- da is the PL2 equivalent of desu (“is/are”). The boss’s syntax is inverted. Normal order would be Nihonjin wa dame da yo.

4

Boss: こんな仕事やらせたらすぐやめちゃうよ。
Konna shigoto yasetara sugu yamechau yo.
this kind of work if made do immediately quit (regret) (emph.)
“If I made them do this kind of work they’d quit right away.” (PL2)

Garcia: ん?
N?
“Hunh?” (PL2)

- yasetara is a past conditional (“if”) form of yaseru, the causative (“make/let [do]”) form of yasu (“do”), so yasetara = “if I made (them) do.”
- yamechau is a contraction of yamete shimau, the -te form of yameru (“stop/quit”) plus the suffix shimau indicating that the action or its result would be regrettable/undesirable.”

ガルシア君

Garcia-kun

Title: デセオ (憧れ)
Deseo (Akogare)
Deseo (Aspirations)

Boy: ガルシアは えらい なあ。
Garushia wa erai naa.
(name) as-for admirable (colloq. emph.)
"I really admire you, Garcia." (PL2)

Garcia: え?
E?
"Hunh?" (PL2)

Sign: 花
Hana
Flowers

- erai basically means "admirable/worthy of praise/respect," and it is used both to refer to eminent/important people (erai hito) and as a direct word of praise for a good deed.

Boy: みんなが 嫌がる 仕事を やる んだもん。
Minna ga iyagaru shigoto o yaru n da mon.
everyone (subj.) show dislike work (obj.)
一生懸命 やる んだもん。
isshokenmei yaru n da mon.
diligently do (explan.) because
"Because you throw yourself so diligently into work that no one else wants to do." (PL2)

- iyagaru is the adjectival noun iya(-na), meaning "(is) disagreeable/unpleasant," with the suffix -garu, which is attached to various adjectives of feeling (either psychological or physical) to mean "show signs of being ...". Thus, iyagaru = "show signs of finding (it) disagreeable" → "show dislike (for)." Minna ga iyagaru is a complete thought/sentence ("everyone dislikes [it]") modifying shigoto ("work"): "work everyone dislikes" → "work no one else wants to do."
- n da mon is a contraction of no da mono, which altogether can be thought of as "because." The expression is often used when providing an explanation for something one has just said.

Boy: だから ボク 勉強しない 事にしたんだ。
Dakara boku benkyou shinai koto ni shita na da.
therefore/so I/me not study decided to (explan.)
"So I've decided not to study." (PL2)

Garcia: どうして?
Doushite?
"Why?" (PL2)

- dakara is literally "for that reason/because it is so."
- benkyou shinai is the negative form of benkyou suru ("study").
- ... koto ni shita is the past form of the expression ... koto ni suru, which follows verbs for the meaning "decide to (do the action)."

Boy: 勉強しないと ガルシア みたいになる って 言ったから。
Benkyou shinai to Garushia mitai ni naru tte itte kara.
if don't study (name) like will become (quote)
パパが 言ったから。
Papa ga itte-ta kara.
Dad (subj.) was saying because
"Because Dad told me if I didn't study I'd end up like you." (PL2)

- to after a verb can give a conditional "if/when" meaning.
- mitai directly after a noun means "is like -," and mitai ni naru means "become(s)/will become like -."
- tte is a colloquial equivalent of quotative to.
- itte-ta is a contraction of itte-ita ("was saying/said"), past form of itte-iru ("is saying/says"), from iu ("say").

ガルシア君

Garcia-kun

Title: プエス (だから)
Puesu (Dakara)
Pues (Because)

1

Boss: ガルシア君が いてくれて 助かる よ。
Garushia-kun ga ite kurete tasukaru yo.
(name-hon.) (subj.) have/exist for me be saved/helped (emph.)
"It's a big help to have you (working) for me, Garcia." (PL2)

- ite is the -te form of iru ("have/exists" for people and animate things), and kurete is the -te form of kureru, which after another verb means "(do the action/the action occurs) for my benefit." The -te form of kureru shows it is being stated as the cause/reason for what follows (tasukaru, "be helped").

2

Boss: 世間 じゃ 不法 就労 とか 何とか
Seken ja fuhō shūrō to ka nan to ka society/people in illegal employment quote-? or something-?
言ってる ようだ が...
itte-ru yō da ga...
are saying seem to be but "It seems people are saying all sorts of things about illegal labor and such, but..." (PL2)

- seken refers to "society/the world at large" → "people." Ja is a contraction of de wa, with de indicating the location of an action, and wa marking the topic of the sentence, so seken ja could be translated more literally: "as for in society at large,..."
- ... to ka nan to ka iu (itte-[i]ru is the progressive form of iu, "say") can mean either "say... or something," or "say something/various things about..."
- ... yō da = "seems/appears to be the case that..."

3

Boss: 日本経済 は 君達 外国人労働者 が
Nihon keizai wa kimi-tachi gaikokujin rōdōsha ga
Japanese economy as-for you-(plural) foreign laborers (subj.)
支えてる んだ よ。 / ガンバッテ ネ。 sasaete-ru nda yo. / Ganbatte ne.
are supporting (explan.)(emph.) (please) persist/be dogged (colloq.)
"you foreign laborers are a vital support for the Japanese economy. (So) hang in there, okay?" (PL2)

- kimi is an informal/masculine word for "you," used to address an equal or subordinate. The suffix -tachi turns words referring to people into plurals.
- sasaete-ru is a contraction of sasaete-iru, the progressive form of sasaeru ("support/sustain").
- ganbatte is the -te form of ganbaru, which means "be dogged/persistent" in what one is doing. The -te form is often used as a word of encouragement. Since strictly speaking the -te form makes an informal request or gentle command, ne at the end has the feeling of "(do it), okay?"

4

Man: だから わし達の 給料 が 上らん のか。
Dakara washi-tachi no kyūryō ga agaran no ka.
therefore/so our pay/wages (subj.) don't go up (explan.-?)
"So that's why our pay doesn't go up." (PL2)

Hat & Apron: 花屋
Hana-ya
Flower Shop

Woman: ピンポン
Pin pōn.
("Ding dong" — effect of game show chimes for correct answer)
"Bingo." (PL2)

- dakara is literally "for that reason/because it is so" → "That's why..."
- washi is a word for "I/me" used mostly by middle-aged and older men. -Tachi makes it plural: "we/us." Washi-tachi no = "our."
- agaran is a contraction of agaranai, the negative form of agaru ("rise up").
- the question indicated by no ka (lit. "is it the case that...?") is mostly rhetorical. Dakara... no ka is a frequent combination used when the speaker has just realized the reason for something: "So that's why... is it?"

	Title: インポシブル (無理) Inposhibure (Muri) Impossible (Impossible)
1	Sound FX: タタタタ Ta ta ta ta (effect of running swiftly) Sound FX: ハアハア Hā hā (effect of heavy breathing)
2	Boy 1: いいなあ、ガルシア、サッカー上手で。 ii nā, Garushia, sakkā jōzu de. good/fine (colloq.) (name) soccer skillful (cause/reason) "I envy you, Garcia, being so good at soccer." (PL2) Boy 2: ホント、羨ましいよなあ Honto, urayamashii yo nā. truth am envious/jealous (emph.) (colloq.) "That's the truth. I'm really jealous." (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ii nā is an expression of envy. It combines ii (literally "good/fine") with the emphatic/exclamatory nā. • de is essentially the -te form of desu ("is/are"). Using the -te form marks sakkā (ga) jōzu (da/desu) as the reason for his saying ii nā, which in normal syntax would come at the end. • hontō ("truth") is often shortened to honto in informal speech.
3	Boy 1: Jリーグに入ったらいいのね。 Jei-rūgu ni haittara ii no ni ne. (pro soccer league) into if enter would be good wouldn't it? "Wouldn't it be great if he joined the J League?" (PL2) Boy 2: ウン。 Un. "Yeah!" (PL2) Garcia: え？無理だよ。 E? Muri da yo. hunh? impossible is (emph.) "Hunh? That's impossible." (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Jリーグ Jei-rūgu is the name of the Japanese professional soccer league. • haittara is a conditional "if/when" form of hairu ("enter/go into/join"). • ii no ni after a conditional expression means the speaker wishes that condition existed/were true: "if only/wouldn't it be great if..." When the condition involves another person's action, it often has the meaning of "(I think) you/he/they should..." or "Why don't you...?" • ne at the end of the sentence is clearly addressed to the other boy, seeking his agreement, so we have translated the sentence as if it is entirely addressed to the other boy. Actually, though, the first part of the sentence could be addressed to Garcia ("You should join the J League"), with just the ne ("don't you agree?") addressed to the other boy.
4	Boy 1: 無理だよね。観光ビザだもん。 Muri da yo ne. Kankō biza da mon. impossible is (emph.) (colloq.) tourist visa is because "(Yeah,) it's impossible, isn't it. (Because) he has a tourist visa." (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • in this case ne serves as a self-confirmation — "yeah, that's true, isn't it?" — instead of being directed at his friend for his agreement. • da is literally just "is/are," but here implies "is on/has (a tourist visa)." • mon is a contraction of mono, which after da/desu essentially means "because (it is so)."

ガルシア君

Garcia-kun

Title: ウム... (あのお)
Umu... (Anō) Uhh...

• anō is a hesitation word similar to "uhh/um." It's often used to get someone's attention, essentially like "Excuse me."

1

Garcia: あのお...
Anō... "Uhh..." (PL2)

Card: 供 offering In Memoriam

On Apron: 花(屋) Flower (Shop)
Hana(-ya)

Man: は!?
Ha!? "Huh?" (PL2)

• the kanji 供, from 供える sonaeru ("make an offering") or 供え物 sonaemono ("offering") indicates that the item (see final frame) is an offering to the dead. Usually the character wouldn't actually be read out loud when used this way.

2

Man: どうしよう... どうとう オレも 外人 に
(thinking) Dō shiyō... tōtō ore mo gaijin ni what/how shall do finally/ultimately I/me also foreigner by 話しかけられちゃった よ hanashikakerarechatta yō.
was spoken to (regret) (emph.)
"What'll I do? It's finally happened: I've been spoken to by a foreigner." (PL2)

Sound FX: ハハハ
Ha ha ha (nervous laugh)

Man: ヤバイなあ。 (thinking) Yabai nā.
is awkward/bad situation (emph.)
"This is bad." (PL2)

• hanashikakerarechatta is a contraction of hanashikakerarete (passive of hanashikakeru, "strike up a conversation with") plus shimatta (past of shimau, indicating the action was regrettable/undesirable).

3

Garcia: あのお...
Anō... "Uhh..." (PL2)

Man: ウン、でも...ちゃんと 返事しなきゃ
(thinking) Un, demo... chan-to henji shinakya yeah/uh-huh but properly/courtously if don't answer 日本人は冷たいと思われるからな。
Nihonjin wa tsumetai to omowareru kara na.
Japanese as-for are cold (quote) will be thought because (colloq.)
"Yeah, but... if I don't give him a proper response, he'll think we Japanese are coldhearted, so (I'd better say something)." (PL2)

Man: 堂々と、明るく。
(thinking) Dōdō-to, akaruku.
boldly/fearlessly brightly/cheerfully
"Boldly, cheerfully." (PL2)

4

On Truck: 花屋
Hana-ya
Flower Shop

Garcia: 通して 下さい。 Tōshite kudasai.
let pass through please
"Please let me by." (PL3)

Man: は?
Ha?
"Huh?" (PL2)

Overhead: 忌中
Kichū
In Mourning

© Takeuchi Akira. All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1992 by Futabasha, Tokyo. English translation rights arranged through Futabasha.

ガルシア君

Garcia-kun

1

Title: アミーゴ (友達)
Amigo (Tomodachi)
Amigo (Friend)

Square: コンニチハ。
Konnicchi wa.
"Hello." (PL3)

Circle 1: ヤア、新しい友達だ。
Yā, atarashii tomodachi da.
hi/hey new friend is
"Hey, it's a new friend." (PL2)

• yā is an informal "hello/hi/hey there."

2

Circle 1: ここ変だよ。
Koko hen da yo.
here/this place strange/weird is (emph.)
"This place is strange." (PL2)

Sound FX: ギーコギーコ (effect of sawing) バキッ (effect of breaking a piece off) Giiko giiko Baki!

Square: イタタタ
Ita ta ta
"Ow-oww." (PL2)

Circle 2: ここも取った方がいいわ。
Koko mo totta hō ga ii wa.
here/this place also took off is better (fem. colloq.)
"It'd be better if we took this off, too." (PL2)

• ita ta ta is a colloquial variation of itai ("hurt[s]") used as an exclamation: "Ouch!/Ow!" Other typical variations are ita!, aita!, and aita ta! — with additional tas added in proportion to the degree/duration of pain.
• ... hō ga ii = "would be better to/if ..."
• wa is a mostly feminine particle for emphasis used in casual speech.

3

Circle 1: ワイー、ボク達と同じになった。
Wāi, boku-tachi to onaji ni natta.
hurray we/us as same became
"Hurray, he has become the same as us." (PL2)

Sound FX: ボロ... (effect of being in tatters; cf. boroboro) Boro...

Circle 3: よかった、よかった。
Yokatta, yokatta.
"I'm so glad, I'm so glad!" (PL2)

• ... to onaji = "the same as ..."
• ni natta is the plain/abrupt past form of ni naru ("become/change to"). Ni nareta (next frame) is the past potential ("was able to") form of ni naru.
• yokatta is the plain/abrupt past form of ii/yo! ("good/fine"). Besides its literal meaning of "was good," yokatta is used idiomatically to mean "I'm so glad" (when one has been lucky or things otherwise go according to one's wishes, as here) or "I'm relieved" (when one's fears have been proven unnecessary).

4

Friend: それでやっと日本人と友達になれたんだ。
Sore de yatto Nihonjin to tomodachi ni nareta n da.
with that finally Japanese with friends was able to become (expln.)
"And with that, I was finally able to become friends with some Japanese." (PL2)

嬉しいよ。 Ureshii yo.
happy/glad (emph.)/am
"I'm so happy." (PL2)

Garcia: はあ。
Hā.
"Uhhh-huh." (PL2)

• hā is a very tentative hai ("yes"). He doesn't know whether to join in his friend's happiness or feel sorry for him.

ガルシア君

Garcia-kun

Title: プロメーサ (約束)
Puromēsa (Yakusoku)
Promesa (A Promise)

Woman 1: こんにちは。
Konnichi wa.
 today as-for
"Hello." (PL2)

Garcia: こんにちはわ。
Konnichi wa.
"Hello." (PL2)

- the correct spelling for the standard daytime (usually afternoon) greeting konnichi wa is こんにちは. The nonstandard spelling used for Garcia is presumably intended to reflect his foreign accent.

Woman 2: 大丈夫? 外人に話しかけて。
Daijō bu, gaijin ni hanashikakete?
 all right/okay foreigner to addressing/talking to
"Is it okay — talking to a foreigner?"
 → "Do you think it's a good idea — talking to a foreigner?" (PL2)

Woman 1: 遅れてるわね。
Okurete-ru wa ne.
 are late/behind the times (fem. colloq.)
"You're behind the times." (PL2)

これからは国際交流の時代よ。
Korekara wa kokusai kōryū no jidai yo.
 from now as-for international interchange of era (emph.)/is
"We're now in an era of international interchange, you know." (PL2)

- daijōbu* means "all right/okay" in the sense of "no cause for concern." Using it as a question implies there is cause for concern.
- hanashikakete* is the -te form of hanashikakeru, a combination of hanasu ("talk") and kakeru (lit. "hang"). Kakeru added to another verb implies starting the action and/or directing it at someone/something, so hanashikakeru has the feeling of "strike up a conversation with (someone)." The woman's syntax is inverted. Normal order would give her reason for concern first, and end with the questioning daijōbu?
- okurete-ru* is a contraction of okurete-iru ("be late/behind schedule") from okureru ("become late/fall behind schedule"), in this case referring to being behind the times.
- korekara* is literally "from this," meaning "from this time forward" → "from now (on)/(in)the future," but the implication here is that they are already in the era of international interchange.
- in informal situations, the emphatic particle yo alone can function as desu yo ("is/are/will be" + emph.), especially in female speech. As in the final frame, after a question word it can also act as an emphatic and very abrupt desu ka?

Woman 1: 今度、遊びにいらっしやいよ。
Kondo, asobi ni irasshai yo.
 this time/sometime play/visit for come (emph.)
"Stop by for a visit sometime." (PL2-4)

Garcia: はい、行きます。
Hai, ikimasu.
 yes/okay will go
"Okay, I will." (PL3)

- kondo* is literally "this time/occasion," but it can variously mean "recently," "now," "soon/next time," or "sometime," depending on the context.
- irasshai* is the abrupt command form of the PL4 verb irassharu, here equivalent to kuru ("come"). Asobi ni kuru is an expression for "come visit," and asobi ni irasshai is a common way to invite someone to one's home.

Woman 1: 何の用よ?
Nan no yō yo?
 what of business (emph.-?)
"What's your business?"
 → "What do you want?" (PL2)

1

Title: エンビディア (うらやましい)
Envidia (Urayamashii)
Envidiar (Envious)

Garcia: うらやましい、このストーブ 捨ててるなんて。
Urayamashii, kono sutōbu suteru nante.
envious this stove/heater discard (quote)
"I'm envious that he throws away this stove."
→ "I envy him that he can actually throw away a heater like this." (PL2)

- sutōbu is a katakana rendering of English "stove"; the Japanese word always refers to a space heater rather than to a kitchen stove, which is called レンジ renji, from English "range."
- nante is a colloquial quotative form that implies the situation described is extraordinary/astonishing.

2

Garcia: 買って 行こっ。
Moratte iko!
receive/take-and will go
"I think I'll take it." (PL2)

- moratte is the -te form of morau ("receive/obtain"), and iko! is a colloquial version of ikō, the volitional ("let's/I think I'll...") form of iku ("go"), so the combination is literally "I think I'll receive/obtain it and go" → "I think I'll take it."

3

Man: うらやましい な、拾って 行ける なんて。
Urayamashii na, hirotte ikeru nante.
envious (emph.) pick up-and can go (quote)
"I envy him that he can actually take (something like that) home." (PL2)

- na is a mostly masculine equivalent of colloquial ne, in this case used for light emphasis.
- hirotte is the -te form of hirou ("pick up"), and ikeru is the potential ("can/able to") form of iku ("go"), so it is literally "can pick up and go" → "can take." At this point it sounds like the man envies Garcia's nerve for being able to pick something up out of the trash. Japanese have traditionally disdained used goods, although this is evidently changing with the poor economy.

4

Man: 置く 場所 が あったら 捨てなかった のに。
Oku basho ga attara sutenakatta noni.
set/keep place (subj.) if existed did not discard even though/but "If I had a place to put it, I wouldn't have thrown it out (but)."
→ "I wouldn't have thrown it out if I had room to keep it." (PL2)

On Shelf: みかん
Mikan
Mandarin Oranges

Arrow: 新しい ストーブ
Atarashii sutōbu
New Heater

Sound FX: ブーン
Būn (humming sound of heater)

- attara is a conditional ("if") form of atta, past tense of aru ("have/exists" for inanimate things).
- sutenakatta is the past form of sutenai, the negative of suteru ("discard/throw away"). After a past conditional clause, a past negative ("did not") form has the meaning, "would not have (done)."
- noni (literally "even though") implies a feeling of disappointment/regret.
- sturdy cardboard mikan boxes are favorites for home storage.

