

漫画人

JAPANESE
POP CULTURE & LANGUAGE LEARNING
$5.50

MANGAJIN

No.51

New Year's Cards and other traditions of the holiday

Comedian Issey Ogata

Robert Whiting, a.k.a. Guy Jeans

Japanese on Windows '95

1996: Year of the Rat

Conquer The Kanji Jungle With The Click Of A Mouse

New reference information includes Spahn & Hadamitzky's Japanese Character Dictionary, English core meanings from Jack Halpern's New Japanese-English Character Dictionary, and animated stroke order diagrams for up to 6,355 kanji.

Build custom lists, or reference kanji by combinations of radical, elements, On-kun readings, English core meanings, and more!

The new On-line Kanji-Reader lets you browse any Japanese text file as a floating window inside KanjiWorks.* Click on a kanji or compound, and pull up a wealth of reference information. Build a list of the kanji at the click of a mouse, and Quiz yourself with any of the 5 built-in random, auto-graded quiz options.

System Requirements
Macintosh with System 7.1 or later
2Mb RAM, 4-16Mb HD space
(Japanese Language Kit or KanjiTalk recommended but not required)*

Special Offer:
Mention Mangajin and receive a free Radical Mouse pad with your purchase of KanjiWorks.
Valid through 10/15/95

KanjiWorks™ is a revolutionary computerized kanji dictionary and learning aid. It makes reading and mastering kanji faster and more enjoyable than you ever imagined possible. An unmatched user-friendly layout and design, and blazing-fast reference and display makes KanjiWorks fun and easy to use. Unparalleled customizability makes it flexible enough to match any learning style. Comprehensive reference information allows you to reference and read kanji at the click of a mouse, without leafing through dictionaries. Student-oriented features like user-definable formats for export and printing of kanji lists, and built-in kanji images that allow KanjiWorks to run without KanjiTalk or the Japanese Language Kit make KanjiWorks the ultimate kanji program for referencing and mastering kanji.

No other program delivers so much – on any platform. Download the latest demo from America On Line, Compuserve or your favorite ftp site, or contact AsiaWest Software for a free demo and 20+page Getting Started Guide, and find out for yourself why serious students choose KanjiWorks.

	Extended	Advanced	Intermediate
Kanji Entries	6,355	2,229	1,006
Compounds/Words	58,000	8,000	4,000
Example Sentences	3,000	3,000	1,500
Spahn & Hadamitzky JCD module	✓
Halpern NJECD core meanings	✓	✓	✓
Radical Tutor with Animated brush strokes	✓	✓	✓
Kana/Romaji Readings Display	✓	✓	✓
Pre-built Kanji Lists	15	12	10
Unlimited Custom Kanji Lists	✓	✓	✓
Random Multiple Choice and Input Kanji Quizzes	✓	✓	✓
KanjiReader On-line Translation Tool*	✓	✓	✓
5 Sort Options for Kanji Lists	✓	✓	✓
Searchable Note Pad	✓	✓	✓
140+ Pages Documentation	✓	✓	✓
2nd Day FedEx Delivery (U.S.)	Free	Free	Free
Price	$195	$149	$85

* KanjiReader function requires KanjiTalk or JLK

AsiaWest Software
225 Park Place, Ste 1A • Brooklyn, NY 11238
Tel. 718-636-6726 • Fax. 718-636-6723
asiawest@applelink.apple.com

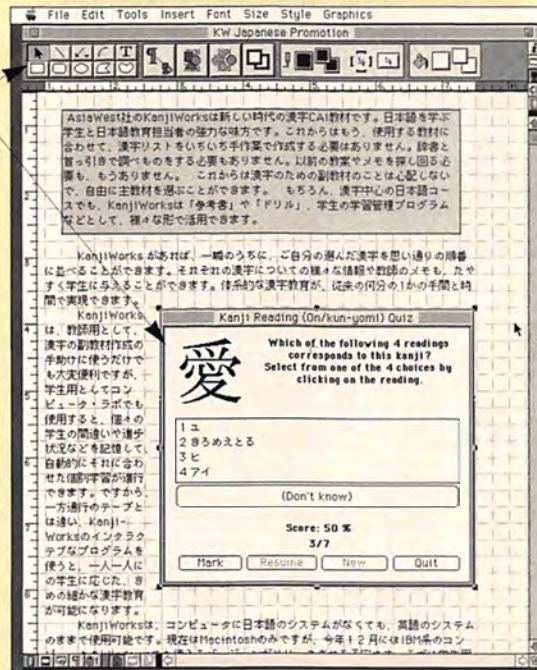

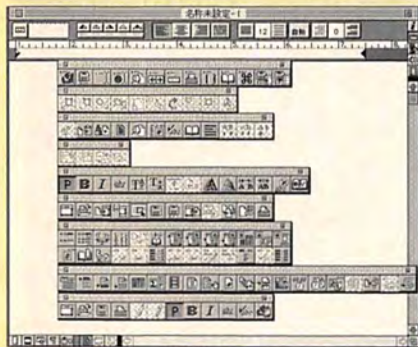

800-SYS-ASIA
Also available at Kinokuniya in NY, NJ, SF & LA

Available in Japan through:
CCIC Japan
Y.L. Building 4F, 3-38-5 Kamitakada, Nakano-ku, Tokyo 164
Tel. 03-3388-8753 • Fax. 03-3388-3732
CCIC.DVJ@applelink.apple.com

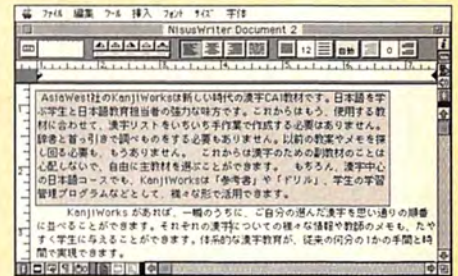

Powerful Document Processing In Any Language...

Powerful DTP and Graphics capability for precise page-layout in Japanese or English. Nudge graphics, guides, text-wrap, and layering are all available at the click of a mouse.

Packed with more tools and features than any other word processing program. The perfect bilingual solution for everyone from students to graphic artists.

Flexible user-friendly interface whether you want to work in English or Japanese. Only Nisus 4.06(J) lets you switch between English and Japanese environments so easily.

with NisusWriter

Both NisusWriter 4.0(E) and the NisusWriter 4.06(J) Super-CD give you unbeatable word processing and DTP power at an incredibly low price. NisusWriter 4.06(J) even features TSM Passport, an on-line J-E/E-J dictionary that allows you to reference any word in your document. Call or write to AsiaWest for a free demo, and learn how you can put the power of Nisus to work for you.

For a limited time, AsiaWest Software is offering special bundle packages featuring KanjiWorks, NisusWriter, Japanese Language Kit, and KanjiTalk that will make setting up your Japanese Macintosh system easy and affordable. Choose the right bundle to meet your needs, and save hundreds of dollars off retail prices! Call us, and we'll help you choose the right system to meet your needs.

Basic Bundle KanjiWorks Advanced 1.5 NisusWriter 4.0(E) $229.00	Japanese Starter-Kit Bundle KanjiWorks Advanced 1.5 Japanese Language Kit NisusWriter 4.0(E) $399.00
Japanese PowerTools Bundle KanjiWorks Extended 1.5 NisusWriter 4.6(J) Super-CD $349.00	Nihongo-Pro Bundle KanjiTalk 7.5 KanjiWorks Extended 1.5 NisusWriter 4.6(J) Super-CD $679.00

	NisusWriter 4.0(E)	NisusWriter 4.06(J)
Media Format	3.5" Floppy Disks	CD-ROM
Japanese Support (with JLK/KT7)	✓	✓
DTP, Graphics & Page Layout Tools	✓	✓
Multimedia Support (QuickTime, voice annotation, English TTS)	✓	✓
Unlimited Undos, Non-contiguous Selection, Multiple Clip-boards	✓	✓
Auto Vocabulary List Building	✓	✓
Japanese Menu Option	✓	✓
TSM Passport J-E/E-J On-line Bi-directional Dictionary	✓	✓
American Heritage Dictionary	✓	✓
Aris Graphics Sampler	✓	✓
Documentation	5 English manuals w/ 1,000+ pages of printed documentation	Bilingual On-line Documentation. English manuals available for $65
System Requirements	68030 Mac, System 7 3Mb RAM / 7Mb HD	68030 Mac, KanjiTalk 7 or System 7 w/ JLK, 8Mb RAM, CD-ROM
Price	$99*	$199*

* Educational Discount Price

ASIAWEST
ASIAWEST SOFTWARE

AsiaWest Software
 225 Park Place, Ste 1A • Brooklyn, NY 11238
 Tel. 718-636-6726 • Fax. 718-636-6723
 asiawest@applelink.apple.com

All major credit cards (Amex, Visa, MasterCard, JCB), and official purchase orders accepted. Site license rates available. Call for shipping charges on orders over 2-pounds. N.Y. Residents add 8.25% sales tax.

Japan And The Art Of Landing Feet First.

The Daruma Doll is a Japanese good luck symbol, bottom-weighted to always land feet first. To make a wish you paint in one of the eyes. When the wish comes true you gratefully paint in the other eye. This is the non-business side of Japan you need to know in order to understand its business side.

All the books you need to fully know the real Japan are now at KINOKUNIYA (Kee-no-ku-nee-yah)—in both English and Japanese.

KINOKUNIYA BOOKSTORES
The Largest Japanese Bookstore Chain in The U.S. and Japan

San Francisco
(415)567-7625

San Jose
(408)252-1300

Los Angeles
(213)687-4480

Torrance
(310)327-6577

Costa Mesa
(714)434-9986

Seattle
(206)587-2477

New York
(212)765-1461

New Jersey
(201)941-7580

features

page 16

16 Marking the New Year with Nengajō

On January 1st, billions of New Year's cards will land on doorsteps all over Japan, conveying a simple message in a remarkable variety of ways. Tim Screech explores the nengajō tradition. Also, Mangajin presents a nengajō photo album compiled from cards submitted by our readers from their personal collections.

63 "Stand-Alone" Comic Issey Ogata

His penetrating characterizations of ordinary folk have made comic monologist Issey Ogata a hit with audiences all over the world. Includes Ogata's essay "The Salaryman" in bilingual taiyaku format.

73 An interview with "Guy Jeans"

Surprise! "Guy Jeans," writer of the manga series Reggie, is none other than Robert Whiting, the well-known author of You Gotta Have Wa. Mangajin talks with Whiting about the origins and development of Reggie, and how closely it parallels the real thing.

manga

Binbō Seikatsu Manyuaru • ビンボー生活マニュアル 26

Kōsuke and his girlfriend join in a ceremonial burning of New Year's decorations.

Manga Shorts • 四コマ漫画 34

A humorous look at New Year's traditions from the popular 4-frame manga series Obatarian, Tanaka-kun, Take'em-on-ke no Hitobito, OL Shinkaron, and A Visual Glossary of Modern Terms.

Kono Hito ni Kakero • この女に賭けろ 46

Part 5: Banker Harashima Hiromi bumps into a very important person.

American Comics • アメリカの漫画 54

Calvin and Hobbes and Garfield celebrate the season—in Japanese.

Reggie • レジー 75

Part 3: Baseball star Reggie Foster faces his first Japanese press conference.

page 34

page 13

departments

11 Brand News (Innovative uses of the Japanese language)

A veritable vegetable delight.

13 Political Cartoon

Daiwa doldrums for Japan's Ministry of Finance.

58 Computer Corner

Windows 95 and Japanese: Are they compatible?

67 On the Bookshelf

Recently released books about Japan.

70 Cooking Corner

Mochi: The sticky stuff that's everywhere at New Year's.

language learning

Basic Japanese: Wakaru 94

Another way to be in the know.

Translator's Note 100

... a complete thought/sentence modifying ...

Vocabulary Summary 101

miscellaneous

5 Publisher's Note

8 Letters

9 Bloopers

102 Classifieds

Media from Japan's best minds.

Put Mikan on your Mac and learn to read Japanese the easy way.

Forget counting character strokes! Get word readings and meaning with the click of a mouse. Mikan comes on two floppies with two complete Japanese electronic books. So now you can practice and memorize kanji characters and words as you read these books on your computer. When you reach a character, word or passage you don't understand, Sentius Read!, Mikan's book viewer, immediately pops up with a definition! There is also a built-in Database with which you can create your own Personal Dictionary of tens of thousands of words.

Mikan helps you understand!

Mikan comes with Nikkei's A Primer on the Japanese Economy and Kodansha's Short Stories by Takashi Atoda - 300 pages of entertaining and informative text, with the furigana reading for all kanji characters, a 10,000 word integrated glossary derived from Kenkyusha's dictionaries and over 1,000 grammar notes that explain difficult phrases.

Mikan helps you build your vocabulary!

Plus, Mikan has a powerful database which allows you to build your own Personal Dictionary by copying words from the books, entering words from class materials, or importing data from other applications. You can also quiz and drill yourself using Mikan's powerful search and display techniques.

A demo version of Mikan is available on CompuServe, GENie, NiftyServe and on the Internet. Contact us for more details!

Get Mikan today! And learn to read Japanese the easy way.

Mikan helps you read!

Play Electronic Books on the Mac with Sentius software.

Order MIKAN For An
$99.00
All New Low Price!

New Japanese-English Character Dictionary

- System of Kanji Indexing by Patterns (SKIP) — a revolutionary new method lets you look up characters quickly.
- A large variety of lookup methods and four on-line topics menu allow even a beginner to locate entries with speed and ease.
- 60,000 senses for 42,200 words and word elements show how each character contributes to the meanings of compounds.
- 1,200 synonym groups — the first kanji thesaurus ever! $99.

Sentius Electronic Book Player

For Macintosh unlocks the door to all Electronic Book CD-ROMs that support the EB, EBG or EBXA standard. Just install the software once, and start accessing hundreds of titles in the most portable compact disc format yet. $129.

Order Sentius Electronic Book Player for Macintosh, and we'll include the Kenkyusha New Eiwa/Waei Collegiate Dictionary! (reg. $68)

Choose from over 300 Electronic Books!

Dictionary of Science and Technology

260,000 English and 350,000 Japanese entries. $99.

Bilingual Computer Dictionary

25,000 English and 27,000 Japanese entries. $99.

Manga Nihon Keizai

Based on a best-selling comic book. Great for those studying business Japanese. $65.

Call today for a complete listing.

Packed Like Sushi

Highly entertaining. Allows anyone to learn Japanese idioms and expressions. $39.

Japanese Names Dictionary

300,000+ names! Characters and readings in katakana and romaji. $99.

Perfect for anyone learning Japanese!

Kotowaza Dictionary

Based on the NTC idiom dictionary. Over 8,000 English & Japanese entries. $59.

Bilingual Nikkei Dictionary of Business

9,500 definitions and 18,800 phrases in English with definitions and phrases in Japanese. $99.

Sentius

To order, call 800-434-0474

Or fax your order to 415-473-0507

These products are also available through Kinokuniya bookstores.

publisher's note

Haiku has never really done that much for me. Although I recognize the skill and artistry that goes into crafting those 5-7-5 verses, they just don't strike that responsive chord with me.

Senryū, however, are different. They have the same 5-7-5 form as haiku, but they're comical or satirical. I think it's also significant that they are written mostly by amateurs; you don't have to know any stylistic conventions other than the 5-7-5 rule to write them. They have been compared to limericks, but senryū in Japan are a much more widely practiced form than limericks are in the US.

It's a measure of their popularity in Japan that most newspapers have a regular senryū column featuring contributions from readers. Daiichi Seimei, one of Japan's leading life insurance companies, sponsors an annual Salaryman Senryū contest which draws over 600,000 entries. We featured some of the winning poems from this contest in Mangajin No. 41. Here is one of my favorites, which will surely be appreciated by anyone who has ever worked in a Japanese office.

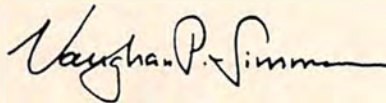

Uchiawase
Itsu ni suru ka to Uchiawase

Meeting to decide
 When we should schedule the Meeting to decide

The English translation here almost comes out to the same 5-7-5 pattern, but perhaps because the syllables in English aren't quite as precisely measured as the onsetsu in Japanese, you're generally given a little leeway.

Why do I bring up all this talk about senryū? We've decided to run a senryū column in Mangajin. We'll feature senryū written originally in Japanese or in English, along with a translation. Entrants whose poems are featured in the magazine will be awarded their choice of a Mangajin T-shirt or, for those with a more literary bent, a copy of our book The Essence of Modern Haiku: 300 Poems by Seishi Yamaguchi. (The story of how Mangajin came to publish a critically acclaimed book of haiku would require a little more space than I have available here, but it is a tale worth telling—at some point.) In the meantime,

Send us your senryū
 Win a Mangajin T-shirt Gratification!

Coming Up in Issue No. 52

- Gambling in Japan: An in-depth look at the 3-Ks— Keiba (horse racing), Keitei (boat racing), and Keirin (bicycle racing)
- Getting a Japan-related job in the US
- Manga
Tora-san (Otoko wa Tsurai Yo!): After a one-issue delay, this time for sure Crayon Shin-chan: everybody's favorite naughty boy goes skiing
Reggie: the conclusion of our tale of an American baseball player in Japan

Calligraphy $20 each Hand drawn in Japan.
 Wonderful gift items.
 Gold trimmed canvas.
 With the artist's stamped signature.
 4" 3/4 x 5" 1/2 x 1/8
 (3 for $55)
 Add shipping
 & handling: $3.50

Friendship

Peace

Love
 (Suitable for framing)

Shakahan

Hand curved

"14...$295

"6...$150

Add shipping
 & handling:
 $15.00 ("14)
 $8.00 ("6)

Send check, money number with exp date
 (CT Residents add 6% sales tax)

Or...

Simply call!

Phone & Fax 203-826-5505

Asahi Japan Collectibles

141 Wilbur Cross Hwy. Suite 182
 Dept. M101 Kensington, CT 06037

Use Your PC to Master Japanese and Chinese

Enjoy fluency by leveraging your Asian language skills with Smart Characters integrated word processing, reading, writing, translating, and learning tool for PCs. Handy on-line references, dictionaries, furigana, pinyin, and English annotations speed reading, writing and translation.

Learn and use kanji and hansu while creating your own documents, faxes, and vocabulary lessons.

Smart Characters

The definitive Word Processing, Reading, Writing, Translating, and Learning tool for Japanese and Chinese

- Annotated text entry and editing replaces cumbersome printed dictionaries, and is easily hidden for printing, faxing, or every-day word processing use by native or fluent speakers.
- Customize on-line dictionaries and dynamic glossaries to add technical terms and boilerplate phrases for rapid text entry.
- Edit and export left, vertical, and right-to-left writing to any Windows application.
- Perfect for individuals or offices that need language assistance communicating in Japanese or Chinese, correspond in both languages, or have difficulty running and using less flexible word processing systems or adjuncts designed for native speakers.
- The optional DoubleByte TrueType font interface accessory allows simultaneous use of any Japanese traditional, simplified Chinese TrueType font in the same document, under any version of Windows, including Windows 95.

Version 5.0 for Windows 5.1, 3.11, NT, or Windows 95 is just $179.95. DoubleByte TrueType font interface is just $49.95. DOS version 2.9 for Students is only $99.95. Call or write for a free brochure, or order today! Satisfaction guaranteed.

Apropos Customer Service:

8 Belknap Street • Arlington, MA 02174
800-676-4021 or 617-648-2041

漫画人 MANGAJIN

Editor at Large & Publisher
Vaughan P. Simmons

Translation Editor
Wayne Lammers

Managing Editor
Laura Silverman

Associate Editors
Lev Grote, Virginia Murray

Contributing Writers/Editors
Carole Addlestone, Barbara Baumel, Loraine Fick, Lisa Gilmore, Douglas Horn,
Donna Home, Hart Larrabee, Ikuko
Okuyama, Robert Pekkanen, Tim Screech,
Robbie Swinnerton

Advisory Board
Peter Goodman, Karen Sandness, Frederik
L. Schodt, Jack Seward, John Steed, Ginny
Skord Waters, William Yamaguchi

Art & Graphics
Kazuko Ashizawa

Cover by Kazuko Ashizawa

Japan Representative
Moteki Hiromichi
Tel. 03-3479-4434 Fax 03-3479-5047

Advertising Director
Greg Tenhover
Tel. 770-590-0270 Fax 770-590-0890

Marketing Manager
Kathy Saitas
Tel. 770-590-0092 Fax 770-590-0890
Internet: mjin-mkt@mindspring.com

Business Manager
Robert Lester

Subscriptions & Office Manager
Vicky Payne
Tel. 770-590-0091 / 1-800-552-3206
Internet: mjin-sub@mindspring.com
CompuServe: 74230,2555

Bookkeeper
Cathy Hanrahan

Administrative Assistants
Coleman Oglesbee, Latasha Roberts

Printed in USA

Mangajin (ISSN 1051-8177) is published 10 times a year, monthly except January and July, by: Mangajin, Inc., 200 N. Cobb Parkway, Suite 421, Marietta, GA 30062.

Second-class postage paid at Marietta, GA 30060 and additional offices. Postmaster: Send address changes to: Mangajin, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065. USPS # 006137.

The name Mangajin is registered in the U.S. Patent & Trademark Office.

Subscription prices:

$39.95/year in US.
US$50/year in Canada.
Overseas (except Japan): US$80/year.
Call 770-590-0091 for more information.

Exclusive agent in Japan:

Sekai Shuppan Kenkyu Center
Minami Aoyama 2-18-9, Minato-ku, Tokyo 107
Tel. 03-3479-4434 Fax 03-3479-5047
Subscriptions in Japan: ¥8,300/year.

Copyright © 1995 by Mangajin, Inc. All rights reserved.

• Calvin and Hobbes, by Bill Watterson, from The Indispensable Calvin and Hobbes, ©1992 Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editors Press Service, NY. • Garfield, by Jim Davis, ©1990 Paws Inc. Distributed by Universal Press Syndicate Inc. All rights reserved. • Kono Hito ni Kakero, by Shū & Yumeno, first published in Japan in 1994 by Kodansha, Ltd., Tokyo. Publication in Mangajin arranged through Kodansha, Ltd. • Reggie, by Jeans & Hiramatsu, first published in Japan in 1992 by Kodansha, Ltd., Tokyo. Publication in Mangajin arranged through Kodansha, Ltd. • Dai-Tōkyō Binbō Seikatsu Manyuaru, by Maekawa Tsukasa, first published in Japan in 1988 by Kodansha, Ltd., Tokyo. Publication in Mangajin arranged through Kodansha, Ltd. • Zusetsu Gendai Yōgo Benran, by Deluxe Company, first published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo. Publication in Mangajin arranged through Futabasha. • OL Shinkaron, by Akizuki Risu, first published in Japan in 1993 by Kodansha, Ltd., Tokyo. Publication in Mangajin arranged through Kodansha, Ltd. • Take'emon-ke no Hitobito, by Satō Take'emon, first published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo. Publication in Mangajin arranged through Futabasha. • Obatarian, by Hotta Katsuhiko, first published in Japan in 1991 by Take Shobo, Tokyo. Publication in Mangajin arranged through Take Shobo. • Tanaka-kun, by Tanaka Hiroshi, first published in Japan in 1989 by Take Shobo, Tokyo. Publication in Mangajin arranged through Take Shobo.

Mangajin is a made-up word combining manga ("comics/cartoons") and jīn ("person/people"). It sounds almost like the English word "magazine" as rendered in Japanese—magajin. All of the Japanese manga in Mangajin were created in Japan, by Japanese cartoonists, for Japanese readers.

GITCO

Your one-stop superstore for Japanese-language software and hardware. Call for your free catalog.

1-800-JAPAN-07

(510) 704-9129 outside N. America, email to gitcoinfo@aol.com

OPERATING SYSTEMS: From Apple's Japanese Language Kit and KanjiTalk for Mac to DOS/V, Win-J and the Japanese Windows Kit for PC, GITCO has an O/S to meet your application and system needs. And we always offer bundle discounts.

WORD PROCESSING & TRANSLATION: We carry all the hottest new programs for Mac and PC, including Nisus and the incredible Japanese Power Tools, PC-Transter and EGWord. All at the best prices, and all with full bilingual support.

LANGUAGE LEARNING: Our sophisticated learning packages teach you the fundamentals of Japanese reading and writing using interactive, multi-media technology, making language learning more fun and effective than ever before.

The Canon Wordtank Super Series

IDX-9500
IDX-7500
IDX-6500

This pocket-size powerhouse will meet your every translation demand. It's three dictionaries built into one. Input in kana or romaji. Search for over 6,500 kanji and 30,000 compounds by radical, stroke count or phonetic reading. Japanese-English, English-Japanese dictionaries feature over 170,000 words. More than 640,000 entries in all! The Canon Wordtank. When you're serious about Japanese.

THE SHARP ZAURUS: Look up kanji by drawing the characters right on to the screen. But that's not all: Massive bi-directional dictionaries, memory to store hundreds of pages of bilingual notes, optional fax-modem link and dozens of other features make this PDA your perfect digital ambassador to Japan.

And much, much more. Call for your free catalog today. (800) 527-2607

Sasuga Japanese Bookstore

The Source for Japanese Language Publications

Call for a free copy of the 1995 Sasuga Catalog

Weekly & Monthly Magazines
Language Texts & Cassettes Japanese Software
Manga & Anime
Dictionaries
Literature History Arts

SASUGA

JAPANESE BOOKSTORE

7 Upland Road • Cambridge, MA 02140
Tel: 617-497-5460 • Fax: 617-497-5362
<http://www.japanese.com/sasuga> sasuga@world.std.com

BABEL PRESS

KANJI PRACTICAL GUIDE FOR BEGINNERS

BY MIZUE MURATA

Guide for Learning Kanji for Those Studying Japanese in Countries Kanji Is Not Used

247 Pages (148 × 210mm) ¥3,600

It is very important for those studying Japanese to acquire a thorough understanding of the basic usage of kanji during the elementary and intermediate course levels. This textbook contains 400 basic kanji that the student should acquire first. Their meanings are clearly explained in English, and sample sentences and practice quizzes are given to assure understanding. Also, the material can easily be accessed by anyone because detailed consideration is made for the learning process based on the course design of An Introduction to Modern Japanese.

CONTENTS

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

INTRODUCTION

HOW TO USE GENKŌ-YŌSHI

TABLE OF KANJI INTRODUCED IN THIS BOOK

KANJI AND THEIR USAGES (Lesson1-30)

ENGLISH TRANSLATION OF READING PASSAGES

APPENDIX 1. Numerals+Counters

APPENDIX 2. Special Readings in This Book

五十音図 (The Fifty-Sounds Table)

INDEX (I) by Readings

INDEX (II) by Stroke Count

BIBLIOGRAPHY

BABEL INC.

1-3-6 Nishikanda, Chiyoda-ku
Tokyo 101 Japan Tel.03-3295-2304

letters

Letters to the Editor

Mangajin welcomes comments by letter, fax, or e-mail, although we reserve the right to edit for clarity or length. Please address correspondence to: Editor, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065. Fax: 770-590-0890. CompuServe: 74230,2555 Internet: mjin-ed@mindspring.com

日本語の投書も大歓迎です。日本在住の方は世界出版研究センターへ送っていただいで結構です。〒107東京都港区南青山2-18-9, Fax: 03-3479-4436

Mad about kon'yoku

I was very disappointed by an incorrect statement made in Mangajin No. 50's Bloopers section regarding mixed bathing in Japan. It would be most regrettable if your readers were led to believe that kon'yoku is "mixed and oftentimes promiscuous bathing." I have been to approximately 30 different kon'yoku onsen, from Kyushu to Hokkaido, and have yet to discover one that I would consider even remotely promiscuous. In fact, many kon'yoku discourage foreigners, because they seem to have this mistaken idea.

VIC CHUDOBA

Yamaguchi-ken, Japan

Sounding off on Brown

I enjoyed T.R. Reid's article on Nomo Hideo's first-year success in the Major Leagues ["Nomo Fever," Mangajin No. 49]. I did not enjoy your holding up for ridicule Kent Brown for foolishly believing he could interpret for Nomo at the All-Star game. Devoting nearly four pages to a minor event showed mean-spiritedness and misplaced priorities. And your snide questions and smug comments during the interview reminded me of a matador parrying a bull.

ROBERT A. HAYZER

North Arlington, N.J.

Kent Brown ["In His Own Words . . .," Mangajin No. 49] clearly managed to survive four years in Osaka, despite his tendency toward "grammatical errors, awkward constructions, and pronunciation mistakes."

In my work at Xerox Corp., I make a yearly visit to Fuji Xerox [in Japan], and I have many Japanese technical associates who are proficient in English. However, if I were to put them into a situation similar to that faced by Kent Brown, then an analysis of their efforts would doubtless uncover flaws such as "grammatical errors, awkward constructions, and pronunciation mistakes." And yet, my monoglot Xerox Corp. colleagues would gratefully state that the Fuji Xerox technologists can converse in English well enough to be understood.

In this world of multinational endeavors we have long passed the point where gaijin in Japan are exclusively graduates of Monterey, Michigan, Harvard, etc. Most gaijin these days are not language majors in search of ancient literature. Instead, we are scientists, engineers and businessmen who happen to be brave enough to venture afar, and we need all of the help and encouragement that we can get. If [Mangajin] is going to belittle the efforts of others, then you will have failed in your educational mission.

BOB NASH

Webster, N.Y.

It seems the Dodgers (also my home team) really struck out with Mr. Brown. The only excuse for his (mis)adventure in interpreting, with not only no experience but mediocre language skills, was that Major League Baseball was so desperate for someone to fill in for the regular interpreter.

It was pathetic to read Brown trying to cover up his mistakes with phrases such as "my inflection was incorrect" (as if that were the only thing lacking) and "Japanese contains a lot of nuance, and I articulated it" (as if inventing things that were not said at the time could be called "articulation").

(continued on page 44)

Sushi bar shocker

When I was 17 and living in Okinawa, I went to a sushi bar without my mother or older brother for the first time. When it came time to order, I said, "Mogura kudasai," intending to express "I would like the tuna, please." Instead, I said, "I would like the mole, please." The sushi chef looked at me and started to chuckle, saying that he didn't have mogura but he did have maguro. Needless to say, the next time I ordered something, I just pointed and said, "Kore kudasai" ("This, please").

ANN CREEDON
Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Tasty treats

I have been learning Japanese for the past few months, mainly for the purpose of communicating with my Japanese neighbor. One evening when he was visiting us, my mother served him a sweet she had prepared. He had never seen anything like it before and looked at it a little apprehensively. I tried to explain to him how the sweet is prepared, and what it is made of. What I had intended to say was "Kore wa goma kara tsukurimashita," which means "This sweet has been made out of sesame." In my over-enthusiasm, however, I said, "Kore wa gomi kara tsukurimashita," which translates to "This sweet has been made out of garbage."

GEETHA RANGANATHAN
Madras, India

We'll send you a Mangajin T-shirt if we publish your language blooper (Japanese or English). Send to: Bloopers, PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

Japanese High-Resolution Output and Digital Color Services

Tulip offers a complete spectrum of high-quality digital services, including drum scanning, photo retouching, PostScript® imagesetting, color separation, electronic stripping, composite film output and digital color proofing.

チューリップではドラムスキャンをはじめ、
写真修正、ポストスクリプト・イメージセッティング、色分解、
電子ストリッピング、合成フィルムアウトプット、デジタル・カラープルー フィングなど、デジタル分野の全域に渡って優れたサービスをお届けしています。

Tulip

1725 Montgomery
San Francisco, CA 94111

1715 University Avenue
Berkeley, CA 94703

tel: (510) 843-8171
fax: (510) 843-1870
BBS: (510) 843-0906

Pacific Software Publishing

Advanced Software Solutions for Writing Japanese and Learning Kanji!

"This is without question the best program I have ever seen for teaching the basic 200 Kanji characters..."

- Bob Schwabach, Universal Press Syndicate

NEW!

Kantaro™ Volume 1

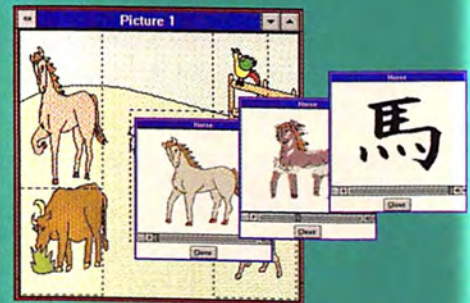

Multimedia Kanji Learning System

Advanced learning techniques and software technology provide a new method for learning 200 Kanji characters!

Kantaro uses pictures and animated graphics (morphing) to show how the elements and shape of each Kanji relate to its meaning. Watching a mountain, tree, or person morphed into Kanji symbols leaves a stronger impression and is easier to remember. Proven university studies over a 10 week period show that your learning can increase by as much as 74%, using mnemonic keys to help memorization, reading, writing, and speaking! Kantaro offers sound clips, games, interactive reading, and a 345-page textbook based on the program to reinforce learning.

Kantaro is an exciting use of today's multimedia technology. Order your copy today, and enjoy the most fun, easy, and advanced way to learn Kanji!

The most advanced and effective way to learn Kanji!

Price: $129

System Requirements:

386 PC or higher, Windows 3.1 or higher
4 MB RAM, 3 MB free hard disk space
VGA display or higher
CD-ROM drive, Mouse
Basic knowledge of hiragana and katakana characters

楽しい漢太郎

KanjiWORD™

Windows 95 version also available

The Japanese Word Processor for Microsoft Windows

Used by international corporations, universities, and thousands of individuals, KanjiWORD is the best-selling Japanese word processor for US Windows. KanjiWORD 3.0 features OLE 2.0 compatibility, bringing Japanese editing to standard Windows applications such as WORD 6.0. It also includes TrueType quality Japanese fonts, a Kanji Registration Tool, 100+ sample Japanese documents, improved formatting options, and an updated interface. KanjiWORD 3.0 is an affordable solution for anyone communicating in Japanese.

For those looking for simpler solutions, PSP still offers KanjiWORD Basic for $169. Upgrades from KanjiWORD Basic to KanjiWORD 3.0 are $99.

Call today about our educational and network discounts!

Price: $279

System Requirements:

IBM PC or compatible with 386 or higher Windows 3.1 or above
3.5" floppy drive
4 MB RAM, 8MB for OLE functions
10 MB free hard disk space

To order or for further information contact:

Pacific Software Publishing, 14405 SE 36th Street, Bellevue, WA 98006

Toll Free 800-232-3989

Tel: 206-562-1224

Fax 206-562-0811

Call about more learning and Japanese language software solutions!

ベジ食べるクラッカー Bejitaberu Kurakkā
Eat-Your-Veggies Crackers

For better or for worse, the Japanese seem to have become as nutty about health food as Americans. Witness the new Bejitaberu Bēta Karochin Kurakkā ("Eat-Your-Veggies Beta Carotene Crackers"), with 5 milligrams of beta carotene and 7.5 percent dehydrated vegetable matter per box.

Bejitaberu (ベジタベル) is a pun on the usual Japanese pronunciation of the English word "vegetable," bejitaburu (ベジタブル). Here the bu is changed to be so that the word includes the verb taberu (食べる), meaning "eat."

Thanks to Alisa Koike
 Fujisawa, Japan

Send us your examples of creative product names or slogans (with some kind of documentation). If we publish your example, we'll send you a Mangajin T-shirt to wear on your next shopping trip. In case of duplicate entries, earliest postmark gets the shirt. BRAND NEWS, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

クリエイティブな商品名やスローガンをご存じでしたら、資料を添えて、情報を編集部までお送り下さい。掲載分には、漫画人Tシャツを進呈します。同じ例に関して複数の読者から情報をお寄せいただいた場合は、郵便消印の一番早い方にTシャツをお送りします。宛先はBRAND NEWS, P.O.Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065, U.S.A.

Symbolic OCR™

SDK for Windows™

Add Japanese OCR to your Application

32 bit DLL 漢字

Custom Control

Great for: Document Management, Desktop Publishing/Word Processing, Language Learning, MT, CAD, Graphics.

MRJ, Inc., 10560 ARROWHEAD DRIVE, FAIRFAX, VA 22030-7305 USA
 Tel.:(703) 385-0700 Fax: (703) 385-4637 Internet: socr@mrj.com

BRINGING HOME THE SUSHI

AN INSIDE LOOK AT JAPANESE BUSINESS THROUGH JAPANESE COMICS

A New Perspective on Life in Corporate Japan!

The culture of the business world is so pervasive in Japan that it has become a popular topic for movies, TV programs, novels, and, of course, the manga read by millions of Japanese daily.

Now Mangajin presents BRINGING HOME THE SUSHI, a collection of business manga stories by some of Japan's most popular artists and writers. Go beyond the stereotypes and see the human side of life in corporate Japan!

BRINGING HOME THE SUSHI uses nine different "business manga" selections to take an in-depth look at various aspects of Japanese corporate life. They provide a unique peek behind the curtain that shields so much of the Japanese business world from foreign eyes.

The stories are presented with English translations in the "balloons." The original Japanese is shown at the bottom of the page for readers, Japanese as well as non-Japanese, who want to use the book as a language-learning aid.

BRINGING HOME THE SUSHI also gives you introductory essays by leading Japanese business experts to provide background and cultural context.

BRINGING HOME THE SUSHI presents episodes from many of Japan's most popular business manga, including:

• Section Chief Shima

A young manager attempts to overcome a misunderstanding by his female employees and win the loyalty of his staff.

• The Director, Hira Namijirō

A corporate struggle featuring a visit from Lee Iaccoca's manga counterpart, Icepocca.

• Tanaka-kun

The misadventures of a salaryman anti-hero, who demonstrates that not all Japanese are hard-working—or even competent.

• Diary of a Fishing Fool

Two men, trying to woo a client who loves to fish, break one of the cardinal rules of business but get the contract anyway.

• I'm #1

A novice car salesman learns to sell from his female boss.

Also includes introductory essays by top Japan experts such as Glen Fukushima of AT&T Japan, and T.R. Reid of the Washington Post.

7 Notes from the Frantic World of Sales
Author: Jiro Gyū Artist: Yosuke Kando

Essay by Herbert Glazer

The hero of the story Notes from the Frantic World of Sales, a fictional meddler is transferred to the sales department, it is clear the military terms are used through domestic makers—it's the stereotypes with giants such as Matsushita. The victories (in this series, certainty, goodness of heart, and American readers, this might be to encourage their employees is very familiar to the typical introduction of the "the result of the business entrepreneur actually former samurai then felt to rationalize their motto for their enterprises. They preceding Edo (Tokugawa) the Tokugawa merchant, we moral, they instead created the warrior") and the Confucius sword. It went beyond me. Later in the Meiji Period of new arguments which a The sweatshops of both legislation. In Japan this is that Japanese industrial revolution and that such legislation the bond between Japanese affection and loyalty. The essentially an extension

In that sense, there are no veterans or rookies! ③

The person whose bar graph is highest is the one who can walk tall in this company! ④

For Sales Department members, ability, pride, and status are all in the numbers! ⑤

The morning's meeting is over! ⑥

We're wasting time. ⑦

Sell and sell and sell for all you're worth!! ⑧

SELL!! SELL!! ⑨

Yeah!! Sell!! One appliance sold is one appliance's worth of happiness!! ⑩

Original Japanese text is also provided!

This excerpt is from "Notes from the Frantic World of Sales," the story of how a young recruit gets a rough welcome to the demanding world of sales in Japan.

ORDER YOURS TODAY! $19.95/¥2500

In the US—CALL: 800-552-3206 or FAX: 770-590-0890 • Mangajin • PO Box 7119 • Marietta, GA 30065
In Japan—CALL: 03-3479-4434 or FAX: 03-3479-5047 • SSKC • Minami Aoyama 2-18-9 • Minato-ku • Tokyo 107

Title of Chart:

行政 責任 ・ 低頭 深度
 Gyōsei sekinin / teitō shindo administration responsibility / bowing low depth Administrative Responsibility: Depth of Bow

Position 2 on Chart:

住専 不良 債権
 Jūsen furyō saiken housing finance cos. badness/inferiority credit
 Non-banks: bad credit Bad Real Estate Loans

Position 3 on Chart:

大和 銀行
 Daiwa Ginkō
 (name) bank
Daiwa Bank

Takemura:

こんなものかな…
 Konna mono ka na like this thing is it perhaps?
 Something like this, perhaps?
About this far, perhaps?

Caption:

答弁 リハーサル Tōben rihāsaruru explanation/defense rehearsal
 Explanation Rehearsal
Apology Rehearsal

Artist: 針 すなお
 Hari Sunao

Japan's Ministry of Finance (MOF), responsible for the budget, tax policy, foreign exchange, and bank regulation, among other things, is reputed to be the most powerful of Japan's influential ministries. Until a spate of recent troubles, it was also widely respected.

A number of occurrences have reflected poorly on the MOF this year, including a record high for the yen, the collapse of two Osaka-based banks, and the exposure of two influence-peddling scandals surrounding important Ministry officials (one resigned and one was demoted).

Then, in September, it was revealed that a bond trader at the New York branch of Daiwa Bank (the 13th largest bank in the world) had lost a total of $1.1 billion in bad trades over the past eleven years. Even worse, it turned out in October that the Ministry had known about the loss for a full six weeks and had chosen to keep mum at Daiwa's request. The US government is furious at the coverup, and the MOF has come under fire once again.

The Ministry has committed so many gaffes of late that Hari Sunao, in this October 13 cartoon, pictures Finance Minister Takemura rehearsing his official responses according to a bowing chart, in an amusing parallel to the way new bank employees are instructed in bowing techniques. Takemura is currently practicing his lowest, and therefore most contrite, bow of apology for the Daiwa affair, the most embarrassing scandal of the year—so far.

- jūsen is an abbreviation of jūtaku senmon gaisha (住宅専門会社, "housing specialization companies"), a kind of non-bank. Japanese lending institutions are currently in a crisis, mainly because of having made a large number of bad real estate loans during the bubble years; consequently, the MOF has come under serious scrutiny regarding its ability to regulate the banking system.
- tōben refers to the answering of questions, generally in a formal setting, where one is giving an explanation or defense of one's actions. Here it is essentially an apology.

Weatherhill

PUBLISHERS OF FINE BOOKS ON ASIA AND THE PACIFIC

SAMURAI BULLDOG

by Chibinosuke Dogizaemon

Doggedly loyal to his Master, the Samurai Bulldog's one-pointed concentration, combined with 4-paw drive, make him a force to be reckoned with. Practicing the ancient Way of Bulldog-do, he is a master of the military arts. Illustrated with delightful ink drawings, Samurai Bulldog will appeal to all top dogs, as well as those lucky enough to be their faithful retainers.

96 pp. • 5 7/8 x 6 1/4 • Over 50 ink drawings
ISBN 0-8348-0305-4 $9.95 (SOFT)

New!

ZEN FOR CATS

by Alfred Birnbaum and Riku Kanmei

"Does a cat have a Buddha-nature?" "Mew!" "Door open—stay in! Door closed—go out!" These are just a few of the Zen riddles that any cat solves with an insouciant flick of the tale, as he pads down the path to enlightenment. Zen for Cats will delight all those who've survived the strict master-disciple relationship that cats use to lead us humans to the truth. Deft ink-wash paintings capture the Zen essence of cats.

96 pp. 5 7/8 x 6 1/4. 70 ink drawings.
ISBN 0-8348-0275-9 $9.95 (SOFT)
ISBN 0-8348-0292-9 $12.95 (HARD)

STONE CATS

by Yoshimi Nagata

Yoshimi Nagata's stone cats are every bit as bewitching and entertaining as the furry felines who share our homes and lives. Choosing stones with accommodating shapes, he draws, paints and varnishes, to concoct a collection of cats droll and daffy, mysterious and majestic. Easy-to-follow instructions help you create your own family of fossil felines.

48 pp. • 9 x 8 • 70 full-color photos
ISBN 0-8348-0279-1 $14.95 (SOFT)

PURR-FECT SHIATSU

Tender Touches for the 90s Cat

by Hirotoishi Narikawa and Teruko Takimoto

Use the ancient Asian art of shiatsu to relax your cats and improve their health! These easy-to-learn shiatsu massage skills will delight cats and amuse human friends.

96 pp. • 4 3/4 x 6 • 70 b&w illustrations
ISBN 1-881267-07-5 $9.95 (SOFT)

THE KOBE HOTEL

by Sanki Saitoh; translated by Masaya Saito

Sanki Saitoh, one of the leading haiku poets of the twentieth century, was also a writer of offbeat short stories. The stories in Kobe Hotel are based on the author's experiences during WWII, when he lived in a run-down hotel in the city of Kobe. Wartime Japan is recreated in the adventures of colorful group of Japanese expatriates stranded in the hotel during the war. The final stories are set in the postwar days: a visit to Hiroshima, and to a brothel built for occupation soldiers.

224 pp. 5 1/4 x 8.

ISBN 0-8348-0274-0 $12.95 (SOFT)

EXPLORING OSAKA

by David Dunfield

Second only to Tokyo as a banking and trade center of Japan, Osaka is a center of traditional culture as well, and is minutes by rail from Japan's ancient capitals of Kyoto and Nara. In this first comprehensive English-language guide to the city, a variety of suggested sightseeing itineraries are included as well as recommended museums, restaurants, and hotels, a list of festival dates, and sources of additional information.

160 pp • 5 x 7 1/4 16 pp of full-color illus • Maps
ISBN 0-8348-0271-6 $14.95 (SOFT)

SUSHI MADE EASY

by Nobuko Tsuda

Sushi can now, with this book, be made easily at home by anyone, anywhere. Here are easy-to-follow instructions for cleaning and filleting fish. Includes 42 recipes with full-color illustrations demonstrating attractive serving suggestions. "A useful primer for sushi lovers interested in preparing it at home."—Publishers Weekly

152 pp. 6 x 9. 160 illus. 16 in full color
ISBN 0-8348-0173-6 $12.95 (SOFT)

THE ART OF JAPANESE SWORDSMANSHIP

A Manual of Eishin-Ryu Iaido

by Nicklaus Suino

The original purpose of iaido was to slay one's opponent with a single stroke of the sword upon unsheathing. It is practiced today a martial art to develop strength and coordination. This manual of Eishin-Ryu of "Pure Faith" iaido teaches the most widely practiced sword style and is illustrated with step-by-step drawings to help students from beginners to advanced, hone their forms and techniques.

240 pp • 7 x 10 • Numerous "how-to" figures
ISBN 0-8348-0300-3 • $19.95 (SOFT)

420 Madison Avenue, 15th Floor, New York, New York 10017-1107 Tel: 212-223-3008 Fax: 212-223-2584
To receive a catalogue or place an order: 41 Monroe Turnpike, Trumbull, CT 06611 1-800-437-7840

A NEW WEATHERHILL IMPRINT

SECRETS OF JAPANESE ASTROLOGY

The Science of Kigaku

by Takei Mori and Dragan Milenkovic

Before making any decision, the Japanese consult horoscopes, determined by Kigaku, the "science of the spirit." This is the first book in English to explain the fascinating, ancient science of Japanese astrology. With a wealth of charts, diagrams, and clear explanations to help you understand your number, color, element, and animal sign, you'll be able to discover—and outwit—your destiny. 144 pp. 5 x 7 1/4. • ISBN 0-8348-0290-2 • $9.95 (SOFT)

JAPANESE JIVE
Wacky and Wonderful Products from Japan

by Caroline McKeldin

English is widely used in Japanese product names and packaging, often with hilarious results. Is this simply more copying from the West? Or is it a genuine but misguided bid for scrutability? Regardless, if any truth about Japan can be gleaned from its advertising, Japanese jive will provide abundant grist for the analysis mills of Japan watchers, linguists, and pop psychologists. 80 pp. 8 1/2 x 5 1/2. ISBN 0-8348-0278-3 $9.95 (SOFT)

SECRETS OF CHINESE ASTROLOGY

A Handbook for Self-Discovery

by Kwan Lau

The product of several millennia of development and refinement, Chinese astrology enhances self-awareness, revealing a wider scope of life choices, and developing more positive and sensitive attitudes toward the world in which we live. 208 pp. 5 1/4 x 8 • ISBN 0-8348-0306-2 $9.95 (SOFT)

JAPANESE STREET SLANG

by Peter Constantine

The only comprehensive compendium of Japanese slang as it is used on the streets of Japan today. A useful tool to help non-native speakers of Japanese understand the forceful and colorful twists and turns of "street" Japanese, which also offer the general reader amusing and informative insights into Japanese thought and speech. 216 pp. 5 1/4 x 8. ISBN 0-8348-0250-3 $9.95 (SOFT) edited by Lexus, Ltd.

FINGERTIP JAPANESE

Don't let the language barrier keep you from having fun! The right word or expression to get you what you want or to where you want to go is now at your fingertips. Easy-to-follow, situation-based chapters will help you to: find inexpensive accommodations; eat at tasty local restaurants; see famous sights and offbeat attractions; shop for local crafts; enjoy Japan as the Japanese do; and much more.

192 pp. 3 1/4 x 6. ISBN 0-8348-0270-8 $9.95 (SOFT)

THE PRACTICAL ENGLISH-JAPANESE DICTIONARY

by Noah S. Brannon

A pocket-sized dictionary containing nearly 8000 entries both in romanization and Japanese characters. Introduces up-to-date, colloquial, and natural-sounding expressions to meet the needs of students, residents of Japan and visitors. Includes guide to Japanese grammar and pronunciation, a date conversion table, a listing of suffixes used in counting, and verb conjugation tables.

412 pp. 3 1/4 x 6. Appendices ISBN 0-8348-0187-6 $12.95 (SOFT)

JAPANESE NAMES

by P.G. O'Neill

The problems of reading Japanese names sometimes confound even the Japanese themselves. Japanese Names is a comprehensive dictionary of some 36,000 Japanese names by character and reading. "Indispensable. Easy to read and commendably exhaustive."—Times Literary Supplement.

412 pp. 5 x 7 1/4. ISBN 0-8348-0225-2. $22.50 (SOFT)

ESSENTIAL KANJI

by P.G. O'Neill

The classic guide to learning kanji, rigorously tested and refined by years of use in university classes. An integrated course for learning to read and write the 2000 basic Japanese characters now in everyday use, a mastery of which makes it possible to read most modern Japanese.

328 pp. 5 x 7 1/4. ISBN 0-8348-0222-8 $16.95 (SOFT)

The Rigors and Rewards of Nengajō

by Tim Screech

“Don’t you think it looks a bit lonely in the bottom left corner?”

My nengajō was not up to snuff.

“It looks sad down there.”

The word used was sabishii (寂しい, “sad/lonely/desolate”). Now, I have heard of people being sabishii over New Year’s, and certainly I didn’t want my poor New Year’s card to prompt any suicides. It seemed the one I had just constructed might contribute to the breakdown of the recipient’s mental equilibrium. And I had just written twenty-five of them.

The trouble, apparently, was that although I had penned all the necessary formulas, in the right order and in a good, crisp hand, my idea for spreading them over the space of the page was not elegant enough. I had to start over.

As became eminently clear to me with this first unfortunate attempt at writing nengajō (I have since then become somewhat more proficient), New Year’s is a big deal in Japan. The old lunar calendar, which begins in late January or February, has been abandoned for over a century (in China it is still popularly used), but many of the old customs and rituals remain, now demarcating the period on and around the first of January. Most Japanese agree that New Year’s is the most important event in a yearly calendar that abounds with holidays and observances.

A traditional aspect of New Year’s is making rounds of visits to thank friends, relatives, acquaintances, and business associates for kindnesses bestowed in the past year, and to beg similar solicitude for the coming year. Such visits continue to be a part of the New Year’s celebration, but thanks to the custom of exchanging nengajō, which came into vogue in the late 1800s, it is no longer necessary to visit everyone you know. You just have to be sure to put them on your nengajō list.

A nengajō is a simple affair, basically just a postcard, but its importance in this relationship-intensive culture cannot be overstated. The average household mails about a hundred, and some individuals with particularly wide-reaching connections send several hundred. Add it all up and you have billions of cards crisscrossing the country at New Year’s.

This might be similar to rates in the West for Christmas card sending, but there is a big difference: the post office has to deliver every card on New Year’s Day itself. As long as a card has the nenga (年賀) mark, it can be mailed anytime between December 15 and December 28 (letter boxes sprout special nengajō slots from mid-December, and massive sacks appear in the corners of post offices), and it is guaranteed to hit the doormat on the first of January. I doubt there's another delivery service in the world that could manage such a feat—even with the help of the extra 400,000 or so employees the post office hires for the season.

• up to snuff = 合格点基準に達している / 良質で gōkakuten ni tasshite iru/ryōshitsu de • equilibrium = 均衡 / バランス kinkō/baransu • crisp = 引き締まった / きりっとした hikishimatta/kiri ito shita • demarcate = 区別する kubetsu suru • solicitude = 世話 / 心配り sewa/kokoro kubari • crisscross = 縦横に動く / 行き交う jūō ni ugoku/ikikau

Cards can be purchased at stationery stores, which offer an enormous variety of designs, or, more popularly, at the post office. The post office offers fewer options—usually there are about four kinds on sale, including a blank one, at least two that are hideous, and one decent card that will generally be sold out by the time all except the hyper-efficient get around to nengajō shopping—but the cards are less expensive and postage-paid to boot. Another benefit of using the post office's cards is the lottery number that comes on each one (although recently, stores have begun selling the post office's lottery cards, too, with their own much more inspired designs on them). It is not exactly heartening to see that you have just bought numbers 236,748,284 through 236,748,301—but someone has to win. If you receive a card with a lucky number (there are several, and they are announced on TV and in the papers in mid-January), you get a prize, which can be anything from a sheet of stamps to a wide-screen television.

Nengajō designs are more varied than one might imagine, given the fact that they are all the same size and shape, carry basically the same greeting, and tend to use the same design motifs. Many cards portray long-life symbols like cranes and turtles, pine trees, and Mt. Fuji, while the vast majority depict the calendrical animal for a given year according to the Chinese zodiac. In 1995 infinite varieties of boars darted across billions of cards. In 1996 the same will hold true for rats. Nengajō merchants are currently stocking their shelves with cute rats, sophisticated rats, traditional rats, and even some rats that are unmistakably mice, hoping to have something on hand for everyone. Additionally, a number of Japanese (particularly young Japanese) will opt to design their own rodents, using colored pencils, watercolors, potato prints, or just plain pen.

Whereas for some Japanese nengajō are an opportunity to display their latent artistic talents, for others they are, much like Christmas cards, a quick and dirty way to catch people up on their lives. This is done through personalized notes and/or by scanning a photo onto the card rather than drawing or printing a design. Family shots and baby pictures are especially common, but people have also been known to disseminate photos of their pets. Many a wan-wan shot passed through the mail slots in 1994, the year of the dog.

The written part, a headache for the calligraphically challenged as sloppiness is not well regarded, has become much less intimidating in recent years due to a growing trend toward word-processed cards. Believe it or not, Japanese word processors come equipped with special keys, graphics, and printing commands for that very purpose. Properly, though, a nengajō should be handwritten. The greeting is traditionally a set formula, although individual variation is creeping into this part of nengajō as well. A current fad is to use English, in manifestations ranging from the safe if boring "Happy New Year" to more creative attempts like "Get on well, more than last year." But it is still more common to stick to the usual greeting, which goes something like the following:

あけましておめでとうございます。

Akemashite Omedetō Gozaimasu.

Best Wishes for the New Year.

昨年はお世話になりました。

Sakunen wa o-sewa ni narimashita.

Last year, you were very helpful to me.

今年もどうぞよろしくお願いたします。

Kotoshi mo dōzo yoroshiku onegai itashimasu.

Please be helpful this year, too.

平成八年元旦

Heisei Hachinen Gantan

New Year's Day, eighth year of Heisei

Never mind that you know they did not write it on New Year's morning, but probably on the train commuting to work three weeks before. Never mind that you know they know how annoyed you were when you were last forced to be "helpful" to them. It's all in the mind. But laugh not, for a carelessly worded card, or one where in the tedium of writing out all twenty-five in one go you messed up your kanji, can see you struck off the party list for years to come. Above all, don't make it sabishii. ❖

Tim Screech is a professor of Japanese art history at the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London.

Did you know . . . ?

3,911,000,000 nengajō are being issued by the Japanese post office for 1996. Lined up end to end, they would circle the globe 14 and a half times. Stacked on top of one another, they would reach a height about 240 times as tall as Mount Fuji. Pushed into a pile, they would equal 72,000 times the weight of champion sumo wrestler Takanohana. And spread over a flat area, they would cover an area roughly 11 times the size of Kansai International Airport.

• feat = 芸当 / 離れ技 geitō/hanarewaza • ~ to boot = その上 / おまけに ~ sono ue/omakeni • zodiac = 黄道帯 kōdōtai • Chinese zodiac = 干支の十二支 eto no jūnishi • rodent = 齧歯類動物 gesshi-rui dōbutsu • latent = 潜在している / 隠れた senzai shite iru/kakureta • stick to ~ = ~ に固執する / ~ を離れない ~ ni koshū suru/~ o hanarenai • tedium = 退屈さ / めんどくささ taikutsu-sa/mendokusa-sa • mess up = しくじる shikujiru

A Nengajō Album

of cards submitted by the readers of Mangajin

A store-bought card for the year of the rooster. Kinga Shinnen ("Respectful Felicitations for the New Year") is one of many common New Year's greetings. (The handwritten note on this and the other cards is a personal message from the sender. These can range, as on Christmas cards, from simple holiday greetings to virtual letters.)

謹賀新年

今年もよろしくお願ひ申し上げます 平成5年 元旦

昨年中はいろいろとお世話に
なりました!! 寒さに負けず(ハ)
ガンバロー!(新宿駅で寝ない様に!!)
今年も+カムラマンになって素晴らしい年と
なれますように...
〒187 東京都小平市学園東町1-2-37
電話 0423-44-5794番

遠藤理枝子

Another year-of-the-rooster card, probably made by having an illustration printed on a blank card (or doing it oneself with a personal home printer, a popular item among nengajō enthusiasts) and then coloring it in with pen and magic markers.

New Year's provides an excellent opportunity to pass around photos of the kids. The greeting is Geishun, which means "Welcoming Spring." This and the many other spring-related New Year's greetings reflect the old lunar calendar, according to which spring began in January.

この新しい一年がみなさまにとつてさらなる飛躍の年となりますよう心よりお祈り申し上げます。 平成五年 元旦

迎春

千610 01 城陽市寺田庭井76-66
ご希望がかなって 松岡久和・昌子
日本に來られてよかったです 恒平(5才)・蘭(2才)
ですわ。 ☎07745(5)7986

あけまして おめでとう ございます

ヒマナ時 電話 ちゅーだいや。

The year of the dog provides the added opportunity of passing around photos of the family pet. Akemashite omedetō gozaimasu ("The new year has begun. Congratulations") is the most standard New Year's greeting. Unlike the others, this greeting is spoken as well as written.

いっし 年末は久しぶりに
 あえて嬉しかたです。すれ末しくあえる時が早く 来るといいですね。お年頃張ってね。

1995・元旦

A year-of-the-boar card made by hand, using pen and colored pencils.

A handmade card for the year of the snake—most likely a woodblock or a rubber print.

Another card made by hand, using watercolors, for the year of the horse.

A store-bought card with a design inspired by washi, handmade Japanese paper. Seiyō (literally, "blue/fresh/new sun") is an archaic word for "spring."

迎春

昨日年末、 の見える宿
 舎から、 のなかの  へ ました。 当たりがよ
 く、夜には  がきれいです。 達が中学校と保育園へ通う
 道からは、 がよく見えます。
 が新しくなり、 も使えます。 今年もよろしく。

1995年 年元旦

あけましておめでとうございます
 今年もよろしくお願いたします

1995.1.1
 ことしおなかよくしよ うね。

〒422 静岡市数地1-8-6 咲花マンション101号
 TEL 054 (237) 8034

浦田 正・洋子 麻実・佳佑

Word processors are becoming an increasingly popular way to deal with long nengajō lists. They come equipped with special keys and graphics specifically for nengajō writing.

More traditional—and elegant—are cards displaying the sender's calligraphy. This one reads, Shinshun no oyorokobi o mōshiagemasu. Honnen mo yoroshiku onegai shimasu ("Best wishes for the new year. Please give me your favorable consideration this year, too").

All ages can get into the act. This child's hand-written message is Kotoshi mo naka yoku shiyō ne ("Let's be good friends this year, too, OK?").

Some cards have a distinctly Western feel to them. This one was most likely made using a personal home printer. (The kids are sharing a block of mochi, which is supposed to ensure good health if eaten at New Year's. The handwritten message, Kotoshi wa karada ni ki o tsukete, means "Take good care of yourself this year.")

Gashō ("Felicitations for the Beginning of the Year") is another common New Year's greeting.

The message can be solemn (Tsutsushinde hatsuharu no oyorokobi o mōshiagemasu, "Reverently, I wish you joy with the beginning of the new year")...

... or lighthearted (OH! Happii Nyū Iyā Beibii, "Oh! Happy New Year, Baby").

頌春

一九九五年もよろしくお願ひ申し上げます

平成7年 元旦

カラオケ アルコサウンド

〒335埼玉県蕨市塚越7-10-4
☎048-431-7785

1時間無料券

☆全日、どの時間でもご利用頂けます。
(他の割引券との併用は不可)
期限、平成7年 1月末日迄

1994.1.1 今

A HAPPY NEW YEAR

昨年はお世話になりました 今年もまたよろしく
 この一年がんばろう おたがいに
〒186 国立市北2丁目23-14 電話 0425-76-0360
 川崎 いずみ

Kotoshi wa yaru ken (yarū ken is dialect for yarū zo), said with the appropriate gusto, is something like "This is my year! I'm really gonna do it!" Ken also means "dog," making a year-of-the-dog pun.

Businesses take advantage of the holiday to thank their customers and advertise their services. This one, for a karaoke club, includes a coupon for one free hour. (Shōshun, an old expression meaning "in praise of spring," is yet another standard New Year's greeting.) ❖

Mangajin tapes are a sound investment!

“
What they're saying about the Mangajin tapes:

"I like the flow of the dialog—it sounds very natural; the voices have realistic emotional content, not stilted like dubbed videos."

"I feel that the tapes really helped me 'get' the issue."

"The tapes make the story and the language come alive. I can check my reading with the speaking; it's helpful and fun."

"I like being able to hear the Japanese at the normal speed you would hear in conversation. It's more natural sounding and interesting than most study tapes."

"I like the variety of formats—the translation following the Japanese on Side A and the uninterrupted stories on Side B."

”

You've probably read or heard about the Mangajin tapes by now. Audio reenactments of all of Mangajin's manga pages are now available on cassette tapes.

Unlike many language-learning tapes which have a single speaker reading the lines in a monotone, Mangajin's tapes feature voice actors who play out the parts and bring the manga stories to life.

Side "A" of the Mangajin tapes gives you each sentence or line of Japanese followed by a pause for repeating, then the same line in English with a pause.

Side "B" provides the entire content of each story in Japanese, with no pauses, then the entire story in English with no pauses.

If you've ever priced language learning tapes, you'll realize how much of a bargain these tapes are at $6.00 each. Subscribe to the tape series and you get ten tapes, one full year of Mangajin, for only $60.00. That's a yearly savings of $29.50 off the price you'd pay if you bought each tape individually at the regular price of $8.95 each.

But like most bargains, this offer won't last forever. Mangajin is offering this special price through the end of 1995—in 1996, cold hard economic reality sets in, and the price of the tape series goes up to $8.00 ($80.00 per year) and $10.95 for a single tape.

Lock in 1995 prices by ordering today!

Call: 800-552-3206

Subscribe to the tape series by the end of 1995 (that means now) and you can lock in the 1995 price of $6.00 per tape for one year ($60.00). Please note that in the US, tapes are mailed separately from the magazine, arriving 1-2 weeks later.

Mangajin's Money-Back Guarantee:

If you ever become dissatisfied with Mangajin magazine or the Mangajin Tape Series for any reason, you may cancel your subscription, and receive a full refund on all unmailed issues and/or tapes.

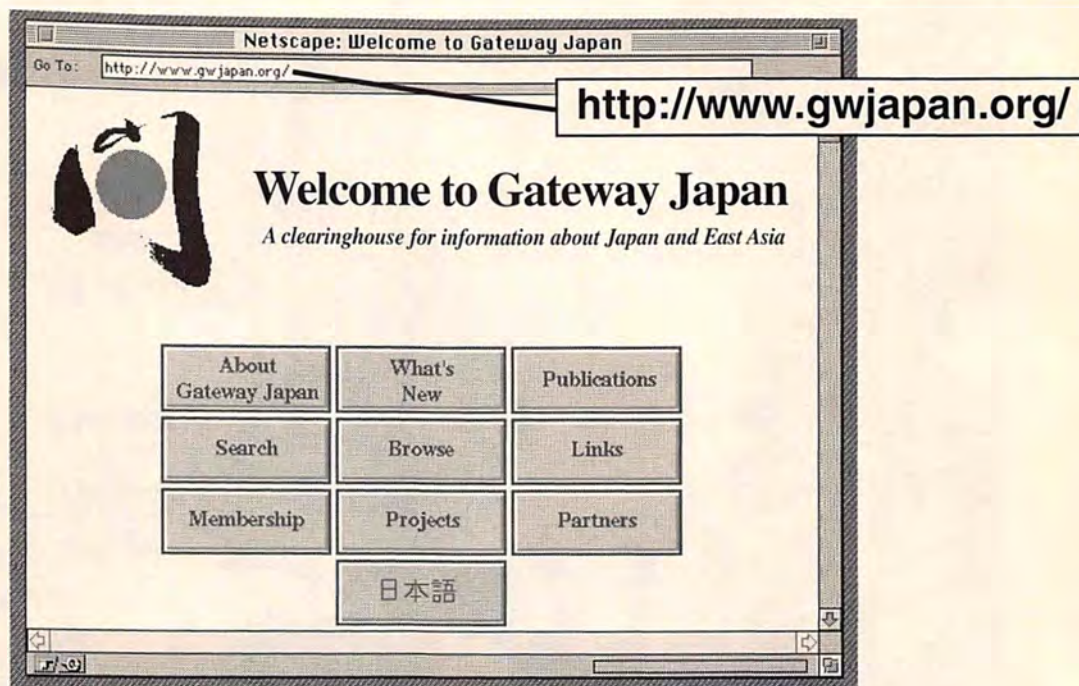

Order via email: mjin-sub@mindspring.com • Compuserve: 74230,2555

In the US: Mangajin • PO Box 7119 • Marietta, GA 30065 • Tel: 800-552-3206 • Fax: 404-590-0890

In Japan: SSKC • Minami Aoyama 2-18-9 • Minato-ku, Tokyo 107 • Tel: 03-3479-4434 • Fax: 03-3479-5047

Prices in Japan: ¥1,200 + S&H for single cassette tape/¥11,000 for one year (10 tapes)

Asia at your fingertips!