An introduction to the manga series,

三四郎の恋

Sanshirō no Koi

Sanshirō's Love

by

前川つかさ

Maekawa Tsukasa

Manga stories based on historical characters or events are not unusual, but manga artists generally have no compunctions about diverging from historical fact. Maekawa Tsukasa, known to regular MANGAJIN readers as the creator of Dai-Tōkyō Binbō Seikatsu Manyuaru ("A Manual for Cheap Living in Greater Tokyo"), is no exception. In the series Sanshirō no Koi ("Sanshirō's Love"), Maekawa uses historical reality as a starting point for his manga story.

In the story on the following pages, Sanshirō is a young student who, in addition to his regular studies, is serving as apprentice and houseboy to a well-known writer, Nekome Tanseki. The character Nekome is modeled loosely on the famous early-20th century novelist, Natsume Sōseki (1867-1916), whose works include Sanshirō (source of the manga character Sanshirō) and "I Am a Cat" (Wagahai wa Neko de Aru, the source of the Neko in the name Nekome).

In the story, Nekome is offered a scholarship by the Japanese government to go to England to study English literature. Sōseki did indeed go to England on a government scholarship in 1900. At the time he received the scholarship, however, Sōseki was not yet a novelist, nor was he living in Tokyo. He was teaching English at the Fifth Higher School (these are sometimes called "high schools," but have no exact counterpart in the modern educational system) in Kumamoto, on Japan's southern island of Kyūshū, where he had been since 1896.

Both at the Fifth Higher School and at Tokyo University where he began teaching after his return from England in 1903, Sōseki followed in the footsteps of Lafcadio Hearn, a man of Irish and Greek ancestry who had come to Japan in 1890 after nearly two decades as a newspaper reporter in the United States. Hearn taught at the Fifth Higher School from 1891 to 1894, and at Tokyo University from 1896 to 1903. He was tremendously popular among his students, so much so that Sōseki is said to have objected to the injustice when he was appointed, in a wave of increasing nationalism, to replace Hearn and become the first native Japanese lecturer of English Literature at Tokyo University.

It's not surprising, then, that Maekawa Tsukasa has Lafcadio Hearn appearing as one of several actual literary figures from the period (or characters cast in their image) in this story about a novelist modeled on Sōseki. But Maekawa takes considerable liberties in depicting these "famous" characters, including Hearn.

Hearn himself apparently never held a post at the First Higher School in Tokyo (in the manga story it is referred to as "higher middle school"). It was Sōseki who taught concurrently at Tokyo University and the First Higher School as Hearn is said to do in this episode.

Except for a couple of months at the beginning of 1903 just after he got back from England, Sōseki did not live in Tokyo when Hearn was teaching at Tokyo University. Further, Hearn died in September 1904 even before Sōseki became a novelist: Sōseki's first novel, Wagahai wa Neko de Aru ("I Am a Cat") began appearing serially in January 1905.

All this means, of course, that Sōseki could not have had a writer's apprentice/houseboy who took classes from Hearn prior to 1903, nor one who accompanied him to England even earlier, in 1900.

Sōseki has long been regarded as Japan's greatest novelist of the 20th century. His second novel, the humorous and satirical Botchan (1906), remains a perennial best seller, and the much somberer Kokoro (1914) is probably cited by more Japanese than any other modern novel as a book that profoundly influenced their lives. For readers wishing to learn more about him, Edwin McClellan's Two Japanese Novelists: Sōseki and Tōson is handy, with brief summaries/discussions of his major novels.

Donald Keene's monumental Dawn to the West has a lengthy chapter on Sōseki as well as on Mori Ōgai, another turn of the century author mentioned in this episode, and Nagai Kafū, the author who appeared in the episode published in MANGAJIN No. 23. More recently: Van Gessel's Three Modern Novelists: Sōseki, Tanizaki, Kawabata is aimed at "the general, perhaps even the casual, reader of modern Japanese literature in translation.”

• have no compunctions about = 平気で heiki de • diverging from = 異なる/異なる soreru/kotonaru • apprentice = 見習い弟子 minarai/deshi • injustice = 不当/不正 futōfūsei • takes considerable liberties = かなり自由に書き変える kanari jiyū ni kakikaeru • perennial = 持続的な/永久の jizokuteki-na/eikyū no • somber = 陰うつな/深刻な in'utsu-na/shinkoku-na

Lafcadio Hearn was the author of several books on Japan, beginning with Glimpses of an Unfamiliar Japan in 1894, which made him known in the West as an important interpreter of Japan. His two most famous works were published in the year of his death—Japan: An Attempt at Interpretation, and Kwaidan (怪談, romanized as Kaidan today), a collection of Japanese tales of the supernatural.

For more information on Hearn's life, as well as samples of his writing starting with his earlier days as a sensationalist newspaper reporter in Cincinnati, see Wandering Ghost: The Odyssey of Lafcadio Hearn, by Jonathan Cott. Another interesting perspective on Hearn's life in Japan is found in Michael Shapiro's In the Land of the Brokenhearted, which is, unfortunately, out of print.

Wayne Lammers, MANGAJIN Translation Editor, is a former professor of Japanese literature.

Lafcadio Hearn: a photo from the cover of Wandering Ghost: The Odyssey of Lafcadio Hearn (Kodansha), and Maekawa's manga version (obviously an older Hearn). Hearn's left eye was injured in a childhood accident, and he showed only his right side for photographs.

Natsume Sōseki: photo from the book Three Modern Novelists (Kodansha) vs. the manga character Nekome Tanseki. There are photos of Sōseki that show him with a more pointed mustache.

(This photo is from 1912.) Actually Sōseki was a pen name. His real name was Natsume Kinnosuke.

日本語ジャーナル

The Nihongo Journal

Subscriptions Now Available!

Until now, Mangajin could only sell back issues of The Nihongo Journal; but now we are proud to offer yearly subscriptions to all Mangajin readers! Forget about monthly trips to the Japanese bookstore. Forget about calling every month and ordering the latest issue. Receive The Nihongo Journal directly at your doorstep, without any hassle or delay!

The Nihongo Journal is a refreshing language aid for both classroom and independent study. All exercises are arranged according to monthly topics and reading levels. Featured subjects cover business language and writing, Japanese Language Proficiency Test preparation, tips for memorizing kanji, and much, much more!

A deal for Mangajin subscribers: Get $5.00 off your subscription to The Nihongo Journal! Just another bonus for subscribing to Mangajin!

Send your order along with payment to: Mangajin, Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065. Or call 1-800-552-3206 with Visa or MasterCard orders!

- YES! I want to subscribe to The Nihongo Journal. I understand that, as a Mangajin subscriber, I'll get 1 year (12 issues) for only $95.00.
- I'm not a Mangajin subscriber, but I'd like to get the next 12 issues of The Nihongo Journal for $100.00.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Check or Money Order enclosed.

I'll pay by... Visa Mastercard

Card No. _____ Exp. date _____

Signature _____ Tel. #: _____

Sorry, offer valid in the U.S. only.

Phone # required for all credit card orders.

1 Title:

Dai Nijū Wa: Igrisu
Story No. 20: England

- Igrisu, from Portuguese Inglés, is the traditional katakana name for England that continues to be used today, although most Japanese would also recognize, and some regularly use, イングランド Ingurando, from the English name.

Narrator:

Atsusa no kibishikatta natsu no yūmagure, Nekome Sensei wa itsu ni naku isogi-ashi de ieji o tadotte-ita.
In the evening twilight after a relentlessly hot summer day, Mr. Nekome was making his way home in an unusual hurry. (PL2)

- atsusa (“heat”) is a noun form of atsui (“hot”), and kibishikatta is the plain/abrupt past form of kibishii (“harsh/severe”). Atsusa ga/no kibishikatta is a complete thought/sentence (“the heat was severe”) modifying natsu no yūmagure (“summer evening”). No often replaces the subject marker ga in modifying clauses like this.
- yūmagure = yūgure = “evening twilight.”
- sensei, most familiar as the word for “teacher,” is used as a title (and term of address — see below) for a variety of people considered worthy of respect, including doctors, politicians, and writers.
- itsu ni naku is the adverb form of itsu ni nai, “unusual/uncommon.”
- isogi-ashi is from isogu (“hurry/rush”) and ashi (“foot/feet/leg[s]”) → “hurried steps.” De indicates method/manner, so isogitashi de is literally “with hurried steps” → “in a hurry.”
- ieji is “(one’s) way home” and tadotte-ita is from tadoru (“follow/trace”), so ieji o tadotte-ita = “was making his way home.”

Sound FX:

- Karan karakon katakon kararakon (hollow sound of wooden geta knocking and scraping against the ground)
- the more typical FX for geta (“wooden sandals/clogs”) is karan karon as seen in frame 3. The variation here presumably reflects his great hurry, which makes the sound of the geta less regular.

2 Okei:

A! Sensei.
“Hello, Mr. Nekome.” (PL2-3)

- it’s quite typical for Japanese to address others by title rather than by name — especially superiors or persons of respect.

3 Sound FX:

Karan karon karan
 (hollow sound of geta)

For background information on the characters appearing in this manga story, see the preceding pages.

© Maekawa Tsukasa, All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1990 by Take Shobō, Tōkyō. English translation rights arranged through Take Shobō.

1 Nameplate:

Nekome

2 Sanshirō:

E! Igrisu!
“What? England!?”

3 Nekome:

Fumu
“Uh-huh.” (PL2)

- fumu is only an approximation of a grunt-like utterance. It can be equivalent to un (“uh-huh/yeah”) or to fūn, an interjection showing interest/understanding, “oh?/is that so?/really?/hmm, I see.” Here it seems to be the former.

4 Nekome:

Kyō Monbushō kara Eibungaku no kenkyū no tame no ryūgaku o susumerarete na...

“Today I was urged by the Ministry of Education to (consider) study abroad for the purpose of studying English literature.”

→ “Today the Ministry of Education offered to send me to England to study English literature.” (PL2)

- Eibungaku (“English literature”) combines the first character of the kanji name for England (英国 Eikoku) with bungaku, the word for “literature/belles-lettres.” Eibungaku no kenkyū = “the study of English literature.”
- ... no tame = “for the purpose of”
- ryūgaku = “study abroad”
- susumerarete is the te form of susumerareru, the passive form of susumeru (“urge/offer”).

5 Sanshirō:

Mō... kimerareta n desu ka?
“Have you already decided?” (PL4)

- mō = “already”
- kimerareta is the plain/abrupt past form of kimerareru, a polite form of kimeru (“decide”).

6 Nekome:

Iya, mada kakutō wa shinakatta ga...

“Well no, I didn’t give them a firm answer yet, but...” (PL2)

- iya is literally “no,” but often it serves merely as a kind of “warm-up” word, like “well.” Here it seems to be a little bit of both.
- mada followed by a negative means “not yet.”
- kakutō is written with kanji meaning “definite/certain” and “answer/reply” → “firm answer.”
- shinakatta is the past form of shinai, which is the negative of suru (“do/make”).

7 Nekome:

metta-ni nai chansu da shi, maemuki ni kangaetai to omotto-ru.

“... it’s a rare chance, and I’m thinking I’d like to consider it in a forward-looking manner.”

→ “... it’s a rare opportunity, and I’m inclined to accept.” (PL2)

- metta-ni is followed by a negative to mean “rarely/seldom.” Metta-ni nai (“seldom exists”) modifies chansu (from English “chance”) → “rare chance/opportunity.”
- shi is an “and” for connecting two clauses in a compound sentence.
- kangaetai is the “want to” form of kangaeru (“consider/think about”). Maemuki is literally “faced forward,” and maemuki ni kangaeru is an idiomatic expression for “consider/think about (something) favorably/in a positive light.”
- omotto-ru is a contraction of omotte-oru, equivalent to omotte-iru (“am/is/are thinking”) from omou (“think”).

1 Nekome:
Moshi sō natta baai da ga, omae no koto wa Ōgai-kun ni demo tanomō to omotte-oru.
 “In the case that it becomes that way, I’m thinking I’ll ask a favor of Ōgai or someone regarding you.”
 → “If I do go, I plan to ask Ōgai to take you in.” (PL2)

- moshi is normally followed by a conditional form (-tara, nara, etc.), but here the phrase sō natta baai (“in the case that it becomes that way”) provides the conditional meaning.
- da ga at the end of an introductory clause can function essentially like wa (“as for”) to mark one’s topic.
- omae is an informal/abrupt word for “you” used mostly by males with their peers or subordinates. Omae no koto = “things having to do with you/about you.”
- 森鷗外 Mori Ōgai was a famous literary contemporary of Natsume Sōseki, on whom Nekome is modeled.
- -kun is an equivalent of -san (“Mr./Ms.”) used among male peers.
- demo after an object means “or something”; after a person, “or someone.”
- tanomō is the volitional (“I shall”) form of tanomu (“ask/request [a favor]”). Ni is used to mark the person being asked.

2 Nekome:
Dakara omae wa nani mo shinpai shinaide kono mama bengaku ni hagemu yō ni . . .
 “So (I want you to) go on applying yourself to your studies without worrying about a thing.” (PL2)

- dakara = “so/therefore”
- nani mo is followed by a negative to mean “not . . . at all.”
- shinpai shinaide is a negative -te form of shinpai suru (“worry”). Nani mo shinpai shinaide = “without worrying at all.”
- mama = “as is/unchanged” so kono mama means “unchanged from this/now” or “remaining this way” → “go on (doing).”
- hagemu = “strive/make an effort”
- . . . yō ni is short for something like . . . yō ni shinasai, a fairly gentle command form of . . . yō ni suru, “make it so that . . .” Yō ni is often used to give commands with the feeling of “I want you to . . .”

3 Sound FX:
Pūn
 (whine of mosquito)

4 Sound FX:
Pachi!
 Slap!

5 Sanshirō:
Igirisu ka . . .
 “England, huh?” (PL2)

1 Narrator:
Sūjitsu-go, Sanshirō wa gakumon no koto de oshie o kou tame,
Several days later, Sanshirō, in order to seek instruction on some scholarly matters, kōtō chūgaku no kōshi mo shite-irū Rafukadio Hān Sensei o Teidai no kenkyū-shitsu ni tazuneta.
visited Professor Lafcadio Hearn (who also taught at Sanshirō's higher middle school) in his office at the Imperial University. (PL2)

- oshie is the noun form of oshieru ("teach/instruct"), and kou means "ask/request/beg," so oshie o kou is literally "ask for (his) instruction"
- kōtō chūgaku (strictly speaking renamed kōtō gakkō ["higher school"] by the time Hearn was teaching at the university), was the name given in mid-Meiji to a small number of elite prep schools for entry into the imperial universities.
- Teidai is short for 帝国大学 Teikoku Daigaku, "Imperial University" — referring to Tokyo Imperial University (today's Tokyo University) in this case.
- kenkyūshitsu (literally "research room"), is the term for university faculty offices.

2 Hearn:
Hō.
"Hmm." (PL2)

- hō is an interjection showing interest/mild surprise, like "Really?/Oh?"
- using katakana for Hearn's speech is a standard device for non-native speakers — indicating, perhaps, that he speaks with an accent.

3 Hearn:
Nekome Sensei ga Igrisu ni.
"Mr. Nekome (is going) to England?" (PL2)

4 Hearn:
Sore wa medetai koto desu.
"That is a happy thing."
 "That's wonderful news." (PL3)

- medetai = "happy/joyful/auspicious"

5 Hearn:
Kimi wa dō suru no desu ka?
"What will you do?" (PL3)

Sanshirō:
Hai, tabun Ōgai Sensei ni o-sewa ni naru koto ni . . .
"Well, I think I'll probably be staying with Mr. Ōgai." (PL3)

- hai (lit. "yes") can be used like this to acknowledge a question even when it is not a yes-no question.
- sewa ni naru basically means "receive favor/aid/help." It's often used as a polite expression for staying at someone's house. O- is honorific.

 • . . . koto ni here implies . . . koto ni naru (to omoimasu), an expression meaning "(I think) it will be decided/arranged that . . ." → "I think I will probably . . ."

6 Hearn:
Fumu
"Hmm (I see)." (PL2)

7 Sound FX:
Ji ji ji ji (chirping of a kind of cicada, usually called abura-zemi)
Min min min (chirping of a kind of cicada called min min-zemi)
 • min (or min) is the most common FX for the cries/chirping of semi, or cicadas.

1 Hearn:
Kimi mo tsuite ittara?
 “Why don’t you go along?” (PL2)

- tsuite ittara is a conditional “if” form of tsuite iku (“go along/accompany”). The -tara form of a verb (literally implying “how would it be if you [do the action]”) is often used to suggest/urge that the action be done: “Why don’t you . . .”

2 Sanshirō:
E!?
 “What?!” (PL2)

3 Hearn:
Watashi, Nihon ni kite wakai hito-tachi ni Eigo ya Eibungaku o oshiete kita.
 “I came to Japan and have been teaching young people English language and English literature.” (PL2)

- as a gaijin, Hearn overuses watashi.
- kite is the -te form of kuru (“come”).
- the suffix -tachi turns nouns referring to people into plurals. Since wakai hito (“young person/people”) can be either singular or plural, adding -tachi makes it unambiguously plural.
- ya is used to mean “and” between two or more items in a list, usually implying that the list is not necessarily complete.
- oshiete is the -te form of oshieru (“teach”) and kita is the plain/abrupt past form of kuru (“come”). Kuru is often added to the -te form of verbs to indicate that the action began at sometime in the past and has continued to the present.

4 Hearn:
Watashi mo Nihongo to Nihonjin ni ōki-na eikyō o uketa.
 “I have also been greatly influenced by the Japanese language and the Japanese people.” (PL2)

Hearn:
Sore, watashi jishin no tame de mo ari, hongoku no tame de mo atta.
 “It has been for my own benefit, as well as for my country’s benefit.” (PL2)

- ōki-na is an alternate form of the adjective ōkii, “big/large.”
- uketa is the plain/abrupt past form of ukeru (“receive”). Ōki-na eikyō o uketa = “received a large influence” → “have been greatly influenced.”
- jishin = “self/oneself,” watashi jishin = “I myself,” and watashi jishin no = “my own.”
- no tame, seen above with the meaning “for the purpose of,” here means “for the good/benefit of.”
- . . . de mo ari . . . de mo aru (atta is the past form of aru) means “is both . . . and . . .” or “is . . . as well as . . .” The expression comes from de aru, a more formal equivalent of da/desu (“is/are”).

5 Hearn:
Korekara wa Nihonjin ni mo sō iu kato hitsuyō desu.
 “From now on, for Japanese people, too, that kind of thing is necessary.”
 → “In the future, Japanese people need to have that kind of experience, too.” (PL3)

- korekara is literally “from this,” meaning “from this time forward” → “from now (on)/(in)the future.”

(continued on facing page)

1 Hearn:
Nekome Sensei ni tanonde mitara dō desu?
 “Why don’t you try asking Mr. Nekome?” (PL3)

- tanonde is the -te form of tanomu (“ask/request a favor”), and mitara is a conditional “if” form of miru (“see”). Miru after a -te form gives the meaning “try (doing the action)” or “do (the action) and see what happens.”
- dō desu is a short form of dō desu ka? (“how is it?”); tanonde mitara dō desu (ka)? is literally “how would it be if you try asking?” — the full form of the conditional expression used for making a suggestion seen at the top of the facing page.