Now the leading archive of Japan- and Asia-related information is available on the Internet.

Full-text search provides access to 10,000+ documents on Business and Market Research

Science and Technology

Trade, Economic and Foreign Policy

Organizations, Services, Experts and much more!

Look us up at <http://www.gwjapan.org/> or call for more information.

Also, ask about our publications.

800-81-JAPAN

202-884-7646

Gateway Japan, 1424 16th Street, NW, #700, Washington, DC 20036

Gateway Japan

1 Title: 第 34 話 どんど焼き
Dai Sanjūyon Wa: Dondo-yaki
 no. 34 story New Year's decoration burning Story No. 34: Burning the New Year's Decorations

- dondo (or tondo; the suffix -yaki, which means “burning,” is optional) refers to a bonfire ceremony, typically held on January 14th or 15th, in which New Year's decorations and other things associated with the New Year are burned—in effect marking the end of the holiday festivities.

2 Narration: 松の内が明けると若葉神社の境内では「どんど焼き」がおこなわれる。
Matsu no uchi ga akeru to Wakaba Jinja no keidai de wa “Dondo-yaki” ga okonawareru.
 pine of within (subj.) when ends (name) shrine of precincts on/in as for bonfire (subj.) is held
When New Year's is over, a dondo-yaki is held at the Wakaba Shrine. (PL2)

Kōsuke: やってる、やってる。 Yatteru, yatteru. is/are doing is/are doing
“They’re doing it! They’re doing it!” (PL2)

- matsu no uchi (lit., “within the pines”) refers to the period during which kadomatsu (lit., “gate pines”—see next panel) remain on display at one's gate in January. The display period most commonly lasts until Jan. 7th, but in some regions it continues to the 15th.
- akeru can mean either “begins” or “closes/comes to an end” in various idiomatic expressions about seasons and periods of time. Here we have the latter meaning. To after the plain non-past form of a verb can make a conditional “when” meaning.
- keidai (lit., “within the boundaries”) refers to the “precincts/grounds” of a temple or shrine: “in the shrine precincts” → “at the shrine.”
- okonawareru is the passive form of okonau (“hold [an event]”) → “is held.”
- yatteru is a contraction of yatte iru, the -te form of yaru (“do”) and iru, which after the -te form of another verb implies either that the action is in progress or that it has taken place and the resulting state continues (the nature of the verb determines which meaning it is).

3 Narration: 「どんど焼き」は、門松やしめ飾りなどを集めて焼く神聖な儀式だ。
“Dondo-yaki” wa, kadomatsu ya shimekazari nado o atsumete yaku shinsei na gishiki da.
dondo-yaki as for gate pines and straw-rope decorations things like (obj.) gather-and burn sacred/holy ceremony is
The dondo-yaki is a sacred ceremony in which kadomatsu, shimekazari, and such are gathered up and burned. (PL2)

- kadomatsu refers to arrangements of (most typically) pine and bamboo that are set on both or either side of one's gate at New Year's to bring good luck for the coming year.
- ya means “and” between two or more items in a list, often with the implication that still more items could be added.
- shimekazari are New Year's decorations of straw rope and tree sprigs with strips of white paper hanging from them. Believed to ward off evil, sickness, and harm, they can be placed anywhere, but are commonly seen hanging over doorways, on the front of cars, and on kamidana (“home shrines”).
- atsumete is the -te form of atsumeru (“collect/gather”). Here the -te form acts like “and.”
- kadomatsu ya shimekazari nado o atsumete yaku is a complete thought/sentence (“[they] gather things like kadomatsu and shimekazari and burn [them]”) modifying shinsei na gishiki (“sacred/solemn ceremony”).
- dondo-yaki now mostly happen only in rural areas where tradition is strong, so this line of narration serves to remind readers what the ceremony is all about.

4 Kōsuke: オレ、初もうでまだだから、先に済ませちゃうよ。
Ore, hatsumōde mada da kara, saki ni sumasechau yo.
 I first shrine visit not yet is because/so first will finish/take care of (emph.)
“I haven't done hatsumōde yet, so I'm gonna go ahead and take care of that first.” (PL2)

Hiroko: じゃ、あたしももー一度。
Ja, atashi mo mō ichido.
 then/in that case I also more one time
“In that case, I'll go again, too.” (PL2)

- mōde is a noun form of mōderu (“visit a shrine”); the prefix hatsu- means “the first ~ of the new year,” so hatsumōde = “the first shrine visit of the new year.” Usually people try to visit a shrine or temple within the first three days of January to pray for good health and fortune through the coming year. The defining aspect, however, is not the timeliness of the visit but its being the first visit of the year, so even a visit at mid-month can be hatsumōde.
- mada da/desu (lit., “is not yet”) after an action noun means “have not done [the action] yet.”
- saki ni = “first/before [something else].”
- sumasechau is a contraction of sumasete shimau, the -te form of sumaseru (“finish/take care of [some business]”), plus shimau (“end/finish/put away”), which after the -te form of a verb can mean “go ahead and do [the action].”
- atashi is a feminine variant of watashi (“I/me”).
- mō before a number or amount means “[that many/that much] more.” -Do is the counter suffix for “times/occasions/repetitions,” so mō ichido = “one more time” → “again.” Of course, it would be a contradiction in terms to speak of doing hatsumōde a second time; she's merely saying she'll go with him and pay another visit to the shrine.

1 Narration: さい銭 は 貯めておいた 1円玉 361枚 だ。 Saisen wa tamete oita ichien-dama sanbyaku rokujūichi-mai da.
 offering as for accumulated/saved 1-yen coins 361-(count) is My offering was 361 one-yen coins I'd saved. (PL2)

Sound FX: チャリ チャリ
Chari chari
Plink plink (sound of a couple of coins hitting bars on offering box)

Sound FX: ザー
Zā (sound of dozens of coins cascading into offering box)

- visitors do not enter the worship hall of a shrine but rather pray standing in front of it. Before praying, it is customary to drop saisen (“offering of money”) into the saisen-bako (“offering box”—typically a large, waist-high box with bars across the top).
- tamete* is the -te form of tameru (“collect/accumulate,” or when speaking of money, “save”). Oita is the plain/abrupt past form of oku (“set/leave”), which after the -te form of a verb means the action is/was done beforehand, in preparation for a future event. Tamete oita (“[I] saved [them]”) modifies ichien-dama (“one-yen coins”).
- ~en = “~ yen,” and -dama (from tama, “ball/bead/bulb”; t changes to d in combinations) is used to refer to coins, so ~en-dama = “~-yen coin”: goen-dama = “5-yen coin”; gohyakuen-dama = “500-yen coin.”
- mai* is the counter suffix for thin, flat things, such as paper, CDs, computer disks, and coins. Coins can also take the suffix -ko, commonly used for counting small objects regardless of shape.
- zā* is an FX word for the pouring/rushing effect of water (a downpour of rain, a shower, a rushing stream) as well as of small hard objects (rice, dried beans, plastic pellets, pachinko balls, or in this case, coins).

2 Sound FX: ぱん ぱん • when beginning to pray at a shrine, it is customary to clap twice to get the god’s attention, a practice known as kashiwade.
Pan pan
Clap clap

3 Priest: 皆さん、そろそろ おだんご 配ります よー。
Minasan, sorosoro o-dango kubarimasu yō.
 everybody by and by/now (hon)-dumplings will hand out/distribute (emph.)
“All right everybody, we’re ready to give out the dumplings now!” (PL2)

- sorosoro* implies that the right time to do an action is approaching or has arrived: “by and by/soon/now.”
- kubarimasu* is the PL3 form of kubaru (“distribute/hand out”).

4 Narration: 枝 に さした「まゆだまダンゴ」を もらって 焼いて 食べる。
Eda ni sashita “mayu-dama dango” o moratte yaite taberu.
 branches on skewered cocoon dumplings (obj.) receive-and roast-and eat
They give us mayu-dama dumplings skewered on tree branches, and we roast them and then eat them. (PL2)

- sashita* is the plain/abrupt past form of sasu (“pierce/skewer”); eda ni sashita (“skewered on branches”) modifies mayu-dama dango.
- mayu-dama* is the name of a New Year’s decoration originally intended to bring good silk harvests and later thought to bring prosperity in general. Mayu-dama dango is the name of the “dumplings” or bite-sized mochi (“pounded rice cake”) that are part of that decoration: the cocoon-shaped dango (mayu means “cocoon”) are stuck on a willow or bamboo branch, and the branch is decorated with various auspicious symbols and good-luck charms. At the end of the New Year’s observances, the dango are roasted over the dondo-yaki bonfire and eaten.
- moratte* is the -te form of morau (“receive”), and yaite is the -te form of yaku (“roast”).

5 Kōsuke: おめでとーございます。 Omedetō gozaimasu.
 (greeting)
“Happy New Year.” (PL3-4)

Priest: やあ、おめでとー。 Yā, omedetō.
 hi (greeting)
“Hi, Happy New Year” (PL2)

- omedetō* (with or without gozaimasu after it) often just means “congratulations,” but in this case it is short for the standard New Year’s greeting, akemashite omedetō gozaimasu (lit., “congratulations on the beginning of the new year” → “Happy New Year”).
- yā* is an informal “hi/hello” used by male speakers.

6 Priest: 今年 は 連れ が あって いい ね。
Kotoshi wa tsure ga atte ii ne.
 this year as for companion (subj.) exists/has-(reason) is good/nice (colloq.)
“It’s nice you brought somebody along with you this year.” (PL2)

- tsure* is a noun form of tsureru (“bring/take along [a person]”) → “someone to bring/take along” or “someone brought/taken along.”
- atte* is the -te form of aru (“exists/has”); the -te form is being used here to indicate the reason he says what follows (ii ne = “is nice”). Normally, aru is used for referring to the existence or presence of inanimate things, but there are a few exceptions and this is one of them.

1 Narration: オレは しめ飾り を、カノジョは 書き初め をした紙 を焼いた。
Ore wa shimekazari o, kanojo wa kakizome o shita kami o yaita.
 I/me as for straw-rope decoration (obj.) she as for first calligraphy (obj.) did paper (obj.) burned
I burned a shimekazari, and my girlfriend burned the paper she'd done her New Year's calligraphy on.
 (PL2)

Hiroko: この紙の燃えカスが高く上がると、筆が上達するのよ。
Kono kami no moekasu ga takaku agaru to, fude ga jōtatsu suru no yo.
 this paper's remnants of burning (subj.) high if rise brush/calligraphy (subj.) will improve (explan.) (emph.)
 "If the burnt remnants of this paper rise high, then my calligraphy will improve."
"If the ashes fly up high, it means my calligraphy will improve." (PL2)

- ore is a rough, masculine word for "I/me."
- kanojo can be used as a pronoun meaning "she/her," but it can also be used to mean "girlfriend."
- kakizome refers to the custom of writing calligraphy, usually on January 2nd, as a way of praying for your skill to improve during the coming year. Auspicious words and phrases are chosen for the exercise, and the results are displayed until the dondo-yaki, when they are burned with the other New Year's items.
- shita is the plain/abrupt past form of suru ("do"), and o marks kakizome as its direct object; kakizome o shita is a complete thought/sentence ("[she] did kakizome") modifying kami ("paper") → "the paper she did kakizome on." The second o then marks kami as the object of yaita ("burned," from yaku, "burn").
- takaku is the adverb form of takai ("high"), and takaku agaru = "rise high." To after the plain, non-past form of a verb can make a conditional "if/when" meaning.

2 Hiroko: わー、あんなに上がった!
Wā, anna-ni agatta!
 (exclam.) that much rose/went up
"Wow! Look how high it went!" (PL2)

- agatta is the plain/abrupt past form of agaru ("rise/go up").

3 Hiroko: フーフー
Fū fū
 (blowing on hot roasted dumpling)

Kōsuke: ちち...
Chichi...
 (exclam.)
"Ow-Ouch!"

- chichi is a variation of achichi, a colloquial exclamation like "It's hot!" or "Ouch! I burned myself!" These expressions come from the shorter achi!, which is essentially a contraction of atsui ("hot"). As indicated by his putting his fingers to his mouth, Kōsuke has burned his fingers trying to remove one of the dumplings.

4 Narration: この火にあたると1年間健康に過ごすことができると言ふ。
Kono hi ni ataru to ichinen-kan kenkō ni sugosu koto ga dekiru to iu.
 this fire at if warm oneself one-year period/all year healthily spend/pass can/be able to (quote) say/is said
 It is said that if you warm yourself at this fire, you will be able to spend a year in good health.
They say if you warm yourself at this fire, you'll stay healthy all year long. (PL2)

- hi ni ataru is an expression for "warm [oneself] at a fire." To makes a conditional "if."
- kenkō ni is the adverb form of kenkō ("health") → "healthily/in good health."
- sugosu means "spend/pass [time]," and koto ga dekiru after a plain, non-past verb makes a potential ("can/be able to") form.

1

Hiroko: これで 今年 も 健康 ね。Kore de kotoshi mo kenkō ne.
with this this year also healthy (colloq.)“Now we’ll stay healthy during the coming year.” (PL2)Kōsuke: まだ 体 じゅう ほてってる よ。Mada karada -jū hoteteru yo.
still body throughout feels warm/aglow (emph.)“My whole body still feels aglow.” (PL2)

- kore de means “with this” in the sense of “by this means” or “now that we have done this.”
- kotoshi mo (lit., “this year, too”) spoken at the beginning of the year is often like “during the coming year/throughout the new year.”
- kenkō = “health,” and kenkō da/desu means “is healthy.” Here the da/desu has been omitted: in colloquial speech, ne by itself can function as da/desu ne (“is/are” + colloquial emphasis).
- -jū is added to other words to give the meaning “throughout ~/the whole of ~,” so karada-jū = “all over my body/my whole body.” Ga to mark karada-jū as the subject has been omitted.
- hoteteru is a contraction of hotette iru, from hoteru (“be flushed/be aglow/feel warm”).

2

Kōsuke: ホラ、特に 手 なんか こんなに。Hora, toku ni te nanka konna-ni.
see especially hands something like this much

“See, especially my hands, this much.”

“See? Especially my hands—they’re so warm.” (PL2)Hiroko: どれ。Dore.
(interj.)“Let me see.” (PL2)

- hora is an interjection used when wishing to show a person something, like “here/look/see/watch.”
- nanka is a colloquial nado (“something like”). It’s often used when singling out one of several items for particular attention. Here it overlaps with and reinforces the meaning of toku ni (“especially/in particular”).
- konna-ni (“this much”) here implies konna-ni hotette iru (“is/are this warm”).
- dore can be a pronoun for “which,” but it’s also used as an interjection when the speaker is about to try something out or examine something, with the feeling of “Well now, let’s give it a try/let’s take a look/let’s check this out.”

3

Narration: 健康 は 健全な ビンボー 生活を 続ける ための 基本 条件 だ。Kenkō wa kenzen na binbō seikatsu o tsuzukeru tame no kihon jōken da.
health as for sound/wholesome cheap/simple life (obj.) continue in order to (mod.) basic/essential condition is Health is an essential condition for continuing a sound, simple life.

Good health is essential if I want to keep my simple lifestyle on a sound footing. (PL2)

今年 も 健康であります よーに。

Kotoshi mo kenkō de arimasu yō ni.
this year also will be healthy so thatI pray that I will be healthy this year, too. (PL2)

- kenkō and kenzen overlap in meaning, but the former is restricted to (and preferred when) speaking of physical and mental health, whereas the latter is used to speak of the “healthiness/soundness/wholesomeness” of institutions, ideas, finances, etc.—or in this case, lifestyle.
- binbō = “poverty/destitution,” and seikatsu = “life/lifestyle,” so binbō seikatsu can be translated as “life of poverty.” But, as longtime readers of Mangajin know, Kōsuke’s chosen lifestyle is better described as “cheap/frugal/simple.”
- tame (“benefit/purpose”) after a non-past verb means “for the purpose of/in order to.” No makes kenzen na binbō seikatsu o tsuzukeru tame (“for the purpose of continuing a wholesome simple life”) into a modifier for kihon jōken (“essential condition”).
- de arimasu is the PL3 form of de aru, a more formal/literary equivalent of da/desu (“is/are”), so kenkō de arimasu = kenkō da (“is healthy/will be healthy”).
- ~ de arimasu yō ni expresses a strong wish or prayer that the described situation will come to pass.

It's a Manga New Year

New Year's (o-shōgatsu, お正月) is the biggest holiday in Japan, a fact reflected in the weekly manga magazines. Many of the manga series, especially the short, 4-frame "gag" manga (called yonkoma, 四コマ), take this opportunity to poke fun at the traditions of the season, and at the people who are faithfully carrying them out. In this issue, we have selected a number of 4-frame manga that do just that.

Children, like the boy on page 40, don't get presents for New Year's, but they do get otoshidama (お年玉, lit., "gem of the year"). These are gifts of money from relatives and neighbors, presented in specially-marked envelopes. Of course, the amount each child receives varies, but nowadays most kids are said to clear at least ¥50,000 (around $500 at current exchange rates). Parents put the money into a bank account for younger children, drawing upon it to buy them toys. Older children spend the money as they please. Five hundred dollars doesn't go nearly as far in Japan as it does in the US, but otoshidama proceeds probably pay for quite a few computer games at the beginning of every new year.

As with any holiday, there are certain foods associated with New Year's. Osechi ryōri, the traditional New Year's menu prepared in advance and elegantly arranged in a stack of lacquered boxes (called jūbako), can be seen in the manga on this page. Although there are regional variations regarding what goes into a jūbako, there are some basics that can almost always be found, such as the datemaki favored by Keith. Datemaki is a mixture of eggs, fish paste, and sugar, which is grilled until it attains a spongy texture, then rolled into a log and sliced.

Another New Year's favorite is mochi, sticky cakes of pounded rice served grilled or in a soup called o-zōni. So much mochi is served in the first few days of the year that people, like the family on page 39, can get sick of it. (See the Cooking Corner on page 70 of this issue for more about mochi.)

There are various "firsts" of a new year—first dream, first visit to a shrine, first attempt at calligraphy—that tradition has deemed significant. Many of these are thought to have an effect on one's fortunes in the year to come. In the manga that follow, we see two firsts: the first viewing of the sunrise (goraikō, ご来光, page 36) and the first visit to a shrine (hatsumōde, 初詣, pages 37–38). Shrines, especially the more famous ones, are swamped with visitors during the first three days of the year—in 1993, there were 85 million hatsumōde participants. The crowds of people, vendors, and TV crews contribute to a festival atmosphere that belies the serious nature of the activity itself, which has also become a popular date event. (Incidentally, the big rope seen in the manga on pages 37–38 is attached to a bell, which is rung after the offering of a prayer.)

The New Year's card (nengajō, 年賀状) tradition depicted on pages 40–45 is described in this issue's feature story on page 16. Suffice it to say that motives for sending cards differ, and some people sweat the details more than others. What matters is that everyone is doing it. After all, it's tradition.

図説現代用語便覧 Zusetsu Gendai Yōgo Benran A Visual Glossary of Modern Terms by デラックス・カンパニー

Deluxe Company

© Deluxe Company. All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo. English translation rights arranged through Futabasha.

1 Takahiro: パンク じゃあ 正月 なんて 関係ない ぜっ!! / 1年中 アナーキー よ。 よろしく。 Panku nyā shōgatsu nante kankei nai ze! / Ichinen-jū anākii yo. Yoroshiku.
 punker to/for New Year's something like is irrelevant (emph.) all year long anarchy (is-emph.) (greeting)
 “New Year’s doesn’t mean a thing to a punker! It’s anarchy all year long. Have a happy!” (PL2)

- nyā is a contraction of ni wa; panku ni wa = “to/for a punker.” Nante (a colloquial nado, “something like”) has a somewhat belittling tone. Yoroshiku is short for kotoshi mo yoroshiku onegai shimasu (lit., “I request your favorable consideration this year, too”), a standard New Year’s greeting. It often occurs without onegai shimasu, but normally retains kotoshi mo even when shortened, so saying just yoroshiku has a truncated feeling and sounds very casual.

2 Takahiro: イエイ、よろしく。 Iei, yoroshiku.
 yeah (greeting)
 “Yeah, have a happy!” (PL2)

Father: おっ、タカヒロ、あけましておめでとう。
O!, Takahiro, akemashite omedetō.
 “Hey! Takahiro! Happy New Year!” (PL2)

Mother: あんた、タカヒロ は 東京 じゃ キース いう ん よ。 Anta, Takahiro wa Tōkyō ja Kīisu iu n yo.
 you/dear (name) as for Tokyo in (name) is called (explan.) (emph.)
 “Remember, dear, in Tokyo he’s called Keith.” (PL2-K)

- akemashite omedetō (lit., “congratulations on the beginning of the new year”) is another standard New Year’s greeting. Since akemashite implies the new year actually has begun, this greeting is used only on January 1 and after. The greeting above can be adapted for use in December by changing kotoshi (“this year”) to rainen (“next year”). See p. 42.

- iu n yo is dialect for to iu no (desu) yo (“is called”).
- ja is a contraction of de wa (“at/in”).

3 Father: おう、そだったなあ。ほれ、キース、お年玉。パンクもたいへんだべ。
Ō, so datta nā. Hore, Kīisu, otoshidama. Panku mo taihen dabe.
 (interj.) that way was (colloq.) here (name) N.Y.’s gift punker too/also hard/difficult is probably “Oh, that’s right. Here, Keith, your otoshidama. Things must be tough for punkers, too.” (PL2)

Takahiro: あっ、ども。
A!, domo.
 “Ahh, thanks.” (PL2-3)

Mother: はし は これ 使って、キース。
Hashi wa kore tsukatte, Kīisu.
 chopsticks as for these [please] use (name)
 “Use these chopsticks, Keith.” (PL2)

- so datta = sō datta, past form of sō da (“is that way”), often used like “Oh, right” when realizing or remembering something.
- dabe is dialect for the conjectural darō (“is probably”).
- tsukatte is the -te form of tsukau (“use”); the -te form often functions as a casual request/gentle command.

4 Father: キース の好きなダテマキもあるぞ。パンクもたまにゃいいもん食わなやあ。
Kīisu no suki na datemaki mo aru zo. Panku mo tama nya ii mon kuwanayā.
 (name)/you (subj.) like(s) sweet omelet also have (emph.) punker too occasionally good things must eat
 “We’ve got your favorite datemaki, too, Keith. Even a punker needs to eat well sometimes.” (PL2)

Father: キース、和服もいけるねー。
Kīisu, wafuku mo ikeru nē.
 (name) Japanese dress also looks sharp
 “You look sharp in a kimono, too, Keith.” (PL2)

Mother: キース、ナンシーとはまだつきあってるの?
Kīisu, Nanshii to wa mada tsukiatтеру no?
 (name) with as for still keeping company (explan.)
 “Keith, are you still going with Nancy?” (PL2)

Mother: キース、おもちは何個食べる?
Kīisu, o-mochi wa nanko taberu?
 (name) (hon.)-mochi as for how many pieces will eat
 “Keith, how many pieces of mochi will you have?” (PL2)

Father: なあ、キース...
Nā, Kīisu...
 “Say, Keith...”

Chopsticks: キース
Kīisu “Keith”

Takahiro: もしかして、こいつら楽しんでないか?
 (thinking) Moshika shite, koitsu-ra tanoshindenai ka?
 perhaps/possibly these guys are they not enjoying (?)
 “Possibly, aren’t they enjoying themselves [at my expense]?”
 “Could it be they’re making fun of me?” (PL2)

- he uses the name Kīisu here where we would use “you” in English, so Kīisu no suki na = “you like [it]”; this clause modifies datemaki: “datemaki that you like” → “your favorite datemaki.”
- datemaki (“sweet rolled omelet”) is a popular item in the traditional osechi ryōri (“New Year’s food”) spread.
- kuwanayā is a contraction of kuwanakereba (ikenai), the “must/have to” form of kuu (informal masculine word for “eat”). The authors’ use of nayā (なやあ) here rather than nyā (にゃあ) appears to be their way of indicating a rural accent or dialect.
- wafuku (lit., “Japanese dress”) refers to traditional kimono garb.
- ikeru is literally “can go,” from the verb iku (“go”), but in casual speech it can have the idiomatic meaning of “is nice/good/not bad” → “looks sharp.”
- tsukiatтеру is a contraction of tsukiatte iru, the progressive (“is/are ~ing”) form of tsukiau (“associate/keep company with”) → “go out with”). To marks the person one is associating with.
- it’s common in casual speech to ask questions with just no, or by simply saying the verb with the intonation of a question.
- tanoshinde is the -te form of tanoshimu (“enjoy/take pleasure in”), so tanoshindenai ka = “Are they not enjoying themselves?” —implying “at my expense.”

図説現代用語便覧

Zusetsu Gendai Yōgo Benran

A Visual Glossary of Modern Terms

by デラックス・カンパニー
Deluxe Company

1 Man: 間に合ったみたいだね。 Maniatta mitai da ne.
was in time looks like (colloq.)
“It looks like we made it in time.” (PL2)

Sound FX: キィ Kii
Screech (sound of brakes)

- maniatta is the plain/abrupt past form of maniau (“be in time [for]”).
- mitai da implies “that’s the way it appears.”

2 Man: ご来光 だっ。
Goraikō da!
(hon.)-arrival of light is “It’s the sunrise!”
“Here it comes!” (PL2)

Woman: キヤー、すてき!
Kyā, suteki!
(squeal of delight) wonderful
“Oooo, it’s beautiful!” (PL2)

- goraikō is written with kanji meaning “honorable coming of light” (the honorific prefix go- is always used). The word generally refers to a sunrise viewed from the top of a mountain, but it is also popular to view the first sunrise of the new year from a beach, as they are doing here.

3 Voices: オォー すげー キヤー わー でた、でたー
Ō! Sugē! Kyā! Wā! Deta, detā!
(exclam.) awesome (squeal) (exclam.) appeared appeared
“All right! Awesome! Oooo! Wow! There it is, there it is!” (PL2)

- sugē is a masculine, slang variation of sugoi (“awesome/incredible”).
- deta is the plain/abrupt past form of deru (“come out/go out/appear,” or when speaking of the sun, “rise”).

4 Sound FX: ブーブー プププー ハバラピラピー プー
Bū bū Pupuū Papara pira pī Pū
(sound of car horns)

Narration: そのままだ日没まで動けない二人であった。
Sono mama nichibotsu made ugokenai futari de atta.
in that state sundown until can’t move two persons was
“They were two who in that same state could not move until sundown.”
And then they were stuck in that spot until sundown.

- mama means “as is/unchanged,” so sono mama = “unchanged from that/in that same state” → “in that same spot.”
- ugokenai is the negative of ugokeru, the potential (“can/be able to”) form of ugoku (“move”). Sono mama nichibotsu made ugokenai is a complete thought/sentence (“in that state, [they] can/could not move until sundown”) modifying futari (“two people/couple”).
- de atta is the plain/abrupt past form of de aru, a more formal/literary equivalent of da/desu (“is/are”). De aru is often used in narration to give a bit of a heightened literary feeling.

図説現代用語便覧

Zusetsu Gendai Yōgo Benran

A Visual Glossary of Modern Terms

by デラックス・カンパニー
Deluxe Company

© Deluxe Company. All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo. English translation rights arranged through Futabasha.

1 Narration: 1月 1日、あきらと。 Ichigatsu tsuitachi, Akira to.
January 1st (name) with January 1: With Akira.

- gatsu* after a number 1 through 12 designates a month of the year, so ichigatsu = "Month 1" → "January," nigatsu = "Month 2" → "February," etc. To count a duration of months, the suffix -kagetsu (or -kkagetsu) is used: ikkagetsu = "one month," nikagetsu = "two months," etc.
- the counter suffixes for the days of the month are irregular. The 1st is tsuitachi; the 2nd through the 10th, the 14th, 20th, and 24th get the counter suffix -ka (or -kka), in several cases with special readings for the numbers as well (e.g., 2nd = futsuka, 8th = yōka, 20th = hatsuka); the rest get the counter suffix -nichi.
- they have come to the shrine for hatsumōde, which refers to the first visit one makes to a shrine in the new year, to pray for good health and fortune in the coming months. People usually try to visit within the first three days of January. Hatsu- is prefixed to many things at New Year's to give the meaning "the first ~ of the new year," and mōde is the noun form of mōderu ("visit a shrine").
- to* marks Akira as the person with whom she does hatsumōde.

2 Narration: 1月 2日、たけしと。 Ichigatsu futsuka, Takeshi to.
January 2nd (name) with January 2: With Takeshi.

- Takeshi no doubt thinks this is hatsumōde for both of them, but strictly speaking, since hatsu- literally means "the first ~," this visit can no longer be hatsumōde for her—even if it comes within the first three days of the year.

3 Narration: 1月 3日、まさひこと。 Ichigatsu mikka, Masahiko to.
January 3rd (name) with January 3: With Masahiko.

4 Narration: 1月 4日。
Ichigatsu yokka.
January 4th
January 4:

Woman: 神サマ、誰が (praying) Kamisama, dare ga god-(hon.) who (subj.)

いちばんいい男か教えてください。 ichiban ii otoko ka oshiete kudasai.
first/most good man (?) tell me please

"O Kamisama, please tell me who is the best man."
(PL3)

- the traditional Japanese concept of kami is of countless "gods/spirits/powers" that exist everywhere in nature, but here she would be praying to—or consulting with—the particular deity to which the shrine is dedicated.
- ichiban* means "number one/first," but it's also the word used to modify adjectives to give the meaning of "most ~." ii = "good," so ichiban ii = "most good" → "best."
- oshiete* is the -te form of oshieru ("tell/inform"), and kudasai after the -te form of a verb makes a polite request.
- dare ga ichiban ii otoko ka* is a complete embedded question: "who is the best man?"; a question followed by a form of oshieru makes an indirect question: "tell [me] who/what/where is ~."

図説現代用語便覧

Zusetsu Gendai Yōgo Benran

A Visual Glossary of Modern Terms

by デラックス・カンパニー
Deluxe Company

1

Girl: ねえ、何 お願い した の?
Nē, nani o negai shita no?
say/hey what (hon.)-request did (explan.)
"Say, what did you ask for?" (PL2)

- nē at the beginning of a sentence is like "say/hey/look here."
- o-negai shita is the past form of o-negai suru, "ask/request [a favor]."
- asking a question using the explanatory no is common in colloquial speech.

2

Guy: えっ? いやあ、今年こそみつぐ君を
E!?! Iyā, kotoshi koso mitsugu-kun o huh? (interj.) this year (emph.) tribute-(fam.) (obj.)
卒業して、君の本命 になりたい なんて...
sotsugyō shite, kimi no honmei ni naritai nante...
graduate-and you 's true love want to become (quote)
"Huh? Well, er, I wished that this year I might finally graduate from being a 'Mr. Tribute' to being your true love." (PL2)

Guy: ハハハ...
Ha ha ha... (nervous/embarassed laugh)

- iyā here is serving as a hesitation/"warm-up" word, something like "well/err/I mean/that is."
- koso emphasizes "this year" with the feeling of "finally/at long last."
- mitsugu = "give financial support," and -kun is a more familiar equivalent of -san ("Mr./Ms.") that's used mostly for males, so mitsugu-kun is like "Mr. Tribute/tribute man." It's a slang term for the guy(s) a girl counts on to give her presents and pay for things. Honmei (or honmei-kun) refers to the guy she really likes.
- sotsugyō shite is the -te form of sotsugyō suru ("graduate").
- kimi is an informal, mostly masculine word for "you," used to address an equal or subordinate.
- naritai is the "want to" form of naru ("become"); ni marks the desired result, so honmei ni naritai = "want to become [your] true love."
- nante is a colloquial quotative form that belittles the preceding, typically implying that it is ridiculous or silly. Here it gives the feeling that he's embarrassed.

3

Girl: ちょっとお、10円 でそれは ないんじゃない?
Chotto, jūen de sore wa nai n ja nai?
a little 10 yen with that as for not exist isn't it?
"Just a minute. Don't you think that's rather a lot to ask for ten yen?" (PL2)

Guy: え、そう かなあ。それじゃあっと
E, sō ka naa. Sore jā tto huh? that way (?) (colloq.) in that case (emph.)
"Huh? You think so? In that case..." (PL2)

- chotto (lit., "a little") can be used by itself to mean "just a minute/hold it."
- sore wa nai (lit., "that doesn't exist") is an idiomatic expression for "that's not reasonable/that's going too far/that's asking too much."
- n ja nai spoken with the intonation of a question is like "Isn't it the case that ~?"—often implying, "don't you think it's ~?"

4

FX: ハラリ
Harari (effect of ¥1,000 bill fluttering down)

Girl: あっ、それ、私 につかわせて。
A!?! sore, watashi ni tsukawasete.
(interj.) that I/me to let use-(request)
"Oh, let me use that." (PL2)

Guy: えっ?
E!?! "Huh?" (PL2)

Girl: グッチ、エルメス、ヴィトン、シャネル。
(praying) Guchi, Erumesu, Viton, Shaneru
(brand names)
Gucci, Hermes, Louis Vuitton, Chanel.

- tsukawasete is the -te form of tsukawaseru, the causative ("make/let") form of tsukau ("use"); the -te form is serving as an informal request. Ni marks the doer of the action that is caused or permitted, so watashi ni tsukawasete = "(please) let me use [it]"—meaning "let me apply that to my wish/prayer."

by 秋月りす / Akizuki Risu

1 Mother: 晩ごはん、なににしようかしらね?
Bangohan, nani ni shiyō kashira ne?
evening meal what to shall make I wonder (colloq.)
“I wonder what I should make for dinner.” (PL2)

Son: ラーメンがいいな、ラーメン!!
Rāmen ga ii na, rāmen.
ramen (subj.) good (colloq.) ramen
“Ramen would be good. Ramen!” (PL2)

- shiyō is the volitional (“let’s/I shall”) form of suru (“do”); ni suru = “make it” in the sense of deciding among several possibilities, so nani ni shiyō ka = “what shall I make it/choose/decide on?” When speaking of preparing a meal, this becomes simply, “what shall I make for ~?”
- ~ ga ii is used to express a choice or preference (ii is the adjective “good/fine”).

2 Mother: そうね。野菜たくさんいれて。 Sō ne. Yasai takusan irete.
that way (colloq.) vegetables plenty put in-and “Good idea. I’ll put in lots of vegetables.” (PL2)

Son & Daughter: よかったー。 Yokattawas good “What a relief!” (PL2)

FX: ホ
Ho
Whew! (effect of breathing sigh of relief)

- sō ne expresses agreement or acceptance, like “that’s true, isn’t it/that’s a good idea, isn’t it” → “Right/OK/maybe so/good idea.”
- irete is the -te form of ireru (“put in”).
- yokatta is the plain/abrupt past form of ii/yoi (“good/fine”); the past form is often used idiomatically to mean “I’m glad/I’m relieved.”

3 Son: あーっ、うまい! / はーっ
Ā! / umai! / Hā!
(interj.) good/delicious (sigh of satisfaction)
“Oh, this is great! Aaah.” (PL2)

Daughter: お正月からずーっとおもちだったもんねー。
O-shōgatsu kara zūtto o-mochi datta mon ne.
New Year’s from all along (hon.)-mochi was because (colloq.)
“Because ever since New Year’s it’s been mochi all along.”
“Yeah, we’ve had nothing but mochi since New Year’s.” (PL2)

Father: ん?
N?
“Hunh?” (effect of noticing something unexpected)

- at New Year’s, families make or buy large quantities of mochi and sometimes “overdose” on it. The honorific prefix o- is used quite a bit more by females than males.

4 Father: 底にもちが...
Soko ni mochi ga... bottom on/at mochi (subj.)
“At the bottom, mochi...”
“There’s a piece of mochi at the bottom.” (PL2)

Son: あー、自分だけ入れてないっ。
Ā, jibun dake iretenai!
(interj.) oneself only has not put in “Hey, for herself only, she didn’t put any in.”
“Hey, she didn’t give herself any!” (PL2)

Mother: 最初に食べたのよ。 / ホントよ。 Saisho ni tabechatta no yo. / Honto yo.
beginning at ate up (explan.) (emph.) truth (emph.)
“I ate it first. / Really!” (PL2)

- jibun = “oneself,” in this case referring to the mother “herself.”
- iretenai is a contraction of irete inai, negative of irete iru (“has put in”), from ireru (“put in”).
- tabechatta is a contraction of tabete shimatta, the -te form of taberu (“eat”) plus the past form of shimau (“end/finish”), which after the -te form of another verb can imply the action has already been completed.

タケエモン 竹衛門家のひとびと

Take'emon-ke no Hitobito The Take'emon Clan

by 佐藤竹衛門 / Satō Take'emon

1 Boy: 今年 も オジサン お年賀 に くる かな
Kotoshi mo ojisan o-nenga ni kuru ka nā?
 this year also uncle (hon.)-N.Y.'s visit for will come wonder if "I wonder if Uncle will come for a New Year's visit again this year." (PL2)

- wa to mark ojisan ("uncle") as the topic has been omitted.
- nenga can refer to "New Year's greetings" or to a "New Year's visit/call"; ni marks this as the purpose of kuru ("come"), so in this case it's the latter meaning. If you add the suffix -jō, meaning "letter/epistle," it makes the word for "New Year's greeting card": nengajō.
- ka na (or often ka nā) asks a conjectural question: "I wonder if ~."

2 Father: 今年 は ムリ じゃない かな。
Kotoshi wa muri ja nai ka na.
 this year as for impossible is not wonder if "I wonder if it isn't impossible this year."
"I don't think he can come this year." (PL2)

- ja nai ka na makes a negative conjecture: "I wonder if it isn't ~"—often meaning "I think probably ~," or when it follows a negative, "I don't think ~."

3 Boy: おかーさん、オジサンの 住所 おしえて よ。
Okāsān, ojisan no jūsho oshiete yō.
 mother uncle 's address tell me-(req.) (emph.)
"Mo-o-om, tell me Uncle's address."
"Mo-o-om, what's Uncle's address?" (PL2)

- many manga artists like to use the katakana long mark instead of adding hiragana for long vowels. The normal spellings for okāsān and otōsan (next page) are おかあさん and おとうさん.
- oshiete is the -te form of oshieru ("tell/inform"); the -te form is being used here as an informal request.

4 Boy: これで よし... と。 Kore de yoshi... to.
 this with is good/OK (emph.)
"There, that should do it." (PL2)

On Card: おじさん、あけましておめでとうございます。
Ojisan, akemashite omedetō gozaimasu.
 uncle (greeting)
Dear Uncle, Happy New Year.

お年玉 の ふり込み先 は
Otoshidama no furikomi-saki wa
 (hon.)-N.Y.'s gift of bank transfer account as for 富士山 銀行 青山 支店...
Fujisan Ginkō Aoyama Shiten...
 (name) bank (name) branch
Please send my otoshidama by bank transfer to Fujisan Bank, Aoyama Branch...

- yoshi is a form of ii/yo! ("good/fine/OK"), so kore de yoshi is literally "With this it is fine" → "This does it/takes care of it."
- to (or tto) is sometimes used at the end of a sentence merely for emphasis. This use tends to occur when the person is declaring an intention or plan, or remarking on what he is in the process of doing.
- akemashite omedetō gozaimasu (lit., "congratulations on the beginning of the new year") is a standard New Year's greeting for January 1 and after.
- furikomi is a noun for "bank transfer" (the verb is furikomu, "pay by bank transfer"), and the suffix -saki essentially means "destination/target," so furikomi-saki refers to the bank and account number where the transfer should be directed.

© Satō Take'emon. All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo. English translation rights arranged through Futabasha.

竹衛門家のひとびと

Take'emon-ke no Hitobito The Take'emon Clan

by 佐藤竹衛門 / Satō Take'emon

1 Boy: これはおとさんの分。
Kore wa otōsan no bun.
this/these as for father 's portion
"These are Dad's." (PL2)

2 Boy: これはおかさんの分。
Kore wa okāsan no bun.
this/these as for mother 's portion
"These are Mom's." (PL2)

On Cards: ○○○ クリーニング Maru-maru-maru Kuriiningu blank-blank cleaning
So-and-So Dry Cleaning

○○○ 美容室 / 午
Maru-maru-maru Biyō-shitsu / Uma blank-blank beauty parlor horse

So-and-So Beauty Parlor / [Year of the] Horse

大売出し / 初売り / ○○○ スーパー ō-uridashi / Hatsu-uri / Maru-maru-maru Sūpā big selling first sale blank-blank supermarket Huge Sale / New Year's Sale / So-and-So Supermarket

- , read maru (literally, "circle"), is a common way of indicating a blank or a variable when writing Japanese. They most commonly come in twos: ○○ (maru-maru).
- kuriiningu* is from the English "cleaning," but in Japanese it refers specifically to "dry cleaning."
- 午 (uma) refers to the "year of the horse" in the twelve-year Asian cycle for designating years with animals (the next year of the horse will be 2002). In most other contexts, uma ("horse") is written with the kanji 馬.
- uri-* is from uru ("sell"), dashi is from dasu ("put out"), and the combination uridashi is a noun meaning "putting out for sale" → "(bargain/discount) sale." The prefix ō- indicates "large/large-scale."
- the prefix hatsu- is attached to many New Year's terms to designate "the first ~ of the new year" → hatsu-uri = "first selling/sale of the year."
- sūpā* by itself is short for sūpāmāketto, the katakana rendering of the English "supermarket."

3 Boy: ははっ、大売出しのばかりじゃん。
Ha ha!, ō-uridashi no bakkari jan.
(laugh) sale of/about only are they not "Ha ha, they're all for sales." (PL2)

- ō-uridashi no* here essentially implies ō-uridashi no nengajō, "New Year's cards about sales."
- bakkari* is a colloquial bakari ("only").
- jan* is a colloquial contraction of ja nai ka ("is it not?")—in this case a purely rhetorical question.

4 Boy: ボクなんか金融機関からきてんだぞ。
Boku nanka kin'yū kikan kara kite nda zo.
I/me as for financial organ from has come (explan.) (emph.)
"I got one from a financial institution!" (PL2)

On Card: 迎春 / お年玉はぜひ、
Geishun / Otoshidama wa zehi,
(greeting) N.Y.'s gift as for by all means 当富士山銀行におねがいします。 tō-Fujisan Ginkō ni onegai shimasu.

this/our (name) bank to [we] request/please

Greetings for the New Year / Please bring your otoshidama to Fujisan Bank. (PL3-4)

- nanka* here can be considered a colloquial equivalent of wa ("as for").
- kite n* is a contraction of kite iru ("has come," from kuru, "come") plus the explanatory no.
- gei-* is "welcome/greet," and shun (春) means "spring." Since January–March was spring according to the old lunar calendar, January 1 was the first day of spring. Geishun is a New Year's greeting commonly used on nengajō as well as on billboards, fliers, in commercials, etc.
- tō-* is a prefix meaning "this/the said."

田中くん Tanaka-kun

by タナカヒロシ / Tanaka Hiroshi

1 Tanaka-kun: わあ!
Wā!
(exclam.)
“Yikes!” (PL2)

2 Tanaka-kun: おまわりさん、大変です!
Omawari-sān, taihen desu!
policeman-(hon.) terrible/alarming situation is “Mr. Policeman, this is alarming!”
“Mr. Policeman, I’m in serious trouble!” (PL2)

- omawari-san is a polite word for “policeman.” It comes from mawaru (“go around”), referring to the constant neighborhood patrolling that Japanese policemen do, so it might literally be translated as “Honorable Mr. Walk-Around.” Though it’s a polite term, it doesn’t feel especially formal; in fact, it has something of a familiar tone.
- taihen refers to a “serious/troublesome/alarming situation,” and taihen da! desu! is used as an exclamation in response to any cause for alarm.

3 Tanaka-kun: ボクにこんな年賀状が...
Bo- boku ni konna nengajō ga.
(stammer) I/me to this kind of N.Y.’s card (subj.)
“T-to me [came] a New Year’s card like this!”
“I-I got this New Year’s card!” (PL2)

- boku is an informal “I/me” used by males. Ni marks boku as the target or destination of an action, so it implies a verb like “came/was sent/was delivered [to me]” → “I got.”
- nenga = “New Year’s greetings,” and -jō means “letter/epistle,” so nengajō = “New Year’s card.”

4 Policeman: これがなに?
Kore ga nanika?
this (subj.) something
“This has something [wrong with it]?”
“So what’s the problem...?” (PL2)

Card: 新年 あけまして おめでとうございます。
Shinnen akemashite omedetō gozaimasu.
New Year having begun congratulations
Happy New Year. (PL4)

- though written with the pasted-on characters associated with anonymous notes used for blackmailing, bomb threats, etc., the message is nothing but the most common of New Year’s greetings, literally meaning “congratulations on the beginning of the new year” → “Happy New Year.” In informal situations, the greeting can be shortened variously to shinnen omedetō, akemashite omedetō, or just omedetō, while in more formal situations each of these would retain gozaimasu at the end.

letters

(continued from page 8)

Furthermore, the comment "I think that I . . . gave another side to a man who was very complex but very reserved. I think the American people needed that" was not only naive, presupposing, and patronizing, but also brazenly in contempt of all methods of formal interpreting.

An interpreter is not there to provide insight to hidden detail not provided by a speaker. That is the job of a commentator. An interpreter's job is to faithfully repeat the speaker's words in another language. In almost Zen-like fashion, an interpreter must lose his own personality and take on that of the speaker, reflecting the original spoken words like a mirror. When the interpreter misses a question or answer, he or she must ask the "interpretee" to repeat the statement. Time constraints are TV's problem, not the interpreter's.

The ethical dilemma found in Brown's shameless statements is huge, more so because he did not acknowledge them. What if Nomo, hearing the question about delivery, had decided that day to change his mind? Brown didn't even give him a chance. How's that for kowai?

PHILIP CUMMINGS

Yamanashi-ken, Japan

Surveying the Survey

If there are people who don't like "Obatarian" ("Results of the 1995 Mangajin Survey," Mangajin No. 50), then they should know better than to subject themselves to it. The Table of Contents tells them what pages they can skip over. (For perspective, my mother finds "Obatarian" hilarious; everyone reacts differently.) This also goes for people who tell Mangajin to lose "sentimental" strips like "Ningen Kōsaten" (which I happen to like a lot). Those stories are of a kind that Japanese readers find appealing, as far as I can tell. Denying Mangajin's readers that perspective would be just plain unfair.

SERDAR YEGULALP

New York City

Mangajin's mascot

You often use a graphic of a samurai in the magazine. Where is this from? Is it a famous character, or something that your artist came up with to act as your spokesperson?

PATRICK MATHIEU

Montreal

Our mascot, who appears in various guises in the magazine, is based on a print by the master ukiyoe artist Sharaku. It is a 1794 portrait of the actor Ichikawa Ebizō, dressed for the role of Takemura Sadanoshin in the kabuki play Koinyōbō Somewake Tazuna. Sharaku's work was roundly criticized in his own time, and he was driven from the art world after a career of only ten months; today, he is recognized as one of the greatest portrait artists ever. ❖

オバタリアン OBATARIAN

by 堀田かつひこ / Hotta Katsuhiko

© Hotta Katsuhiko. All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1991 by Take Shobo, Tokyo. English translation rights arranged through Take Shobo.

1 Narration: オバタリアン は めんどくさがり である。
Obatarian wa mendokusagari de aru.
 obatarian(s) as for lazy person(s) is/are Obatarians dislike hassles.

Obatarian: やって みせて。 Yatte misete.
 do-and show-(request)
“Show me how it works.” (PL2)

Demonstrator: ハイ。
Hai.
 yes/OK
“OK.” (PL3)

Sign: 年賀状 は プリントっこ で
Nengajō wa Purintokko de
 N.Y.'s cards as for (brand name) with Use Print-Boy to Print Your New Year's Cards

- purinto is the katakana rendering of “print.” The suffix -kko, often meaning “child of/who is ~,” is also used as a diminutive suffix for common nouns. The latter use often finds its way into product names.
- de = “with/using,” implying “print/make [the cards] using ~.”

- mendokusagari is the noun form of mendokusagaru, a verb that derives from the adjective mendokusai (or mendōkusai, “is troublesome/tiresome/a hassle”). -Garu is added to certain adjectives that describe feelings to make verbs that mean “show signs of being/feeling ~,” so mendokusagaru means “show that [you] think it’s a hassle/too much trouble” → “shun things that require effort/be lazy.” The noun mendokusagari refers to a person who acts that way.
- yatte is the -te form of yaru (“do”), and misete is the -te form of miseru (“show”); miseru after the -te form of a verb means “do/show/demonstrate [the action].” The -te form of miseru is being used as an abrupt request.
- nenga = “New Year’s greetings,” and jō means “letter/epistle,” so nengajō = “New Year’s card.”

2 Demonstrator: ハガキ のかわりに 同じ大きさの紙でやってみますね。 Hagaki no kawari ni onaji ōki-sa no kami de yatte mimasu ne postcard instead of same size of paper with do and see (colloq.)
“Instead of using postcards, I’ll show you with paper of the same size.” (PL3)

Demonstrator: ホラ、このように何枚でも。
Hora, kono yō ni nanmai demo.
 here/see like this however many sheets
“See, you can print as many as you want, like this.” (PL3 implied)

Sound FX: ベッタン ベッタン
Pettan pettan
 (effect of printing one after the other)

Obatarian: あら...
Ara...
 (interj.)
“Oh my...”

- hagaki refers to the postage-paid postcards you buy at the post office—which is why he’d rather not use them for a demonstration. Picture postcards are called ehagaki (絵葉書; e = “picture”).
- mimasu is the PL3 form of miru (“see”), which after the -te form of another verb often implies “do [the action] and see what results,” but here it’s more like “do [the action] and show you what results.”
- -mai is the counter suffix for thin, flat things, such as paper, computer disks, CDs, sheets and blankets, futon, etc. Nanmai = “how many [flat things]?” and nanmai demo = “however many/as many as you want.” He leaves his sentence unfinished, but it’s clear he means “You can make/print ~.”
- pettan pettan represents the effect of something sticky (here the inked printing surface) hitting something flat (the paper) over and over.

3 Obatarian: きれい ねー。 Kirei nē.
 pretty/beautiful (is-emph.)
“They’re beautiful!” (PL2)

Demonstrator: でしょー。どうです、一台。 / ふうっ Deshō. Dō desu, ichidai? / Fū!
 right? what/how is one (count) (blowing breath)
“Aren’t they? How about it? Would you like one? / Whew.” (PL2)

On Card: 賀正 Gashō
New Year’s Felicitations

- ne by itself can often substitute for desu ne (“is/are” + colloquial emphasis).
- deshō here is a short form of sō deshō (lit., “it is that way, isn’t it?/that’s so, isn’t it?” → “they are, aren’t they?”).
- dō desu (ka) asks, “how is it?” in the sense of “what do you think of it?”; coming from a salesperson it essentially means, “would you like to buy it/one/some?”
- -dai is the counter suffix for a wide variety of machines ranging from cameras, electronic equipment, and automobiles to relatively simple devices like this postcard printer.
- ga means “congratulations/felicitations,” and shō stands for shōgatsu (正月, “New Year’s”); gashō is a greeting used widely on New Year’s cards as well as on billboards and in commercials, advertisements, etc.

4 Obatarian: これ で いい わ。 / 切手 はって 使う から。
Kore de ii wa. / Kite hatte tsukau kara.
 this/these with is good/fine (fem. colloq.) stamps stick on-and will use because/so “These’ll do fine. I’ll just put stamps on them.” (PL2)

- hatte is the -te form of haru (“stick/paste on”). Kite hatte tsukau = “paste stamps on [these] and use [them].” Her syntax is inverted; normally the kara (“because/so”) clause comes first.

ひと HIROMI, a long tall lady.
この女に賭ける

Kono Hito ni Kakero — Bet on this Woman —

Part 5

さく が 作・週良貨
画・夢野一子

Story • Shū Ryōka
Art • Yumeno Kazuko

Thirty-year-old Harashima Hiromi represents a new type of woman in the Japanese business world: the strong-willed, career-oriented professional. Until recently, women in large Japanese companies were either OLs doing mundane clerical work or low-level managers. For the most part, they were expected to quit after a few years to marry and raise a family rather than pursue career-track promotions.

Katō

Kawahara

Kamiya

In events preceding this episode, Harashima is transferred from the head office of Yotsuba Bank to a failing branch office. Her new position is Commercial Services representative—essentially a door-to-door “salesperson” for the bank.

Harashima's unconventional ways and forthright manner are shocking to her new colleagues. A rivalry soon develops between her and Mr. Katō, the star of the Commercial Services department, who despite his talents has not been able to land the Shinwa Enterprises account after two years of work. Nevertheless, Harashima brashly accepts the challenge, raised during a planning meeting, of landing Shinwa in only three months. Hearing of her cocky attitude, the branch manager shortens the time period to an inconceivable two months.

In her first meeting alone with Mr. Kawahara, head of Shinwa's accounting department, Harashima is told in no uncertain terms that the president, Mr. Kamiya, is fiercely loyal to their current bank and will never make the switch to Yotsuba. Undaunted, Harashima continues the conversation and eventually lets drop an interesting tidbit of information she picked up while exploring the neighborhood during her first month in town: the managing director of the company is the president's illegitimate son. Kawahara is stunned and then angry at her knowledge of this carefully hidden secret. He asks her to leave, making it clear that no meeting will take place with Kamiya unless she brings her president too.

Then, on her way out, Harashima bumps into Kamiya and his son—once again managing to be in the right place at the right time.

Harashima Hiromi

Preview Page

Here are some of the key vocabulary and grammar constructions found in the following story. We suggest previewing this section before you begin, to prepare yourself for words, kanji, and patterns that are new to you. Many of these items do not appear again in the notes.

VOCABULARY

page 48

銀行	ginkō	bank
おじゃまする	ojama suru	interrupt/intrude on/visit
支店	shiten	branch store/office

page 49

同居する	dōkyo suru	cohabit/coexist with
不思議	fushigi	strange/puzzling/mysterious
経理	keiri	administration/accounting
任せる	makaseru	leave/entrust to
応接室	ōsetsu-shitsu	receiving room
青磁	seiji	celadon porcelain
素晴らしい	subarashii	splendid/superb/wonderful
取引	torihiki	business dealings

page 50

あれだけ	are dake	that much/many
意図	ito	intention/aim/design

page 50 (continued)

次元	jigen	dimension/order
人物	jinbutsu	personage/person

page 51

拝見する	haiken suru	see (PL4-humble)
所有する	shoyū suru	own/possess
推測する	suisoku suru	guess/infer/estimate/surmise
全体	zentai	the whole/entirety

page 52

副社長	fukushachō	vice president
興味	kyōmi	interest
話	hanashi	talk/discussion
仕事	shigoto	job/work
担当	tantō	task/project/area of responsibility

PATTERNS

～と申します ～てくれ ～てしまう ～させていただく ～とは別だ ～てみたまえ

～ to mōshimasu
～ te kure
～ te shimau
～ sasete itadaku
～ to wa betsu da
～ te mitamae

I am ~ do ~ for me can't help but ~ request permission to do ~ is separate from ~/has nothing to do with ~ do ~ (and see)/try doing ~

KANA QUICK REFERENCE

When a small circle is added to the upper right corner of the H-syllables, the first letter changes to a P-sound (e.g. は → ぱ = ha → pa).

When the "voicing mark" (two lines that look like a double-quote mark) is added to the same position on K-, S-, T-, and H-syllables, the following sound changes occur: K → G, S → Z, T → D, and H → B (e.g. こ → ご = ko → go).

The irregular consonants in shi, chi, and tsu make their voiced equivalents irregular as well:
し → じ = shi → ji,
ち → ぢ = chi → ji,
and つ → づ = tsu → zu.

Hiragana

あ A	か KA	さ SA	た TA	な NA	は HA	ま MA	や YA	ら RA	わ WA	ん N
い I	き KI	し SHI	ち CHI	に NI	ひ HI	み MI		り RI
う U	く KU	す SU	つ TSU	ぬ NU	ふ FU	む MU	ゆ YU	る RU
え E	け KE	せ SE	て TE	ね NE	へ HE	め ME		れ RE
お O	こ KO	そ SO	と TO	の NO	ほ HO	も MO	よ YO	ろ RO	を O

Katakana

ア A	カ KA	サ SA	タ TA	ナ NA	ハ HA	マ MA	ヤ YA	ラ RA	ワ WA	ン N
イ I	キ KI	シ SHI	チ CHI	ニ NI	ヒ HI	ミ MI		リ RI
ウ U	ク KU	ス SU	ツ TSU	ヌ NU	フ FU	ム MU	ユ YU	ル RU
エ E	ケ KE	セ SE	テ TE	ネ NE	ヘ HE	メ ME		レ RE
オ O	コ KO	ソ SO	ト TO	ノ NO	ホ HO	モ MO	ヨ YO	ロ RO	ヲ O

Combinations

きゃ KYA	しゃ SHA	ちゃ CHA	にゃ NYA	ひゃ HYA	みゃ MYA	りゃ RYA
きゅ KYU	しゅ SHU	ちゅ CHU	にゅ NYU	ひゅ HYU	みゅ MYU	りゅ RYU
きょ KYO	しょ SHO	ちょ CHO	にょ NYO	ひょ HYO	みょ MYO	りょ RYO
キャ KYA	シャ SHA	チャ CHA	ニャ NYA	ヒャ HYA	ミャ MYA	リャ RYA
キュ KYU	シュ SHU	チュ CHU	ニユ NYU	ヒユ HYU	ミユ MYU	リユ RYU
キョ KYO	ショ SHO	チョ CHO	ニョ NYO	ヒョ HYO	ミョ MYO	リョ RYO

1 Harashima:

神谷社長でいらっしゃいますね。
 “You are President Kamiya, aren’t you?”
 “You must be President Kamiya.”
 (PL4)

いつもおじゃましております。
 “I am always intruding.”
 “I’d like to thank you for the welcome I always receive here.” (PL4)

Kamiya:

あなたは?
 “And you are . . . ?” (PL3)

- 社長 = “company president.”
- でいらっしゃいます is a very polite/honorific equivalent of です (“is/are”).
- ね is like a tag question that assumes an affirmative answer: “isn’t it so?/right?” → “aren’t you?”
- いつも = “always.”
- おじゃましております is a PL4 humble form of おじゃまする, a polite phrase that visitors use to speak of their “intrusion,” from the word じゃま (“interference/intrusion”). When entering the room or house being visited, the guest says おじゃまします (lit., “I will intrude”), and when leaving she says おじゃましました (lit., “I have intruded”). おじゃましております is a PL4 humble equivalent of おじゃましている, the progressive form, which implies either “I am now intruding,” or, as here, “I am always intruding.” This is essentially a way of expressing gratitude for the opportunity to visit, and in this case, since Kamiya has no idea who Harashima is, it also serves to identify herself as someone who regularly calls on the company with business of some kind. The expression has no real equivalent in English, so translations are almost always quite loose.

2 Harashima:

よつば銀行台東支店の原島浩美と申します。
 “I’m Harashima Hiromi, from the Taitō Branch of Yotsuba Bank.” (PL4)

- 銀行 = “bank.”
- 台東区 is the name of the ward in Tokyo where Ueno and Asakusa are located. 支店 means “branch store/office,” so 台東支店 = “the Taitō Branch.”
- の makes よつば銀行台東支店 into a modifier for 原島浩美; here it’s like “of” or “from.”
- と is quotative, and 申します is a PL4 humble equivalent of いう (“say/call”). ~と申します is a standard pattern for introducing oneself.

1 Kamiya:

銀行取引のことは経理部長に任せている。

“Things having to do with bank dealings I have entrusted to the Accounting Department Head.”

“The head of the Accounting Department is in charge of our dealings with banks.”

(PL2)

彼に言ってくれ。

“Please speak with him.” (PL2)

- 取引 refers to “business dealings,” so 銀行取引 = “dealings with banks.”
- のことは literally “things of/about” → “things having to do with/matters connected with.” は makes this the topic of the sentence.
- 経理 refers to “management/administration,” especially accounting and payroll processing. 部 denotes a “department,” and 長 means “chief/head/leader,” so 経理部長 = “accounting department head.”
- 任せている (“have entrusted”) is from 任せる (“leave/entrust to”).
- 言っている is the -te form of 言う (“say/speak”), and くれ after the -te form of a verb makes an abrupt request or relatively gentle command.

2 Harashima:

社長、応接室の青磁、とても素晴らしいと思いました。

“Sir, I thought the celadon in your receiving room quite wonderful.”

“I was very impressed by the celadon piece in your receiving room, sir.”

(PL3)

- 応接室 refers to a room where clients are received for business consultations. 室 is a suffix meaning “room.”
- 青磁 refers to “celadon porcelain”—a style of porcelain with a pale green glaze that originated in China well before the Common Era and subsequently came to be imitated in Korea and Japan.
- とても = “very/quite.”
- 素晴らしい = “splendid/superb/wonderful.”
- と is quotative, and 思いました is the plain/abrupt past form of 思う (“think”).

3 Harashima:

でも、赤富士と同居しているのが不思議でした。

“But I was surprised to see it placed next to the Red Fuji.” (PL3)

- でも = “but.”
- 赤富士 refers to the way Mount Fuji often glows red in the early dawn from late summer into autumn. The most famous depiction of this is a woodblock print in the “Thirty-Six Views of Mount Fuji” series by Hokusai (1760–1849). The 赤富士 on the wall of this company’s receiving room (see Mangajin No. 50, p. 60) appears to be a copy of that print.
- 同居している is the progressive form of 同居する (“cohabit/coexist with”) → “be placed next to”).
- の makes the preceding complete thought/sentence (赤富士と同居している, “[it] is cohabiting with the Red Fuji”) act as a single noun, and が marks that noun as the subject of the sentence.
- 不思議でした is the PL3 past form of 不思議だ, which often means “is strange/puzzling/mysterious,” but in this context that would obviously be quite rude. The expression can also mean “is wondrous/marvelous,” or it can be a more neutral expression of surprise; here it is best viewed as the latter.

1 Kamiya:

なぜだ?

“Why is that?” (PL2)

- asking a question with だ is masculine. It can sound very rough, depending on the tone of voice, but here it merely reflects the difference in their status. As a company president, he is free to use abrupt forms with anyone below that rank.

2 Harashima:

あれだけ次元の違うものが並んでいると、

“When things of such a different nature are located side by side . . .”

青磁を置いた人物の意図を考えてしまいます。

“I can't help thinking about the intent of the person who placed the celadon there.”

“When artworks of such different natures are juxtaposed, it makes me wonder what the person who placed the celadon there had in mind.” (PL3)

- あれだけ looks like “only that,” but its idiomatic meaning is “that much/many”—often, as here, implying that the amount/number is quite large.
- 次元 = “dimension/order,” and の here is substituting for the subject marker が, so あれだけ次元の違う is a complete thought/sentence (“the dimensions are that much different”) modifying もの (“things”) → “things of such a different nature.” The subject of a modifying clause is often marked by の instead of が.
- 並んでいる (“are lined up/located side-by-side”) is from 並ぶ (“line up/be side-by-side”). と after a non-past verb can make a conditional “if/when” meaning.
- 置いた is the plain/abrupt past form of 置く (“set/place”), and 青磁を置いた is a complete thought/sentence (“[he] placed the celadon [there]”) modifying 人物 (“personage/person”).
- 意図 = “intention/aim/design”; の between two nouns makes the first into a modifier for the second, so 人物の意図 = “intention/aim of the person” or “person’s intent/aim.”
- 考えて is the -te form of 考える (“think about”), and しまいます is the PL3 form of しまう (“end/finish/put away”), which after the -te form of another verb can imply the action is involuntary or occurs spontaneously.

あれだけ次元の違うものが並んでいると青磁を置いた人物の意図を考えてしまいます

1 Kamiya:

出入りの人間からそんなことを聞いたのは初めてだな。

“This is the first time I’ve heard anything like that from a visitor.” (PL4)

- 出入り is a noun for “going in and out” and is used to refer to frequent or regular visits. 人間 means “person,” so 出入りの人間 means “a person who visits regularly,” usually implying “for professional or business purposes” → “a contractor/supplier,” etc. It is not a respectful expression, so it would not be used for customers or clients.
- そんな = “that kind of,” and こと = “thing,” in this case meaning “statement/remark.”
- 聞いた is the plain/abrupt past form of 聞く, “hear”; から marks the person from whom the remark is heard.
- の makes the complete thought/sentence 出入りの人間からそんなことを聞いた (“[I] heard that kind of thing from a visitor”) act as a single noun, and は marks that noun as the topic.
- 初めて = “the first time.”

2 Harashima:

社長のコレクションを一度拝見させていただけないでしょうか。

“Couldn’t I perhaps be allowed to see your collection once?”