2 Sound FX:

Pocha
 Splash

Hearn:
Kore wa kimi ni totte mo chansu kamo.
 “This may be a chance for you as well.” (PL3)

- ... ni totte = “for,” and mo = “also/as well.”
- kamo is short for kamo shirenai (“might be/may possibly be”).

3 Sound FX:

Kana kana kana
 (chirping of a kind of cicada known as kanakana or higurashi)

4 Shop curtain:

Dango
 Dumplings

- dango is a generic name for boiled or steamed “dumplings” made with flour from various grains. As was customary at the time in which this story is set, the sign on the shop curtain is to be read right to left.

5 Okei:

Ocha.
 “(Have some) tea.” (PL2)

Sound FX:

Toku toku
 (“bubbling” sound of tea pouring into cup)

(continued from previous page)

6 Hearn:

Nekome Sensei ya, sore ni tsuzuku kimi-tachi ga don-don soto ni me o hiraku beki desu.

“Mr. Nekome and you fellows who follow him should more and more open your eyes to the outside.”

→ “Mr. Nekome and you youngsters who will follow in his footsteps should all broaden your horizons at every opportunity.” (PL3)

- sore, lit. “that,” here serves as a personal pronoun for Nekome Sensei → “he/him.”
- don-don means to do something “rapidly/more and more/lots and lots.”
- beki da/desu after a verb implies “should/ought to/must.”

1 Okei:
Kono mae Nekome Sensei hidoku isoide-ita kedo...
 "Mr. Nekome was in a terrible hurry the other day, (but...)" (PL2)

Okei:
nanika atta no kashira?
 "is it perhaps that something happened?"
 → "did something happen?" (PL2)

- kono mae = "before this" → "the other day"
- hidoku is the adverb form of hidoi ("terrible").
- isoide-ita is the past form of isoide-iru ("be in a hurry"), from isogu ("hurry/rush").
- nanika = "something" and atta is the plain/abrupt past form of aru ("exist[s]," or when speaking of events "occur[s]/happen[s]").
- kashira, used mostly by females, asks a conjectural question. "I wonder if/is it perhaps (that)?" The no indicates she is seeking an explanation.

2 Sanshirō:
Un.
 "Uh-huh." (PL2)

3 Sanshirō:
Sensei, Iギリス ni iku kamo shirenai n da.
 "Mr. Nekome may go to England." (PL2)

- n(o) da shows he is making an explanation.

Okei:
E!?
 "What?" (PL2)

4 Sound FX:
Kana kana kana
 (chirping of cicadas)

5 Okei:
Sanshirō-san wa?
 "What about you?" (PL2)

- Japanese often use their listener's name or title in situations where English speakers would say "you."
- stating just a topic like this with the intonation of a question asks very generally about the status or condition of that topic. This form of question can be used either when the implied question is obvious or when you're not quite sure how to formulate your question. Here Okei implies something like Sanshirō-san wa dō naru no? ("What's going to happen to you?").

6 Sanshirō:
Boku mo iku ka mo shirenai.
 "I may go, too." (PL2)

- boku is an informal "I/me" used by males when speaking with close friends and acquaintances.

7 Shop curtain:
Dango
 Dumplings

Sound FX:
Kana kana kana kana kana
 (chirping of cicadas)

1 Nekome:
Ōi, Sanshirō.
"Hey, Sanshirō!" (PL2)

Sound FX:
Gara
Rattle (short rattle of sliding door being flung open)

2 Nekome:
Monbushō kara omae o taidō suru kyōka ga orita zo.
 "Permission to have you accompany me came down from the Ministry of Education."
 → "The Ministry of Education granted me permission to take you along." (PL2)

Sanshirō:
Honto desu ka?
"Really?" (PL3)

- taidō suru is a formal word for "be accompanied by (someone)/take (someone) along." Omae o taidō suru is a complete thought/sentence ("[I] will take you along") modifying kyōka ("permission").
- orita is the plain/abrupt past form of oriru ("go/come down"). Kyōka ga oriru is a formal way to say "permission is/will be granted."
- zo is a rough masculine particle for emphasis.
- hontō ("truth") is often shortened to honto in colloquial speech. Honto desu = "is true," and honto desu ka = "Is it true?" → "Really?"

Narrator:
Igirisu-yuki o ketsui shita Sanshirō...
 Sanshirō who decided to go to England...
 → Sanshirō had decided to go to England. (PL2)

Shikashi sono mune no uchi wa, Okei-chan to no wakare o omou to, gyutto shimetsukerareru no datta.
But when he thought about parting with Okei, he felt a tightening in his chest. (PL2)

- -yuki is a suffix form of the verb iku ("go") that is attached to place names for the meaning "bound for -."
- ketsui is a noun for "decision/determination," and shita is the plain/abrupt past form of suru ("do/make"), which turns the noun into a verb.
- Igirisu-yuki o ketsui shita is a complete thought/sentence ("decided on going to England") modifying Sanshirō, so the first sentence is really just a fragment in Japanese.
- -chan is a diminutive equivalent of -san ("Mr./Ms.") used mostly with children but also used affectionately by

- adults among close friends/intimates.
- gyu! is an FX word for pushing/pressing/squeezing with considerable force. The -tto ending makes it function as an adverb.
- shimetsukerareru is the passive form of shimetsukeru ("tighten/cinch/choke").
- no datta is the past form of explanatory no da, here serving as a kind of narrative emphasis.

YOUR SHORTCUT TO PROGRESS
IN JAPANESE STARTS WITH THIS MAGAZINE.

Monthly

The Nihongo Journal

Prices within Japan
Magazine--¥600
Cassette tape--¥2,060

Do you want to improve your Japanese? Try the Nihongo Journal! Each month we cover a wide variety of subject areas, and with levels ranging from beginning to advanced, the Nihongo Journal has something for everyone. It's an effective study tool whether you're interested in everyday Japanese conversation or business Japanese for use at the office.

In addition, each month we'll introduce you to fascinating aspects of Japanese culture.

Convenient English translations accompany the Japanese text and all Kanji is written with its corresponding Hiragana underneath.

To improve your listening skills, the monthly Nihongo Journal is also available on cassette tape.

●Contents

[COLOR]

Colortopics/Traditional Art and Its World/NJ Gallery

[JAPANESE LESSONS]

Beginning Japanese/Kanji Isn't That Hard/Modern Japanese: An Integrated Course -- Introductory Edition/Going Up Against the Japanese Language Proficiency Test/Japanese Through Linguistic Functions/Vocabulary Building: The Fun Method/Course in Business Writing/News Nihongo

[INFORMATION COLUMNS]

Today's Neologisms: A Guide/AdLog/Essay/Current Event File/This Month's Guest

The Nihongo Journal is available at the following bookstores. Please contact the store nearest you for the exact price.

Hawaii

BUN BUN DO BOOKSTORE
☎808-946-9790

California

KINOKUNIYA BOOK STORES
OF AMERICA CO.,LTD
SAN FRANCISCO STORE

☎415-567-7625

NEW OTANI STORE

☎213-687-4447

LOS ANGELES STORE

☎213-687-4480

TORRANCE STORE

☎213-327-6577

BOOKS NIPPAN

☎213-687-7400

New York

TOKYO SYOTEN

☎212-697-0480

NEW YORK KINOKUNIYA

BOOK STORE

☎212-765-1461

Hong Kong

APOLLO BOOK CO.,LTD.

☎3-678482

Networking for Global Communication

ALCPRESS INC.

2-54-12 EIFUKU SUGINAMI-KU TOKYO 168 JAPAN
PHONE 03-3323-1001 FAX 03-3327-1300

課長 Kachō

島耕作 Shima Kōsaku

(Part II)

The story so far . . .

Transferred from the head office in Tokyo, our hero Shima becomes a manager in the advertising department at the Hatsushiba factory in Kyoto (Hatsushiba is a fictional company modeled loosely on Matsushita/Toshiba). A bread-making machine is their latest hit product, and the division's female employees spent a year devising recipes for it. Shima samples their bread as part of his introductory tour of the factory, but makes the mistake of criticizing the taste. The root of the problem is that Shima just doesn't like bread, but they don't know this, and relations with his co-workers have grown cold. Their snubs are subtle—his tea is served abruptly, his desk is the only one without flowers. Shima particularly notices the aloofness of one OL, Miss Suzukamo.

Meanwhile Shima's boss, Kurashige, tells him that they will soon be visited by a group of Chicago business leaders, and as an English speaker, Shima will be expected to entertain them. Kurashige wants Shima to take them to Kyoto's exclusive teahouses, where they can be entertained in the traditional style. He offers to introduce Shima to a teahouse he frequents in the elegant entertainment district called Gion.

A note about Kansai dialect

In this story, Shima has moved to the city of Kyoto, the heart of the geographical area known as Kansai 関西. Consequently he (and the reader) encounters Kansai-ben (関西弁, Kansai "dialect"). Kansai-ben has the same roots as "standard" Japanese, but has its own distinctive flavor. Hallmarks include the substitution of the suffix -ben for -nai ("wakaranai" → "wakaraben"); using oru in place of iru for the verb "to be"; saying ya instead of da ("kawaisō da" → "kawaisō ya"). There are differences even within the Kansai region: Kyoto-ben is thought to be elegant and polite, while Osaka-ben is considered somewhat coarse.

Actually, what is now called "standard" Japanese is really a modified Tokyo dialect. Since Kansai was the political and cultural center of Japan for over 1000 years, Kansai people feel that Kansai-ben is the "right" Japanese and some refuse to speak in "standard" Japanese. If you'd like to learn a little Kansai-ben, check out Kansai Japanese, by Peter Tse (Charles E. Tuttle, 1993).

© Hirokane Kenshi, All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1987 by Kōdansha, Tōkyō.
English translation rights arranged through Kōdansha.

- 1 Shima: 祇園甲部のお茶屋には初めてのお客は絶対にあがれないと聞きました。が。
Gion Kōbu no o-chaya ni wa hajimete no o-kyaku wa zettai-ni agarenai to kikimashita ga.
 (place name) 's teahouse to as-for first time (=) customers as-for absolutely cannot enter (quote) heard but
"I've heard it's absolutely impossible for a first-time customer to enter a teahouse in Gion Kōbu, but (is it true?)" (PL3)
- o-chaya (lit. "teahouse/shop") is the traditional name of the high-class restaurants where geisha entertain.
 - hajimete = "for the first time" and hajimete no (o-kyaku) = "a first time (customer)."
 - agarenai is the negative of agareru, the potential ("can/able to") form of agaru ("rise/go up"). The verb agaru is used to refer to entering private homes and traditional-style inns, restaurants, etc. where visitors take off their shoes and step up onto the main floor of the building. • kikimashita is the PL3 form of kiku ("hear").
- 2 Kurashige: そや な。ま、メンバー制のゴルフ場思うたらいい。
So ya na. Ma, membā-sei no gorufu-jō omōtara ii.
 so/that way is (colloq.) (pause) member-system (=) golf course/club if think is good/correct
"Yeah, that's right. You know, you can think of them like members-only golf courses." (PL2)
- so ya na is dialect for sō da na ("it is so"). He is responding to Shima's implied question, "is it so/true?" Ya typically replaces da ("is/are") in Kansai dialect; it feels much less abrupt than da.
 - ma is used as a kind of "verbal pause," like "well/you know."
 - omōtara is dialect for omottara, a conditional "if/when" form of omou ("think"); quotative to is often omitted in Kansai.
- 3 Kurashige: ビジターだけじゃ遊べんけど、メンバーさんに同伴してもらったらOKや。
Bijitā dake ja asoben kedo, membā-san ni dōhan shite morotara okē ya.
 visitor only if it is cannot play but member-(hon.) by if get accompanied okay is
"A visitor can't play if he's alone, but if he has a member accompany him, he can." (PL2)
- トラブルがおきた時の責任をはっきりとれる人間が必要なんや。
Toraburu ga okita toki no sekinin o hakkiri toreru ningen ga hitsuyō nan ya.
 trouble (subj.) if/when occurs off/for responsibility (obj.) clearly can take person (subj.) necessary (explan.) is "A person is necessary who can clearly take responsibility when trouble occurs." →
"They need someone they can count on to take responsibility if the visitor causes any trouble." (PL2)
- ... ja is a contraction of ... de wa, "if it is ...," so bijitā dake ja = "if it is only a visitor" → "a visitor alone."
 - asoben is a contraction of asobenai, the negative of asoberu ("can play"), from asobu ("play").
 - dōhan shite morotara is dialect for dōhan shite morattara, the -te form of dōhan suru ("accompany") plus a conditional "if/when" form of morau ("receive"). Morau after the -te form implies the action is done as a favor to/for the benefit of the subject (in this case the visitor), and ni marks who is doing the favor.
 - okita is the plain/abrupt past form of okiru ("[something] arises/occurs"). Toki means "time/time when," so toraburu ga okita toki is literally "when trouble occurred," but when the verb modifying toki is in past tense the actual meaning is often a more hypothetical "if (the action takes place)."
 - nan ya is the Kansai dialect equivalent of the explanatory na no da ("the explanation is that ...").
- 4 Kurashige: ほんまはワシクラスのレベルの人間じゃこんなところに来れへんのだよけどな...
Honma wa washi kurasu no reberu no ningen ja konna tokoro ni korehen no ya kedo na, actually/normally as-for I/me class of level of person if it is this kind of place to cannot come (explan.) but (colloq.)
"Actually, a person on the level of my position can't normally come to this kind of a place, but ..."
- オヤジが遊び人でメンバーやったさかいな、 oyaji ga asobi-nin de membā yatta sakai na, dad/old man (subj.) carouser was-and member was because (colloq.)
"because my old man was a carouser and a member, ..." (PL2)
- honma is a colloquial/dialect equivalent for hontō ("truth"); honma wa = "actually/normally."
 - korehen is dialect for korarenai, negative of korareru ("can come"), from kuru ("come"); ya kedo is dialect for da kedo ("but"); yatta = datta, past of da ("is/are"); and sakai is dialect for "because."
 - oyaji is an informal word for "father." In adult speech it usually means one's own father, and oyaji-san is used for someone else's. Oyaji remains informal even with the honorific -san, though, so it should be used with caution.
- 5 Kurashige: 親子二代でこの店使わしてもらってるんや。
oyako nidai de kono mise tsukawashite moroto-ru n ya.
 parent & child 2 generations (scope) this shop/teahouse have been granted the favor of using (explan.)
"we've had admittance to this place for two generations, from father to son." (PL2)
- Curtain: 西紋
Saimon (name)
- tsukawashite moroto-ru is a dialect equivalent of tsukawashite moratte-iru, the -te form of tsukawasu, the causative ("make/let [do]") form of tsukau ("use"), plus a form of morau ("receive"). Morau after the -te form implies the action is done as a favor for the benefit of the subject (in this case the speaker), so tsukawashite moratte-iru is literally like "[I] am being granted the favor of being permitted to use." The causative form of a verb plus morau is essentially just a humble way of saying one is doing the action indicated by that verb.

6	Kurashige: おかみ、 新人 連れてきた ぞ。 Okami, shinjin tsurete kita zo. proprietress new person brought (emph.) “Madame, I brought someone new.” (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • okami (or okami-san) is used for addressing or referring to “the mistress of the house,” especially for a woman proprietor (or proprietor’s wife) of a small shop, traditional restaurant, teahouse, etc. It was once used to refer to an ordinary housewife, but is now rarely used that way. • tsurete is from tsureru (“bring along [a person or animal]”). Kita is the plain/abrupt past of kuru (“come”). Kuru is often used after the -te form of a verb to indicate that the action of the verb moves toward the speaker’s present location, especially with verbs like tsureru where the direction is ambiguous.
7	Fuku: ようおこしやした。西紋 の フク どす。 よろしゅうに。 Yō okoshiyashita. Saimon no Fuku dosu. Yoroshū-ni. welcome (shop name) of (personal name) am (greeting) “Welcome. I’m Fuku, of Saimon. I’m pleased to meet you.” (PL4) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • yō okoshiyashita is a Kansai dialect equivalent of yoku irasshaimashita, a polite “Welcome.” • dosu is a Kansai dialect equivalent of desu (“is/are”). • yoroshū-ni is dialect for yoroshiku, the short form of the greeting yoroshiku o-negai itashimasu, which might literally be translated as “I humbly ask you to treat me favorably” (yoroshiku is the adverb form of ii/yoi [“good/fine/well”]), and itashimasu is a humble equivalent of suru, “do/make”). There’s no truly equivalent phrase in English, but the greeting’s use in introductions is essentially the same as “Pleased to meet you.”
8	Shima: は、初めまして。 島 耕作 と 申します。 Ha, hajimemashite. Shima Kōsaku to mōshimasu. f- for the first time (surname) (given name) (quote) say/be called “H- how do you do, I’m Shima Kōsaku.” (PL4) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • hajimemashite, literally meaning “(I meet you) for the first time,” is another standard part of introductions/first meetings that does not have a true equivalent in English, but its use is essentially similar to “How do you do?” • mōshimasu is from mōsu, a PL4 humble word for iu (“say/be called”).
9	Fuku: 蔵重はん とは、もう 30年 以上 も おつきあいさせてもろうとる んどす え! Kurashige-han to wa, mō sanjūnen ijō mo o-tsukiai sasete morōto-ru n dosu e! (name-hon.) with as-for already 30 years more than (emph.) have been granted the favor of associating (explan.) (emph.) “With Mr. Kurashige, I have been granted the favor of associating for over 30 years already.” → “I’ve had the pleasure of knowing Mr. Kurashige for over 30 years.” (PL3-4) Shima: はあ。 Hā. yes/uh-huh “I see.” (PL3) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • -han is dialect for -san (“Mr./Ms.”). • mo after a word indicating a number or quantity implies that number/quantity is “a lot.” • tsukai refers to a “social relationship,” and o-tsukai suru is a PL4 verb form of the word. Sasete is the -te form of saseru, causative (“make/let[do]”) of suru (“do”). Morōto-ru is dialect for moratte-iru, so o-tsukai sasete morōto-ru is another case of a causative verb plus morau, which is a humble way of saying one is doing the action mentioned. • dosu e is a dialect equivalent to desu yo (“is/are” + emph.). • hā can sound very tentative and uncertain, but in this case it is simply a polite “yes” to signal that he is listening with interest → “I see/Indeed.”
10	Shima: 不粋 ですが、こういうところは 初めて なので 今日は 勉強 させて下さい。 Busui desu ga, kō iu tokoro wa hajimete na no de, kyō wa benkyō sasete kudasai. inelegant/boorish is but this kind of place as-for first time because it is today as-for study/learn please allow me “It’s boorish of me, but this is my first time in a place like this, so please let me learn today.” (PL3) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • kudasai after the -te form of a verb makes a polite request, so sasete kudasai is “please allow me to do,” and benkyō sasete kudasai is “please allow me to study/learn.” This is essentially a polite way of asking her to teach him the proper protocol.
11	Fuku: よろしゅうおす。東京 の 人 は はっきり もの ゆうて 気持ち が よろしい な。 Yoroshū osu. Tōkyō no hito wa hakkiri mono yūte kimochi ga yoroshii na. fine is (place) of people as-for clearly/plainly thing(s) say-and feeling (subj.) is good (colloq.) “That’ll be fine. You folks from Tokyo speak plainly, and it’s refreshing.” (PL3) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • yoroshū osu is a dialect form of yoroshii desu, a polite form of ii desu, from ii/yoi (“good/well/fine”). Yoroshii at the end of the sentence is from the same word. • yūte is dialect for itte, the -te form of iu (“say”). She has omitted o, to mark the object, after mono (“thing[s]”). • when another person is called kimochi ga ii/yoroshii, it means that person gives the speaker a good feeling — i.e., he/she is “pleasant/refreshing.”