“I wonder if I might be able to see your collection sometime?” (PL4)

- コレクション is a katakana rendering of the English “collection.”
- 度 is the counter suffix for “times/occasions/repetitions,” so 一度 = “one time/once.”
- 拝見させて is the causative (“make/let”) -te form of the PL4 humble verb 拝見する (“see”). いただけないでしようか after the -te form of a verb makes a very polite request—literally, “couldn’t I perhaps receive the favor of [being permitted to do the action]?”

3 Kamiya:

私のコレクション？

“My collection?” (PL2)

Harashima:

あれほどの青磁を一品だけ所有されてると思えません

“I can’t imagine that you own only one piece of such fine celadon.” (PL4)

- あれ (“that”) + ほど (“extent/degree/level”) + の (“of”) = “of that level,” implying “of such fine quality.”
- 一品 = “a single item/piece,” and だけ = “only.”
- 所有されてる is a contraction of 所有されている, a PL4 honorific equivalent of 所有している (“own/possess”) from 所有する (“own/possess”).
- 思えません is the PL3 equivalent of 思えない (“can’t think/imagine”), from 思う (“think”).

4 Kamiya:

君はあの青磁を見ただけで私のコレクション全体を推測できるといふのか？

“Are you saying that you can surmise the nature of my entire collection just from seeing that one piece?” (PL2)

- 君 is an informal word for “you” generally used only by males when addressing equals or subordinates.
- 見た is the plain/abrupt past form of 見る (“see/look at”). だけで after a verb means “by [doing that action] alone.”
- 全体 = “the whole/entirety.”
- 推測 is a noun for “conjecture/guess,” and 推測する is its verb form: “guess/infer/estimate/surmise.” For する verbs, changing する to できる makes the potential (“can/be able to”) form.
- と is quotative. いう = “say,” and のか asks for an explanation, so というのか is literally “is it (the case/situation) that you say ~?” → “are you saying/claiming that ~?”

1

Kamiya:

コレクションは副社長の担当だ。

“As for my collection, it is the vice president's province.”

“The vice president is in charge of my collection.” (PL3)

Kamiya:

興味があるなら会ってみたまえ。

“If you're interested in seeing it, meet with him.” (PL4)

Kamiya:

それと仕事の話とは別だがな。

“Though that and talk about work are separate.”

“Of course, that has nothing to do with any business discussions.” (PL2)

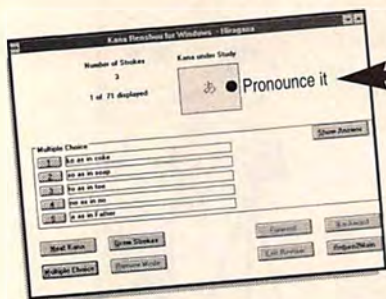

- 副 is a prefix for titles, meaning “vice/deputy/assistant ~”
- 担当 refers to the job/project/department, etc., that a person has charge of. 副社長の担当 = “the vice president's area of responsibility/province.”
- 興味 = “interest,” and 興味がある = “have an interest [in something].”
- なら makes a conditional “if/it is the case that.”
- 会って is the -te form of 会う (“meet [with]”), and 見たまえ is a command form of みる (“see”), which after the -te form of another verb implies trying the action or doing it and seeing what happens. たまえ after the stem of a verb makes a strong, authoritarian command.
- それ = “that.”
- 仕事 = “work,” and 話 = “talk/discussion.”
- 別だ = “is/are separate”; ~と~と marks the two items that are separate, and は marks the entire phrase as the topic of the sentence. Compare this pattern with the expression 話は別だ (“the story is different” → “that'd be a different story”), which appeared in the last episode of this manga.
- ~だが = “although it is ~,” and な adds colloquial emphasis. A ~だが clause usually states background for what follows, but here he is adding background for what he just said, so it's a kind of inverted syntax.

To be continued . . .

NEW FROM NIHONGO LEARNING SYSTEMS!

KANA DRILLS for Windows®

Now with sound support!
Upgrade for only $5+ S&H

Interactive program teaches hiragana and katakana. Stroke order supported at the push of a button with brush effects. Offers Flash Card mode for quick reviews and a Quiz mode.

All NLS Software has been successfully tested for Windows 95 and WIN-OS/2!

ALSO FROM NIHONGO LEARNING SYSTEMS...

KANJI COMBINATIONS for Windows®

This new interactive program allows you to increase your vocabulary by studying Jukugo. Along with the ready made files included, you can also build custom files which let you concentrate on specific areas of interest—medical terms, law, science—almost anything you want. Complete instructions are given in the User's Guide to build custom study lists. Also, you are not limited to just kanji combinations—kanji with kana characters is also supported. The full Toyo set of kanji is supported and, as with Kanji and Kana Drills, a random study mode is also available.

KANJI DRILLS for Windows®

Interactive program that offers nearly 1000 Kanji (those learned through grade 6 in Japanese elementary schools); animated stroke order; On-Yomi and Kun-Yomi readings; multiple choice quizzes; random display with random positioning of correct meaning and random alternate choices so that the user doesn't see the same thing every time a particular Kanji character is studied.

GAIRAIGO for Windows®

This new program allows you to quickly learn to recognize foreign "loan" words written in Katakana. Gairaigo works similarly to Kanji Combinations for Windows but is specifically designed for Katakana. Materials and instructions for building your own custom lists for study are included.

Discounts on KanjiWord 3.0, KanjiWORD Basic, & Kantaro 1

Nihongo Learning Systems is now an authorized re-seller for KanjiWord 3.0™ and KanjiWORD Basic™. KanjiWord 3.0 offers excellent Japanese word processing capabilities combined with scalable fonts and OLE 2.0 compliance. This allows you to directly use this product with other OLE 2.0 compliant Windows applications such as Word 6.0 and Microsoft publisher. We are also now selling Kantaro Volume 1, a multimedia kanji learning system with kanji character animation and morphing and CD-ROM.

Refer to the prices below for discounts available through NLS!

NLS Software for Windows

KANJI COMBINATIONS... $34.95
KANJI DRILLS..... $54.95
KANA DRILLS..... $29.95
GAIRAIGO..... $19.95
SAMPLE DISKETTE.....$4.95*

*includes shipping & handling

Non-NLS Software

KanjiWORD 3.0
NLS Price.....$259.00 $239.95
KanjiWORD BASIC
NLS Price.....$144.95
Kantaro Vol. 1
NLS Price.....$114.95

Complete bundle of NLS software now $115 including S&H!
You save $34.95 off regular prices.

Ask about our multi-copy and educational institution discounts.

All orders require a minimum $4.95 Postage materials charge (except special bundle offer. System Requirements: Minimum 386 processor running Windows 3.1 or higher. 2 MB hard disk space available. If product supports sound, a Sound blaster or 100% compatible card is required. VGA monitor or better.

HOLIDAY SPECIALS!

- Bundle of NLS Software for $115- You Save $34.95!
- Lower prices on KanjiWord 3.0
- New sound support for Kana Drills

See our new World Wide Web Page on the Internet!

<http://www.party.com/~nihongo>

SEND CHECK OR M.O. TO:

NIHONGO LEARNING SYSTEMS
2440 SW Cary Parkway, Suite 205
Cary, NC 27513
Tel: 800-353-1706 or 919-387-1706
Fax: 919-380-1134

E-mail: TWPM00A@prodigy.com
VISA/MasterCard accepted on all orders

Calvin and Hobbes by WATSON

WHY DO I HAVE TO WEAR THESE DORKY CLOTHES AND GET MY HAIR COMBED?!

1

YOUR DAD'S GOING TO TAKE YOUR PICTURE. HOLD STILL.

2

IT WILL JUST TAKE A FEW MINUTES. WE'RE GOING TO PUT THE PICTURE OF YOU IN OUR CHRISTMAS CARDS SO EVERYONE CAN SEE WHAT YOU LOOK LIKE NOW.

3

WHAT A DUMB IDEA. WHY ARE WE DOING THAT?

4

The Indispensable Calvin and Hobbes. © 1992 Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editors Press Service, N.Y.

1 Calvin: "Why do I have to wear these dorky clothes and get my hair combed?!"

どうしてこんな マヌケた 服 着て、髪 とかさなきゃならないの さ?!
Dōshite konna manuketa fuku kite, kami tokasanakya naranai no sa?!
 why this kind of stupid/silly clothes wear-and hair must brush/comb (explan.) (colloq.)

- dorky は俗語で「間抜けた／ばかげた」などの意味。
- get + 名詞 + 過去分詞 で「～を～させる／してもらう」だが、単に行為(髪をとかす)の主体が自分でないことを示すのにも用いる。散髪も日本語では「髪を切る」だが、英語では get my hair cut と表現する。なお、get my hair combed は wear と同様に have to に続く。

2 Mother: "Your dad's going to take your picture. Hold still."

パパ が 写真を 撮る の よ。じっとして。
Papa ga shashin o toru no yo. Jitto shite.
 father (subj.) photo (obj.) take (explan.) (emph.) don't move

Calvin: "I don't want to get my picture taken!"

写真 なんかも 撮ってほしくないよ。
Shashin nanka totte hoshikunai yo.
 photo such a thing don't want taken (emph.)

- get my picture taken 前のコマの get my hair combed と同じパターンで「写真を撮ってもらう／撮らせる」。

3 Mother: "It will just take a few minutes. We're going to put the picture of you in our Christmas cards so everyone can see what you look like now."

ほんの 2-3分 で 終わる から ね。カルヴィン が 今 どんな 様子 か、
Hon no ni san-pun de owaru kara ne. Karuvin ga ima donna yōsu ka, (emph.) two/three minutes within end/finish because (colloq.) (name) (subj.) now what kind situation/appearance (?)

みんな が わかるように、クリスマスカードに 写真を 入れる の よ。 minna ga wakaruyō ni, Kurisumasu kādo ni shashin o ireru no yo.
 everyone (subj.) so [they] understand Christmas card on picture (obj.) insert (explan.) (emph.)

- so の後に続く that が省略されたもので、「～するように／するために」の意味。What you look like now は see の目的語となる名詞節。

4 Calvin: "What a dumb idea. Why are we doing that?"

バカげた アイデア だ なあ。どうしてそんな ことする の?
Bakageta aidea da nā. Dōshite sonna koto suru no?
 foolish idea is (colloq.) why that kind of thing do (explan.)

- dumb 「バカな／マヌケな」の意味で会話で用いられる。What a dumb idea は感嘆文。

Father: "So we won't have relatives dropping by to visit."

親戚 が 突然 訪ねて来たり しないように さ...
Shinseki ga totsuzen tazunete kitari shinai yō ni sa... relatives (subj.) suddenly come visit-and such so [they] don't do (colloq.)

- drop by 「立ち寄る」。dropping 以下は relative を修飾する。

Mother: "Dear ..."

あなた...
Anata...
 you

- Dear 夫婦間で使われる最も一般的な呼びかけの言葉。ほかにsweetheart, honey など。

Calvin and Hobbes by WATSON

The Indispensable Calvin and Hobbes. © 1992 Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editors Press Service, NY.

1 Father: "Ready? OK, give me a nice smile."

いい か? さあ、にっこり笑って。
Ii ka? Sā, nikkori waratte.
 is good (?) (interj.) smile sweetly/cheerfully

- Ready? = Are you ready? 「用意はいいか」。
- give (one) a smile 「(人に) ほほえみかける」。ここでは命令形なので「笑って」。

2 Father: "That's good. One . . . Two . . ."

ようし、いい ぞ。いち... にの...
Yōshi, ii zo. Ichi... Ni no...
 OK good (colloq.) one two-and

- That's = that is.

3 Father: "...Three!"

さん!
San! three

Sound FX: Click

パチリ Pachiri
 (sound of shutter clicking)

- Click は、ここではカメラのシャッターの音。このほか、「カチリ/カチッ/パチン」など、一般に小さな金属音を示すのに用いられる。

4 Calvin: "My hair's getting messed up, Dad!"

パパ! 髪 が グチャグチャ になっちゃう よ!
Papa! Kami ga guchagucha ni natchau yo!
 father hair (subj.) jumbled/messy become-(regret) (emph.)

- hair's = hair is.
- mess up 「メチャメチャにする/グチャグチャにする」。Get は受身を表わし、got messed up なら、「グチャグチャになった」。ここでは進行形なので「グチャグチャになりつつある」ことを示す。

GARFIELD

© 1990 Paws. All rights reserved. Distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

- 1 Garfield: "Well, another year is almost under the belt."
 フム、また一年が過ぎ去ろうとしている。
Fumu, mata ichinen ga sugisarō to shiteru.
 (interj.) again one year (subj.) is about to pass by
- Well 言葉を切り出すときや会話で間を置くときによく用いる間投詞。「ふむ／さて」など。
 - under the (or one's) belt 「胃袋に収めて」→「すでに体験して」。
- 2 Garfield: "And I've had 313 pretty good days."
 この一年のうち、313日間 は けっこう楽しんだ。
Kono ichinen no uchi, sanbyaku jūsan-nichi kan wa kekkō tanoshinda.
 this one year within/during 313 days duration as for considerably enjoyed
- I've (= I have) had ~ good days. 「良い日／楽しい日を過ごした」。
 - pretty 「かなり／相当」の意味で、会話で用いる。この意味では限定用法のみ。
- 3 Garfield: "The Mondays sucked."
 でも、月曜日は最悪だったな。
Demo, getsuyōbi wa saikaku datta na.
 but Mondays as for were terrible/the worst (colloq.)
- suck 俗語で「最悪だ／最低だ」などの意味に用いる。

Mail this card or call our toll-free hotline at 1-800
552-3206!

Subscribe to Mangajin today.

- Yes! Please start my one-year, 10-issue subscription to Mangajin magazine for only $39.95*.

The Mangajin Cassette Series

Now get a language learning tape along with each issue of Mangajin!!

- Yes! Please start my one-year, 10-issue subscription to Mangajin magazine with supplementary audio cassettes for the special introductory price of only $99.95*! (through 12/31/95; thereafter, $119.95)

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Payment enclosed $ _____ (check or money order)

Charge $ _____ to my VISA Mastercard

Card# _____

Expiration date _____ Telephone _____

Signature _____

*offer good only in US. For international rates please call our toll-free subscription number.

Use this card to give Mangajin as a gift—at special subscriber rates!

Simply fill in the names and addresses of all those to whom you wish to send Mangajin, and mail this card with payment. Or just call us toll-free with a MasterCard or Visa at 1-800-552-3206.

$39.95 a year for your own subscription or first gift $99.95 with cassette tapes.
(through 12/31/95; thereafter, $119.95)

My name (please print) _____

Gift for (please print) _____

Address _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

- Send me the recipient's first issue and a gift card to sign and announce my gift. ___Please include cassettes with order.
 Send the first issue and gift card directly to the recipient. ___Please include cassettes with order.
 Enter or Renew my own subscription ___Please include cassettes with order.

Total order: $ _____ for _____ subscriptions; _____ subscriptions with cassettes.

*offer good only in US. For international rates please call our toll-free subscription number at 1-800-552-3206

Subscribe to Mangajin today.

- Yes! Please start my one-year, 10-issue subscription to Mangajin magazine for only $39.95*.

The Mangajin Cassette Series

Now get a language learning tape along with each issue of Mangajin!!

- Yes! Please start my one-year, 10-issue subscription to Mangajin magazine with supplementary audio cassettes for the special introductory price of only $99.95*! (through 12/31/95; thereafter, $119.95)

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Payment enclosed $ _____ (check or money order)

Charge $ _____ to my VISA Mastercard

Card# _____

Expiration date _____ Telephone _____

Signature _____

*offer good only in US. For international rates please call our toll-free subscription number.

Give the gift of Mangajin

Mangajin's Money Back Guarantee:
If you become dissatisfied with Mangajin for any reason, you may cancel your subscription and receive a full refund on all unmailed issues.

BUSINESS REPLY MAIL

FIRST CLASS MAIL PERMIT NO. 2004 MARIETTA, GA

POSTAGE WILL BE PAID BY ADDRESSEE

MANGAJIN, INC.
P.O. Box 7119
Marietta, GA 30065-1119

NO POSTAGE NECESSARY
IF MAILED
IN THE
UNITED STATES

BUSINESS REPLY MAIL

FIRST CLASS MAIL PERMIT NO. 2004 MARIETTA, GA

POSTAGE WILL BE PAID BY ADDRESSEE

MANGAJIN, INC.
P.O. Box 7119
Marietta, GA 30065-1119

NO POSTAGE NECESSARY
IF MAILED
IN THE
UNITED STATES

BUSINESS REPLY MAIL

FIRST CLASS MAIL PERMIT NO. 2004 MARIETTA, GA

POSTAGE WILL BE PAID BY ADDRESSEE

MANGAJIN, INC.
P.O. Box 7119
Marietta, GA 30065-1119

NO POSTAGE NECESSARY
IF MAILED
IN THE
UNITED STATES

LOGOVISTA E to J

English to Japanese Desktop Translation Systems

THE SOLUTION TO YOUR ENGLISH TO JAPANESE TRANSLATION NEEDS...

Step 1

Import English text for translation.

Step 2

Load user dictionaries and technical dictionaries if needed.

Step 3

Choose the "Translate" command from the Translate menu.

It's Done

Review the translated text. Refine it using the interactive translation features, then print the finished translation or export it to a text file.

Here's the solution to your English to Japanese translation needs—the award-winning LogoVista desktop translation systems.

LogoVista E to J, winner of the Apple Japan Product Excellence Award, is a powerful professional system for large-scale technical translation. LogoVista E to J provides the advanced features needed for the most challenging translation tasks, including support for technical dictionaries.

LogoVista E to J Personal is a complete system for international communication, perfect for time-sensitive documents such as faxes, letters, and electronic mail.

Both LogoVista E to J and LogoVista E to J Personal include the extensive LogoVista dictionary, customizable user dictionaries, and interactive features for refining the translation.

both automatically and interactively. When reviewing the translation, you can display a list of all the possible translations of a word and select an alternative. In the professional version, you can also view and select alternative translations for phrases and entire sentences.

Windows and Macintosh Compatibility

Windows, Macintosh, and native Power Macintosh versions of LogoVista E to J Personal and LogoVista E to J are available. Both systems can import English text files and export Japanese text files for use with Japanese word processing and desktop publishing applications.

"LOGOVISTA E TO J provides an impressive look at what is possible with machine translation. ...using the proper supplemental dictionaries, it would be possible to create decent scientific translations without a human translator."

—Douglas Horn, MANGAJIN magazine #45

nary, customizable user dictionaries, and interactive features for refining the translation.

Comprehensive Dictionaries

The richly annotated LogoVista dictionary contains more than 110,000 entries covering the core vocabulary of the English language. This powerful resource enables LogoVista E to J to provide the best translations available from any automated system.

You can also create, browse, and edit your own user dictionaries. The professional version of LogoVista E to J can be supplemented by 21 optional technical dictionaries, which contain more than 540,000 specialized terms from business, industry, science, and technology. And LogoVista E to J's translation memory archives enable you to store and reuse your preferred translations.

Interactive Translation Features

The LogoVista desktop translation systems can translate text

TECHNICAL DICTIONARIES

Currently available technical dictionaries: General Business, General Science and Technology, Aerospace Engineering, Agriculture, Applied Chemistry, Applied Physics, Architecture, Biology, Biotechnology, Chemistry, Civil Engineering, Computers, Earth Science, Electrical Engineering and Electronic Communications, Materials Science, Mechanical Engineering, Medical Science, Naval Architecture, Physics, Urban Engineering, Zoology.

Prices: from $125 to $695.

REQUIREMENTS

MACINTOSH VERSIONS: CPU: Power Macintosh, 68040, or 68030. Minimum application RAM: 5MB for 680X0; 6MB for Power Macintosh. Disk space needed: 25MB for LogoVista E to J Personal; 30MB for LogoVista E to J. Operating system: either System 7.1 or later and the Japanese Language Kit, or KanjiTalk 7.1 or later.

WINDOWS VERSIONS: CPU: Pentium, 486, or 386. Minimum application RAM: 9MB. Disk space needed: 25MB for LogoVista E to J Personal; 30MB for LogoVista E to J. Operating system: the Japanese Edition of Microsoft Windows 3.1 or later or Windows NT 3.5 or later.

FOR WINDOWS AND MACINTOSH

Now only $995

Now only $395

Language Engineering Corporation

385 Concord Ave
Belmont, MA 02178

CALL: 800-458-7267

FAX: 617-489-3850

e-mail: info@hq.lec.com

WWW: <http://www.lec.com>

Demo CD-ROM Available!

Windows 95 & Japanese Applications

Will your Japanese applications run under the new operating system?

by Douglas Horn

It's hard to open a magazine or turn on a television these days without seeing an advertisement for Microsoft's newest operating system, Windows 95. The ads promise users improved memory management, long filenames, and a host of other improvements. But they don't mention that users who have spent time and money adding Japanese processing capabilities to their computers are likely to find those features inoperative the minute they run Windows 95 for the first time.

Some Applications Won't Run

There are two primary ways to use Japanese with older versions of Microsoft Windows. The first is to install the Japanese version of Windows, Windows 3.1J; the second is to use an application which provides Japanese processing functions on the standard version of Windows. The latter, self-contained solution is popular outside of Japan because it allows computer users to add most of the functions of a complete operating environment for only the cost and disk space of a single application.

The most popular of these applications are Win/V (Fast River Systems, Y.K.) and TwinBridge (TwinBridge Software Corporation). These and similar systems add Japanese fonts, text entry, and other functions, upgrading Windows 3.1 to various levels of Japanese proficiency. The catch is that the current versions of Win/V and TwinBridge do not run on Windows 95.

Windows 95 handles character display differently from Windows 3.1, causing the current version of TwinBridge to run into code page faults. Fortunately for TwinBridge users, the manufacturer is planning to release an updated version by the end of this year. The pricing and upgrade policy for the new product, to be called TwinBridge Japanese Partner, have yet to be announced.

Win/V suffers from deeper problems. The Japanese operating environment adds several components to Windows 3.1 to make the standard version of Windows almost identical to the Japanese version. This strategy allows Win/V to run native Japanese Windows applications with few conflicts. Unfortunately, the significant differences between version 3.1 and Windows 95 leave Win/V users high and dry when it comes to Windows 95 compatibility.

Gregory C. Smith, President of Fast River Systems, attributes the difficulties encountered with these Japanese solutions to Microsoft's extremely strict ideas about language support, especially for Asian (double-byte) languages. Smith contends that Microsoft makes it difficult if not impossible for companies to create solutions for PC platforms. "Their view is that if you need to use Japanese you should purchase the Japanese version of the operating system," he says, adding that availability of and customer support for these versions are dismal outside of Japan. "This compares very poorly with the Macintosh world, where a simple double-byte extension to the English system is easily obtainable and supported directly from Apple." Fast River Systems currently has no plans to create a Windows 95 version of Win/V.

A third option for Japanese compatibility is KanjiWord 3.0 from Pacific Software Publishing, Inc. While not strictly speaking a Japanese operating environment, KanjiWord allows its Japanese word-processing functions and documents to be exported to other Windows applications with the use of the Windows OLE 2.0 (object linking and embedding) standard. In this way, KanjiWord offers many of the functions of a Japanese operating environment.

But KanjiWord suffers from problems similar to those of Win/V and TwinBridge. The program will operate normally on a Windows 95 computer until the user attempts to change fonts, at which point the system locks up or causes an error. Pacific Software Publishing reports that the program's front-end processor, the utility that allows Japanese text entry from a standard keyboard, is to blame. PSP has solved the problem and is offering replacement disks free to those who purchased the program after July 1, 1995, and for $29 to those who bought KanjiWord before that date.

Some Applications Run Well

Windows 95 does not confound all Japanese applications; in fact, some run even better on the new operating system. A fourth Japanese operating environment solution, Japanese Power Tools from TransLanguage, Inc., takes advantage of several of Windows 95's new features to allow users to create Japanese menus in their English-language applications, use 32-bit processing of Japanese functions, and perform other functions never possible under Windows 3.1.

"[Microsoft's] view is that if you need to use Japanese you should purchase the Japanese version of the operating system."

Two English-to-Japanese machine translation programs, EZ JapaneseWriter (EJ Bilingual, Inc.) and Tsunami MT (Neocor Technologies), each run in Windows 95 without any problems. Like TransLanguage, Neocor will soon release an updated version that will take advantage of Windows 95 features such as 32-bit processing, which is much faster than the 16-bit processing employed by Windows 3.1.

Other applications, such as Japanese language-learning programs, also seem to run well under Windows 95. BayWare's PowerJapanese and KanjiMoments run without incident, as do Pacific Software Publishing's Kantaro and Kanakun. DynEd's Dynamic Japanese runs on the version of DOS included with Windows 95, but only if Windows is not running (Dynamic Japanese won't run in a DOS box). Users may also need to hand install a DOS mouse driver, since Dynamic Japanese will not run without one and the Windows 95 mouse driver only functions while Windows is running.

Windows 95J

Of course, Japanese operating environment add-ons like TwinBridge and Win/V are not the only possible ways of creating a Japanese operating system. Another popular option is Microsoft Windows 3.1J, a native Japanese operating environment that supports numerous Japanese applications. Windows 3.1J is the "official" Microsoft Japanese operating environment, the same version that is currently sold in Japan. However, it is not necessarily the best choice for a multilingual operating environment, as it displays all of its menus, help files, and messages in Japanese only. Users who currently have Windows 3.1J should be aware that installing Windows 95 will overwrite their existing setup unless they take some precautions at installation time. In the past many users have successfully worked around these limitations by creating a multiple boot configuration (below), allowing them to start up either the standard version of Windows 3.1 or Windows 3.1J. This will also work with Windows 95.

Microsoft has not yet released Windows 95J. According to Akemi Sagawa, Microsoft's product manager in charge of Far East versions of Windows 95, Windows 95J is slated for release in Japan in late November. Microsoft will not be selling the product outside of Japan. AsiaSoft, an American reseller of Japanese software, plans to begin selling the new Japanese operating system shortly after its release. While various software resellers supply Japanese software in North America, users are encouraged to discuss their technical support options with resellers before purchasing foreign software, as resellers offer varying levels of customer support. This is especially true with Japanese versions of Windows; as in the past, Microsoft has offered no direct support to users who purchase Japanese software outside Japan.

Making it all work together

Many users of Japanese computing may choose to ignore Windows 95 altogether, or at least wait until these conflicts are resolved, but others may have little choice in the matter.

CHARLES E. TUTTLE CO., INC.

Books to Span the East and West

Save 20% on Individual Orders of These NEW Titles!

KINKI JAPANESE The Dialects and Culture of the Kansai Region

by D.C. Palter & Kaoru Horiuchi

Hundreds of sample sentences and dialogues in romaji and Japanese script, this linguistic guidebook provides clear, concise explanations of Kansai grammar and usage. Illustrated chapters aid cultural understanding of this delightful region of Japan.

$9.95 ISBN 0-8048-2017-1 176 pages pb

ON THE MOVE IN JAPAN Useful Phrases & Common Sense for the Traveler

by Scott Rutherford

Packed with insightful travel tips and truly useful expressions—not merely the most common ones—in English, romaji, and Japanese, this travel companion offers more than just phrases!

$7.95 ISBN 4-900737-14-3 160 pages pb

THE MAGICAL POWER OF SURU

Japanese Verbs Made Easy

by Nobuo Sato

Increase your vocabulary exponentially! Each chapter introduces numerous suru compound verbs, explains their structures in easy-to-understand language, and illustrates their usage with practical sample sentences and dialogues.

Includes a glossary.

$12.95 ISBN 0-8048-2025-2 176 pages pb

For Retail Order Information and a Free Catalogue
Write or Call Toll-Free 1-800-526-2778.

Name Phone ()
Street Address
City/State/Zip

	Qty	Total
Kinki Japanese 0-8048-2017-1	$9.95 ea.
On the Move in Japan 4-900737-14-3	$7.95 ea.
The Magical Power of Suru 0-8048-2025-2	$12.95 ea.
	Subtotal
	Less 20%

CA residents add 8.25% sales tax; MA & VT residents add 5%

Shipping: $3.00 for first book, 50¢ for ea. additional book

Total Enclosed $

Check enclosed Bill my MC Visa Acct.#

Exp. Date

Send Orders and Make Checks Payable to:
Charles E. Tuttle Co., Inc.
Japanese Language Dept.
RR1 Box 231-5, N. Clarendon, VT 05759-9700

Special offer valid only in U.S. for orders received by December 30, 1995. (854)

たのしい カナくん あ Kana-kun

Kana-kun integrates full multimedia elements to give you a complete interactive, audio-visual experience for learning the basics of Japanese writing! Experience Kana-kun's innovative use of animation, photographs, sound, and cartoons to learn the Japanese Kana characters!

Japanese is fun with Kana-kun when you:

- ◆ Watch stroke order animation.
- ◆ Learn by playing!
- ◆ Keep track of your performance.
- ◆ Learn at your own pace.
- ◆ Hear correct pronunciation.
- ◆ Write Kana characters on screen with or without a guide!
- ◆ Learn from a database of over 200 words.
- ◆ Experience quality photographs and special sound effects!
- ◆ Type words using the mouse on a virtual kana keyboard.
- ◆ Learn phrases by reading cartoons.

"If you have the slightest interest in how to speak or read Japanese, you couldn't do better than this CD-ROM...Highly recommended!"

-Jeremy Torr, Best Buys CD (May 1995).

Kana-kun's suggested retail price is $49.

System Requirements:

Windows 3.1 or higher, VGA, 4MB RAM,
CD-ROM, sound board

Pacific Software Publishing

14405 SE 36th Street, Bellevue, WA 98006
(800) 232-3989 Intl: (206) 562-1224 Fax: (206) 562-0811
CompuServe: 74673,1652

Developed by FUJITSU

Fortunately, those who need features of Windows 95 can still use their unsupported applications by creating a multiple boot configuration when they install the new operating system. This special configuration will install Windows 95 while keeping the user's existing version of Windows (either 3.1 or 3.11). When starting the computer, the user can instruct the operating system to boot, or load, either Windows 3.1 or Windows 95. This solution requires all the hard disk space of two versions of Windows, but it is the only way for many users to continue to use Japanese applications not supported by the new version of Windows.

To create a multiple booting system, users should start by running the Windows 95 setup utility as if performing a normal installation. When the program asks whether to install Windows 95 into the existing directory or a new one, select a new directory. For example, if Windows 3.1 is installed to the directory C:\WINDOWS (the default), selecting C:\WIN95 will protect the existing version. The Windows 95 setup utility will warn users that existing applications will have to be reinstalled. Users should ignore this warning and proceed with the installation.

Once Windows 95 is installed, users must make sure that the BootMulti parameter of the MSDOS.SYS file is set to the proper parameter to permit multiple boot configurations. The following steps allow users to set this parameter.

First, exit Windows 95 using the Shut Down command, selecting the "Restart the computer in MS-DOS mode" option. Once at the DOS prompt, move to the root directory (C:\) by repeating the command "cd" (change directory) as many times as necessary.

In the root directory is a file called MSDOS.SYS, which tells the system how to load itself, among other things. This file is a hidden, read-only system file and will not show up when you use the "dir" (directory) command. It is visible, however, when you use the "attrib" (attribute) command. Typing "attrib msdos.sys" returns the following line: A SHR MSDOS.SYS. The SHR indicates that the file is system, hidden, and read-only, meaning that it cannot be edited in its current state. To edit MSDOS.SYS, type the command "attrib msdos.sys -s -h -r," which turns off each of these file attributes. The command "edit msdos.sys" will call the DOS text editor

The Sundai Centre for Business Japanese

- Individually tailored courses
- Small group lessons ¥ 44,000 for 3 months
- Free trial lessons at your convenience
- Seasonal language retreat in HAKONE seminar houseex. ¥ 70,000 for 10 private lessons and two nights accommodation with all meals

Located 5 min. walk from Ochanomizu JR and subway stations.
TEL. 03-3233-3356 FAX. 03-3233-2469

program with MSDOS.SYS. The beginning of the file should look like the box at right.

If the line `BootMulti=1` does not exist or is set to anything other than one, add or edit the line so that it has this setting. Do not edit any other part of the file. At this point, save the file and close the text editor. Finally, the attributes of the MSDOS.SYS file should be returned to their previous settings. This can be done with the command `"attrib msdos.sys +s +h +r"`.

```
[Paths]
WinDir=C:\WIN95
RootBootDir=C:\WIN9
HostWinBootDrv=C
```

```
[Options]
BootMulti=1
BootGUI=1
Network=1
```

Once a user has set up a multiple boot configuration in this way, he or she can instruct the computer to load the old version of Windows by pressing the F4 key when the message "Starting Windows 95" is displayed at system startup.

Tough decisions

Computer users who rely on Japanese processing support may have some tough decisions to make about upgrading to Windows 95. Despite the advertising fanfare, Windows 95 is receiving a lukewarm reception from many users and businesses. In this writer's opinion, the advantages of the new system are not worth jeopardizing a Japanese configuration that works well, especially for users of products like Win/V which will not offer upgrades in the foreseeable future. ❖

For more information:

AsiaSoft	800-992-9894
BayWare	800-538-8869; 415-286-4492
DynED	800-765-4375; 415-578-8067
Fast River Systems	800-421-5061; +81-3-3706-7580
Microsoft	206-882-8080
Pacific Software Publishing ..	800-232-3989; 206-562-1224
TwinBridge	800-894-6144; 213-263-3926

Douglas Horn is a freelance writer living in Seattle, WA. His first book, a novel for young adults titled Moves, has just been published by Royal Fireworks Press. Readers with World Wide Web access can read back issues of Computer Corner at Douglas Horn's Web site (<http://www.halcyon.com/horn/default.htm>).

MANGAJIN'S

BASIC JAPANESE THROUGH COMICS

BASIC JAPANESE THROUGH COMICS is the ideal supplement to learning Japanese from textbooks. The book uses lifelike situations from real manga to explain linguistic and cultural points quickly and memorably.

In each chapter one specific concept of basic Japanese—a phrase, word, or hard-to-grasp idiom—is carefully examined and explained.

The lessons cover a wide array of Japanese expressions and illustrate usage and cultural context, providing insights into not only the language but the way the Japanese behave, think, and see the world as well.

Each chapter gives you about six pages of illustrations from manga covering:

- | | | |
|---|------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1. Yoroshiku o-negai shimasu | 9. Dozo | 17. Baby Talk |
| 2. Sumimasen | 10. Baka , The Basic Insult | 18. Informal Politeness |
| 3. Feminine Speech | 11. Shitsurei | 19. Introductions |
| 4. Gaijin Bloopers | 12. Ii , the "Good Word" | 20. "-sama" words |
| 5. Hiragana, Katakana and Manga | 13. Yatta! The Exclamation | 21. Hesitating with Ano |
| 6. Ohayo & Omedeto Gozaimasu | 14. Saying Goodbye | 22. The Wide World of Desu |
| 7. Creative Kanji Readings | 15. The Concept of Komaru | 23. Hai (Part 1) |
| 8. Domo , The All-Purpose Word | 16. Counters and Classifiers | 24. Hai (Part 2) |

"... a delightful volume that both educates and entertains. This is real Japanese as spoken by the natives."

—Glen Fukushima, Director AT&T Japan, and former US trade negotiator

"... enjoyable material as well as valuable information on Japanese language and culture. I highly recommend it."

—Professor Akira Miura, U. of Wisconsin; author of Japanese Words and their Uses

"... gives readers a window on ... Japanese pop culture. Anyone who is serious about Japanese or modern Japan will want this book."

—James Fallows, Editor at the Atlantic Monthly; author of Looking at the Sun

Only $14.95/¥2,500 in Japan

In the US order through Mangajin:
Tel: 800-552-3206/Fax: 404-590-0890

In Japan order through SSKC:
Tel: 03-3479-4434/Fax: 03-3479-5047

BOOK BUYER'S GUIDE

Written on Water

Five Hundred Poems from the Man'yosho translated by Takashi Kojima

Although written over thirteen hundred years ago, the poems of the Man'yosho retain a rare freshness and an originality that fascinates even today. Part of the collection's originality is due to its variety of authors, from members of the aristocracy to commoners from the lowest ranks. The poems cover a wide range of content and expression, from the court poet's highly polished verses to anonymous poems that read like folk songs. What the various Man'yo poems do have in common is emotional fire, amazing candor, and eloquent expression of feeling not found in later Japanese poetry.

184 pages • 6 x 8 • Hardcover • ISBN: 0-8048-2040-6 • $19.95/$2.480
Tuttle/Tutbooks: 800-526-2778(US) • 044-833-0225(Japan)

Japanese Kana Workbook

by P.G. O'Neill

A programmed workbook for beginners that offers a systematic introduction to nearly 10 hiragana and katakana signs and their usage in modern Japanese—allowing students to learn the fundamentals of reading and writing kana without the aid of a teacher. Each kana is introduced separately and then met in a number of combinations with other kana already learned, to build up a cumulative familiarity with the signs. This method is tested at intervals throughout the book to show any relearning that might be needed. By the author of Essential Kanji and Japanese Names.

192 pp. • 7.25 x 10.25 • Softcover • ISBN: 0-8348-0337-2 • $9.95
Weatherhill, Inc. : Tel: 800-437-7840 • Fax: 800-557-5601

Fingertip Japanese

Enjoy Japan as the Japanese Do
by Walter Long, with Kenichi Shimonishi

The reputation of Japanese as an impossibly difficult language has kept many visitors to these exciting islands prisoners of tourist hotels and package tours. Now Fingertip Japanese comes to the rescue, providing the right word or expression to quickly get you what you want or where you're going. Easy-to-follow, situation-based chapters will help you to: find inexpensive restaurants; see famous sights and off-beat attractions, shop for local crafts; enjoy Japan as the Japanese do and much more. Don't let the language barrier keep you from having fun.

192 pp. • 3.25 x 6 • Softcover • ISBN: 0-8348-0270-8 • $9.95
Weatherhill, Inc. : Tel: 800-437-7840 • Fax: 800-557-5601

Zen & Creative Management

by Albert Low

In Zen and Creative Management, Albert Low, Zen Teacher and former business executive, combines Eastern and Western thought to provide managers with a blueprint for better understanding, improved decision-making, and increased awareness of society as a whole. "Out of considerable experience in management and Zen, Albert Low brilliantly diagnoses what lies behind the dilemmas and conflicts bedeviling the world of management"—Roshi Philip Kapleau. "An intensely practical and flexible approach to the solution of managerial problems"—Elliot Jaques.

256 pages • 4.25 x 9 • Softcover • ISBN: 0-8048-1883-5 • $12.95/$2.000
Tuttle/Tutbooks: 800-526-2778(US) • 044-833-0225(Japan)

Unlocking the Japanese Business Mind

by Gregory R. Tenhover

Many past books on doing business with the Japanese have focused in great detail on describing how the Japanese behave, excluding the most vital information—explaining why the Japanese behave, think and see the world as they do. This book looks deeply into the "why," providing an in-depth, comprehensive understanding of Japanese business culture. "A tremendous advance over virtually all the 'how to approach Japan' material on the market today."—Chalmers Johnson, President, Japan Policy Research Institute. "...a text book for Americans about to take up assignment in Japan"—Sam Jameson, Los Angeles Times Tokyo Bureau Chief.

300 pages • 6 x 9 • Softcover • ISBN: 0-930124-10-3 • $17.95
Transemantics, Inc. : Tel: 202-686-5610 • Fax: 202-686-5603

Moves

by Douglas Horn

Moves is the story of Hiro, who moves from Nagoya when his father is sent to run a company-owned cattle ranch. Hiro quickly becomes the target of the school bully, but feels he cannot talk about his problems with his parents, who are already discussing sending him back to Japan and feeling their own, individual societal problems. A source of comfort to Hiro, in the privacy of his own room, is his Aikido equipment and training. He quickly adapts to Judo lessons taught by a black sensei, who is as sensitive to Hiro's needs as he is strong. Hiro learns much about life from his sensei, and about himself, as he gains peer acceptance and establishes friendships, as well as the pressure on his family.

200 pages • 6 x 9 • ISBN: 0-88092-150-1 • Softcover • $5.00
Royal Fireworks Press : Tel: 416-593-2557 • Fax: 914-726-3824

Using Japanese Slang

A Comprehensive Guide

by Anne Kasschau and Susumu Eguchi

From college campuses to back-street bars, this book is a vital resource for understanding phrases you won't find in textbooks and your Japanese friends won't teach you. Using Japanese Slang brings you an entertaining and colorful Japanese language as it's used in the real world. Fascinating etymological explanations and important contextual information makes using this comprehensive guide to Japanese as the Japanese speak it will give you the power to express the thoughts you really want to convey, and deliver them like a native speaker.

246 pages • 6 x 9 • Softcover • ISBN: 4-900737-36-4 • $12.95/$1.380
Tuttle/Yenbooks: 800-526-2778(US) • 044-833-0225(Japan)

Kanji Pict • O • Graphix

Over 1000 Japanese Kanji and Kana Mnemonics
by Michael Rowley

This smartly designed and information-packed volume presents over 1,200 kanji, each with a mnemonic drawing that looks like the kanji and conveys its meaning to make it easy to memorize. Included are the hiragana and katakana syllabaries, readings, main definitions, standard written forms, and a brief phrase that reinforces the mnemonic. With an introduction, index and cross references. Includes 1,200 line drawings—Winner, HOW International Design Award.

216 pp. • 8 x 8 • Softcover • ISBN: 0-9628137-0-2 • $19.95
Stone Bridge Press : Tel: 800-947-7271 • Fax: 510-524-8711

Japan: A Business Traveler's Handbook

Published by PHP Institute, Inc.

The guide that makes business travel in Japan a pleasure. This handbook provides clear, accurate information about doing business in Japan, and features in-depth data on Japan's business culture and social environment. Includes a reference guide filled with essential addresses, contact numbers, and maps. Includes information on: getting through customs, using telephones, getting around Japan, the structure of Japanese companies, making contacts, getting through the language barrier, business entertainment, gift-giving, social customs, weddings, giving speeches and much more.

200 pages • 4 x 7 • Softcover • ISBN: 4-569-54271-9 • $20.00
PHP Institute of America : Tel: 212-949-8032 • Fax: 212-949-8243

Issey Ogata

Japan's Stand-Alone Comic

by Hart Larrabee

Looking for a place to have lunch on a trip to Tokyo last spring, I was surprised to stumble upon a restaurant called La Bohème. Not that the name itself is particularly arresting, but a restaurant called La Bohème is mentioned in one of the plays I was then translating for acclaimed comic monologist Issey Ogata. I was soon convinced that I had found the very spot that had inspired the sketch.

In the play, called "The Matrimonial Agency," a delicate, middle-aged member of the NHK Philharmonic seeks professional help in finding a wife. His beloved mother having recently passed away, he seeks a woman to take her place. When asked by the interviewer to describe a married couple, he reveals an idealist's fantasy in which his wife urges him to sleep late on holiday mornings, shares hot tea and cakes with him on winter afternoons, and turns the pages of his score as he practices his contrabass in the evenings. Dreamily, he declares that if his wife wanted to go out to eat they would go to "some small, quiet restaurant nearby, one with an easy-going proprietor." He adds, "There really is a place like that. Called 'La Bohème.'"

The restaurant I had found was indeed small and quiet (no sign of the owner), but there was something deeper about the place that tied it to Ogata's play in my mind. The menu was mostly pasta dishes with a Japanese twist, like spaghetti with short-necked clams, nori, and nattō, and there were small, glowing charcoal hibachi scattered among the candlelit tables to ward off the March chill creeping in through the open front of the restaurant. It had exactly the sort of romantic atmosphere that would make a regular out of a proud but lonely mama's boy with artistic affectations.

Ogata, it turns out, had never heard of the place, much less been there. In fact, he received the news of my noontime epiphany with about as much interest as if I had informed him that dogs have fleas. But then, he's used to hearing about the uncanny confluence of his imagination and the real experiences of his audience. Long before relationship marketing became a trendy catch phrase, Ogata's management was taking post-performance surveys of audience reactions to his shows. Whether in Japan or overseas, one of the most common reactions to the literally hundreds of characters in his running "Catalog of City Life" series is "I have a friend just like that. . . ."

Much of the humor, and the realism, of Ogata's characters comes from the fact that people are rarely so funny as when deceiving themselves. The hapless aesthete above denies his attachment to his late mother even as his unrealistically high ideals for a prospective mate betray her lasting influence. Indeed, it is largely due to his unusual relationship with his mother that he became this fastidious and easily flustered daydreamer in turtleneck and tweed blazer whose affected ways seem so familiar and so funny. Personality is the by-product of adaptive response. Each of Ogata's characters, whether it's the has-been enka singer playing a nearly empty club or the street-corner preacher confessing his jealousy and lust to the world, is an ordinary misfit coping as best he can with the paradoxical isolation and predictable confusion of life in the big city.

The salaryman, that familiar icon of Japanese business acumen and after-five excess, appears frequently on Ogata's stage. Simultaneously heroic and pathetic in their struggles for family, self, and company, Ogata's salarymen are masters of their own mediocrity, getting by where the stirring ideals of loyal sacrifice and dedicated hard work meet the cold hard facts of resigned servitude and deadwood slacking.

There are salarymen whose family vacations are invaded

• acclaimed = 賞賛を浴びている shōsan o abite iru • matrimonial agency = 結婚相談所 kekkon sōdansho • epiphany = 悟り satori • uncanny = 不思議な / 不気味な / 不気味なくらいの fushigi na/bukimi na kurai no • confluence = 合流 / 合致 gōryū/gatchi • aesthete = 芸術愛好家 geijutsu aikōka • fastidious = 好みの難しい / 気難しい konomi no muzukashii/kimuzukashii • icon = 象徴 / 像 shōchō/zō • servitude = 隷属 reizoku

by thoughts of work, salarymen hopelessly trapped on crowded subways, and salarymen who do their best to joke their way through the insipid whiskey and Alka-Seltzer haze of late-night entertaining. Yamanaka, a fast-talking salesman who appears in a number of sketches, stumbles into an existential black hole while waiting in a lonely parking lot for a client. Forgetting the name of the restaurant where they are to eat, he tries to call the office for instructions but cannot recall the number. Checking the business cards in his pocket, he cannot decide which one is his. At a loss, he begins to head home but stops, unsure of where to go. His deepest low comes, however, when his memory returns and he remembers exactly where and who he is.

There is ample room here for a social-critical reading of Ogata's work, but he denies such intentions. Rather than rail against a warped society, Ogata portrays its human product with wry sympathy and lets the audience find its own interpretations. In many of his sketches, overt plot conflicts are replaced by a largely implicit background tension between the character and his or her environment.

One of Ogata's female characters may illustrate this last point best. In "The Housewife's Date," introduced to an enthusiastic American audience at the Portland International Performance Festival in July 1995, a middle-aged woman playfully needles her husband at a bar on their night out away from the kids. Her coy but somehow desperate teasing about how "the girls at the office" won't like a man who wipes his neck with his oshibori gives way to an almost vulgar cry of surprise when she discovers a broken nail. Soon she is eagerly spying on a couple her husband thinks is having an affair. Her every word and action is perfectly ordinary and painfully recognizable—making the audience's laughter in large measure self-directed.

A prolific writer and illustrator as well as a brilliant actor, Ogata is an independent, iconoclastic figure in the Japanese entertainment world. His short stories and essays have been serialized in a number of magazines and newspapers (one of his essays appears on the facing page), and he now illustrates all of his own work. There is no doubt, however, that the stage is his passion. Over the 15-plus years of his professional career, he has collaborated with long-time friend and director Morita Yūzō to develop a distinctive style of monologue, a form familiar to Western theatergoers but one in which Ogata works alone in Japan.

Each of the six or seven characters he performs in an evening's program interacts with unseen others on a stage empty but for the simplest of props: a chair, a cushion, a step-ladder. And yet, between Ogata's phenomenal mimetic prowess and the audience's inspired imagination, the characters' invisible surroundings emerge, more real than any elaborate combination of sets and properties. When he squirms through an overcrowded subway car to open a window, the crush is palpable and the heat intense.

Nothing is left to the imagination between sketches, however, as Ogata moves to a standing mirror at the side of the stage to change costume in full view of the audience. Originally an accommodation to the small theaters without dressing rooms in which he first performed, these on-stage metamorphoses have become an integral part of the show. Occurring right before one's eyes, Ogata's character transformations seem almost magical.

Recently Ogata has been taking his unorthodox show beyond Japan's borders and entertaining audiences all over the world. The inspiration for the first such venture overseas came to American producer/director Jonah Salz a few years ago during a sleepless night of channel surfing. Salz, who combines Western theater and traditional Japanese performance through his Nōhō Theater Group in Kyoto, was stunned by a late-night rebroadcast of Ogata's live show and immediately contacted the actor's management to suggest a show in America. After successful performances with simultaneous English translation before mixed Japanese and foreign audiences in Kyoto, the team visited the Japan Society in New York City, whose director of performing arts, Paula Lawrence, invited Ogata to make his international debut there in September 1993. These performances met with such success that an extra show had to be added, and Ogata was invited to return to the Japan Society the following year.

In the short time since those first shows, Ogata has performed in England, France, Germany, and Ireland, as well as the United States. The next chance to catch him in the US will be his national tour sponsored by the Japan Society in the second half of March 1996. Look for him in Los Angeles; Chicago; Charlotte, N.C.; Boston; Lexington, Ky.; New York City; and Washington, D.C. ❖ Hart Larrabee (fwba0354@mb.infoweb.or.jp) lives in Nagano, Japan. He has been translating and interpreting for Issey Ogata since 1993.

Ogata in "Subway"

• rail against = ののしる / ぐちをこぼす nonoshiru/guchi o kobosu • warped = 歪んだ yuganda • needle v. = からかう karakau • mimetic = ものまねの monomane no • prowess = 能力 / 腕前 nōryoku/udemae • squirm through = (体を) くねらせて進む (karada o) kunerasete susumu

サラリーマンになろう

イッセー尾形

経歴不問で、サラリーマンになれるだって？

建築の現場仕事に出かける前の、空が明けたばかりの早朝。台所付きの六畳間で、朝刊をめくっていた僕の手は求人欄のところで止まった。

テレビの制作会社。今までの演劇の経験も生かせるに違いない。感想文と面接。学科試験がない。

……間違いない、試験がないぞ。

感想文はともかくとして、面接は得意だ。

サラリーマンになって、書類封筒に革靴……悪くないなー。

夕食の時にちゃんと女房に宣言して喜ばせてやろう。「サラリーマンになるぞ」って。

僕の舞台では背広のネタが多いが、実は会社勤めをした事がない。木造家屋の解体から水道の配管、シボレックス屋、アルミサッシの職人……と天に誇れる地下足袋族だった。その職人時代に一度だけ、ある会社の面接を受けた事がある。

広いホールに、受付嬢。何基もあるエレベーター。

「それで、あなたは今、どんな仕事をしておられるんですか？」

目いっぱいヨソイキ服で面接に応募した僕は「えー、ビルの外壁をですネ、溶接ですネー」とインテリっぽく、……ですネ……というわけでございまして……を連発した。

家に帰ってから、喉元からまるネクタイをほどこうと汗を流しつつ、女房に一部始終をすっかり、もう合格した気で聞かせる。背中を向けてオシメをたたんでいた女房の肩が震えている。

Becoming a Salaryman

by Issey Ogata translated by Hart Larrabee

What? I could become a salaryman? No experience necessary?

It was early in the morning, just after daybreak, and I was getting ready to head off to the construction site for work. Flipping through the morning paper in our one-room apartment with kitchenette, my hands had come to a stop at the help-wanted ads.

A television production company. I'll bet I can put my experience in theater to good use. An essay and an interview; no academic tests. . . .

That's what it says, all right—no tests.

Essays aside, I'm great at interviews.

A salaryman, with packets of documents and leather shoes. . . . Sounds pretty good.

I decided to surprise my wife with the good news at dinner: "I'm going to be a salaryman!"

Many of the characters I do on stage wear suits, but I've never actually worked in an office myself. I was always a proud member of the work-boot crowd—demolishing wooden houses and laying plumbing, putting in insulation and installing aluminum windows. In all those years as a laborer, only once did I go to a company for a job interview.

It had a spacious lobby with a receptionist, and lots of elevators.

"Now, then, what kind of work are you currently engaged in?"

Dressed in my Sunday best for the interview, I answered, "Well, you see, I put the exterior walls on buildings, which is to say, you see, that I weld . . ." Hoping to sound intellectual, I peppered my speech with "you sees" and "which is to says."

Back at home, as I struggled to undo the necktie wrapped around my throat, I told my wife the whole story, feeling as though I had already been offered the job. She sat with her back to me, folding diapers, her shoulders trembling.

(おおい感動しているぞ、いい女房だなあー) 僕も胸がいっぱいになるのを感じた。なんたって、雨が降ったって出勤できるんだぞ。待ってろよー、ボーナスも出るんだ。それでマンションのローンとかだって組めるんだぞ。ああ、憧れのコンクリートの家。

「ねー、尾形さん」いまだに僕の女房は僕を、「尾形さん」と呼ぶ。これって何なんだ、分からない。

「ネー、その面接、駄目だったかもしれないね。だって……という訳でございまして、って何だか、芸人さんばいもんネー、アハハハハ」と豆をほうり投げたら口で受け取れるほど、大口をあけて笑いこぼれた。

そして一週間後に送られてきた葉書には、丁寧な言葉で不合格が記されていた。

Yeah! She's excited for me! What a great wife. I could feel a lump forming in my throat. Boy! Now I'll be able to go to work even when it rains. Just you wait—I'll be getting a bonus, too! We'll be able to afford that housing loan. Ahh, the condo we've been dreaming of!

"You know, Ogata-san." (My wife still calls me Ogata-san; what that says about us, I'm not sure.)

"You know, that interview today might not get you the job. I mean, 'which is to say' sounds sort of affected, don't you think?" She tumbled over laughing, her mouth open wide enough to catch tossed nuts.

The postcard that arrived a week later politely informed me that I'd been rejected.

The Japanese original of "Becoming a Salaryman" is excerpted from Issey Ogata no Yūei Seikatsu (イッセー尾形の遊泳生活, The Swimming Life of Issey Ogata), a collection of essays published by Kadokawa Shoten in January 1995. The English translation appears in print for the first time.

Learn Japanese Now!

<h2 style="margin: 0;">Japanese TwinBridge</h2>  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ✓ English/Japanese Dictionary ✓ Use in any Windows App. ✓ No Need for Japanese Windows! ✓ High Quality Fonts! <table border="0" style="width: 100%; font-size: small;"> <tr> <td>Standard</td> <td>Scalable Fonts</td> <td>299.00</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Basic</td> <td>24 by 24 Char</td> <td>99.00</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Junior</td> <td>16 by 16 char</td> <td>29.95</td> </tr> </table> Enter, Display, & Print Japanese Anywhere in Eng. Windows Jr. Version $29	Standard	Scalable Fonts	299.00	Basic	24 by 24 Char	99.00	Junior	16 by 16 char	29.95	<h2 style="margin: 0;">Fundamental Japanese</h2>  Fundamental Japanese is a highly interactive, powerful, multimedia education program for the Japanese Language. It enables you to READ, WRITE, and SPEAK Japanese in the shortest possible time, with graphics, animation and sound, using CD-ROM technology to illustrate each step. Volume 1: Katakana and Hiragana alphabets and simple Japanese words Volume 2: Japanese Numeric System building sentences using dates and times Volume 3: Basic and intermediate conversation skills. <table border="0" style="width: 100%; font-size: small;"> <tr> <td>Sound Blaster Version 2.0 and compatible</td> <td>Volume 1,2,3</td> <td style="text-align: right;">$99</td> </tr> <tr> <td>DOS System - Windows NOT Required !!</td> <td>Full Set of 3</td> <td style="text-align: right;">$249</td> </tr> </table>	Sound Blaster Version 2.0 and compatible	Volume 1,2,3	$99	DOS System - Windows NOT Required !!	Full Set of 3	$249	<h2 style="margin: 0;">Learn While Translating Interactively!</h2> <h3 style="margin: 0;">Bi-Ling Writer</h3> Translation Software SPECIAL SALE PRICE! $289 $169 Works with Twinbridge or Japanese Windows   English
Standard	Scalable Fonts	299.00
Basic	24 by 24 Char	99.00
Junior	16 by 16 char	29.95
Sound Blaster Version 2.0 and compatible	Volume 1,2,3	$99
DOS System - Windows NOT Required !!	Full Set of 3	$249
<h2 style="margin: 0;">PC Transer Jr.</h2> English to Japanese 60,000 word Translator with context driven, 50K word/Hr smart dictionary, 10 line per pass version of $1,995 version. SALE PRICE → $129 $69 PC Transer Jr. / TwinBridge Jr. BundlePak Everything the Windows user needs to enter, display and print Japanese as well as English to Japanese translation. $139 $89!	<h2 style="margin: 0;">KanjiWORD</h2> The Largest English/Japanese Dictionary Available for your PC Input Methods: SALE PRICE <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ✓ English ✓ Romaji ✓ Stroke Order $250 $189	<h2 style="margin: 0;">Power Japanese</h2> $189 $89 Kanji Moments
<h2 style="margin: 0;">KanjiWORD V3.0</h2> ★英語バージョンのMS-Windows 3.1で実行に使用し、KanjiWORD V2.0の機能に加え以下の機能が追加されます。 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○日本語動詞辞書機能を搭載し、よく使う動詞を学んでもよい、活用し、 ○学んでもよい、活用し、 $259 New, Scalable Outline Fonts! 50,000 Word Dictionary	Order Toll Free (800) 900-8803 Character Language Resources 2130 Sawtelle Blvd. 304A / Los Angeles, CA. 90025

Successful Gaijin in Japan: How Foreign Companies Are Making It In Japan. by Nagami Kishi and David Russell. Lincolnwood, Ill.: NTC Business Books, 1996. 353 pages, $27.95 (hardcover)

A look at how 15 non-Japanese companies from around the world have successfully broken into the Japanese market, and how they have dealt with bureaucratic obstacles, cliquish distribution networks, picky consumers, and a rough economy. Companies profiled include Nestlé, Procter & Gamble, Coca-Cola, Parker Pen, BMW, and Louis Vuitton.

Patriotism. by Yukio Mishima; translated by Geoffrey W. Sargent. New York: New Directions, 1995. 64 pages, $6 (paperback)

A little book designed to be an inexpensive introduction to Mishima's work for those who haven't yet experienced it. Patriotism recounts the final hours of young Lieutenant Shinji Takeyama and his wife following a 1936 rebellion. Although he wasn't involved in the mutiny, his colleagues were, and Takeyama knows that he will be made to hunt them down. Torn between duty to the Imperial Forces and loyalty to his friends, he chooses the honorable path of suicide by disembowelment; his wife, after serving as a dutiful witness, stabs herself. "The last moments of this heroic and dedicated couple were such as to make the gods themselves weep," writes Mishima.

Empty Heaven. by Paul Graham. Zurich: Scalo Publishers, 1995. 100 pages, $35 (hardcover)

In this collection of photographs taken by British photographer Paul Graham between 1989 and 1995, Graham depicts his view of modern Japanese society—in which, he says, scars of the past are concealed by modern frippery. "I wanted to explore the link between this willful dream and the shadows of history," says the artist. Contains 88 full-page color photographs and a 12-page interview with the photographer in English and German. (Distributed in the United States by Distributed Art Publishers, New York, N.Y.)

Tokyo Sketches: Short Stories. by Pete Hamill. New York: Kodansha International, 1995. 160 pages, $10 (paperback)

Bittersweet tales of Japanese and American people connecting—and failing to connect—against the backdrop of Tokyo and New York. "For a New Yorker, Tokyo has the familiar dense vastness of a great city," writes the author in his introduction. "But as I spent more time in Tokyo—going back with my wife, who was born there, or visiting with newspaper friends—I began hearing stories that convinced me I would always be a stranger in the streets." Those stories provided the basis for Tokyo Sketches—tales of musicians, war veterans, art dealers, interpreters, journalists, pop stars, ball players, students, and others. ❖

KANJI 2045

A Complete Kanji Learning Tool

Kanji which means "Chinese characters" number in the tens of thousands. However, the Japanese defined a standard set of 1,945 characters for use in all modern communications. Knowledge of this set is all that is required to be fully literate. But Japanese people know a little more than the standard set, so we have added 100 characters. Voila! KANJI 2045. We have also included all you need to know about Hiragana and Katagana in this study kit.

After graduating from KANJI 2045, you will be able to read any Japanese book, magazine, sign, or newspaper. You need not know anything about the spoken language in order to read Japanese. But once you have learned to read Japanese, you will learn the spoken language at a phenomenal rate!

If you are a diligent student, you can be fully literate in less than a year.

You don't need to pay for expensive Kanji lessons or go through drills and exercises designed by someone else. Study in your own way and at your own pace. KANJI 2045 has a single, simple interface with no menus to fumble with. Just click with a mouse to look up characters or to test yourself. The characters are presented in a logical and instructive sequence, designed to help you quickly build and retain your knowledge. Join our growing list of satisfied customers.

The screenshot shows the 'Kanji 2045 - High Resolution' window. On the left, the character '大' is displayed with a red '1' in a circle next to it. Below the character is a 'Comments' section with a red '8' in a circle, containing the text: "Daigaku" means university. It consists of this character followed by JIS 3358. Can you see a man with his arms outstretched, telling you how big the fish that got away was? Below the comments is a 'Student Notes' section with a red '9' in a circle, containing the text: This also looks like the character for "man". He's walking to the right with a BIG log under his arm. I've seen this character all over Japan during my vacation. Some toilet flush levers have two settings, one setting is marked with the character for "small" and the other setting is marked with this character. It obviously means "greater water flow". On the right side of the window, there are several input fields and buttons. A red '2' in a circle is next to the pronunciation 'DAI, TAI'. A red '3' in a circle is next to the Kun reading '訓'. A red '4' in a circle is next to the Meaning '意味'. A red '5' in a circle is next to the ON reading 'oo, oo(kii), oo(i ni)'. A red '6' in a circle is next to the English meaning 'big, large, great, very much, university'. A red '7' in a circle is next to the 'ON' search button. A red '14' in a circle is next to the '終' (End) button. A red '12' in a circle is next to the 'JIS 4267' button. A red '13' in a circle is next to the 'Order' button. A red '10' in a circle is next to the 'Mark' button. A red '11' in a circle is next to the 'Hide' button. A red '13' in a circle is next to the 'Skip' button. A red '14' in a circle is next to the 'Clear All Marks' button. A red '14' in a circle is next to the 'Mark All' button. The window also has a 'Home' button, a 'Back' button, a 'Next' button, and an 'End' button.

1. Click anywhere in this box to hide or show the Kanji.
2. Click here to hide or show the ON.
3. Click here to hide or show the Kun.
4. Click here to hide or show the Meaning.
5. Click here to perform an "ON" search.
6. Click here to perform a "Kun" search.
7. Click here to perform a "Meaning" search.
8. Click here to search our comments.
9. Click here to search your notes.
10. Click in this box to edit your notes.
11. Click this button to hide comments and notes.
12. Click here to search for a specific JIS code
13. Click here to search for a specific order number
14. Click this button to quit the program.

System Requirements: Windows 3.1+, 8 MB RAM, 486 or better CPU, 30 MB Hard disk space.

Order Information: KANJI 2045 is only $129.00 and is shipped free anywhere in the world. Place your order now! Educational Software International, 272 Kalalau St., Honolulu, Hawaii, USA 96825. Ph: 808-396-1161/Fax: 808-396-9231.

THE KANJI REVO

WILD GUESS: You're studying Japanese, and you've found yourself somewhere near the base of Kanji Mountain looking up. No end in sight, and no clue how solid the ground below you is. Every step is a battle, and it seems like every time you stop to rest, you slip back to where you started.

WELL WE'VE BEEN THERE. Spectra Kanji was conceived, designed, and developed by people who have scaled Kanji Mountain the hard way, and then produced the dream product we would have killed for when we were starting out. So now you don't have to go through what we did. The days of brute-force mountain climbing are over forever.

200+ ELEMENTS
2000+ KANJI
5000+ COMPOUNDS

S P E C T R A KANJI

SLASH YOUR STUDY TIME IN HALF!

1 YOU WANT POWER— SPECTRA KANJI DELIVERS

Kanji characters, though extremely diverse and seemingly random, are actually packed with valuable patterns. They are built from the same basic components ("elements"), and their structure is rich with clues as to how they're read.

You've probably noticed some of the more obvious patterns, but until you exploit all patterns fully, you're basically forced to approach every new kanji as a bunch of random pen-strokes with a bunch of random readings and meanings.

That's where Spectra Kanji comes in. With Spectra Kanji, you master kanji and their components in a systematic and comprehensive way.

You get exactly the information you need, exactly when you need it. You use what you already know to master what you don't, reinforcing both in the process. Mastering kanji actually gets progressively easier, not harder.

And make no mistake: Though it does provide powerful search capabilities, Spectra Kanji isn't just another software reference tool. It's a revolutionary new kanji-learning methodology that allows you to blaze past the study phase and move on to actually using kanji in real life—which is, after all, why you're studying them in the first place.

2 YOU WANT FLEXIBILITY— SPECTRA KANJI DELIVERS

Spectra Kanji makes it easy for you to take control of your own learning process. A key feature of the Spectra Kanji methodology is that it works equally well no matter which elements, kanji, and compounds you choose to group together. There's no rigid order to follow—you call the shots.

Let your curiosity be your guide. Want to study the kanji that contain a particular component? Or the 50 kanji appearing most frequently in newspapers? Or the 100 appearing least frequently? How about all the kanji which have between 4 and 7 strokes, are studied in grades 2 through 5 in Japan, and have index numbers between 55-1070 in Nelson's Japanese-English Character Dictionary? With Spectra Kanji, a few mouse clicks and a couple of key strokes will take you wherever you want to go.

And you'll be amazed at how naturally Spectra Kanji works in conjunction with any other Japanese study materials you're using. Working with textbooks? Following a curriculum? Just create kanji groups that parallel the kanji you cover, and use those as your springboard.