12

Narration: お茶屋 遊び の 第一歩 は、まず おかみ と の つきあい から 始まる。
O-chaya asobi no dai ippo wa, mazu okami to no tsukiai kara hajimaru.
 (hon.)-teahouse entertainment 's no. 1 step as-for first proprietress with of association/relationship from begins

The first step in teahouse entertaining begins with your relationship with the proprietress. (PL2)

おかみ は、客 の 注文 を 受け、人数 に 合わせて 部屋 を 決め、
Okami wa, kyaku no chūmon o uke, ninzū ni awasete heya o kime, proprietress as-for customer 's orders (obj.) receive-and number of people to making fit room (obj.) decides-and

酒肴 の セッティング を する ポジション だ。 shukō no settingu o suru pojishon da.

drink & food of setting/choosing (obj.) do position is

As for the madame, (her) position is taking the customer's order, choosing a room fitting the number of people, and setting the food and drink.

→ The proprietress takes the customer's order, assigns a room in accordance with the size of the group, and determines (exactly what kind of) food and drink will be served. (PL2)

この おかみ を おさえておく ことが、この 世界 で モテる コツだ と 言える。
Kono okami o osaete oku koto ga, kono sekai de moteru kotsuda to ieru.

this proprietress (obj.) keep held down/controlled (nom.) (subj.) this world in be well liked trick is (quote) can say

You could say the trick to being well liked in this world (of teahouse entertaining) is to keep the proprietress on your side. (PL2)

- uke is the stem of ukeru ("receive/take"), functioning as a continuing form, "receive/take and . . ." Kime is the stem of kimeru ("decide/choose"), functioning in the same way.
- the complex complete sentence between kyaku ("customer") and suru ("do") altogether modifies pojishon ("position," a katakana rendering of the English).
- osaete oku is from osaeru ("hold down/get control of"). Oku ("set/place/leave") after the -te form of another verb means to do the action of the verb and maintain the result, generally for some future purpose. Osaete oku essentially refers to winning the proprietress over as an ally.
- koto (lit. "thing") works as a "nominalizer" that turns the preceding phrase into a noun ("keeping control of this madame"), and ga marks this noun as the subject of the sentence.

13

Narration: 部屋 に 通されると、酒 と 簡単な つき出し が 用意され、
Heya ni tōsareru to, sake to kantan-na tsukidashi ga yōi sare, room to be shown to when/after sake/drink and simple hors d'oeuvres (subj.) are prepared/served-and

舞妓、芸妓 が 来る の を 待つ。 maiko, geiko ga kuru no o matsu.

dancing girl/geisha apprentice geisha (subj.) come (nom.) (obj.) wait

After you are shown to a room, sake and simple hors d'oeuvres are served, and (you) wait for the arrival of the maiko and geisha. (PL2)

- tōsareru is the passive form of tōsu ("put/lead/show through [to]"). To after a verb can mean "when/after" the action takes place.
- yōi = "preparations" and yōi suru is its basic verb form, "make preparations/prepare." Yōi sare is the stem of the passive form of the verb, yōi sareru ("are prepared"), again functioning as a continuing form. In this case saying "hors d'oeuvres are prepared" implies they are "served."
- geiko is the term used in Kyōto for geisha, female entertainers trained in traditional Japanese music and dance, while maiko, "dancing girls," are apprentice geisha. They can be distinguished by their differing kimono and hairstyles.
- no is a "nominalizer" that turns maiko, geisho ga kuru ("maiko and geisha come") into a noun; o marks this noun as the object of matsu ("wait").

14

Maiko: 今晚は。

Konban wa.

"Good evening." (PL3)

Narration: 舞妓 は 人数 が 少ない ので 予約しておかなければ
Maiko wa ninzū ga sukunai no de yoyaku shite okanakereba dancing girls as-for number of people (subj.) is few because/so if don't reserve ahead

まず 座敷 に 呼ぶ ことは出来ない。 mazu zashiki ni yobu koto wa dekinai.

nearly/scarcely banquet room to summon/call cannot/be unable to

There aren't many maiko, so unless you reserve ahead of time it's nearly impossible to have one come to your banquet room. (PL2)

- yoyaku = "reservation" and yoyaku suru = "make a reservation." Shite okanakereba is from suru ("do/make") and a negative conditional ("if not") form of oku ("set/place/leave"), which after the -te form of a verb implies doing/maintaining the action (or its result) for a future purpose: "if don't reserve ahead of time."
- above, mazu meant "first of all/to begin with," but when followed by a negative potential form ("cannot/be unable to"), as here, it means "nearly (impossible)/scarcely (possible)."
- . . . koto wa dekinai is the negative form of the expression . . . koto ga dekiru, meaning "can/be able to (do)."

今日は舞妓の他に
立方の芸妓と地方の芸妓を呼んだ
「祇園小唄」「梅にも春」を舞ってもらう

15

仕出し屋から料理が
届けられたところで
宴が始まる 舞妓 芸妓の酌を受け
たわいもない戯言に しばし時を忘れるのだ

16

舞妓といっても化粧をこれば 高校生ぐらいの年齢の女の子だ
たいして話題があるわけではないが 舞踊の世界や梨園の話題になると
やはりプロフェシヨナルである
なまじの知識ではついてゆけない

17

18

15

Narration: 今日 は 舞妓 の他に 立方の 芸妓 と 地方の 芸妓 を 呼んだ。
Kyō wa maiko no hoka ni tachikata no geiko to jikata no geiko o yonda.
 today as-for apprentice besides dancing geisha and accompanying geisha (obj.) called/summoned
Today, they called in not only a maiko but a dancing geisha and an accompanist. (PL2)

「祇園 小唄」 「梅にも春」 を舞ってもらう。
"Gion Kouta" "Ume ni mo Haru" o matte morau.
 (place name) ditty/ballad apricot/plum to also/even spring (obj.) have [them] dance

They danced "Gion Ballad" and "Even to the Plums (Comes) Spring" for us. (PL2)

Song: 月 は 朧にー...

Tsuki wa oboro-ni-
 moon as-for mistily/hazily

"The mo-o-on (rises/shines) hazily..."

• matte is the -te form of mau ("dance"); morau after the -te form of a verb means the action was done for the speaker/subject, either by request ("they had [the geisha] dance... for them") or more spontaneously ("[the geisha] danced... for them").

16

Narration: 仕出し屋 から 料理 が 届けられた ところで、宴 が 始まる。
Shidashi-ya kara ryōri ga todokerareta tokoro de, utage ga hajimaru.
 caterer from food (subj.) was delivered place/point at banquet (subj.) begins
The banquet begins when the food is delivered from the caterer. (PL2)

舞妓、芸妓の 酌 を 受け、たわいもない 戯言に しばし 時 を 忘れる のだ。
Maiko, geiko no shaku o uke, tawai mo nai zaregoto ni shiboshi toki o wasureru no da.
 apprentice geisha 's sake pouring (obj.) receive nonsensical/silly in jokes/playful banter a while time (obj.) forget (explan.)
"We receive the sake pouring of the maiko and geisha, and in silly jokes forget the time awhile."

→ With the maiko and geisha pouring, we lost ourselves for a time in nonsensical banter. (PL2)

- todokerareta ("was delivered") is the plain/abrupt past form of todokerareru, from todokeru ("deliver").
- tokoro is literally "place," but here it refers to a "place/point in time," so... -ta tokoro de means "when (the action took place)." Todokerareta tokoro de means "when (the food) was delivered."
- uke is the stem form of ukeru ("receive"), here functioning as a continuing form: "receive, and..."

17

Narration: 舞妓 と いても 化粧 を とれば 高校生 ぐらいの 年齢 の 女の子 だ。
Maiko to itte mo keshō o toreba kōkōsei gurai no nenrei no onna no ko da.
 maiko (quote) even though called makeup (obj.) if remove high schooler about of age of girl(s) is/are
Though they may be called maiko, if you remove their makeup they're just girls of about high school age. (PL2)

たいして 話題 がある わけ ではない が、舞踊 の 世界 や 梨園 の 話題
Taishite wadai ga aru wake de wa nai ga, buyō no sekai ya rien no wadai
 [not] very much conversation topics (subj.) have situation is not but dance of world and theatrical world of topic

になると やはり プロフェッショナル である。 ni naru to yahari purofeshonaruru de aru.
 if/when becomes after all/sure enough professional(s) is/are

So it's not as if they have a lot to talk about, but when talk turns to the world of dance or the theater, they are, after all, professionals. (PL2)

なまじの 知識 で は ついてゆけない。
Namaji no chishiki de wa tsuite yukenai.
 incomplete/superficial knowledge with as-for cannot follow/keep up

You can't keep up with just a superficial knowledge. (PL2)

- ... to itte mo = "even if one says/calls (them)..." from iu ("say").
- toreba is a conditional "if/when" form of toru ("take/remove").
- taishite is followed by a negative to mean "not very much."
- wake = "situation/reason/explanation" and the expression ... wake de wa nai means "it's not the case that..." → "it's not as if..."
- tsuite yukenai is the negative potential ("cannot...") form of tsuite yuku (or tsuite iku, "follow").

18

Kurashige: 京舞 なら、 地唄舞 が いちばん やな。
Kyōmai nara, jūta-mai ga ichiban ya na.
 Kyoto dance if it is local ballad/folk song dance (subj.) no. 1 is, isn't it?

"In traditional Kyōto dancing, the local ballad dances are best, aren't they." (PL2)

Maiko: 能 に 通じる ところ がある んどす。舞 に 色気 を 出したら あきまへん。
Nō ni tsūjiru toko ga aru ndosu. Mai ni iroke o dashitara akimahen.
 nō drama with have in common aspects (subj.) exist (explan.) dance in sensuality (obj.) if put out is no good

"They have a lot in common with nō drama. You musn't show sensuality in the dance." (PL2)

- nara (lit. "if it is") often serves to mark the topic, essentially like wa, "as for": Kyōmai nara = "as for traditional Kyōto dance..."
- jūta can refer either to "local ballads/folk songs" or to any song that accompanies a dance. Since Kyōmai apparently always has an accompanying song, we assume he's referring to those dances accompanied by local ballads.
- ... ga ichiban da (or ya in Kansai) is literally "... is number one," meaning "... is best."
- toko is a contraction of tokoro, literally "place(s)" but here meaning "aspects/characteristics/qualities."
- dashitara is a conditional "if/when" form of dasu ("put out/show/exude"), and akimahen is Kansai dialect for ikemusen ("is no good/not acceptable"). The phrase -tara akimahen is literally "is no good if..." → "is not acceptable/permissible to..." → "you must not..."

19	Narration: 宴 は 大体 2時間 で 終わる。 Utage wa daitai nijikan de owaru. banquet as-for approx. 2 hours in be finished The banquet lasts about two hours. (PL2) 費用 は 思った より 安く、銀座 の 超一流 クラブ と 大差 ない。 Hiyō wa omotta yori yasuku, Ginza no chō-ichiryū kurabu to taisa nai. fee/cost as-for thought (compare) inexpensive (place name) off/in ultra-first rate night club with great difference not have The cost was less than I thought it would be, not much different from an ultra high-class night club in Ginza. (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> the particle de is used to indicate scope — in this case, scope of time: nijikan de = “in two hours.” omotta is the plain/abrupt past form of omou (“think”), and yori is attached to the lesser of two things being compared, but with words like yasui (“inexpensive”) one must be careful not to get things turned around. Here, omotta (“[the amount he] thought/expected”) was “less inexpensive” — i.e., “more expensive” — than the actual charges, which is to say, the actual charges were less than he had expected. Tokyo’s Ginza is famous for its night clubs, including some of the most expensive in Japan (or, no doubt, anywhere). 超 chō- is used as a prefix like “super-/extra-/ultra-,” so chō-ichiryū implies the very top of the “first rank.”
20	Sound FX: ブロロロロ... Bu ro ro ro ro... (sound of engine as car pulls away)
21	Shima: ふう。 Fū. “Whew.” (PL2) Fuku: お疲れさん ですよ。 Otsukare-san dosu. (hon.)-tiredness-(hon.) is “You must be tired.” (PL3)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> otsukare-san comes from the verb tsukareru, “become/grow tired,” so otsukare-san dosu/desu could literally be translated “You are a Mr. Tiredness.” The expression is typically used to thank/show sympathy to the listener for efforts that are presumed to have tired him out.
22	Shima: いえ、まだ 楽 ですよ。 Ie, mada raku desu yo. no still ease/comfort is (emph.) “No, this is nothing yet.” (PL3) これから 外国人 の お客 を お連れすれば、いろいろな しきたり が Korekara gaikokujin no o-kyaku o o-tsure sureba, iroiro-na shikitari ga in the future foreigners (=) (hon.)-visitors/clients (obj.) if/when bring various customs/traditions (subj.) わからない から ご迷惑 を かけそうで 心配です。 wakaranai kara go-meiwaku o kakesō de shinpai desu. don't know because (hon.)-annoyance/trouble (obj.) because may cause am worried “In the future, when I bring foreign clients, I/they may cause annoyance because they don’t know various customs, so I am worried.” → “I’m more concerned that when I come with foreign clients in the future, I/they might be a nuisance to you because they don’t know how to behave.” (PL3) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> otsure sureba is a conditional form of otsure suru, a PL4 version of tsurete kuru (“bring along” a person or animal). meiwaku refers to “nuisance” caused by one person to another and the expression meiwaku o kakeru means “cause trouble/annoy/be a nuisance.” Using the -sō ending with a verb implies “looks like (the action will take place)” → “the action may occur.” De can indicate the cause or reason for the next mentioned action/situation — i.e., in this case the reason for his concern. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> mada raku desu implies “is still (within the scope of what can be called) at ease/in comfort” → “is nothing yet.”
23	Fuku: そんな こと おへんで。 Sonna koto ohen de. that kind of thing not exist (emph.) “That’s not true.” (PL3) 外国 の 人は、作法 は 知らなくても Gaikoku no hito wa, sahō wa shiranakute mo foreign country of persons as-for etiquette as-for even though don't know 初めての 日本人 より むしろ お行儀 は 出来てはります。 hajimete no nihonjin yori mushiro o-gyōgi wa dekite-harimasu. first time (=) Japanese (compare) rather (hon.)-behavior as-for is mature “Even though they don’t know the etiquette, foreigners actually behave more appropriately than first-time Japanese.” (PL3) すぐ ネクタイゆるめたり は しまへんで。 Sugu nekutai yurumetari wa shimahen de. immediately necktie things like loosen as-for don't do (emph.) “They don’t do things like loosening their ties right away.” → “They don’t go loosening their ties right away.” (PL3)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ohen de is a dialect equivalent of arimasen yo, the PL3 form of nai, “not exist,” + emphatic yo. Sonna koto nai means “That’s not true.” mushiro (“it’s rather that . . .”) is used when asserting something contrary to expectations or to what has been said/ implied. dekite-harimasu is a dialect equivalent of dekite-imasu, the PL3 form of dekite-iru (“be mature/fully developed,” from dekiru, “be completed”). yurumetari is from yurumeru (“loosen”); the -tari form of a verb is followed by a form of suru (“do”) to make an expression meaning “do things like —.” Shimahen is dialect for shimasen, the PL3 negative of suru.

(continued on following page)

(continued from previous page)

24	Shima: は。 Ha. “Huh?” (PL2) Narration: うへ。 はやくも 1本 とられた。 Uhe. Hayaku mo ippan torareta. (exclam.) so quickly/already 1 point was taken Yow, she’s already got one on me. (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • hayaku is the adverb form of hayai (“fast/quick”) and mo adds emphasis: “so quickly/already.” • 本 hon (or -bon or -pon depending on the number it follows) is a counter suffix used for points in certain kinds of competitions. Toru (“take/capture”) is the associated verb, so ippan toru = “gain a point.” Torareta is the plain/abrupt past form of torareru, the passive form of toru, which refers to being scored on by one’s opponent. Of course Shima is using the phrase figuratively here, meaning she has already caught him in one faux pas.
25	Sound FX: パシャパシャッ Pasha pasha! Splash splash
26	Shima: まいった な。 すごい 雨 だ。 Maitta na. Sugoi ame da. be at a loss (emph.) amazing/terrible rain is “I’m in a fix. It’s a terrible rain.” → “This is terrible! It’s really coming down.” (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • maitta is the plain/abrupt past form of mairu, “to be dumbfounded/at a loss/in a fix.”
27	Narration: ふう。 どっと 疲れた。 Fū. Dotto tsukareta. (sigh) (sudden rush FX) became tired Whew. Suddenly I’m exhausted. (PL2) 事業部長 の 相手 に加えて、 祇園 の しきたり に 気を遣って くれた だ。 Jigyō buchō no aite ni kuwaete, Gion no shikitari ni ki o tsukatte kutakuta da. general manager off/for companion in addition to (place name) of customs/traditions about be anxious worn out am Besides humoring the general manager, I’m worn out from worrying about the customs of Gion. (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • dotto is an FX word representing a sudden massive rush, such as a large number of people pushing through a door that has just been opened, or a wave of feeling that sweeps over a person. • tsukareta is the plain/abrupt past form of tsukareru (“grow tired”). • jigyō basically means “an enterprise/business,” and a jigyō-bu is a division of a corporation engaged in the operations that give the business its reason for being. The suffix chō means “head/chief,” and a buchō, literally “department head,” typically corresponds to a “general manager” or a “vice-president” in an American corporation, so jigyō buchō could be translated generically as “general manager for operations” or “vice-president in charge of operations.” We learned in the last episode, however, that Kurashige is general manager more specifically of the dennetsu-ki jigyo-bu, “electrothermic equipment manufacturing department.” • kuwaete is the -te form of kuwaeru (“add to”); ... ni kuwaete = “in addition to/besides.” • ki o tsukatte is the -te form of ki o tsukau, literally “use one’s mind/attention,” an expression for “being anxious about” something. Using the -te form here implies this is the cause for his feeling worn out.
28	Narration: 少し この 軒 で 雨やどりを していこう。 Sukoshi kono noki de amayadori o shite ikō. a little this/these eaves at shall take shelter from rain I think I’ll take shelter from the rain under these eaves for a minute. (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • amayadori is a noun referring to the act of taking shelter from the rain; its basic verb form is amayadori (o) suru, and its -te form is amayadori (o) shite. Ikō is the volitional (“let’s/I think I’ll”) form of iku (“go”), which following the -te form of another verb implies one will leave after doing the action.
29	Shima: チェッ、マッチ が ない や。 Che! Matchi ga nai ya. (exclam.) matches (subj.) not have (emph.) “Darn, I don’t have any matches.” (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • che! is an exclamation of chagrin, a little rougher sounding than “rats!/darn!” but not obscene.

30

Woman: マッチ なら これ を お使いやす。
Matchi nara kore o o-tsukai yasu.
 matches if it is this/these (obj.) (hon.)-use please
 “If it’s matches, please use these.”
 → “Did you say you needed some matches? Please use these.” (PL4)

Matchbox: すず鴨
Suzukomo
 (name)
Suzukamo

- nara is a conditional particle meaning “if/when” (or after a noun, “if/when it is”). It’s sometimes used to repeat something that’s just been said as the topic for a response, like “if you mean . . . , then . . .” It can be thought of as similar to the topic marker wa (“as for”), so we could translate this sentence simply as “Please use these matches.”
- yasu in Kansai dialect makes a polite command, so it is like “please (do the action).”

31

FX: ニコッ
Niko! (effect of cheerful smile)

Woman: また 雨 の 日 にお逢いしました ね。
Mata ame no hi ni o-ai shimashita ne.
 again rain of day on (hon.)-met (colloq.)
 “Once again we’ve met on a rainy day, haven’t we?” (PL4)

- o-ai shimashita (PL4) = aimashita (PL3) = atta (PL2), all of which are past forms of au (“meet”). For most verbs, the honorific prefix o- plus the stem of the verb (the PL3 form without the -mashita) plus suru (“do”) creates PL4 verbs that are considered humble (i.e., they express politeness by humbling the action of the speaker). As seen in the previous frame, replacing suru with kudasai (or yusu in Kansai) in this pattern makes a PL4 request.

32

Shima: あ、あなた、あの時 の!
A, anata, ano toki no!
 y-you that time ’s
 “Y- you’re (the one) from that other time!” (PL2)

Woman: そう、先日 都をどりの 帰り道で 傘 に 入れてもろうた 女 です。
Sō. Senjitsu Miyako Odori no kaerimichi de kasa ni irete morōta onna desu.
 is so the other day (event name) from on way home umbrella under had you let me in woman am “That’s right, I’m the woman you shared your umbrella with on the way home from the Miyako Odori dances the other day.” (PL3)

- the Miyako Odori are a series of geisha dance performances held in Gion from April 1 to May 15 each year. をどり is the old spelling for おどり odori, “dance(s)/dancing,” which continues to be used in the name of this traditional event.
- . . . no kaerimichi = “the way home from . . .”; adding de makes it “on the way home from . . .”
- irete morōta = irete moratta, the plain/abrupt past form of irete morau, from ireru (“bring/put/let in”) and morau (“receive”), which indicates the speaker received the action as a favor. Kasa ni ireru (literally “put/let in under an umbrella”) essentially means “share an umbrella.”
- senjitsu Miyako Odori no kaerimichi de kasa ni irete morōta is a complete thought/sentence (“[I] had you let me in under your umbrella on the way home from the Miyako Odori the other day”) modifying onna (“woman”).

33

Woman: どうですか。今度は 私の 傘 にはいりまへんか?
Dō desu ka. Kondo wa watashi no kasa ni hairimahen ka?
 how about it? this time as-for my umbrella under won’t you come in “How would it be? This time won’t you come in under my umbrella?”
 → “This time won’t you share my umbrella?” (PL3)

Shima: は?
Ha?
 “Excuse me?” (PL3)

- hairimahen ka = hairimasen ka = “won’t you come in?” Kasa ni hairimusen ka? (or more informally, kasa ni hairanai ka?) is the phrase used to offer to share an umbrella.
- ha spoken with the rising intonation of a question is a polite “What’s that?/Excuse me?” when you didn’t understand clearly what was said.

34

Woman: ここ、私の お店 なんですよ。
Koko, watashi no o-mise na n desu yo.
 here/this place my shop (explan.) is (emph.)
 “This is my shop.” (PL3)

- mise can refer to any kind of shop, restaurant, or bar.
- na n(o), the form explanatory no takes after nouns, shows that she is explaining herself.
- yo is an emphatic particle used especially when asserting/revealing something you think your listener doesn’t know.

35

Shima: そりゃ いい考え だ。
Sorya ii kangae da.
 as for that good/fine idea is “That’s a great idea.” (PL2)

- sorya is a contraction of sore wa (“as for that”).

36

Shima: うわ! 京都 らしくて いい 店 だ!
Uwa! Kyōto rashikute ii mise da!
 (exclam.) (place name) is like-and good/fine shop is “Wow! It’s really Kyoto-like, and nice.” (PL2)

- rashikute is the -te form of rashii. Kyōto rashii means “Kyoto-like” in the sense of “like one expects Kyoto to be.” Using the -te form to connect to ii (“good/fine/nice”) implies an element of cause-effect: the shop is nice at least partly because it is Kyoto-like.

37

Woman: おおきに! 水割り で よろしい か?
Ōkini! Mizuwari de yoroshii ka?
 thank you whiskey and water with good/fine ?
“Thank you. Would a whiskey and water be all right?” (PL2-4)

- ōkini is Kansai dialect for “thank you.”
- mizuwari is a combination of the words mizu (“water”) and wari, from the verb 割る waru, meaning “dilute/divide/cut.” Unless another kind of liquor is specified, mizuwari refers to whiskey diluted with water.
- yoroshii is a PL4 equivalent of ii/yoi (“good/fine/okay”).

38

Shima: はい! / このあたりの 飲み屋さん は 大体 会員制 なん ですか?
Hai! / Kono atari no nomiya-san wa daitai kaiin-sei nan desu ka?
 yes this area 's drinking establishments-(hon.) as-for mostly membership system (explan.) is/are ?
“Yes. Are most of the drinking places around here for members only?” (PL3)

39

Woman: 半々 でっしゃるか。私んところは 芸妓 時代の お客はん が
Hanhan desshara ka. Watashi n toko wa geiko jidai no okyaku-han ga half & half is it perhaps? my place as-for geisha era/days off/from (hon.)-customers-(hon.) (subj.)
 ついててくれはりますんで、少数の 会員制 で やってゆける んです。 tsuite-te kureharimasu n de, shōsū no kaiin-sei de yatte yukeru n desu.
 remain attached for me because small number of membership system with can carry on business (explan.)
“I’d guess maybe half and half. In the case of my shop, customers from my geisha days have been kind enough to stick with me, so I’m able to carry on business with a limited membership.” (PL4)

- desshara ka is a dialect equivalent of the conjectural deshō ka (“is it perhaps?”).
- n is a contraction of possessive no, and toko is a contraction of tokaro (“place”), here referring to the shop, so watashi n toko = “my shop.”
- okyaku-han = okyaku-san = “customers/clients”
- tsuite-te is a contraction of tsuite-ite, from tsuku, literally “be attached,” and also used for the meaning of “wait upon/accompany/follow.” In this case the English phrase “have stuck with me” can similarly include the latter meanings. Kureharimasu is a more polite dialect equivalent of kuremasu, from kureru, “give (to me),” which after the -te form of a verb means “(kindly) do for me.”
- n de is a contraction of no de, which means “because/so.”
- yatte yukeru is an alternate form of yatte ikeru, from yaru (“do”) and ikeru (“can go,” from iku, “go”). Yatte ikeru has the idiomatic meaning of “can manage/carry on (an activity).”

40

Woman: でも、おかげで 雨 なんかも 降ると 店 は この通り... 寂しい こと。
Demo. okage de ame nanka furu to mise wa kono tōri sabishii koto.
 but as a result rain something like if/when falls shop as-for exactly like this lonely thing
“But because of that, when it rains or something the shop is just like this — so lonely.” (PL2)

Woman: どうぞ。 Dōzo.
 please
“Here you are.” (PL3)

Sake Bottles: 白鹿
Hakushika
White Stag

- okage refers to “indebtedness” (the o- is actually honorific, but cannot be dropped in this use), and okage de means “thanks to” → “as a result of.”
- nanka is a colloquial nado (“such as”); ame nanka = “rain or something.”
- to after a verb can have a conditional “if/when” meaning.
- tōri (or no tōri) follows a variety of words to mean “like/exactly as.”
- sabishii, literally “lonely,” can be used to describe any situation where the number of people present are fewer than one would like.
- koto (“thing”) here serves merely as emphasis.

41	Woman: へえ、ハツシバさんの方ですか。 Hē, Hatsushiba-san no kata desu ka. (exclam.) (name-hon.) off/from person is it?/are you? "Oh, so you're a person from Hatsushiba?" → "Oh, so you work for Hatsushiba." (PL3)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • hē can range from a lightly exclamatory "Wow!/Gee!/How about that!" to an even milder (but genuine) show of interest, "Really?/Oh?/Hmm." • the honorific -san can be used with company names, just as it is with individual names. • kata, which originally meant "direction," is a polite word for "person" — more polite than hito. • the question indicated by ka is rhetorical. She is acknowledging, not questioning, the information he has given.
42	Shima: そう。ハツシバでもいろいろあって、 Sō. Hatsushiba de mo iroiro atte, is so/yes (name) at even various things exist-and パンメーカーを作っている工場に勤務しています。 pan mēkā o tsukutte-iru kōjō ni kinmu shite-masu. bread makers (obj.) are making factory at am working "That's right. Even within Hatsushiba there are various units, though, and I work at a factory that manufactures bread makers." (PL3) Shima: 知ってる? パンメーカー? Shitte-ru? Pan mēkā? know bread makers "Do you know of them? Bread makers?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • iroiro is a noun meaning "various items/kinds," and atte is the -te form of aru ("be/exist" for inanimate things), so iroiro atte = "there are various divisions/units." • tsukutte-iru is from tsukuru ("make"). Pan mēkā o tsukutte-iru is a complete thought/sentence modifying kōjō ("factory"). • kinmu shite-(i)masu is the PL3 form of kinmu shite-iru, from kinmu suru, which means "work/be on duty." • shitte-(i)ru ("know/be familiar with") is from shiru ("learn/come to know").
43	Woman: 知ってますよ。有名ですもん。 Shitte-masu yo. Yūmei desu mon. know (emph.) famous is because "Yes, I do. (Because) they're famous." (PL3) Woman: 島耕作さん。いいお名前ね。 Shima Kōsaku-san. Ii o-namae ne. (surname-given name-hon.) good/nice (hon.)-name (colloq. emph.) "Mr. Shima Kōsaku. That's a nice name." (PL2-3) Bottles: 白鹿 Hukushika White Stag	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • shitte-(i)masu is the PL3 form of shitte-iru. • mon is a contraction of mono, used here as an explanatory form, "because." • ne by itself can serve as desu ne ("is, isn't it") in colloquial speech. Here ne is best thought of as providing emphasis; she's not really asking him to confirm her statement.
44	Shima: でもさ、就任 そうそう 工場の Demo sa, shūnin sōsō kōjō no but you know taking up post immediately/promptly factory 's 女子社員に総スカンくらって大変なんだ。 joshi shain ni sōsukan kuratte taihen nanda. female employees by be disliked by all-and terrible (explan.) is "But, you know, I'm having a terrible time of it because as soon as I arrived I won the dislike of all the female employees at the plant." (PL2) Woman: あら!? どうして? Ara!? Dō shite? (interj.) why? "Oh? Why is that?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • sa (or sometimes sā) is a particle used colloquially as a verbal pause to draw attention to the preceding word, something like "you know" in English. • shūnin is a noun referring to the act of arriving at and taking up a new post of employment. • sōsukan refers to a situation of being disliked by everyone, and sōsukan o kurau (or kuai) is an expression meaning "win everyone's dislike." Kuratte is the -te form kurau, which is an informal word for "eat/drink"; using the -te form implies a cause-effect relationship between sōsukan o kurau and taihen, which refers to a serious or troublesome situation.
45	Shima: 彼女達が 汗水流して 作りあげたパンを Kanojo-tachi ga asemizu nagashite tsukuriageta pan o those women (subj.) by sweat of brow produced bread (obj.) 事情も 知らずに "まずい" なんて jijō mo shirazu ni "mazui" nante circumstances even without knowing tastes bad (quote) 言っちゃったんです。 itchimatta n desu. said-(regret) (explan.) "Without (even) knowing the circumstances, I made the mistake of saying the bread the women had made by the sweat of their brow wasn't good." (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • kanojo = "she/her," and -tachi makes it plural → "they/those women." • tsukuriageta is the plain/abrupt past form of tsukuriageru, from tsukuru ("make") and -ageru, which as a suffix can mean "finish" → "bring the making to completion." Tsukuriageru carries a feeling of greater effort than just tsukuru. • shirazu ni = shiranaide, "without knowing." • nante is a quotative form that implies the statement was "foolish/ridiculous" or otherwise inappropriate. Itchimatta is a contraction of itte shimatta. Shimatta after the -te form of a verb implies the action was unfortunate/regrettable.
46	Woman: ま、それは大変。で、どうなされたの? Ma, sore wa taihen. De, dō nasatta no? (exclam.) that as-for terrible and so what/how did (explan.-?) "Oh my, that's too bad. So what did you do?" (PL4)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • de is short for the conjunctive phrase, sore de, lit. "and with that" → "and so." • nasatta is the plain past form of nasaru, a PL4 equivalent of suru ("do").

47	Shima: まず 自分 が パン を 好き にならなきゃいけない。 Mazu jibun ga pan o suki ni naranakya ikenai. first oneself/! (subj.) bread (obj.) must get to like “First I have to get so I like bread.” (PL2) そう思って 毎日 こっそりパンばかり 食ってます。 Sō omotte mainichi kossori pan bakari kutte-masu. that way thinking every day secretly bread only am eating “With that in mind, I’m secretly eating nothing but bread every day.” (PL2) Bottles: 白鹿 Hakushika White Stag	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • jibun = “oneself,” or “me/myself,” “he/himself,” “you/yourself,” “they/themselves,” etc., depending on the context. • naranakya ikenai is a “must/have to” form of naru (“become/get so that”). Suki ni naru means “grow to like.” • sō omotte (from omou, “think”) is literally “thinking that way” → “with that in mind.” • kutte-(i)masu is the PL3 form of kutte-iru, (“am eating”) from kuu (“eat,” informal and mostly masculine). Bakari replaces the object marker o to mark pan (“bread”) as the “exclusive” thing being eaten.
48	Woman: うん、それ、とってもいい考え。その姿を見たら Un, sore, tottemo ii kangae. Sono sugata o mitara yes/uh-huh that very good idea that appearance (obj.) if see 会社の女の子たちもきっとわかってくれるわ。 kaisha no onna no ko-tachi mo kitto wakotte kureharu wa. company’s girls also surely will understand (fem. colloq.) “Yes, that’s a wonderful idea. If they see you doing that, I’m sure the girls at work will understand (your good intentions).” (PL3-4)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • sugata, literally “appearance/figure,” refers essentially to the way something looks — including not only static appearance but actions as well, so sono sugata (lit. that sight/appearance”) here means “the sight of (you doing) that.” • mitara is a conditional “if/when” form of miru (“see”). • wakotte is the -te form of wakoru (“come to know/understand”), and kureharu is a more polite dialect equivalent of kuremasu, the PL3 form of kureru, which after the -te form of a verb implies “do for (you).”
49	Shima: いや、そんなところを見られるのはイヤなんだ。 Iya, sonna tokoro o mirareru no wa iya nanda. no that kind of place (obj.) be seen (nom.) as-for disagreeable (explan.) is “No, being seen in that kind of act is disagreeable.” → “No, I don’t want them to see me doing it.” (PL2) なんか努力する姿を他人に見られるって恥ずかしいでしょう。 Nanka doryoku suru sugata o tanin ni mirareru tte hazukashii deshō. somehow make effort appearance (obj.) other people by be seen (quote)/as-for is embarrassing isn’t it? “It’s kind of embarrassing to have other people see you making an effort at something, don’t you think?” (PL3) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • tokoro literally means “place,” but it’s often used abstractly to refer to a situation/action/etc. • mirareru is the passive form of miru (“see”); sonna tokoro o mirareru = “be seen doing that kind of thing.” • iya means the speaker finds something disagreeable and therefore rejects it. • nanka (or nanika) means “something,” but it’s also used idiomatically with adjectives to mean “(is) somehow/vaguely/kind of -.” We can’t be entirely sure here which meaning is intended, but since both are appropriate to the context we worked them both in: nanka doryoku suru = “make an effort at something” and nanka . . . hazukashii = “kind of embarrassing.” • tte is a colloquial equivalent of the quotative phrase to iu no wa, which here is just a fancy wa (“as for”). • deshō literally makes a conjecture (“probably/surely is”), but it can imply the speaker assumes agreement from the listener: “isn’t it?/don’t you think?”
50	Woman: うふっ。男の人のそういう見栄って可愛いわ。 Ufu! Otoko no hito no sō iu mie tte kawaii wa. (chuckle) men’s that kind of vanity (quote) cute (fem. colloq.) “(Chuckle) That kind of male vanity is cute.” → “(Chuckle) It’s so cute when men show their vanity.” (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • otoko no hito no (“men”) and sō iu (“that kind of”) separately modify mie, which refers to a person’s effort to “keep up appearances” → “vanity.” • agatta is the plain/abrupt past form of agaru (“rise up”), which is used idiomatically with ame (“rain”) to mean “stop raining.” • sorosoro literally means “gradually/by and by,” but it’s frequently used in situations like this to mean “It’s about time for (me to leave)/I’d better be (leaving).”
51	Shima: 雨もあがったし、そろそろ帰ります。 Ame mo agatta shi, sorosoro kaerimasu. rain (emph.) has stopped and by and by will leave/go home “The rain has stopped, so I’d best be on my way.” (PL2)
52	Woman: ね、また来て下さいね。 Ne, mata kite kudasai ne. say/now again come please okay? “Now, please come again, okay?” (PL3)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ne (or nē) at the beginning of a sentence is used to get the listener’s attention, like “say/hey.” Ne at the end of a request or command urges compliance, like “[do it], okay?” • kite is the -te form of kuru (“come”), and kudasai after the -te form of a verb makes a relatively polite request for that action to be done.
53	Shima: はい、必ず。 Hai, kanarazu. yes for certain/definitely “Yes, I certainly will.” (PL2)

54	Narration: 翌日 出社する と... Yokujitsu shussha suru to... next day go/come to work if/when When I went to work the next day... Sign: 電熱器 Dennetsu-ki electrothermic tool/equipment Electrothermic Equipment (Department) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • shussha suru ("go/come to work") can refer to the departure from home, the arrival at the workplace, or the trip in between. To after a verb can give a conditional "if/when" meaning. • dennetsu means "electric heat," and -ki is a suffix for "tool/appliance," so dennetsu-ki is an all-encompassing term for electrical appliances that involve heating elements: space heaters, toasters, rice cookers, bread makers, etc.
55	Shima: おはよう。 Ohayō. "Good morning." (PL2) Suzukamo: おはようございます。 Ohayō gozaimasu. "Good morning, Sir." (PL3-4)
56	Narration: 机 の 上 に 花 が 一輪。 Tsukae no ue ni hana ga ichirin. desk 's top on flower (subj.) one flower On my desk (was) a single flower. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ni marks the location where something "is/exists," so a form of the verb aru ("be/exist" for inanimate things) is understood at the end of the sentence. In this case it would be the plain/abrupt past form, atta. • -rin is a counter suffix for flowers in bloom; ichirin = "one flower."
57	Shima: 鈴鴨君、この花は君が? Suzukamo-kun, kono hana wa kimi ga? (name-hon.) this flower as-for you (subj.) "Miss Suzukamo, as for this flower, you...?" → "Miss Suzukamo, did you (put) this flower (here)?" (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • -kun is typically used when calling the names of young males, like "Mr.,"; but it can also be used with women by their superiors, in which case it becomes "Miss/Ms."
58	Suzukamo: はい。 Hai. "Yes." (PL3)

Teach Your Computer Japanese

(continued from page 12)

tages for publishers and illustrators, so anyone doing mainly graphics-oriented work will probably prefer the Mac. But what about the user who simply wants Japanese word processing, spreadsheets, and the like? Is there any advantage in the Macintosh over Windows J?