In fact, to give you a taste of the kind of synergy that's possible, we're even including groups containing the kanji from every issue of Mangajin ever published—including the one you're holding right now!

3 YOU WANT FOCUS— SPECTRA KANJI DELIVERS

Even with all the freedom Spectra Kanji gives you to explore, this isn't just a random romp in the wilderness. Spectra Kanji also monitors your progress and keeps you on track toward your ultimate goals of mastering the kanji universe.

Self testing is available in a variety of forms. When viewing a group in card view, for example, you can selectively hide and reveal sections of the cards for a quick, easy pop quiz. Or you can let Spectra Kanji grill you with questions on the keywords, readings, and structure of the items in any group.

When you feel comfortable with a kanji, element or compound, mark it as "familiar." Familiar items will always automatically be displayed in a different color from unfamiliar terms—in any group, in any view. So any time you study a group, you can instantly see how much you've already covered, and how far you still need to go.

And to tie it all together, Spectra Kanji can even give you comprehensive tests on all of your familiar kanji, elements, and compounds, so you can find out just how familiar with them you really are. With Spectra Kanji you have a concrete way to gauge both the quantity and the quality of your progress. And you'll always have a concrete answer when someone asks you how many kanji you know!

LUTION HAS BEGUN!

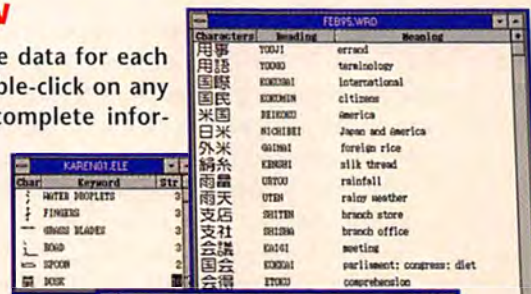

WINDOWS
MACINTOSH

Welcome to the Brave New World of Kanji Study As It Should Be...

The foundation of the Spectra Kanji methodology is the ability to freely create and manipulate your own customized groups of elements, kanji, and compounds. Add, delete, or highlight items based on a wide variety of criteria: meaning, reading, components, stroke count, grade at which studied in Japan, relative frequency in Japanese newspapers, index in several popular kanji dictionaries, etc. Sort your groups into any order you like based on these same criteria. Effortlessly move or copy individual or multiple items from one group to another. You can even pull all of the kanji from your standard (Shift-JIS) Japanese text files!

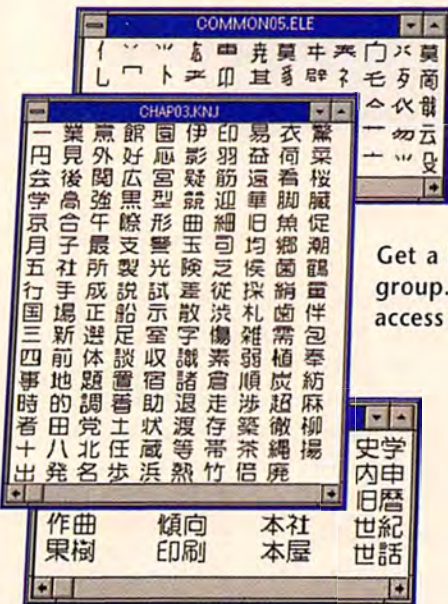

TABLE VIEW

Focus in on detailed reference data for each of the items in a group. Double-click on any item to instantly access its complete information profile in card view.

LIST VIEW

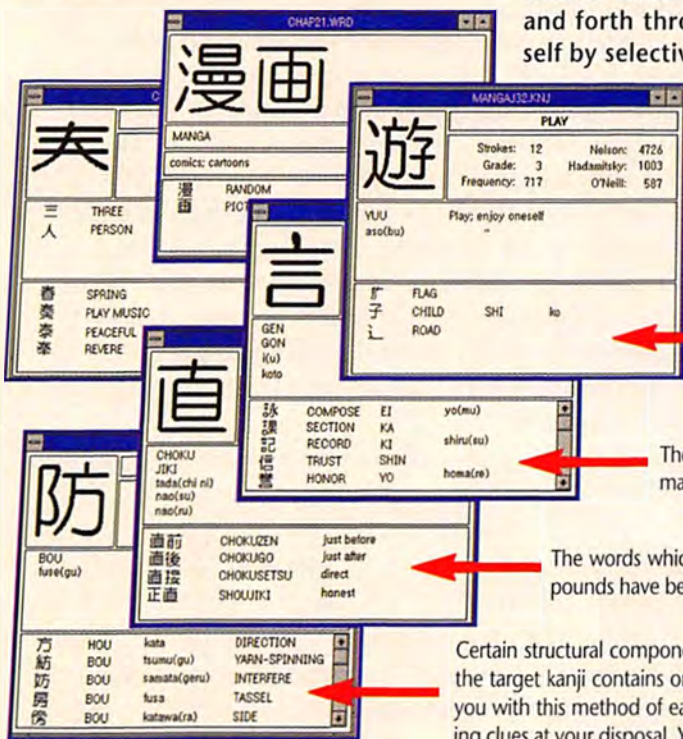

Get a bird's-eye view of the items in a group. Double-click on any item to access its card view information profile.

CARD VIEW

Here's where the power of the methodology takes shape. The elements, kanji, or compounds in a group are transformed into a deck of turbo-charged flash cards. Flip back and forth through the cards in sequence, or jump around in random order. Quiz yourself by selectively hiding and revealing areas on the cards. When you master a card, pull it from the deck, and keep going until you've mastered them all. Switch between the four lists of additional information described below at the touch of a button. When you see an element, kanji, or compound in card view, you have at your fingertips everything you need in order to tattoo its structure, readings, and meanings into your brain forever. It's just-in-time learning taken to its full potential.

Char	Keyword	Strokes	Grade	Freq	Other	Other	Other
員	Member	10	3	51	309	374	183
提	Proposal	20	4	50	4448	245	232
業	Business	13	3	47	143	202	279
金	Gold	8	1	59	4815	18	23
九	Nine	2	1	56	148	11	11
見	See	7	1	48	4284	23	63
後	after	9	2	42	1610	276	48
高	High	10	2	48	5248	160	190
子	Child	3	1	41	1264	61	103
自	Self	6	2	54	3841	60	62
七	Seven	2	1	57	261	9	8
手	Hand	5	1	43	1827	27	57
政	Government	9	5	50	2045	124	482
代	Minist	7	3	56	2087	270	365
代	Generation	5	3	58	364	85	256
的	Target	8	4	44	2097	272	210

The component building blocks, which comprise the target item, along with their keywords and primary readings, in the order in which they are written. Mentally create a vivid image (and corresponding phrase or story line) which ties together the keyword of the target item and the keywords of its respective components. Focus on that image for a few seconds, and the structure of the target kanji or element is yours forever. Sound crazy? Try it. It works like magic.

The kanji and elements which contain the target item, along with their keywords and readings. After you've mastered the target item and its components, learning any of the items in this list would be a natural next step.

The words which contain the target item, along with their readings and meanings. Useful, commonly occurring compounds have been chosen specifically to ease the process of memorizing the on-yomi readings of the kanji they contain.

Certain structural components of kanji actually provide clues as to the probable on-yomi reading of kanji which contain them. If the target kanji contains one of these components, then all other kanji containing that component are listed here. By providing you with this method of easily comparing and contrasting the readings of these kanji, Spectra Kanji places these powerful reading clues at your disposal. You'll not only boost your ability to recall the readings of kanji you've already studied, but also your ability to accurately guess the readings of kanji you encounter for the first time.

PARADIGM RESEARCH CORPORATION
 (800) 636-8006 (408) 737-0127 staff@spectranet.com

Spectra Kanji for Windows or Macintosh is $199. Join the kanji revolution today!

© 1995 Paradigm Research Corporation. All rights reserved. All trademarks and registered trademarks appearing above are the property of their respective owners. Product prices, specifications, and availability are all subject to change without notice.

MOCHI

Goosey Goodness

by Robbie Swinnerton

Throughout Asia rice plays a central role in the daily diet—so much so that in many languages, Japanese included, one word is used for both “cooked rice” and “meal.” Numerous cultures share the legend that their staple grain was given to mankind from above. In Japan, not only is rice the gift of the gods, it is also considered their food of choice, and this is why it makes the most appropriate offering at shrines and family altars during festivals and celebrations.

Just like humans, the gods are willing to accept their rice in any form, cooked or raw. But the manifestations to which they appear most partial are sake (it goes without saying) and those cakes of pounded glutinous rice known as mochi (餅). What is acceptable to the gods is certainly good enough for mortals: despite recent trends, a prodigious amount of mochi is still eaten in Japan. Even though it can be found at any time of year, neatly vacuum-packed in small rectangular bricks, the bulk of it is put away in winter, since it enjoys a formidable reputation as cold-weather sustenance par excellence, imparting strength and body warmth.

To prepare this power food, the mochigome (糯米, “glutinous rice”) must first be steamed, then beaten while still hot until the grains form a smooth, sticky consistency. In the past this was work that had to be done by hand. Both among the farming population and in the cities, the mochitsuki (餅つき, “mochi-pounding”) was always a communal activity. Extended families—even whole villages—would turn out to participate, using equipment of a massive scale: mortars hollowed out of tree trunks; heavy-headed pestles resembling giant croquet mallets; and steamers wider than a man’s arm span.

These days specialist workshops and factories turn out the bulk of the nation’s mochi, but the custom of the mochitsuki is still maintained, primarily as a social event. As the country folk discovered long ago, the more people taking part, the easier it becomes. This is not just a question of economies of scale; a mochi-pounding session is an excellent excuse for a full-blown party.

Usually two people do the pounding, alternating strokes with their pestles, and chanting to keep an even rhythm. A third participant crouches close by the mortar, reaching in between blows to turn over the steaming hot rice—a skill that requires both heat-resistant fingers and impeccable timing. Today more sophisticated gatherings employ professionals. Sometimes junior sumo wrestlers are hired to do the work, while the assembled revelers stand around shouting encouragement.

O-zōni, a holiday soup made with mochi

Mochi plays a key role in Japanese New Year celebrations. As the holidays approach, round cakes of mochi are placed on ritual altars set up not only in Shinto shrines but also in homes, offices, schools, and public buildings. Known as kagami mochi (鏡餅, “mirror mochi”) because they are the shape of ancient mirrors, these offerings are symbolic thanks for the bounties of the harvest as well as a prayer for the health and robustness imparted by the sticky rice itself.

Mochi also holds center stage on the New Year dining table, alongside the elaborate celebratory foods which constitute the formal meal, called osechi ryōri (お節料理). These days few families go to the bother of preparing the numerous components of the osechi meal, preferring to buy ready-made dishes from stores or catering companies to fill the multi-tiered lacquered jūbako (重箱) lunch boxes. But the one item that is invariably prepared from scratch at home is o-zōni (お雑煮)—a mochi soup that is as central to the Japanese New Year as turkey is to an American Thanksgiving dinner.

O-zōni can be as simple or as elaborate as you choose. Every region of Japan—indeed almost every household—has its own variation on the recipe, and virtually any seasonal ingredients can be included. The only essential, unchangeable ingredient is mochi.

A word of warning: mochi can prove treacherous if consumed without due caution—and substantial chewing. Especially when boiled, the stuff can become an intractable, rubbery mass that resists any amount of jaw work, and it is liable to lodge in the gullets of the greedy, the careless, and the toothless. Every year this auspicious food, symbol of health, strength, and longevity, causes the untimely demise of several merrymakers—most of them senior citizens whose powers of mastication are on the wane. ❖

Robbie Swinnerton is a freelance writer based in Kamakura.

O-zōni • お雑煮

(serves four to six)

Ingredients

1 qt. dashi (Japanese soup stock prepared from water, bonito flakes, and kombu seaweed) or chicken stock

12 oz. boned chicken, cut into bite-sized chunks

1 cake kamaboko (boiled fish paste), cut into thin slices

2 carrots, cut into rounds or, if desired, carved into flowerette shapes

2 sato imo (taro yams), cut into quarters

4 oz. shungiku (edible chrysanthemum leaves), spinach, or watercress

2 Tbsp. sake

2 tsp. shōyu (Japanese-style soy sauce); do not substitute with Chinese-style soy sauce

6 squares fresh mochi (if unavailable, dried mochi can be found at Japanese food stores and most natural food stores)

salt to taste

rind of yuzu (citron) about one-inch square, cut into fine slivers, to add fragrance; lime or lemon rind can be substituted

Preparation

1. Sprinkle the chicken chunks lightly with salt and sake, and let sit for up to 30 minutes.
2. Cut the large vegetables and kamaboko into thin slices of approximately the same size.
3. Wash and coarsely chop the greens.
4. Bring the soup stock to a boil; add soy sauce and salt to taste.
5. Place vegetables, chicken, and kamaboko in the stock and simmer for five minutes.
6. Slowly grill the cakes of mochi until they are soft and lightly browned. Turn the mochi at frequent intervals to ensure it cooks evenly and does not burn.
7. Add the greens to the soup and cook for another half minute (less if you are using watercress).
8. Place one hot cake of mochi in each soup bowl and ladle the hot soup over it along with some of the vegetables. Garnish with a small pinch of yuzu (or lemon) peel.

Alternative Preparations

1. Instead of using shōyu and salt, season the soup with miso (soybean paste). Usually sweet, white miso (Kyoto-style miso) is used, since darker varieties hide the color of the other ingredients.
2. Fish can be used in place of the chicken. In Japan the favorite kinds of fish are tai (snapper) and buri (yellowtail), but fresh salmon also provides a festive color to the dish. When substituting with fish, use dashi rather than chicken stock.
3. Other popular ingredients in o-zōni include: kabu (turnips); negi (Japanese leeks); potatoes; fu (dried gluten rings); and tofu cubes.

MacSUNRISE Script

Kanji and Kana Learning System for the Macintosh

CD-ROM
NEW!
RELEASE 3.1

The ultimate program for learning to read and write kanji characters and compounds . . . by Wolfgang Hadamitzky . . . now multilingual on a networkable CD-ROM for home and school—powerful, practical, easy to use . . .

This new release of Script contains lots of enhanced features to speed up your study of kanji. You can customize and print out your kanji groups, switch readings from English to Spanish, French, German, Portuguese, or Italian, listen to recorded pronunciations, display animated stroke orders for up to 2,000 kanji, keep notes, take tests, and find any kanji you need quickly, even when you don't know its reading or meaning.

Script now comes on a convenient CD-ROM that provides access to complete instructional details on all 2,000 kanji designated for everyday use in Japanese books, texts, and newspapers. Teachers can network Script in a language lab and use its powerful customizing features to organize kanji groups and quizzes to match their classroom textbooks. Students working at home can use Script for review or follow its built-in program sequence.

Script works on standard Macs, but the new Script is also Power Macintosh™ compatible, giving you increased muscle and the speed to sort through your custom kanji lists faster than ever before.

Included on the CD with Script are many software goodies for working in Japanese, plus an easy upgrade path to the brand-new MacSunrise Kanji Dictionary, containing over 7,000 kanji and 47,000 compounds.

Call 1-800-947-7271 today and ask for a free brochure.

Power Macintosh™ compatible!

MAIN ENTRIES: display all kanji, hiragana, and katakana characters in large, readable typeset forms

STROKE ORDERS: access complete stroke orders for up to 2,000 characters: stroke by stroke, or all at once—the stroke number indicates where the stroke begins

BROWSER: browse in order or at random, through the entire kanji list or in the customized kanji groups you've created (you control the browsing speed)

AUDIO: listen to studio-recorded pronunciations by a native speaker for every reading of every kanji

NOTES: create and save your own personalized notes about characters, compounds, readings, and meanings—then use these notes for searching or studying

NAVIGATOR: lets you browse, select, and open characters quickly

MARK CHARACTERS: Mark characters to group and create custom kanji lists that correspond to your textbook or lesson plan—there's no limit, so you can create as many kanji groups as you need!

SYSTEM REQUIREMENTS
Macintosh 68030/25MHz or higher; CD-ROM drive; ram: black/white 4 MB, color 4 MB (Power Mac: 5 MB)

SOFTWARE
Japanese operating system Kanji Talk 6.0.7 (included in package) or higher, or English operating system 7.1 + Japanese Language Kit

(Script 500/2000 will also run under the English operating system with romanized display of readings but without display of kanji in notes and lists)

Script 500: $129
hiragana, katakana, 500 kanji

Script 2000: $329
hiragana, katakana, 2000 kanji

Demo disk: $5 applies to later purchase

Plus complete testing, evaluating, searching, customizing, and printing functions too!

Call for details on site licensing and educational discounts

Cosmology of Kyoto • CD-ROM (MAC)

A fascinating interactive game takes you on a mysterious adventure through Japan's ancient Heian capital, where you meet ghosts, warriors, and gamblers before you die and are reborn. Some 400 encyclopedic entries provide a wealth of cultural and historical information. Wired magazine says "the richness is almost overwhelming . . . a wonderful game." Bilingual English/Japanese (with JLK). Mac. 4MB

RAM, 13"/256 color display. CD-ROM drive. . . . MSRP $98; OUR NEW LOWER PRICE: $67

East Asian Text Processing • CD-ROM (PC)

32,250 files give you 619 megabytes of the latest tools for processing Japanese, Chinese, Korean, and Vietnamese text. For Japanese, it contains MOKE, Kana/Kanji input systems, KanjiPS print utility, NJStar, KanjiCards & KanjiGuess, JIS-SJIS Kanji conversion programs, jidic and edict dictionaries, plus sample programs, and Japanese newsgroup Usenet archives from the Internet, including a discussion of Japanese jokes. Also has graphics files for use in flyers and other publications. For Unix, MS-DOS, MS Windows. Program requirements vary. . . . MSRP $39.95; OUR PRICE: $32

KanjiBase • DISK (PC)

A glossary creator and complete J-E, E-J kanji dictionary offering fast lookup by reading, meaning, or character elements. Create and print out your own lists of specialized vocabulary. Capture text as graphics for use in WordPerfect. Uses the same database as MacSunrise Kanji Dictionary but is for PC compatibles and has different functionality. Ideal for librarians, professional translators, and scholars. PC with 640K memory; add'l 2MB disk cache recommended. DOS 3.1 or later. Hard disk space: 7MB for KanjiBase + 36MB for dictionary. . . . MSRP $249; OUR PRICE: $195.

Japanese Live! • CD-ROM (PC/MAC)

Published by Berlitz. Learn Japanese language and culture with this highly rated multimedia program. Covers language essentials, history and geography, basic expressions, business etiquette, hotels, eating out, shopping, transportation, and much more. Especially useful for businesspersons, the program uses Berlitz language instruction methodology to get you communicating fast. PC: 386SX or above, VGA, Windows 3.1, 4MB RAM. Mac: II or higher, color monitor, 4MB RAM, System 6.0.7 or higher. . . . New MSRP $79; OUR PRICE: $75 to order call toll-free 1-800-947-7271

P.O. Box 8208, Berkeley, CA 94707

Home Page—<http://www.stonebridge.com/~sbp>

Fax: 510-524-8711 / E-mail: sbp@netcom.com

Robert Whiting, a.k.a. Guy Jeans

*Robert Whiting is best known as the author of You Gotta Have Wa (Vintage, 1990), a book about Japan as seen through the eyes of expatriate American baseball players. He is also, it turns out, the author of the manga "Reggie," under the pseudonym Guy Jeans (a play on the word gaijin, or "foreigner"). We spoke with him about the history of "Reggie," the manga creation process, and foreigners in Japanese baseball today.*

photo by Osamu Nagahama

MANGAJIN: What made you decide to do a manga about baseball?

WHITING: Kodansha [a publishing company] asked if I would be interested in writing a story about an American ballplayer, since You Gotta Have Wa, the Japanese translation, had come out in the spring of 1990 and made the bestseller list. They approached me in the fall of 1990. I already had done a film treatment on that theme, so I just revised it and expanded it and gave it to them. That's how it got started.

You mean you had already written a script for a movie?

A treatment. In fact, the movie "Mr. Baseball" was, should we say, a "distant relative" of it. It's a long story. In any case, it was inspired by the experiences of Reggie Smith and a number of other Americans. Smith had come to Japan with the highest contract in history. One of the first things they objected to was his mustache. He said, "No way in hell am I gonna shave this mustache off," and it became a big deal. He was the first player in the history of the [Tokyo] Giants to have facial hair. They let him do it because he insisted, but it got a lot of press coverage. That was the first of many misadventures, so I put a long chapter about him in You Gotta Have Wa called "The Giant Headache."

And that chapter became the basis for the film treatment.

In part, but it happened the other way around. I was approached by some people in 1987 to be a consultant on a film they wanted to do about an American baseball player in Japan. That ended up not working out, but then I talked to an agent in Los Angeles who suggested I write my own film treatment. I had just signed a contract to write You Gotta Have Wa and hadn't put it together yet, but I had all this material in my mind. So I wrote the treatment and sent it to Los Angeles. Then I sat down and wrote You Gotta Have Wa.

It's almost like doing a movie—the director takes the screenplay and puts his own vision onto it.

You mentioned earlier that you revised the film treatment before sending it to Kodansha to be a manga. How was the version for Kodansha different?

I revised it so it could be understood from a Japanese point of view. It's a different thing writing for Japanese and writing for Americans. You have to reverse your assumptions of what the reader knows. For instance, instead of explaining to Americans what a Japanese camp is like, you have to explain to the Japanese what an American camp is like. I ended up adding a lot of material and increased it about 30 percent.

What was your role in the production of the manga after you gave Kodansha the treatment? I assume that by "treatment" you mean a summary or an outline.

Well, the treatment is a screenplay in story form. It doesn't have the shots or anything—the director's instructions and all that—but it's a digest, a summary of a story. This one was 125 pages, which is about 30,000 words, or about a fourth of what You Gotta Have Wa was.

And that became all 12 volumes of the manga?

Well, yes, in a sense. The nice thing about having your stories published in comic form is that they can stretch one encounter between a batter and pitcher into a whole chapter. So something that is one line in a treatment winds up as one or two or sometimes even three weeks' worth of material. You know, the close-up of the eyes, the bead of sweat coming down the brow, a shot of the batter. . . .

You didn't specify those dramatic elements?

Right. I just gave the basic story line, and the editors and the artists gave their interpretation each week.

Does that mean that after giving them the story, your work was done?

No, not exactly. Periodically throughout—it ran for 130 chapters—I would fax them new material, new ideas. All in all, I might have given them another 30,000 words. I never counted it. They'd say, "How about this?" and I'd sit down and write it up. It's almost like doing a movie—you have the director taking the screenplay and putting his own vision onto it so that the original screenplay and the movie, when it finally comes out on film, are two different things.

In other words, it continues to grow after it leaves your hands.

Right. The illustrator has an awful lot of leeway. In my case, I was a bit lucky because the artist was so good, and so was the editor's input, for the most part. They added some interesting characters—like the manager's cranky old Japanese father.

Did you ever have trouble with embellishment or heavy-handed editing after you had given it to the producers? Was there any difficulty working with Kodansha in that way?

Let's see. . . . I think in one of the very first chapters they depicted the American Reggie jumping on this good-looking Japanese female reporter in the back seat of a cab. And I didn't have that in the story. I based my characters on real people who I knew, who were relatively dignified. I mean, they just wouldn't do anything like that. Very few people anywhere would just leap on someone they had just met. But that was their concept of the way Americans acted. We had a discussion about that, got it straightened out, and then there was no problem. Other than that, there were a couple of things concerning the use of obscenities, Japanese English obscenities, which I objected to and they accepted.

They tend to paint Americans with a broad brush. It's like the GIs in Okinawa who raped that 12-year-old girl. I mean, those guys are sick, but they don't represent all Americans, or all the military. Such gross generalizations are the bane of US-Japan relations. Americans tend to think that all Japanese are unfair traders, and Japanese think that Americans are big, arrogant bullies. Et cetera, et cetera.

Were you trying to convey some sort of message with Reggie or did you write it just for the fun of it?

No matter how good the intentions are on both sides, there's bound to be conflict because of the nature of the two cultures.

The message was the message of You Gotta Have Wa—that the cultures of Japan and America are really different. No matter how good the intentions are on both sides, there's bound to be conflict because of the nature of the two cultures. I tried to express that throughout the story. Reggie is basically a well-intentioned, hard-working guy who is also an outspoken, individualistic American—and who runs into trouble in this very tightly run, almost feudal organization. As far as practice routines are concerned, an American like Reggie is used to making up his own mind and doing things for himself. And suddenly, minute decisions about his daily life are being made for him. It's like the difference between working for a Japanese company and an American company. These problems are still going on. I don't know if you read about the American manager Bobby Valentine, who recently got fired.

Yes. What happened there?

Well, it's really funny because Tatsurō Hirooka, the general manager of Lotte, is the guy who I patterned the Japanese manager after in the manga, and the Tokyo Gentlemen was a play on the Tokyo Giants, a team Hirooka used to play for. Hirooka was successful, but he was the strictest manager in the history of Japanese baseball. He really worked his team hard. He sort of perfected this concept known as kanri-yakyū, or "controlled baseball."

I think he holds the record for consecutive days without a day off. From March to October. In the States, they at least give you travel days off from practice. The idea is to conserve your energy. But when baseball was imported from America back in the nineteenth century, it became a martial art with the emphasis on training, self-sacrifice, and discipline.

So that's one area where Valentine and Hirooka clashed. For example, in September when Valentine gave his players a day off after returning from a road trip, Hirooka's Japanese coaches ordered a practice behind his back. Valentine went on a "one-day strike" in retaliation.

Did they fire Valentine, or did he quit?

Well, they fired him. Hirooka said their cultural differences were just too great. There were conflicts over how players were used, when to bunt, etc.

Are there any success stories? It sounds like a pretty grim picture with such enormous cultural differences. . . .

Well, with Valentine, the Lotte Marines had their best season in ten years. They were last place last year and the year before, but this year they finished second place. They were turning into a strong contender, and the credit was largely due to

(continued on page 79)

レジー REGGIE

さく 作 • Guy Jeans が 画 • ヒラマツ ミノル

Story • Guy Jeans
Art • Hiramatsu Minoru

Reggie Foster, a long-time star hitter for the Richmond Flags baseball team, suffers a dry spell and is released by his team. Still confident in his abilities, Reggie tries shopping around for another team but learns to his dismay that a slugger in a slump isn't hot property in Major League Baseball. Out of options in the US, he reluctantly accepts his manager's suggestion to play in Japan—for $2.5 million a year.

Before leaving for Tokyo, Reggie has two ominous encounters. First he meets with Hiramatsu, the team's manager, who seems openly resentful of Reggie's indulgent contract. "Lots of Major Leaguers have come to Japan in the past," he complains. "But most of them were ready for the junk heap." Then Reggie consults with an American player who has played in Japan in the past. His advice: "Think of it as a bad dream for a year and just deal with it."

Reggie's first few hours in Japan are overwhelming. He is treated like a celebrity at the airport, and then, after a brief respite in his new home—a luxurious Tokyo apartment—he is whisked away to a press conference by his interpreter and schedule-keeper, Uchida. Seated next to the team's general manager, Kokaji Fumio, Reggie gets an idea of what will be expected of him in the season to come.

名誉ある 「東京ジェントル メン」の一員となれて 心より感謝している こう言っております

宮崎のキャンプ地に発つ前 レジーは合同記者会見に 引っ張り出された

日本語のまるでわからない外人を これ幸いと 球団の上層部は マスコミや日本のファンに受ける レジーの虚像を作り上げる

レジー・フォスター 選手に質問の ございます方は……

えーっ 続きますして

1

Kokaji: 名誉ある 「東京ジェントルメン」 の 一員 と なれて、
Meiyo aru "Tōkyō Jentorumen" no ichi-in to narete, distinguished/venerable (team name) of one member (result) can/could become 心 より 感謝している。こう 言っております。

kokoro yori kansha shite iru. Kō itte orimasu.

heart from is/am grateful this way is saying

“Having been able to become a member of the venerable Tokyo Gentlemen, I am grateful from my heart.”

This is what he says.”

“He says he is deeply grateful for this opportunity to play with our distinguished team, the Tokyo Gentlemen.” (PL4)

Narration: 宮崎 の キャンプ地 に 発つ 前、レジー は 合同記者会見 に 引っ張り出された。
Miyazaki no kyanpu-chi ni tatsu mae, Rejii wa gōdō kisha kaiken ni hippari-dasareta.

(place name) in/at camp-location/site to/for depart before (name) as for joint press conference to was dragged out

Prior to departing for the training camp in Miyazaki, Reggie was dragged into a joint press conference. (PL2)

Narration: 日本語 の まるで わからない 外人 を これ 幸い と 球団 の 上層部 は
Nihongo no marude wakaranai gaijin o kore saiwai to kyūdan no jōsō-bu wa
 Japanese (subj.) [not] at all not understand foreigner (obj.) this is fortunate (quote) team 's upper echelon as for マスコミ や 日本 の ファンに 受ける レジー の 虚像 を 作り上げる。 masukomi ya Nihon no fan ni ukeru Rejii no kyozō o tsukuri-ageru.

media and Japan 's fans by be received (name) of fictitious image (obj.) make up “Taking advantage of a foreigner who did not at all understand Japanese, the team’s upper-level management made up a fictitious image of Reggie that would be well received by the media and Japanese fans.”

Taking advantage of his complete ignorance of Japanese, the team brass painted an image of Reggie calculated to please the media and fans. (PL2)

- meiyo = “honor/glory/distinction,” and aru = “exists/has”; as a modifier, meiyo aru = “honored/distinguished.”
- narete is the -te form of nareru (“can/be able to become”) from naru (“become”) → “having been able to become.” A clause ending in a -te form often states the cause of or reason for what follows—here the reason for his gratitude.
- kansha is a noun meaning “gratitude,” and kansha shite iru (“is/feels grateful”) is a form of the verb kansha suru (“be grateful/express gratitude”).
- itte orimasu is a PL4 humble form of itte iru (“is saying/has said”), from iu (“say”).
- when tatsu is written 発つ, it means “depart [on a trip].” According to the Ministry of Education, this is a non-standard kanji usage. It is commonly used, however, because the standard 立つ (tatsu) has many possible meanings; using 発つ makes the meaning clear.
- mae used directly after the dictionary form of a verb means “before [the action/event].”
- hippari-dasareta is the past form of hippari-dasareru, passive of hippari-dasu (“pull/drag out”).
- marude is used to emphasize certain negatives to give the meaning “not at all.” Nihongo no marude wakaranai is a complete thought/sentence (“[he] doesn’t understand Japanese at all”) modifying gaijin (“foreigner”).
- kore saiwai to is literally “[as if] saying this is fortunate,” an expression for “taking advantage of [the just-mentioned situation].”
- masukomi is abbreviated from masu komyunikēshon, the katakana rendering of “mass communication”; it’s the Japanese word for “the media.”
- ukeru (“receive”) can be used idiomatically to mean “be well received (by)/be popular (among).” Ni marks the groups among whom the person or thing in question is well received/popular. Masukomi ya Nihon no fan ni ukeru is a complete thought/sentence (“[it] is/will be well received by the media and Japanese fans”) modifying Rejii no kyozō (“fictitious image of Reggie”).

2

Sound FX: バシャ バシャ バシャ
Basha Basha Basha
 (sound of camera shutters)

Kokaji: えーっ、 続きまして...

E-, tszukimashite,

(pause) continuing/next

“Well then, moving on . . .” (PL3)

- tszukimashite is the PL3 -te form of tsuzuku (“continue/go on/follow”), implying “what follows/comes next is ~.”

3

Kokaji: レジー・フォスター 選手 に 質問 の ございます 方は...

Rejii Fosutā Senshu ni shitsumon no gozaimasu kata wa...

(name) player (target) question (subj.) have person as for

“as for anyone who has a question for Player Reggie Foster . . .”

“if anyone has a question for Mr. Reggie Foster . . .” (PL4)

- like titles such as sensei (“teacher”), kyōju (“professor”), kaichō (“chairperson”), buchō (“department head”), etc., senshu (“player/athlete”) is often appended directly to a name as an honorific title → “Player Reggie Foster.”
- gozaimasu is a PL4 equivalent of aru (“have”). Rejii Fosutā Senshu ni shitsumon no aru is a complete thought/sentence (“[you] have a question for Mr. Reggie Foster”) modifying kata (a word for “person” that is more polite than hito). Ni marks Rejii Fosutā as the target of the question; no marks shitsumon as the subject of gozaimasu (in modifying clauses, the subject marker ga is often replaced with no).

1 Reporters: ハイ ハイ ハーイ はーい はい はい ハイ
Hai hai Hāi Hāi Hai hai Hāi
 yes yes yes yes yes yes yes
“Yes, yes! Mr. Kokaji! Here! Me! Me! Over here!” (PL3)

- hai (lit., “yes”) is used when raising one’s hand to ask/answer a question or when seeking to be chosen for some particular task or favor. Readers will recognize this scene as equivalent to that of a presidential press conference, when the floor is opened for questions and reporters leap to their feet all at once shouting, “Mr. President!”—except that the profusion of repeated hais here (and in the next panel) gives more the impression of overeager children raising their hands and shouting, “Me, Me!”