The two platforms seem to be relatively even in all areas but one. That area is user support. Between Microsoft and Apple, only Apple offers in-house support for its Japanese operating system. It is not perfect: a lot of KanjiTalk users will be left out in the cold, and JLK users may linger on hold, but at least Apple is officially recognizing the market for Japanese computing and taking the responsibility for providing support directly. Distributors and resellers rarely have the resources of a software manufacturer for providing support.

Microsoft is not considering providing in-house support for Windows 3.1J in the US for at least another year.

CONCLUSION

Macintosh users will be happy with either KanjiTalk or the JLK. PC users will be amazed by Windows 3.1J, especially if they have tried other Japanese solutions for the PC. Neither platform is completely free of minor problems, but each is more than capable of serving the user's needs. If you are starting from scratch, the Macintosh is still the platform of choice for running Japanese applications—at least until Microsoft starts offering in-house user support on its Japanese software, then watch out Mac!

Douglas Horn is a free-lance writer and computer consultant in Seattle, Washington.

66 第33話 / おわり

59	Shima: あ...有難う。 A... Arigatō. “Th... thank you.” (PL2)
60	Suzukamo: 姉 が よろしくって 言っていました。 Ane ga yoroshiku tte itte mashita. older sister (subj.) regards (quote) was saying “My sister asked me to convey her regards.” (PL3) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ane is the term for referring to one’s own older sister. Onēsan is used to refer to another person’s older sister. • often, yoroshiku is short for yoroshiku onegai shimasu, a phrase used when meeting someone for the first time (similar to “Pleased to meet you” — see the dialect form yoroshū ni in frame 7), but this yoroshiku is short for yoroshiku itte kudasai (“please say yoroshiku for me”) or yoroshiku tsutaete kudasai (“please relay the message yoroshiku for me”), phrases that are equivalent to “please give my (best/kind) regards/please remember me (to someone).” • tte is a colloquial equivalent of the quotative to, and itte-(i)mashita is the PL3 form of itte-ita (“was saying,” from iu, “say”), so yoroshiku tte itte-mashita is literally “(she) was saying ‘Please send my best regards’.” The phrase is often simplified to yoroshiku itte-mashita.
61	Suzukamo: 誤解していて すみませんでした。 Gokai shite-ite sumimasen deshita. for having wrong understanding/impression sorry was “I’m sorry I had the wrong impression (of you).” (PL3) FX: ベコ Peko (effect of bowing) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • gokai is a noun for “mistaken understanding” and gokai suru is its verb form, “misunderstand/jump to conclusions/get the wrong impression.” Shite-ite is the -te form of shite-iru, from suru (“do”). Since the -te-iru form indicates a continuing action or condition, gokai shite-iru means “harbor a misunderstanding/have the wrong impression.” • sumimasen (deshita) is either “sorry/excuse me” or “thank you” depending on the context, in this case the former. • since -te forms have no tense of their own, using deshita (the past form of desu, “am/is/are”) at the end of the sentence makes it clear that the misunderstanding was in the past, and she has now put the error behind her.
62	Shima: え? E? “Huh?” (PL2)
63	Shima: まさか。 Masaka. impossible/unbelievable “It can’t be.” (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • masaka indicates disbelief, and can stand alone as an exclamation (“Impossible!/It can’t be!”) or serve as emphasis within a more specific statement of disbelief (“it can’t possibly be that.../you surely don’t mean to tell me that...”).
64	Matchbox: 会員制 すず鴨 Kaiin-sei Suzukamo membership system (name) Private Club Suzukamo
65	Narration: 先斗町 袖 より合う も 春の夜の他生の縁となつかしむなり Ponto-chō sode yoriau mo haru no yo no tashō no en to natsukashimu nari (place name) sleeves gather together even spring’s night of other lives from bonds/karma (quote) feel nostalgia (emph.) Even rubbing sleeves / in a room in Ponto-chō / on a brief spring night / owes to bonds from former lives / on which I warmly reflect. (a poem; translation maintains the 5-7-5-7-7 count) 新村出 Shinmura Izuru (the poet’s name) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • this is a tanka, a traditional 5-line poem with lines of 5 and 7 syllables in the pattern 5-7-5-7-7, written by Shinmura Izuru (1876-1967), a scholar of Japanese linguistics and cultural history best known to students of Japanese as the original editor of the dictionary Kōjien. • Ponto-chō is one of several well known hanamachi (“flower towns”) in Kyoto where traditional geisha entertain the clients of high-class restaurants with singing, dancing, witty repartee, games, and companionship. • 袖振り合うも他生の縁 sode furiau mo tashō no en is an old Buddhist saying meaning “even the chance touching of sleeves (between strangers on the street) owes to bonds/karma from former lives.” The saying comes from the Buddhist concepts of reincarnation and the belief that one’s present life is affected in mysterious ways by bonds of karma from former lives. Shinmura’s poem draws on the saying, but changes the verb to yoriau (“gather together”) which better fits the setting of Ponto-chō with its scores of rooms where people (both acquaintances and strangers) gather in groups for entertainment. • natsukashimu is a verb form of natsukashii (“nostalgic”), and means “reflect nostalgically/fondly.” The poet is not implying that he remembers his former lives, only that it gives him a feeling of warmth to think that his meeting with whomever he met was ordained by karma from former lives. • the poem not only echoes the chance connections between Shima and the proprietress revealed in this episode, but also hints that the full extent of their karmic bonds has not yet been revealed.
66	第33話 / おわり Dai sanjū-san wa / Owari	Story #33 / The End

From Basic Japanese, p. 34

防臭	bōshū	odor-resistant
英雄	eiyū	hero
不況	fukyō	recession
半熟	hanjuku	soft-boiled (egg)
星	hoshi	star
火星	kasei	Mars
緊急	kinkyū	emergency
抗菌	kōkin	anti-bacterial
恐竜	kyōryū	dinosaur
めぐむ	megumu	bless/bestow
未熟な	mijuku-na	unripe/immature
王子	ōji	prince
算数	sansū	math
早熟な	sōjuku-na	precocious
特集	tokushū	special edition/report
打ち勝つ	uchikatsu	conquer/overcome
ゆび	yubi	finger

From Garcia-kun, p. 42

憧れ	akogare	aspiration(s)
洗う	arau	wash (v.)
不法	fuhō	illegal
拾う	hirou	pick up (v.)
人手不足	hitodebusoku	shorthanded
一生懸命	isshōkenmei	diligently/diligence
観光ビザ	kankō biza	tourist visa
経済	keizai	economy
忌	ki	mourning
国際交流	kokusai kōryū	international exchange
給料	kyūryō	pay/wages
無理	muri	impossibility/impossible
遅れる	okureru	be late/fall behind schedule
りっぱな	rippa-na	fine/worthy/respectable
労働者	rōdōsha	laborer(s)
サッカー	sakkā	soccer
支える	sasaeru	support/sustain
世間	seken	society/people
就労	shūrō	employment
捨てる	suteru	discard/throw away
助かる	tasukaru	be saved/helped
羨ましい	urayamashii	envious/jealous
嬉しい	ureshii	happy/glad
約束	yakusoku	promise (n.)

From Sanshirō no Koi, p. 52

英文学	Eibungaku	English literature
影響	eikyō	influence/effect (n.)
はげむ	hagemu	strive/make an effort
ひどい	hidoi	terrible
家路	ieji	(one's) way home
イギリス	Igirisu	England
急ぐ	isogu	hurry/rush (v.)
いつにない	itsu ni nai	unusual/uncommon
考える	kangaeru	consider/think about
決意	ketsui	decision/determination
きびしい	kibishii	harsh/severe
決める	kimeru	decide

許可	kyōka	permission/approval
めでたい	medetai	happy/joyful/auspicious
教える	oshieru	teach
留学	ryūgaku	study abroad
世話になる	sewa ni naru	receive favor/aid/help
しめつける	shimetsukeru	tighten/cinch/choke
心配する	shinpai suru	worry (v.)
数日	sūjitsu	several days
すすめる	susumeru	urge/offer
たどる	tadoru	follow/trace
帯同する	taidō suru	take (someone) along
たのむ	tanomu	ask/request (a favor)
ついていく	tsuite iku	go along/accompany
続く	tsuzuku	follow/come after
夕まぐれ	yūmagure	evening twilight

From Kachō Shima Kōsaku, p. 63

相手	aite	companion
遊び人	asobi-nin	carouser/playboy
不粋	busui	inelegant/boorish
舞踊	buyō	dance
お茶屋	o-chaya	teahouse
電熱器	dennetsu-ki	electrothermic equipment
同伴する	dōhan suru	accompany
努力する	doryoku suru	make an effort/endeavor
縁	en	bonds/connection/karma
誤解する	gokai suru	misunderstand
ゴルフ場	gorufu-jō	golf course/club
はっきり	hakkiri	clearly/plainly
半々	hanhan	half & half
必要	hitsuyō	necessity/necessary
費用	hiyō	fee/cost
色気	iroke	sensuality
事情	jijō	circumstances
会員制	kaiin-sei	membership system
化粧	keshō	makeup/cosmetics
勤務する	kinmu suru	work/be on duty
工場	kōjō	factory
こっそりと	kossori to	secretly
マッチ	matchi	match(es)
見栄	mie	vanity
モテる	moteru	be well liked/be popular
なつかしむ	natsukashimu	feel nostalgia
軒	noki	eaves
梨園	rien	theatrical world
寂しい	sabishii	lonely
作法	sahō	etiquette
責任	sekinin	responsibility
仕出し屋	shidashi-ya	caterer (to teahouses)
しきたり	shikitari	customs/traditions
出社する	shussha suru	go/come to work
立方	tachikata	dancing (geisha)
つきあい	tsukiai	association/relationship
つき出し	tsukidashi	(Japanese) hors d'oeuvres
宴	utage	banquet
予約する	yoyaku suru	make a reservation
ゆるめる	yurumeru	loosen
座敷	zashiki	banquet room
絶対に	zettai-ni	absolutely

The Vocabulary Summary is taken from material appearing in this issue of MANGAJIN. It's not always possible to give the complete range of meanings for a word in this limited space, so our "definitions" are based on the usage of the word in a particular story.

New Anime and Manga Monthly Magazine Bridges Pacific Rim!

Anime & Manga Monthly ANIMERICA

If it's Anime in America, it's Gotta be ANIMERICA!

Rumiko Takahashi, 1993

SUBSCRIBE NOW!!

Big West/Macross Production Committee, 1993

ANIMERICA: THE UNPRECEDENTED ANIME AND MANGA MONTHLY MAGAZINE
Featuring news and reviews on the latest anime and hot new manga, CD's and video games, plus two serial comics in each issue!

ANIMERICA ANIME FEATURE: COMPLETE COVERAGE

ANIMERICA: TWO MANGA EPISODES IN EACH ISSUE

ANIMERICA: THE HOTTEST ANIME NEWS SECTION IN NORTH AMERICA

ANIMERICA: VIDEOS, MANGA, CD'S, VIDEO GAMES—WE COVER THEM ALL!

ANIMERICA, Anime & Manga Monthly
(Monthly 64 pages)
$4.95 USA/$6.50 CAN

ANIMERICA SUBSCRIPTION FORM

1. Mark one box for the subscription period.
2. Make your check or money order payable to Viz Communications, Inc.
3. Print your name and shipping address legibly below.
4. Enclose this form and your money order or check in an envelope and mail to:

Viz Comics
P.O. Box 77010
San Francisco, CA 94107

Yes! I Want:

One Year Subscription
12 issues $48.00 (save 11.40)
Two Year Subscription
24 issues $89.00 (save 29.80)

Name: _____
Address: _____
City: _____ State: _____ Zip: _____
Day Phone No. () _____

The subscription to ANIMERICA is available only in the U.S.A. and Canada.

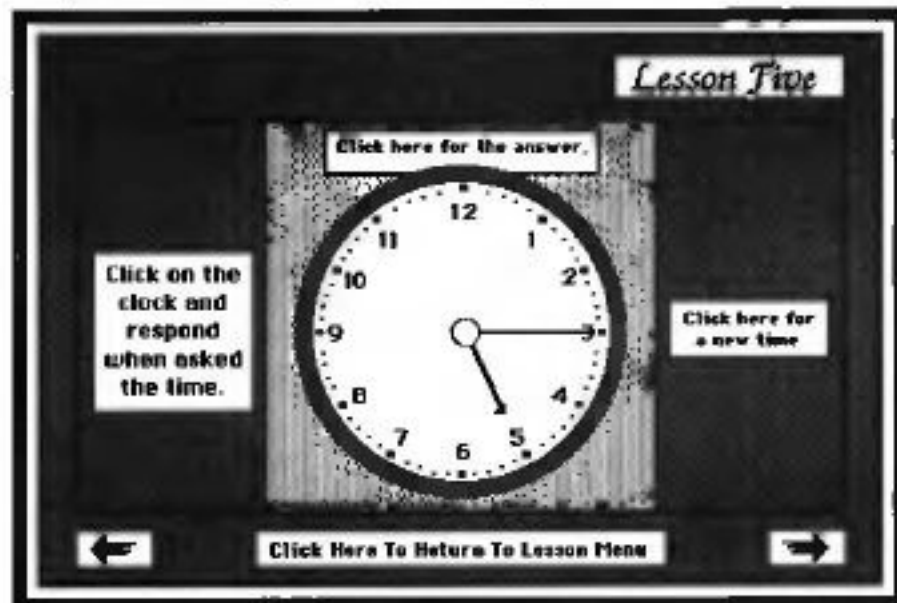

SOFTWARE FOR YOUR MAC:

JapaneseForEveryone

Butler Consulting, Inc.

JapaneseForEveryone consists of 15 lessons, each building on what was learned in the previous segment. Study time is 120 to 150 hours: use it for an hour or two each day and you'll be speaking basic Japanese in 3 to 4 months. Work more intensively and you could be speaking the language in weeks. The program is based on situational dialogs with a business slant—greetings, introductions, making appointments—everything is done by clicking the mouse. You'll hear digitally recorded Japanese words and sentences by clicking on a button; animated faces appear on the screen to speak the sound in synchronization with what you hear. Requirements: Any Macintosh computer and CD-ROM drive, 4 MB of RAM for System 7 version. List price is $325. Our Price: $295, subscriber price $279

- "real life" Japanese
- digitized sound — "talking faces" animation
- extensive interactive dialogs
- presents patterns of basic Japanese in an easily learnable form

SOFTWARE FOR YOUR PC:

Power Japanese

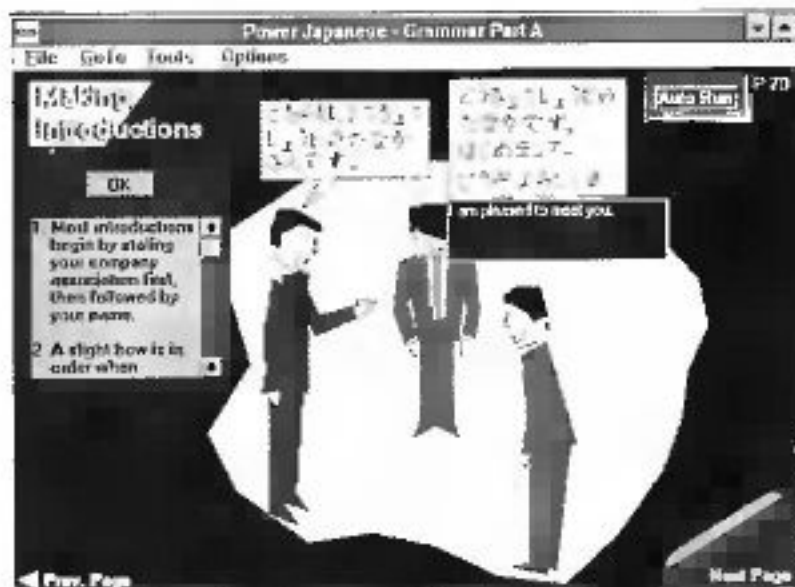

Bayware, Inc.

Power Japanese teaches you to read, write and speak all 112 basic Japanese syllables in a program broken down into four sections: Hiragana covers the complete set of phonetic symbols used to write native Japanese words; Katakana for the complete set of phonetic symbols used to transcribe foreign/imported words; Grammar A which is basic sentence patterns with extensive drills; Grammar B involves more advanced sentence patterns. Requires Windows 3.0 or 3.1, IBM PC, PS/2 or 100% compatible using 286, 386 or greater processor; minimum 3MB RAM; minimum 16MB hard disk space, Super VGA or VGA monitor (includes PC sound adapter, plug and Sony headphones). No sound card or special hardware required. List price is $389. Our Price: $320, subscriber price $290

"Power Japanese really impressed us. It's the most clever and truly useful version of multimedia technology we've seen so far."

—Computer Buyer's Guide

Power Japanese was named MVP (most valuable product) by PC Computing at the 11/92 COMDEX show, and was a finalist in Multimedia World's 1992 Readers's Choice Survey

New! New! New!

Komikku Nichi-Bei Masatsu: Waratte bakari wa iraremasen: "Comic Japan-US Friction: Not Just a Laughing Matter"

Ono Kosei, translator

Not Just a Laughing Matter includes 100 cartoons on Japan from newspapers and magazines across the US and around the world. Everything from the contents to the notes about the cartoons is presented in both English and Japanese (no language notes or grammar explanations though). In selecting cartoons, priority was given to those that evoked a chuckle, and even if you're not a language student you'll enjoy the book. Reviewed in Mangajin #28. 248 pages, softcover. $11.00, subscriber price $10.00

Books About Japan and the Japanese

Hidden Differences by Edward T. and Mildred Hall
Examine the unstated rules of Japanese-American business relations. Covers how and why the Japanese think the way they do. 122 pages, softcover. $7.95, subscriber price $7.00

JTB'S Illustrated Book Series:

Volume 1: A Look Into Japan An intro to a variety of Japanese traditions, customs & pastimes. Covers 100 categories.

Volume 2: Living Japanese Style Practical explanations of Japanese customs, designed to help avoid culture shock.

Volume 3: Eating in Japan Comprehensive guide to Japanese cuisine, descriptions of restaurants, explanations of food.

Volume 8: Salaryman in Japan This book delves into everyday life of the Salaryman, section on manners, phrases.

Volume 14: Japanese Inns & Travel Intro to the types of Japanese lodgings, history of travel, local specialties. Reviewed in Mangajin #28. (4" x 5 3/4") softcover. $10/each, subscriber price $9.50/each. Set of five: $47.50, subscriber price $45.00

Gateway to Japan (Revised) J. Kinoshita & N. Palevsky
One of the best travel guides on the market. Place names written in English and Japanese characters, with food, lodging, transportation & shopping details, maps, essays on history & culture. 541 pages, softcover. $14.00, subscriber price $12.00

Manga! Manga! by Frederik L. Schodt
Traces manga from its 6th-century roots through its function as propaganda during the war to the billion-yen industry of the present. 260 pages. $18.50, subscriber price $17.00

With Respect to the Japanese by John C. Condon
Understand why Japanese and Americans behave, think and see the world as they do. 92 pages, softcover. $11.00, subscriber price $10.00

Doing Business with Japanese Men by Brannen & Wilen
Defining problems dealing with Japanese businessmen and offering solutions as well as explaining why misconceptions occur (on both sides). Helpful to anyone dealing with Japanese businessmen. Reviewed in Mangajin #26. 174 pages, softcover. $8.95, subscriber price $7.95

The Job Hunter's Guide to Japan by Terra Brockman
Each chapter focuses on a specific industry (computers, English teaching, etc.) and gives you complete information on that field, the first and last providing an overview. 232 pages, softcover. $12.00, subscriber price $11.50

Womansword: What Japanese Words Say About Women By Kittredge Cherry
An informal glossary of more than 80 terms is an etymology-lover's dream. Reviewed in Mangajin #4. 150 pages, softcover. $13.00, subscriber price $12.50

Japan, Inc. by Ishinomori Shotaro
English translation of the Japanese educational manga Nihon Keizai Nyumon. The story involves fictional Mitsutomo Trading Co., the kind of company that has presided over Japan's economic expansion during the past century, providing insight into how the Japanese view business and their political economy. 312 pages. $13.00, subscriber price $12.50

Manga

O-jama Shimasu
Popularly known as the "sheep-counting manga," the humor in this series is reminiscent of The Far Side. Three volume set, original Japanese edition. $19.50, subscriber price $17.55

What's Michael?
A familiar feline to Mangajin readers, this cat appears in a variety of settings. Five volume set, original Japanese edition. $31.50, subscriber price $28.35

Obatarian
Obatarian's obnoxious ways & selfishness have endeared her to thousands. Five volume set, original Japanese. $31.50, subscriber price $28.35

Dai Tokyo Binbo Seikatsu Manyuuru
A series of episodes in the life of a young man who combines a laid-back philosophy with traditional values. (Original Japanese, sold in set of 5 only.) $35.00, subscriber price $32.00

Good Reads

The Way of the Urban Samurai by Kasumi
There is no saving face when Japan insider Kasumi takes off the gloves and challenges you to get to know the truth about the Japanese male. Reviewed in Mangajin #24. 113 pages, softcover. $9.50, subscriber price $8.50

Slugging it Out in Japan by Warren Cromartie with Robert Whiting
Montreal Expo turned Tokyo Giant gripes about everything from soulless cities to gutless players; but by the end of the story, admits his respect and admiration for Japan. Reviewed in Mangajin #14. 277 pages, hardcover. $18.50, subscriber price $17.50

Monkey Brain Sushi Edited by Alfred Birnbaum
This collection introduces the brightest and boldest voices in up-to-the-moment fiction. Mangajin readers should note "Japan's Junglest Day" done in manga form. Reviewed in Mangajin #12. 305 pages, hardcover. $18.00, subscriber price $17.00

The Nihongo Journal

1992 Nihongo Journals Available:

- 2: Studying Abroad in Japan from SE Asia, Essay: Inside the Car
- 3: Pachinko, Stylish Female Office Workers, Modern Japanese: Introduction
- 4: Katakana—An Initiation, Vocabulary Building: The Fun Method, Business Writing
- 5: The Liberal Democratic Party, Ghouls, Goblins & Imaginary Beings, Symbols in Kanji
- 6: Job Hunting in Japan, Wedding Fads, JLPT: Grammar & Listening
- 7: Phones for New Age, Game Arcades, Japanese Through Linguistic Functions
- 8: Whaling Controversy, Festival Delights, Beginning Japanese
- 9: JLPT, Amusement Parks, PKO Bill
- 10: Attending a Japanese University, Horse Racing, Negotiating a Price Increase
- 11: Preparing for Disasters, Ogasawara Village, Tokyo, Modern Japanese: Integrated Course
- 12: Stepping Up Your Japanese, Practicing Arts & Hobbies, JLPT: Practice Test

1993 Nihongo Journals Available:

- 1: Promoting Recycling, Off to Kamakura, Beginning Japanese: New Year's Day
- 2: Studying in Japan, Contemporary Kimono, News Nihongo: The LDP, Ultra-Rightists and the Yakuza
- 3: Introduction to Direct Marketing, Street Signs, Course in Business Writing: Congratulatory Letters
- 5: A Guide to Modern Fortune-Telling, Fortune-Telling: Young People's "Gods", Intro: Rocky-kun
- 6: Japan's Imperial Family, Tsukiji Market, Please Take Care of Yourself
- 7: A Guide to Job Hunting, Japan Now: Street Performances, Intro to Katakana: Let's Learn the Rules
- 8: Using Dictionaries, Japan Now: J. League Kicks off, Writing Letters
- 9: The Japanese Language Proficiency Test, Theme Parks, News Nihongo: The Lower House Dissolution

Nihongo Journal
Subscriptions: 12 issues for $100.
$95 for subscribers

Nihongo Journal
Back Issues $9.00 each subscriber price $8.10

sample 見本, 見本(を取る); (質を) 取る; Statistics サンプル.

Kenkyusha's Furigana E-J Dictionary

This dictionary gives readings in hiragana for all kanji used in definitions and explanations. 980 pages, 49,000 headwords, heavyweight paperback. $24.00, subscriber price $21.60

Read Japanese Today

Read 300 of the most common characters in a few hours whether or not you have any knowledge of the grammar or spoken language. Reviewed in Mangajin #1. $7.50, subscriber price $6.75

A Reader of Handwritten Japanese

A collection of actual handwritten correspondence received by the author illustrating kanji "shortcuts," cursive, and general differences in handwriting. Each appears in original Japanese, romaji, and English translation, from beginning to advanced. 266 pages. $27.00, subscriber price $25.00

Let's Learn Hiragana
Let's Learn Katakana

These two workbooks teach hiragana (the basic Japanese alphabet) and katakana (the alphabet used for borrowed foreign words and other special phrases). Practice and review builds writing skills step by step. A manageable way to learn the Japanese syllabaries with or without an instructor. Two volume set. $18.50, subscriber price $17.00. Separately $9.50 each, subscriber price $8.75 each

Essential Japanese Grammar

A summary covering all the grammar needed for speech and comprehension. Not a textbook, but you can learn plenty by browsing through. $4.50, subscriber price $4.05

Japanese for Busy People I

Created by the AJLT, this course offers 30 lessons of survival Japanese with emphasis on vocabulary and grammar with practical value. Dialogs presented in both kana and romaji. 213 pages. $20.00, subscriber price $18.50

Japanese for Busy People II

Sequel to JBPI combines vocabulary and grammar in realistic situations; opening dialogs, practice sections, exercises, quizzes. Kanji are introduced along with hiragana, katakana and romaji. 420 pages. $20.50, subscriber price $19.00

Japanese for Busy People I (Tapes)

These four 30-minute cassettes contain all the vocabulary, dialogs and key sentences presented in the text. Highly recommended. $50, subscriber price $47.50

Japanese for Busy People II (Tapes)

These six 60-minute cassette tapes cover opening dialogs, key sentences, short dialogs and the reading reviews. $90.00, subscriber price $85

楽	'	イ	介	GAKU, music; RAKU, comfort, ease; tano(shii) , pleasant 楽しみ tanoshimi , pleasure 音楽会 ongakukai , concert, musicale 気楽 kiraku , ease, comfort (木 15)
	白	白	泊
331 13 strokes	泊	泊	楽

A Guide to Reading and Writing Japanese

Gives easy-to-follow stroke order diagrams for 881 "essential characters," plus hiragana/katakana. Also a simple listing for 989 more, for a total of 1,850 kanji. Indexed by romaji reading, stroke count. Reviewed in Mangajin #1. $14.00, subscriber price $12.50

楽	358	GAKU, music; RAKU, pleasure; tano(shimu) , enjoy; tano(shii) , fun, enjoyable, pleasant 音楽 ongaku music 347 文楽 bunraku Japanese puppet theater 111 楽天家 rakutenka optimist 141, 165 安楽死 anrakushi euthanasia 105, 85
	75
	2324
	楽

Kanji & Kana

Presents the 1,945 jōyō ("daily use") kanji in the format shown, along with 60+ pages of kanji and kana history, rules, and trivia. Indexed by romaji reading, number of strokes, and radical. Reviewed in Mangajin #1. $18.50, subscriber price $16.65

Subscription/Subscriber Information

Important Stuff you don't want to miss . . .

MANGAJIN T-Shirts:

Our Classic Samurai 100% cotton six-color T-shirt, shown on the right, costs $10.00, $12.50 if you're not a subscriber. Our Clean-Cut Logo shirt, black logo on white 50/50 heavy blend, shown on the left, is only $6.50 if you're a subscriber, $8.00 otherwise—both available in sizes L or XL.

MANGAJIN Subscriptions:

$30 for 10 issues (one year)—that's 33% off the newsstand price! (Two year subscription for $55)—Prices will be going up (the word is official) so be warned! Subscribe now or pay more later!

MANGAJIN Back Issues: Still only $6.00 each or $5.40 each for subscribers—look for our "Special Deal" coupons in every issue and save big time! MANGAJIN back issues are informative collectibles so make sure your library is complete.

- #6: Matsumoto Profile, Ginga Tetsudō 999 (I), Dai-Tōkyō, Pocket Story, Tanaka-kun
- #9: The Manga Market, San-pun-kan no Dekigoto, What's Michael, Galaxy Express 999 (Part IV), Urusei Yatsura, Oyuki (III)
- #10: Japanese Movies (with Subtitles) on Videotape, Sex & Violence in Manga, Donald Richie on Subtitling Japanese Films, Obatarian, OL Shinkaron, Sarari-kun, Dai-Tōkyō, Ginga (V), Pocket Story
- #12: Japanese Beer Brands, A Tale of Two Translations, The Far Side, Tanaka-kun, Dai-Tōkyō, Ningen Kōsaten (II)
- #13: Controversial Submarine Saga: Chinmoku no Kantai, The Far Side, Chijō Saikyō no Jinrui, Korobokkuru-kun, What's Michael
- #16: Eating Cheap in Tōkyō, Results from Our Reader Survey, O-jama Shimasu, Bono Bono, Sarariman Senka, Oishinbo
- #17: Tezuka Osamu: Japan's "God of Manga," Mad Ad, Konnichi-wa Kuriko-san, What's Michael, Oishinbo (II), The Phoenix (I), Tanaka-kun
- #18: Kigyō Senshi: The Corporate Warrior, Eigyō Tenteko Nisshi (I), The Phoenix (II), Sarariman Senka, Calvin and Hobbes
- #19: Translators Talk, Tezuka Controversy, Sumō, Japan's Trendy Old Sport, Mad Ad, Obatarian, Eigyō Tenteko Nisshi (II), The Phoenix (III)
- #20: So You Want to Learn Japanese, Kana Learning Programs, Mad Ad, Ningen Kōsaten, Beranmei Tōchan, Sarari-kun, Calvin and Hobbes
- #21: Tonic eigyō drinks: Salaryman's Secret Weapon?, Mr. Baseball, Kuriko-san, Ningen Kōsaten, Beranmei Tōchan, Sarari-kun
- #23: Educational Manga, Takahana/Rie Wedding, Microsoft: Selling Software in Japan, Taste of Culture: Wasabi, OL Shinkaron, Tanaka-kun, Crayon Shinchan, Sanshirō no Koi, Tsun-Baka Nisshi
- #24: Bars, Cabarets, and the "Water Trade," Fūryū Manga: Odaiji ni, Japan's Choco-Mania, Sarari-kun, Furiten-kun, Crayon Shinchan, What's Michael, Midori-san, Tanaka-kun
- #25: Sake Special: brands, terminology, mythology, manga, The "Japanification" of American Fast Food, Kuriko-san, Bar Lemon Hart
- #26: An Interview with Journalist Sam Jameson, Outrageous Japanese with Jack Seward, Beranmei Tōchan, Furiten-kun, Manga Business Manners, Yawara! I, Binbō Seikatsu Manyaru, OL Shinkaron, Calvin and Hobbes, The Far Side
- #27: Japan's Wedding Industry, Jack Seward's Outrageous Japanese, Brand News, Manga Business Manners, Yawara! II
- #28: Japan's Vending Machines, Japanese for PCs, Kachō Shima Kōsaku, Katsu-Shika Q, Beranmei Tōchan, Furiten-kun

☎ CHARGE IT! CALL 1-800-552-3206 WITH VISA OR MASTERCARD!

<input type="checkbox"/> renewal	Description	Quantity	Unit Price	Total

All prices include shipping & handling (available only in US). Georgia residents please add 5% sales tax. Please allow 2-4 weeks for delivery. Extra charge for rush orders.

Tax if applicable _____
TOTAL _____

Name _____
 Street _____
 City _____ State _____ Zip _____
 Telephone _____
 Signature _____

Charge It!
 Mastercard Visa

Acct. Number _____
 Exp. Date _____

MANGAJIN, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065-1119 Tel: 404-590-0091 Fax: 404-590-0890

Classified ads are free for individuals and non-profit groups (up to 30 words). Commercial ads are $2.00 per word, $3.00 per word bold-faced, $30 minimum charge or $80/inch for display ads, discounts available for size and/or frequency (2 1/4" width, camera ready). Send to: MANGAJIN Classifieds, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065 Categories: • Pen Pals • Notices & Events • Books & Publications • Computers & Software • Job Seekers • Clubs • Consulting • Employment • Travel • Miscellaneous (MANGAJIN reserves the right to edit or reject any classified advertisement.)

日本語のclassified OKです! 日本語のclassified OKです! 日本語のclassified OKです!

Computers & Software

Kana かな Helmsman

$70 Requires HyperCard 2.0

Learn Katakana & Hiragana

- Intuitive Interface
- On-Screen Help
- Sound & "Sound Keys"
- Practice Pad
- Stroke Order
- Kana Introduction
- Shuffle & Revert
- Kana Derivations

Nova Networks
6317 Phinney Ave, North
Seattle, Washington 98103

1(800)859-NOVA
Visa, MC & AmEx

日本語を学ぶ システムズ

Over 1100 Japanese Character Graphics for New Print Shop! IBM PC compatible Kanji and Kana learning software. Interactive and intuitive. Stroke order included. Set up your own kanji drill lists. For free information, send Name/Address to NLS; P.O. Box 186; Morrisville, N.C. 27560. Or call 919-387-1706 and leave msg. Add 3.00 for a Sample Diskette.

Graphics in this ad created using Print Shop Deluxe

Miscellaneous

Teachers: Mangajin has discounted subscription rates for your students! Send your name, School/College/University name, address & number of Japanese language students to Mangajin, PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

American male, 30, seeks shortwave enthusiasts worldwide who are interested in an informal Radio Japan listener's club. Write in English, Spanish or German to Mark Armstrong, 11706 South Throop St., Chicago, IL 60643

Looking for cassette tapes with English and Japanese, for learning Japanese while commuting by car. V. Murray, PO Box 6668, Marietta, GA 30065

LEARN JAPANESE IN KYOTO! Home-stay or dorm; one to three months; teach English in exchange. Call Toll Free 1-800-748-5054 or write International Connections, P.O. Box 80, NSL, UT 84054

BOSTON

- ホームステイをしながら
- 観光、買物、演劇観賞等を満喫し、更に
- 英語の個人レッスンが受けられるこんな欲張った企画はいかがですか。どうぞお気軽にご連絡下さい。ビデオ教材の無料サービスもいたします。

98 Saint Rose Street
Boston, Massachusetts
02130-3956 USA

SUMO VIDEO July Basho, 2-hour subtitled. Exciting tournament. Great for new fans. $39 complete. Edgewood Productions, Box 250243, Franklin, MI 48025

Mangajin reader in Boston wishes to meet other Boston area readers for language study, friendship. John Thiel, 15 Edgerly Road, Apt 23, Boston, MA 02115, phone 617-859-7329

Art-Toons®

Dealers of Animated Art for Fun & Investment

Call or write for FREE catalog!
(216) 468-2655

P.O. Box 600 Northfield, OH 44067

Wanted: Mangajin issues 1-5, 8, 11 & 15. Mike, 612-951-2488

Asian Studies

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY JAPAN Tokyo

Spend a semester or academic year in Tokyo at Temple University Japan. Enroll in Asian studies courses taught in English, and Japanese language courses, including Intensive Language at the beginning level. Courses fully integrated with Japanese students. Arranged housing.

For more information contact:

Temple University
International Programs
501 Conwell Hall
Philadelphia, PA 19122
Telephone (215) 204-4684

U.S. Manga Corps, Your Japanimation Source!™ Dominion Tank Police, Project A-ko, more. For free catalog of over 100 titles on VHS and laserdisc, call 1-800-833-7456.

Clubs

RPG & Tactical Gamers: JIGG (Japan's Int'l Gamers' Guild) is a network for English-speaking gamers in Japan. Ongoing events, bi-monthly newsletter. Contact Steven Brown, Kopo Senju #605, Motoichiba 232-1, Fuji-shi, Shizuoka-ken 〒416, Japan (0545) 62-4678. 日本語でケヴィン・バーンズ(0465) 74-8767までどうぞ。

Books & Publications

We have an interesting list of educational material (K-12) on Japan. For catalog send US$2 & self-addressed envelope (no stamps) to Pacific-Rim Slide-Shows, #302, 130 East 15th Ave, Vancouver, BC V5T 4L3 Canada

Focus Japan

Focus Japan II: A Resource Guide to Japan-Oriented Organizations puts answers to your Japan questions at your fingertips. From degree and summer language programs, to information resources, to publications, to databases, to cultural organizations, this 700-page guide tells you what is available in North America. Contact Gateway Japan, NPA, 1424 16th St, NW #700(M), Washington, DC 20036 (202) 265-768. $59.95.

Mention this ad for significant discounts!

Ask about our on-line computer library!

Pen Pals

私はアメリカ人留学生(26才)です。思いやりがあり、活発明朗な生き生きしている日本人の女性友達を募集中です。趣味はスポーツ、映画、ジャズなどです。日本語の勉強をした後一橋大学院に入ります。私と同じ趣味を持っている人がいたら、文通して付き合いませんか! 〒183東京都府中市住吉町 5-10-1 221号室 東京外語大学留学生センター プラスキー マイケル

Deaf American female, 28, seeks deaf Japanese M/F for pen pals. Interested in anime, Japanese/American sign languages. Write in English to S. Pereboom, 10901-105th Ave N, Largo, FL 34648-4028

Pen Pals

American male, 16, seeks Japanese female who speaks English. Into traditional Japanese culture, poetry, anime and art. Write to: Matthew Conheady, 963 Woodbine Ave, Rochester, NY 14619

Seeking Hong Kong pen pal. Please write to: Roger Pepper, #95066 8-D-21, PO Box 3200, Eyeman-Cook Unit, Florence, AZ 85232

Female, 21, learning Japanese, seeks Japanese pen pals interested in humorous and relaxed correspondence. Please write in English to Amy Graham, 25 Springrove Ave., #1, San Anselmo, CA 94960

Male, 25, Henna-Amerikajin seeks pen pal(s). Like movies, literature, Asian culture, Chinese martial arts (wushu & sanshou) and jazz music. John Thiel, 15 Edgerly Rd, #23, Boston, MA 02115

Japanese university student, female, 19, seeks pen pals (same age) interested in English, music, anything. Write in English. Yuko Abe, 3-1-2-304 Azamino, Midoriku Yokohama-shi, Kanagawa-ken, Japan 225

Nepali male, 32, (US-educated), wants to have friends all over the world. Please write: Uttam, Village C Mansion (3102), 1-18-3 Koyamadai, Shinagawa-ku, Tokyo 142 Japan

American male, 42, wishes to correspond with females in Japan, any age for friendship. Interests are Japanese language, culture, manga, anime, art and writing. Robert Lindley, PO Box 2491, Corona, CA 91718

American male, 23, would like to communicate with M/F Japanese. Interests include sports, all music, Japanese people, language and culture. Write to: Ron Gormley, 187 Lakeview Drive, Shenorock, NY 10587

American male, 18, seeks Japanese female 16-25 for correspondence. Interests: anime, roleplaying games and Japanese haiku. Respond in English to Andy Willard, PO Box 1772, Kerrville, TX 78029

Male anime, British music and movie fan wishes to correspond with anyone in Japan. If interested write to me: Dimas Rodriguez, 3719 JFK Blvd., # 25, Jersey City, NJ 07307

Spanish girl, 17, seeks pen pals around the world, M/F, any age. Interests: manga, anime, martial arts, will discuss anything, write in English: Nuria Plasencia, c/Elisabeth, 20, pral 1^a, 08001, Barcelona, Spain

Canadian male, 23, seeks Japanese pen pals. Have been studying Japanese for 1 year. Intend travel to Japan, maybe next summer. Greg Cormier, 110 St. George, Saint John, NB, E2M 2A7 Canada

Japanese-American female, 28, interested in hearing from Japanese living "in-country" on newest trends, hard-to-get American products and new business ideas. Respond in English/Japanese. Naomi Kawamura, 7442 Northrup Dr., San Diego, CA 92126

American nurse, 36, wants to exchange language lessons with Japanese, any age, M/F. Enjoy nursing, studying Japanese, jazz, scuba, philosophy, movies, travel. Write in Japanese or English: Susan Naito, 1027 Barnwell Drive, Sumter, SC 29154

Employment Seekers

University graduate seeking immediate employment. B.A. Japanese/International Studies (econ/pol.sci). 7 years Japanese studies. Looking in Michigan, will consider other regions. Ann Cook, 6054 Ravenswood, Utica, MI 48316

Employment Opportunity

WANTED - COMIC BOOK EDITOR Part-time position in Los Angeles available for individual with experience. Company represents a comic book publisher in Japan. Please send resume and references to the following address: DYNA-SEARCH, INC., 11835 W. Olympic Blvd., Suite 825, East Tower, Los Angeles, CA 90064

The Canon Wordtank

When you're serious about Japanese

For more information, call GITCO toll-free at 1-800-527-2607. That's . . .

Searches for kanji and jukugo by radical and stroke count.

Input in katakana, hiragana or romaji. Built-in memory. 240,000 entries.

Japanese-to-English. English-to-Japanese. Optional expansion cards.

Prices from $295.

JAPAN BUDGET TRAVEL

The lowest fares to Asia and beyond.

Going to Japan, China, Hong Kong, Taiwan or Europe is easy and economical when you turn to Japan Budget Travel.

Whether you're traveling for business or pleasure, our highly-trained agents have the experience and expertise to assist you with all of your travel needs. We offer a complete range of travel services, including the Japan Rail Pass and Eurail Pass.

So when you want fast, dependable service—and the lowest prices around—call Japan Budget Travel.

Call any of our offices toll free:

- New York... 800-722-0797 • 212-686-8855
- Chicago..... 800-843-0273 • 312-236-9797
- Boston..... 800-638-0024 • 617-353-1010
- Houston.... 800-445-5265 • 713-789-6633
- Atlanta..... 800-782-7781 • 404-231-4333
- Tokyo..... 03-504-0698* *not toll free

1-800-JAPAN-07

(continued from page 26)

disk space; MS DOS/V 5.0; MS Windows 3.1J. Sources: CCIC: $520; SS, PSP: $565.

Microsoft Multiplan J for Windows J

Project management software for creating time and resource schedules. Requires: DOS/V 5.0; Windows 3.0J/3.1J. Source: PRC: $730.

Microsoft Visual Basic for Windows 2.0 3C

Microsoft's visual language for simplified windows programming. (Call for info.) Source: SS, PSP: $395.

OpenPost for Windows

Memo program with date & time stamping for each memo, view switching, dynamic language switching, and other features. Includes full C++ source code for users who wish to modify the program or learn about internationalization of Windows applications. Requires: Windows 3.1J. Source: PSP: $80.

FONTS

—MAC—

Adobe Type Manager 2.0.6J

Allows Macs running KanjiTalk or JLK to display scalable PostScript Japanese fonts on screen, and print to non-PostScript-compatible printers. Includes 2 Japanese and 13 Roman fonts. Requires: 2MB RAM; 6MB hard disk space; KanjiTalk 6.0.7+, or JLK. Sources: CCIC, SS, PRC, C&T, QTC: $295.

Adobe Type Manager 3.5J

Upgraded version of 2.0.6 (above); includes Adobe Type Composer. Requires 2MB RAM (4MB with KanjiTalk 7). Source: SS: $295.

Adobe Kanji Fonts Futo Ro B161, Futo Min A161, Jun 161, Midashi Go MB31, Midashi Min MA31 (5 separate innts)

PostScript level 1 composite fonts for ATM-J or printer download. Require Japanese printer 600dpi or lower resolution. Sources: SS, PRC: $795; QTC: $775 (price per font).

Adobe Kanji Fonts Midashi Go MB31 iIR, Midashi Min MA31 iIR (inr Imagesetter)

PostScript level 1 composite fonts for high resolution printers. Requires: Japanese Imagesetter Printer. Sources: SS, PRC $3,745 (price per font).

Adobe Kanji Fonts Shin Gothic Light, Shin Gothic Medium, Shinsei Kaiso CBSK

Require: 2MB RAM; hard disk drive; KanjiTalk 6.04 or higher. Source: SS: $795 (price per font).

Adobe Kanji Font Shinsel Kaiso CBSK HR (for Imagesetter)

Requires: 2MB RAM; hard disk drive; KanjiTalk 6.04 or higher. Source: SS $3,745.

Adobe Type Library Vaino Pack J

Font pack containing 2 Japanese and 10 Roman fonts. All fonts Adobe PostScript Type 1 format. Requires: 2MB RAM; hard disk drive; PostScript Japanese printer; Adobe Type Manager J recommended; JLK or KanjiTalk 6.07 or higher. Source: CCIC: $330; SS: $350.

Adobe Plus Pack J

Font pack containing 3 Japanese and 22 Roman fonts. Requires: 2MB RAM; hard disk drive; KanjiTalk 6.04 or higher. CCIC: $550; SS: $795; PRC, Q: $595.

Fontworks Matisse #2 M, Matisse #3 DB, Matisse #3 B, Rodin #1 L, Rodin #2 M, Rodin #3 BB, Rodin #4 B, Rodin #5 XB

Japanese PostScript fonts downloadable to NTX-J or J-Rips Printers. Require: NTX-J or J-RIPS Printer. Sources: PRC: $795; QTC: $775. (price per font)

Konji True Type Upgrade Kit for KanjiTalk 6.0.7.1

Allows KanjiTalk 6.0.7.1 to support Japanese TrueType fonts. Includes Hon Mincho and Maru Gothic TrueType fonts. Sources: CCIC: $140; SS, PRC: $150.

Parametric Font inr the Macintosh

Smooths display and printing. Two programs available with two fonts per program. Requires: KanjiTalk 6.0+; Any Macintosh printer. Sources: PRC, QTC Program 1 (Mincho & Gothic fonts): $199. PRC, QTC Program 2 (Mohitsu & Gyosho fonts): $220.

—PC—

Adobe Type Manager 2.5.1J for Windows

Allows MS Windows 3.0J/3.1J users to display scalable PostScript Japanese fonts on screen, and print to non-PostScript-compatible printers. Includes two Japanese and 13 Roman fonts. Requires: MS Windows 3.0J/3.1J. Sources: SS, PRC, CCIC: $295.

Adobe Plus Pack J for Windows

Windows version of Plus Pack for the Mac (see above). Source: SS: $395.

Adobe Type Library Value Pack J inr Windows

Windows version of Value Pack for the Mac (see above). Source: SS: $249.

Font Gallery for Windows J

Mincho and Gothic TrueType fonts for MS Windows J. Requires: 386 CPU or higher; 4MB RAM; DOS/V 5.0; Windows 3.0/3.1J. Source: PRC: $450.

WorldFont for Windows 1.0

Scalable PostScript type 1 and TrueType screen and printer fonts for a wide range of foreign languages. Requires: 8MB RAM; hard disk space varies depending on fonts installed; Windows 3.0/3.1. Source: PRC: $250.

WorldFont for WontPerfent 1.0

Screen and printer fonts in 5 type sizes for 19 different foreign languages. Will print to HP compatible printers. Requires: 640K RAM; DOS 3.3 or higher; Wordperfect 5.0 for DOS. Source: PRC: $200.

The preceding list is based on information provided by developers, distributors, and software resellers. Descriptions are intended to be for information only, and should not be taken as a recommendation for any particular product or reseller.

SOURCES

Apropos, Inc.

8 Belknap St., Arlington, MA 02174
tel. 617-648-2041 fax

CCIC

605 Addison Street, Suite A
Berkeley, CA 94710
tel. 510-843-5626; fax 510-843-5173

Character Language Resources (CLR)

2130 Sawtelle Blvd., #300B
Los Angeles, CA 90025
tel. 800-569-2099; fax 310-996-2303

Cheng & Tsui Company (C&T)

25 West Street
Boston MA 02111
tel. 617-426-6074; fax 617-426-3669

EJ Bilingual, Inc.

2463 Torrance Blvd., Suite #1
Torrance, CA 90501
tel. 310-320-8139; fax 310-320-3228

Hongbo Data Systems

PO Box 866 Kensington, NSW 2033
Australia tel. +61-2-399-9876

KiCompWare

PO Box 536, Appleton, WI 54912
tel. 612-773-8621

Kureo Technology, Ltd.

Suite 300, 3700 Gilmore Way
Burnaby, BC V5G 4M1 Canada
tel. 604-433-7715; fax 604-433-3393

Langage Engineering Corp.

385 Concord Ave., Belmont, MA 02178
tel. 617-489-4000; fax 617-489-3850

Pacific Rim Connections (PRC)

1838 El Camino Real, Suite 109
Burlingame, CA 94010
tel. 800-745-0911; fax 415-697-9439

Pacific Software Publishing, Inc. (PSP)

2737 77th Ave. SE, 2nd Floor
Mercer Island, WA 98040
tel. 206-232-3989; fax 206-236-8102

PC Express

820 S. Garfield Ave. Suite 201
Alhambra, CA 91801
tel. 818-293-1661; fax 818-293-1665

Qualitas Trading Company (QTC)

2029 Durant Ave., Berkeley, CA 94704
tel. 510-848-8080; fax 510-848-8009

SystemSoft (SS)

333 17th Street, Suite L
Vero Beach, FL 32960
tel. 800-882-8856; fax 407-569-1937

JAPAN

An Illustrated Encyclopedia

THE MOST COMPLETE REFERENCE BOOK ON TODAY'S JAPAN IN ENGLISH

From the publisher of the renowned nine-volume
Kodansha Encyclopedia of Japan

- 12,000 entries covering Japan's history, culture, economy, politics, science, technology, food, literature and performing arts
- 4,000 full-color photographs and illustrations
- 1,964 pages, with over 2 million words of text
- Eye-catching pictorial essays and feature articles
- 24-page timetable tracing the history of Japan
- 20 pages of full-color maps
- 14-page bibliography
- Easy-to-use reader's guide to entries
- Bilingual index of entry titles
- Two volumes, 9" x 12", clothbound hardcover

Japan: An Illustrated Encyclopedia is based on the acclaimed nine-volume Kodansha Encyclopedia of Japan. Published in 1983 and hailed as a landmark in English-language scholarship on Japan, the first encyclopedia has been updated, revised and abridged into a practical new compact version that now contains 10% entirely new material – including many changes that have affected Japanese society over the past decade. This crucial reference not only provides significant data on Japanese politics, government and economics but it is at once a magnificent treasury of the nation's art and history, and a lively guide to its popular and traditional culture. Concise in format yet comprehensive in scope, Japan: An Illustrated Encyclopedia is the definitive reference on today's Japan.

$200.⁰⁰ UNTIL MARCH 31, 1994; $250.⁰⁰ THEREAFTER

AVAILABLE OCTOBER 1, 1993.
CALL OR SEND CHECK OR MONEY ORDER TO:

KODANSHA
114 Fifth Avenue
New York, NY 10011
212-727-6460

PLEASE ADD $6.50 PER SET FOR SHIPPING & HANDLING, PLUS APPLICABLE SALES TAX (NY RESIDENTS ONLY)

OR CALL

1-800-788-6262

PLEASE MENTION CODE: M-1

New Japanese capability that's all Macintosh.

Introducing the Japanese Language Kit for System 7.1

Add Japanese capabilities to your English system.

WorldScript is Apple's new software technology, included in Macintosh system software version 7.1, that makes it easy to use multiple languages on your Macintosh.

Run Japanese applications.

When you install the software in this kit, applications that have been developed for Japan will display Japanese menu bars and allow you to input Japanese text.

Work with Japanese fonts.

In addition to the Osaka bitmapped font, the Japanese Language Kit includes two Kanji TrueType fonts.

Apple's Japanese Language Kit makes using Japanese on your Macintosh computer easier than ever. Whether you're a native speaker or just learning the language, you can run Japanese applications and include Japanese text in letters, presentations, and reports.

Use the Language Kit to develop Japanese language materials such as brochures, posters, and business cards. Although the Japanese Language Kit does not translate text, it does let you easily input, edit, and print in Japanese.

If you want to improve your Japanese, the Language Kit can help dramatically. It allows your Macintosh to run popular interactive Japanese training materials.

The Japanese Language Kit comes with two

Kanji TrueType fonts, which produce high-quality output from any Macintosh-compatible printer. Documentation is provided in both Japanese and English, and you can type using either the Roman or kana keyboard layout.

As an extension to System 7.1, the Language Kit uses the operating system you already have. There is no need to store an additional system on your hard disk. The Japanese Language Kit also contains Kotoeri, the same, easy-to-use input method that is included with KanjiTalk 7.

Almost every major software program has a version that has been localized for Japanese. All you need to run them is the Japanese Language Kit and System 7.1. You can even use a non-localized program, such as Nisus 3.4, which takes advantage of WorldScript. Apple's new software technology, WorldScript simplifies the way in which a single operating system can support multiple languages.

Getting started with the Japanese Language Kit is easy, too. You can order it through your Apple authorized reseller or mail-order software suppliers by referring to Apple part number MI648LLA. And, when you purchase a Language Kit you can get support directly from Apple's own technical support staff. For the name of the U.S. Apple software reseller nearest you, call 1-800-732-3131, ext. 500.

See how easily the Japanese Language Kit can give you the power to input Japanese. The power to be your best.

Apple

Do you need to work in Japanese on your computer but don't know where to start?

Japanese
Software
Solutions

Well, wonder no more. CCIC has the products and the expertise to help you reach your goals. To give you the competitive edge. To give you the creative edge. When you buy from CCIC, you can expect to get great values and service for your money. We carry a wide selection of products from companies such as Adobe, Aldus, Apple, Claris, Ergosoft, and Microsoft. Our courteous and knowledgeable staff will be glad to help you before and after your purchase.

For Apple Macintosh Computers

EGWord

Fast, powerful word processing software.
By Ergosoft Japan.

EGWord Classic

Economical, yet capable-
EGWord's little brother.
By Ergosoft Japan.

CONTEXT/EDF

File conversion software.
Distributed by Ergosoft Japan.

Japanese Language Kit

Affordable Japanese capability on your Macintosh.
By Apple Computer, Inc.

KanjiTalk 7.1

The standard Macintosh operating system in Japan.
By Apple Computer, Inc.

EGWord is the word processor of choice for many users who write in Japanese. Why? It has powerful features to tackle any wordprocessing task. Create complex tables? Do English spell-checking in your Japanese document? Import graphics into your document in formats like MacPaint, PICT, and EPS? Print Japanese in vertical format? EGWord can do all of these things and more.

複雑な表の作成や、大量の文書作成も楽にこなせる日本語ワープロソフトです。文書作成のあらゆるシーンを想定した、きめ細かな文書作成機能をはじめ、操作性や応答性についても最高水準を実現しています。初心者の方はもちろん、パワーユーザーをも満足させる快適な文書作成環境を提供。

EGWord Classic is the economical, efficient, and simple to use word processor for people who don't need the extensive feature set found in its big brother, EGWord. It has many of the basic features required for simple, daily wordprocessing chores. Documents created with EGWord Classic are compatible with EGWord so that if you decide to upgrade in the future to EGWord, you won't be left out in the cold.

Macintoshのエントリーレベルモデルに最適なワープロソフトです。機能はワープロとして必要最小限に厳選していますが、パーソナルから一般のビジネス文書作成まで、十分に対応できる仕様となっています。EGWordとのデータ互換性も保証されているので、将来アップグレードする場合も、文書資産を無駄にすることがありません。

CONTEXT/EDF is a handy and indispensable tool for working with the Japanese word processor Ichitaro (一太郎) and EGWord. This tool is capable of converting EGWord documents to Ichitaro version 3 format as well as converting Ichitaro documents for compatibility with EGWord. This product is a must for cross-platform computing.

一太郎Ver.3形式の文書とEGWordのEDF形式文書を双方向で変換します。罫線情報や書式情報、文字属性も最適に変換。蓄積した文書資産をソフトの環境を超えて、有効に活用することができます。

Apple's Japanese Language Kit is the answer to affordable Japanese computing on the Macintosh. Just by installing the Language Kit in your Macintosh running System 7.1, you'll be able to run many Japanese applications and print beautiful Japanese text on any Macintosh-compatible printer using the included Kanji TrueType outline fonts. Japanese Language Kitを使えば、システム7.1英語版上で日本語アプリケーションを使用できます。日本語TrueTypeフォント付属。

Now available in the United States!! KanjiTalk 7.1 is the standard operating system software for many Macintosh users in Japan. A must for expert and professional users. Comes with floppies and a CD-ROM for easy installation. あの噂の漢字Talk 7.1がアメリカに上陸! Macintoshのエキスパートユーザ、完璧日本語環境が必要なユーザの必携です。

For IBM PC Compatibles

Products by Microsoft Corporation

MS-DOS 5.0/V

IBM PC compatible

Windows 3.11

IBM PC compatible

Word 5.0 for Windows

IBM PC compatible

Excel 4.0 for Windows

Spreadsheet software

DOS/V gives your IBM PC compatible the ability to work with Japanese applications. Since it's based on MS-DOS, you can use familiar DOS commands to access the world of Japanese computing.

DOS/VはIBM PCコンパチブルに日本語環境を提供するソフトです。

The Windows operating system software enhances MS-DOS to make your IBM PC compatible easier to use. Features like an easy to use graphical interface, TrueType outline fonts, and multimedia capabilities makes Windows the logical choice for DOS users.

Windowsは、誰にでも簡単にコンピュータが操作できる画期的なオペレーティングシステムです。上級者にも初級者にも高度な機能が使えます。

Word is the Japanese wordprocessor of choice for Windows 3.11 users. An easy to use graphical user interface and a wealth of word processing features makes it the best choice for people with serious word processing needs.

このプログラム一つでワープロのニーズを全て満たすことができます。優れたユーザーインターフェースで操作も簡単。

Excel is a powerful integrated spreadsheet software with a comprehensive suite of financial analysis tools and charting functions. Excel takes full advantage of Windows 3.11's ease of use and Japanese language capability. No business should be without it!

エクセルはとってもパワフルなスプレッドシートです。分析ツールやチャート機能がついてビジネスに必携。

Call us at 510.843.5626 for more information.

CCIC

605 Addison Street
Suite A
Berkeley
California
94710
Tel: 510.843.5626
Fax: 510.843.5173