2 Reporters: ハーイ ハイ ハイ / はい / はい はーい
Hāi hai hai / Hai / Hai Hāi
 yes yes yes yes yes yes
 ハイ ハイ ハイ ハイ ハイ ハイ ハイ ハイ ハイ / はあい / ハーイ
Hai hai hai hai hai hai hai hai / Hāi / Hāi yes yes yes yes yes yes yes yes yes yes yes
“Me! Me! Me! Me! Me! Me! Me! Me! Me! Me! Me! Me! Me! Me! Me!”

3 Kokaji: えーい、やかまし!! / ハイ は 1度 にせんかア!!
Ēi, yakamashii! / Hai wa ichido ni sen kā!
 (exclam.) noisy yes as for one time won’t you make it
“Hey! Qui-i-iet! One ‘me’ is enough!!” (PL1-2)

Sound FX: どん
Don
Bam (effect of pounding fist on table)

- yakamashii means “noisy,” but it’s often used like the English commands “Be quiet!/Shut up!”
- -do is the counter suffix for times/opportunities; ichido = “once.”
- ~ ni sen ka is a masculine contraction of ~ ni shinai ka, negative question form of ~ ni suru, which means “make it ~.” The question is literally “will you not make it once?” implying, “will you not limit it to once?” Obviously his tone is that of a sharp admonition rather than a gentle request.

Whiting Interview

(continued from page 74)

him. About 13,000 fans signed a petition demanding that he be kept.

How did the players feel about him?

Well, one of the players criticized him. He said he was more a glorified cheerleader than a manager. But most of the players liked him. He is very exuberant and a good motivator. The Japanese way is constant control. The managers and the coaches decide the batting forms, the pitching style—it’s a very hands-on approach. Like I said, they treat it as if it has become a martial art, almost like a kata to perform. Every count has to go to 3-2. With Americans everything is result-oriented, and they basically let you decide how to get there. If you don’t produce, then they may start tinkering around with you, or they’ll just send you down to the farm team and give somebody else a chance.

So, fundamentally, it’s just a different approach to baseball.

Individualism versus group think.

Would you say, then, that “Reggie,” the manga, closely parallels reality?

Yes, except for obvious exaggerations. The story represents the story of just about every American who has come over and gone through the Japanese training camp. The reaction of all of them is that it’s crazy. In America, the Major League camps start at the end of February or early March. They last for about three weeks to prepare the players for the season, which starts in the beginning of April. They’re on the field every day for three to four hours, and then they head off to the beach or golf course or whatever. In Japan, camp starts February 1. They’re on the field eight or nine hours, plus they have indoor workouts at night, lectures on baseball, and Zen meditation.

The Japanese way is constant control. . . . it’s a very hands-on approach.

They go through that for a solid two months. And that’s preceded by a voluntary training which starts after New Year’s, and which is, in fact, involuntary. If you don’t do it, then you’re in a lot of trouble.

And then there’s the hot weather. In America if it gets really hot, 90–100 degrees, a lot of managers will just say no pre-game practice today. Just go out and stretch. A former manager of the Chicago Cubs, Don Zimmer, told me his team went thirteen days in a row with no pre-game practice one summer because they were winning. That’s just unthinkable in Japan. The hotter the weather is, the harder you have to work. The Americans come over and they say, Jesus Christ, you guys are out of your minds. ❖

Robert Whiting just finished his latest book, Tokyo Junkie, a social history of the Japanese underworld—and the Americans who got caught up in it—in post-war Japan. It will be published by Pantheon next year.

1 Reporter: はいっ!
Hai!
“Sir!” (PL3)

FX: スッ
Su! (effect of raising hand)

- oi! is an interjection showing recognition.
- the name of the paper is a takeoff on Sankei Supōtsu, a well-known sports paper. San, which sounds like “three” (though its actual meaning is quite different), has been changed to yon (“four”).
- -kun is a more familiar equivalent of -san (“Mr./Ms.”), used mainly with male peers or inferiors (in a corporate setting superiors use it with subordinates of both sexes). Like -san, it’s normally a suffix for individual names, but it’s sometimes used with the names of groups as well.

2 Kokaji: おっ! ヨンケイスポーツくん!
O! Yonkei Supōtsu-kun!
 (interj.) (newspaper name-fam.)
“Ahh, Yonkei Sports!” (PL2-3)

3 Reporter: 先程 小梶氏 よりフォスター選手 の日本 に来た 動機 についてのコメント が ありましたが、 Sakihodo Kokaji-shi yori Fosutā Senshu no Nihon ni kita dōki ni tsuite no komento ga arimashita ga, a while ago (name-title) from (name) player’s Japan to came motive regarding comment (subj.) existed but “A moment ago there was a comment from Mr. Kokaji regarding your motive for coming to Japan, but . . .”
“A moment ago Mr. Kokaji spoke about your reason for coming to Japan, but . . .”

Reporter: 我々 が アメリカ より 入手した 情報 と かなり くい違い が ある のです が。 wareware ga Amerika yori nyūshu shita jōhō to kanari kuichigai ga aru no desu ga.
 we (subj.) America from obtained information with considerably discrepancy (subj.) exists (explan.) but “there is a considerable discrepancy with the information we have obtained from America, but . . .”
“his remarks conflict considerably with other information we have from America . . .” (PL3)

- -shi is a formal title similar to -san (“Mr./Ms.”), but it is used mostly in writing. Moreover, unlike -san it is used only for referring to a third person, not for addressing one’s listener, and it is used only rarely for women.
- kita is the plain/abrupt past form of kuru (“come”); Fosutā Senshu no (“Player Foster’s” → “your”) and Nihon ni kita (“[you] came to Japan”) both modify dōki (“motive/reason”).
- ~ ni tsuite (no) = “regarding/in connection with ~”
- arimashita is the PL3 past form of aru (“exists/there is”).
- nyūshu shita is the plain/abrupt past form of nyūshu suru (“obtain”). Wareware ga Amerika yori nyūshu shita is a complete thought/sentence (“we obtained [it] from America”) modifying jōhō (“information”).
- kuichigai refers to a “discrepancy/inconsistency/conflict,” and kuichigai ga aru (lit., “there is a discrepancy”) means “[it] conflicts/contradicts”; to marks what the discrepancy is with.
- the ga (lit., “but” or “and”) at the end essentially implies, “so what do you have to say about it?/what’s your response?”

4 FX: ピク...
Piku...
Twitch . . . (twitch of brow from aggravation)

Kokaji: ムッ...!
Mu!
“Hrumph!”

- mu! is an FX word for a kind of angry grunt made in the back of the throat.

5 Uchida: あなた は どうして日本 に来た のか?... と Anata wa dōshite Nihon ni kita no ka?... to you as for why Japan to came (explan.-?) (quote)
“Why is it that you came to Japan?” he asks.”
“He wants to know why you came to Japan.” (PL2)

- asking a question with a question word plus no ka is like “what/who/why is it that ~?”
- the quotative to implies, “he asks/he wants to know ~.”

6 Kokaji: おのれ〜っ、ヨンケイスポーツめ。くだらん こと を ききおって...
 (thinking) Onore-! Yonkei Supōtsu-me! Kudaran koto o kikiotte!
 you (newspaper name-derog.) stupid/needless thing (obj.) ask-(derog.)
Yonkei Sports, you S.O.B. —asking stupid questions! (PL1)

Kokaji: こう ならたら 通訳 の内田 が 頼みの 綱 だな。 (thinking) Kō nattara tsūyaku no Uchida ga tanomi no tsuna da na.
 this way if becomes interpreter (=) (name) (subj.) hope of rope is (colloq.)
 If it comes to this, Uchida the interpreter is my only hope.
At this point, Uchida the interpreter is my only hope. (PL2)

- onore can mean either “I” (somewhat archaic) or “you”; when it’s used for “you” it usually has a derisive or insulting tone.
- -me after a word referring to a person shows contempt, derision, or anger directed at that person.
- kudaran is a contraction of kudaranai, meaning “trivial/worthless/senseless”; since it represents the speaker’s subjective view, it often has the sense of “unwanted/troublesome.”
- kikiotte is the -te form of kikioru, from kiku (“ask”); adding a form of oru to the stem of another verb when speaking of someone else’s action has a derogatory tone.
- kō nattara is a conditional (“if/when”) form of kō naru (“become like this”); idiomatically it implies “now that it has come to this.”
- tanomi no tsuna is literally “rope of hope,” an idiomatic expression for “only hope/last resort.”

1 Reggie: 俺の力がまだまだメジャー・リーグで通用することを証明するためだ。
Ore no chikara ga mada-mada mejā riigu de tsūyō suru koto o shōmei suru tame da.
 my strength (subj.) still Major Leagues in pass/be effective thing/fact (obj.) prove/show purpose is “It is for the purpose of proving the fact that my strength can still be effective in the Major Leagues.”
“I came in order to show that I still have what it takes to play in the Majors.” (PL2)

Reggie: たまたま昨シーズンはあんな結果になったが、
Tamatama saku-shiizun wa anna kekka ni natta ga, by chance last season as for that kind of results became but/and “Last year happened to turn out [badly] that way, and . . .”
 その汚名を返上するためには日本でプレイする以外に道はなかったんだ!
sono omei o henjō suru tame ni wa Nihon de purei suru igai ni michi wa nakatta nda!
 that bad name/stigma (obj.) return/shed in order to as for Japan in play other than way as for didn't exist (explan.)
 “in order to shed the stigma of that, there was no way other than to play in Japan.”
“The bad season I had last year was just a fluke, but the only way for me to prove that and restore my good name is to play in Japan.” (PL2)

- mada means “still,” and doubling it makes it emphatic: “still very much.”
- ore no chikara ga mada-mada mejā riigu de tsūyō suru is a complete thought/sentence (“my strength is still very much effective in the Major Leagues”) modifying koto (“thing,” here meaning “fact”). O marks this as the direct object of shōmei suru (“prove/show”).
- tame (da/desu/ni) after a non-past verb means “in order to/for the purpose of [doing the action].”
- tamatama implies the action occurred by chance and represents an aberration.
- omei is literally “soiled name,” referring to a stain upon one’s reputation; omei o henjō suru is an expression for clearing/shedding any such stain and restoring one’s good name.
- igai ni after a verb means “other than/besides [doing the action].”
- michi wa nakatta is the past form of michi wa/ga nai, “have no way/recourse.”

2 Uchida: 彼... つまり、小楯 管理部長 の言われた通りです!
Kare... tsumari, Kokaji Kanri Buchō no iwareta tōri desu!
 he that is to say (name) general manager (subj.) exactly as said is “He . . . that is . . . it’s exactly as Mr. Kokaji said!” (PL4)

Uchida: 私の力がまだまだメジャー・リーグで十分通用するうちに
Watashi no chikara ga mada-mada mejā riigu de jūbun tsūyō suru uchi ni my strength (subj.) still Major Leagues in fully pass/be effective while 日本でプレイをしたかったのです。
Nihon de purei o shitakatta no desu.
 Japan in wanted to play (explan.)
 “I wanted to play in Japan while my strength was still fully effective in the Major Leagues.”
“I wanted to play in Japan while I still had everything it takes to play in the Majors.” (PL3)

- iwareta is the past form of iwareru, PL4 honorific form of iu (“say”), and tōri follows certain verbs to mean “exactly in accordance with [the action],” so iwareta tōri = “exactly as he said.”
- uchi ni after a verb implies “within the time of [that action]/while [that action] continues,” so tsūyō suru uchi ni is literally “while [my strength] is effective.”
- shitakatta is the past form of shitai, the “want to” form of suru (“do,” or when speaking of sports, “play”), so purei o shitakatta means “wanted to play.”

3 Kokaji: でかしたぞ、内田!
 (thinking) Dekashita zo, Uchida!
 bravo/well done (name)
Good going, Uchida! (PL2)

Sound FX: ガバァ
Gabā (effect of sudden large movement)

Kokaji: きさまァ! よくも わしを侮辱するような質問をしてくれたなァ!
Kisamā! Yoku mo washī o bujoku suru yō na shitsumon o shite kureta nā!
 you how dare me (obj.) insult kind of question (obj.) did for/to me (colloq.)
“You bastard! How dare you ask such an insulting question!” (PL1)

Reporter: ヒヤァ!
Hyā! “Yikes!”

- dekaishita is the plain past form of dekasu, a slang word for “do successfully.” Zo adds rough, masculine emphasis.
- kisama once was a very polite word for “you,” but now it’s used as a counterpart to the rough/informal masculine word for “I/me,” ore. In a fight or other contentious situation, kisama is like “you S.O.B.”
- yoku is the adverb form of ii/yo! (“good/fine”), and mo is an emphatic particle, so yoku mo could be translated literally as “nicely indeed,” but it’s almost always used ironically. Here it’s like, “How dare you ~!”
- washi is a word for “I/me” used mostly by middle-aged and older men.
- bujoku is a noun for “insult,” and adding suru makes it a verb; bujoku suru yō na = “of a kind that insults.” This modifies shitsumon (“question”).
- shite is the -te form of suru, and kureta is the plain/abrupt past form of kureru, which after the -te form of a verb implies the action was done for or to the speaker or someone close to him.

(continued on next page)

(continued from previous page)

- 4 Kokaji: きさま のような 奴 は 退場 だ!!
Kisama no yō na yatsu wa taijō da!
you like guy/fellow as for leave/ejection is “A guy like you must leave.”
“You’re outta here!” (PL2)

Sound FX: ばん ばん
Pan pan
Clap clap (summoning guards)

- no yō na after a noun essentially corresponds to “~like” in English, and yatsu is an informal word for “guy/fellow”:
kisama no yō na yatsu = “a you-like guy” → “a guy like you.”
- taijō is a noun for “leaving/withdrawing [from the site of an event],” and the usual verb form is taijō suru (“leave/withdraw”). Taijō da shouted directly at a person is like “You’re ejected!/You’re out of here!”

- 1 Reporter: わア... わア
Wā... wā
(exclam.) (exclam.)
“Aaa!... Aaa!...”

- 2 Reporter: や、 やめてくれエ~!!
Ya- yamete kurē!
(stammer) [please] quit/stop
“P-please stop this!”
“St-stop! Ple-e-ease!” (PL2)

- yamete is the -te form of yameru (“quit/stop”), and kure after the -te form of another verb makes an abrupt request or gentle command. The elongated ending gives the feeling of begging.

- 3 “Sound” FX: シィーン
Shiin
(effect of shocked silence)

- 4 Reggie: 一体、何 が どう なって なんだア?
(thinking) Ittai, nani ga dō natte n dā?
(emph.) what (subj.) what/how has become (explan.)
“What the hell is going on here?” (PL2)

- ittai strongly emphasizes question words.
- dō natte n is a contraction of dō natte iru no, in which natte iru (“has become”) comes from naru (“become”). Dō natte iru (lit., “has become how/what”) asks “what has [the situation] become?” and nani ga dō natte iru no da essentially expresses complete bafflement at what is going on.

- 5 Kokaji: それでは これより レジー・フォスター 選手 の 背番号 を 発表します!
Sore de wa kore yori Reiji Fosutā Senshu no sebangō o happyō shimasu!
well then from now (name) player/athlete 's back number (obj.) will announce “Well then, we will now announce Reggie Foster’s number.” (PL3)

- sore de wa (often contracted to sore ja or just ja in less formal situations) is a conjunction like “now/well/well then.”
- kore yori = kore kara (lit., “from this”) → “from now,” or just “now.” Using yori sounds quite a bit more formal than using kara.
- sebangō is literally “back number,” referring to the uniform numbers of players on sports teams.
- happyō = “announcement,” and happyō shimasu is the PL3 form of the verb happyō suru (“announce”).

1 Kokaji: 背番号 は 50番 に 決めました。
Sebangō wa gojūban ni kettei shimashita.
 number as for No. 50 (result) decided “His number will be No. 50.” (PL3)

• kettei = “decision,” and kettei shimashita is the PL3 form of kettei suru (“decide”). Ni marks the result of the decision—what was decided on.

2 Kokaji: これは 彼 が 今シーズン 50本 は ホームランを 打つ と 宣言した から です!
Kore wa kare ga kon-shiizun gojūppon wa hōmuran o utsu to sengen shita kara desu!
 this as for he (subj.) this season 50-(count) at least home runs (obj.) will hit (quote) declared because is “This is because he has declared he will hit at least 50 home runs this season!” (PL3)

Reporters: お〜っ!
 Ō~!

“Oooh!” (exclamation of amazement/approval)

- -hon, the counter suffix for long, slender things, is also used to count home runs. In combination with certain numbers, it changes to -bon or -ppon.
- wa after a number or quantity often has the emphatic meaning of “at least.”
- senen = “declaration,” and senen shita is the plain past form of senen suru (“declare”).

3 Reporter: さすが〜! 大リーガーさんは 言うことが すげー や。 Sasuga! Dairīgā-san wa iu koto ga sugē ya.
 fitting big leaguer-(hon.) as for say thing (subj.) is amazing/awesome (emph.)
 “That’s a Major Leaguer for you. He even talks big.” (PL2)

Reporter: まったく、まったく。

Mattaku, mattaku.
 completely completely
 “You better believe it.” (PL2)

- sasuga implies the action is “fitting/what you’d expect” from the person, with a tone of admiration or awe.
- dai- is used as a prefix meaning “large/big/great.”
- sugē is a masculine slang variation of sugoi (“amazing/awesome/incredible”).
- mattaku means “completely/entirely,” here essentially implying, “it is completely/exactly so” → “You’re not kidding/You better believe it.”

4 Kokaji: おい、カメラ屋、わしの顔も入れて撮れよ。
Oi, Kamera-ya, washi no kao mo irete tore yo.
 hey cameraman my face also put in-and take picture (emph.)
 “Hey, cameraman, take the picture including my face, too.”
 “Hey, cameraman, be sure to get me in the picture, too.” (PL2)

Reggie: ホームラン...?
 (thinking) Hōmuran...? home run(s)

“Home runs?” (PL2)

- oi is a relatively rough way of trying to get someone’s attention: “Hey!”
- -ya most commonly designates a shop, eatery, or small business, or the person who runs it (i.e., kamera-ya often means “camera shop” or “camera shop owner”) but here it’s being used to designate a job category → kamera-ya = “cameraman.” Unlike its use for small-scale operations and tradespeople, using -ya for professional workers from larger corporations tends to sound quite disrespectful—as it does here.
- irete is the -te form of ireru (“put/take in”); the -te form here makes the preceding clause (washi no kao mo irete, “putting in/including my face also”) indicate the manner of the following verb tore (abrupt command form of toru, “take a picture”).

5 Reggie: あのオヤジ、俺に背番号の数だけホームランを打てと言ってるんじゃないだろうな?
Ano oyaji, ore ni sebangō no kazu dake hōmuran o ute to itteru n ja nai darō na?
 that man/boss me to back number of number as many as home runs (obj.) hit (quote) is saying (expl.) is surely not (colloq.)
 “The boss isn’t saying I have to hit as many home runs as my number, is he?” (PL2)

- oyaji is an informal word for “father,” “master/boss,” or for any middle-aged man; it can be merely familiar, or it can be offensive, so it should be used with caution.
- no kazu after a noun means “the number of [that item],” and dake here means “as many as,” so sebangō no kazu dake = “as many as my uniform number.” This clause functions as an adverb modifying ute, the abrupt command form of utsu (“hit”).
- itteru is a contraction of itte iru (“is saying”), from iu (“say”).
- ~ n ja nai darō na asks, “It isn’t the case that ~, is it?”—often with the feeling of “I hope it’s not that ~” or “It had better not be that ~.”

6 Uchida: ハハ... まさか。
Ha ha... masaka.
 (laugh) hardly
 “Ha ha... Don’t be ridiculous.” (PL2)

- masaka by itself questions or makes light of what the other person has said, like “Hardly!/No!/Impossible!/Come now!/Don’t be ridiculous!”

1 Kokaji: レジー!
Rejii!
“Reggie!” (PL2)

Uchida: それ は、 つまり ...
Sore wa, tsumari ... that as for that is to say
“It’s ... that is to say ...”

- tsumari is most commonly used when explaining, restating, or clarifying what has just been said, like “that is to say/in other words/what I mean is ~.” In a case like this it serves mainly as a hesitation word, to buy time while he figures out what to say.

2 Kokaji: ホームラン 50本。 / 君 の 任務 だ。
Hōmuran gojūppon. / Kimi no ninmu da. home runs 50-(count) you 's work assignment/mission is “Fifty homers. / Your duties.” (PL2)

- kimi is an informal word for “you” generally used only by males when addressing equals or subordinates.
- Kokaji is speaking in English here, and the manga writer provides a Japanese translation for the benefit of the reader.

3 Uchida: アワワワワ ... な、 なんて 余計な ...
 (thinking) A wa wa wa wa ... Na- nante yokei na ...
 (panic FX) (stammer) (emph.) excessive/gratuitous
Ai yi yi, wh-what a gratuitous (thing to do)!
Ai yi yi, why couldn't he just leave well enough alone? (PL2)

- a wa wa represents a dumbfounded or panicked flapping of one's jaw.
- nante can be used to emphasize exclamations in colloquial speech: “what a ~!”
- yokei = “excess/surplus”: using the modifier form yokei na here implies yokei na koto (lit., “excessive thing”), from the expression yokei na koto o suru, “do something excessive/uncalled for.”

4 Kokaji: どう だ! わしの 英語力 も なかなか モノ だろう。
Dō da!? Washi no eigo-ryoku mo nakanaka na mono darō.
 how is my English ability also considerable thing is, isn't it?
“How's that? My English is quite good, isn't it?”
“Whaddaya think? Pretty good English, eh?” (PL2)

- dō da = “what/how is it?”—often implying “are you impressed?”
- -ryoku (lit., “strength”) after the name of a language implies “ability [to speak/understand the language].” With action nouns it means “strength/capacity [to do the action].”
- nakanaka is an adverb meaning “considerably/highly,” and nakanaka na (or no) is its form for modifying nouns → “considerable.” Nakanaka usually implies “more than expected,” so it needs to be used with some caution when speaking of others' abilities or accomplishments. Nakanaka na mono = “a considerable thing” → “is quite/unexpectedly good.”
- darō makes a conjecture (“probably/surely”), but it's also used idiomatically as a tag question, like “right?/isn't it?/ don't you think?”

5 Sound FX: ゴン
Gon
Wham! (effect of fist smashing down on table)

1

Kokaji: な、なんだ、きさま... / わ、わしの許可なく立ち上がるな。
Na- nan da, kisama... / Wa- washi no kyoka naku tachiagaru na.
 (stammer) what is you (stammer) my permission without don't stand up
“Wh-what do you think you're doing? / D-don't stand up without my permission.” (PL2)

Kokaji: わ、わしを誰だか知っとるのか...
Wa- washi o dare da ka shittoru no ka?
 (stammer) I (obj.) who is/am (?) know (explan.-?)
“D-do you know who I am?” (PL2)

- nan da is literally “what is it,” and, by inverted syntax, kisama (“you”) is the topic of the sentence: “as for you, what is it?” → “what’s with you?/what’s your problem?/what do you think you’re doing?”
- kyoka = “permission,” and naku is the adverb form of nai (“not exist”). Kyoka naku = “without permission.” This modifies tachiagaru na.
- tachiagaru = “stand up,” and na after a plain verb can make an abrupt prohibition: “Don’t ~.”
- dare = “who,” and dare da ka is a form of “who is it?” used only in indirect questions: “who it is/who I am.”
- shittoru is a contraction of shitte oru, equivalent to shitte iru (“know”), from shiru (“come to know”). Shittoru no ka = “is it that you know?” → “do you know?” When an embedded question precedes shitte iru, it becomes an indirect question: “Do you know who/what/where,” so here we get “Do you know who I am?”

2

Reggie: いまいましい ジャパニーズめ!
Imaimashii Japānīzu-me!
 detestable/infernal Japanese-(derog.)
“Cursed Japanese!” (PL1)

Narration: ベースボールはこの国でまったく異質なモノに生まれ変わっていた。
Bēsubōru wa kono kuni de mattaku ishitsu na mono ni umarekawatte ita.
 baseball as for this country in completely different thing as had been reborn Baseball had been reborn as something completely different in this country. (PL2)

彼らはそれを“野球”と呼ぶ。
Kare-ra wa sore o “yakyū” to yobu.
 they as for that (obj.) field ball (quote) call
They called it yakyū. (PL2)

- imaimashii is used when the speaker finds the person or thing in question highly offensive: “vexing/annoying/hateful/detestable.”
- -me is again the derogatory suffix showing contempt, derision, or anger, added most commonly to personal names and other words that refer to people.
- ishitsu = “different/alien nature”; it becomes ishitsu na or ishitsu no when modifying another noun: ishitsu na mono = “a different-natured thing,” and mattaku ishitsu na mono = “a completely different thing.”
- umarekawatte is the -te form of umarekawaru (“be reborn”), and ita is the plain/abrupt past form of iru, which after the -te form of another verb implies that either the action or its result continues, depending on the nature of the verb. Since rebirth is a momentary action, umarekawatte iru/ita means “has/had been reborn [and continues to exist in that form].”
- kare = “he/him,” and -ra is a relatively informal suffix for making words referring to people into plurals, so kare-ra = “they/them.”
- yakyū is written with kanji meaning “field” and “ball,” and is indeed the Japanese name for “baseball.” Bēsubōru (ベースボール), the katakana rendering of “baseball,” is also widely recognized, but yakyū is probably the more common way to refer to baseball in most contexts.

To be continued...

The Cleanest, Most Consistent Fluoroelastomer Compound In The Industry

Burton Rubber's new dedicated FKM mixing line guarantees you the quality you expect with specialty materials. And now, your FKM compound requirements can be combined with purchases of other products from Burton to give you unmatched buying power. Use our technology and resources to your advantage.

Spectrum™

Burton's proprietary Spectrum™ networked process control system ensures that your recipes are weighed, mixed and packaged the same way, time after time.

Quality

We invite you to come see the result of the FKM team's organizational philosophy - the Burton Basics. We are ISO-9002 registered; laboratories are A2LA and GM certified.

Delivery

Burton guarantees that we ship your order on time, every time. If we miss the agreed-upon date, we rebate 2% of the purchase price for the late shipment.

Location

We're in the heartland of the rubber industry. Along with our Global Processing division in California, we are able to serve you throughout North America - where you need us.

BURTON

RUBBER PROCESSING, INC.

Come visit us in Burton, Ohio. Call 800-237-8649 or 216-834-4644 or see your sales representative to arrange for a visit and a quote.

The Americas' Compounder™

A business unit of the M.A. Hanna Company

Want to Exchange Letters with Japanese Friends?

ALC Press is looking for people of all nationalities who would like to exchange letters (in English) with Japanese. In Japan there are lots of people, young and old, who want to correspond with overseas friends.

Networking for Global Communication
ALCPRESS INC.
 ALC Correspondence Club, c/o ALC Press, Inc.
 2-54-12 Eifuku, Sugunami-ku Tokyo 168 Japan

Tokyo-based publisher, ALC Press, Inc. have launched the ALC Correspondence Club - a penpal introduction service - in order to promote international exchange and friendship among individuals in Japan and other countries. If you are interested in participating in this exciting program, please complete this form and mail it to our headquarters in Tokyo.

You will become a member of the ALC Correspondence Club upon our receipt of your registration form. Registration is free, and valid for six months. During the six-month registration period, we will match you with Japanese penpals with the help of the information you have provided. The Japanese penpals will then write to you. It is preferred that you write in English, but Japanese is acceptable as well.

ALC Correspondence Club Registration Form

Name: _____ Sex: Male / Female

Address: _____

Postal Code: _____ Country: _____

Marital Status: Married / Single Age: _____

Occupation: _____ Nationality: _____

Hobbies / Interests: _____

We're waiting to hear from you!

MAC と PC の日本語はクオリタスにお任せください

Qualitas is your source for Japanese Software since 1987.

Ayumi Software™ Products

QuarkXpress 3.3 Japanese (Mac and Power Mac)
 Desktop Publishing Software
 QuarkXpress supports vertical text formatting, furigana, left-side page binding, and kanji page numbering. The menus can switch to English.
Special Price $1480 (PPC) $1400 (68K) Korean and Chinese versions also available.

e.Typist (Windows, Mac)
 Japanese OCR Software
 The newly published e.Typist provides quick, efficient conversion of Japanese newspapers, magazines, or manuscripts into text data with the use of a scanner and simple menus.
Special Price $450

EP WING 規格 CD-ROM タイトル販売開始!

Ayumi Software™ の3つの辞書、Mac 広辞苑四版 (岩波書店)、ワードハンター (三省堂)、最新医学大事典 (医歯薬出版) は Mac 専用検索ソフト付きの商品です。EP WING 規格の CD-ROM タイトル* は現在 24 のタイトルが日本で好評発売中です。現代用語の基礎知識 1994 年版 (自由国民社)、ビジネス法律用語の基礎知識 (自由国民社)、新英和・和英中辞典 (研究社)、新英和・和英中辞典 (研究社)、漢和辞典漢字源辞典 (学習研究社)、岩波電子総合年表 (岩波書店)、八代集 新日本古典文学大系 (岩波書店)、ニューセンチュリー英和辞典 (三省堂)、模範六法全書 1993 年版 (三省堂)、大辞林 (三省堂) など。*Windows、Mac 共に専用ビューワが必要です。

クオリタスのホームページを是非ご覧ください。 <http://www.holonet.net/qualitas/>

Qualitas Trading Company
 Ayumi Software™
 2029 Durant Avenue, Berkeley, CA 94704
 Tel: (510) 848-8080 Fax: (510) 848-8009

Ayumi Software™ の Mac 広辞苑、三省堂ワードハンター、最新医学大事典、JapanEase vol 1 & 2、アプロース英和・和英の開発元・総販売元です。EPWING 規格 CD-ROM タイトルの国内ディストリビュータです。Quark 社の QuarkXpress-J の国内正規代理店です。メディアドライブ研究所の e.Typist の国内ディストリビュータです。Apple 社の Japanese Language Kit の国内正規代理店です。Microsoft 社の Microsoft Windows-J の国内正規代理店です。

BASIC JAPANESE through comics

Lesson 51 • The verb of understanding: wakaru

Wakaru basically means “understand/comprehend,” but when translated into English it often overlaps with our use of “know,” as well as with such synonyms for understand as “see,” “get,” “grasp,” “discern,” “figure out,” and “follow.” Additionally, the word often includes a potential (“can/be able to”) meaning—i.e., it can mean not just “understand” but “understandable,” as well as “can understand/see/grasp/tell/figure out,” etc.

Because wakaru sometimes translates as “know,” it covers some of the same ground as shiru (“come to know/learn”), but the two are definitely not interchangeable. As we noted in Basic Japanese No. 50, shiru is generally used to speak of knowledge acquired from some outside source, while wakaru is used for what one knows from having internally “figured out” or “understood”—though, of course, this internal comprehension is often in response to something observed externally.

Even in cases where either shiru or wakaru will work, they can’t be used in quite the same way. The direct object of shiru is marked with the usual o, while the direct object of wakaru is marked with ga.

Wakaru = you’ll see

Ataru doesn’t know it, but he’s been chosen by visitors from outer space to take part in a contest that will decide the future of the planet. His mother, who does know the situation, has finally tracked him down and is bringing him home to meet one of the aliens.

© Takahashi Rumiko / Urusei Yatsura, Shogakukan

Ataru: なに が あった んだ?!
Nani ga atta n da?! what (subj.) existed/happened (explan.)
 “What has happened?!”
 “What’s going on?!” (PL2)

Mother: くれれば わかる よ!!
Kureba wakaru yo!!
 if/when come will understand (emph.)
 “If you come, you will see!”
 “Just come and you’ll see!” (PL2)

- atta is the abrupt past form of aru (“exists,” or when speaking of events, “occurs”).
- question-word questions can be asked with the explanatory n da at the end. Asking something this way sounds quite abrupt and is done mostly by males.
- kureba is a conditional “if/when” form of kuru (“come”).

Wakaru = I can tell

Hiroshi has placed a frog in his sister's backpack to get back at her for teasing him. When confronted by his mother, he denies knowing anything about it, but she is not fooled.

© Saigan Ryōhei / Yūyake no Uta, Shogakukan

Mother: しらばっくれても わかります よ!
Shirabakurete mo wakarimasu yo!
 even if feign ignorance/innocence understand/can tell (emph.)
 “Even if you play innocent, I can tell!” (PL3)

FX: ギョ〜ッ Gyū!
 (effect of pinching/grasping something firmly)

Hiroshi: いたーい!
Ita-i!
 (is) painful
 “Ou-u-uch!” (PL2)

- shirabakurete mo is a conditional “even if” form of shirabakureru (or shirabakureru), which is an informal/slang word for “pretend not to know/play innocent/feign ignorance.”
- wakarimasu is the PL3 form of wakaru.
- itai is an adjective meaning “hurts/is painful,” but it’s also used as the exclamation “ouch!”

Wakatte iru = I know

Section Chief Sasayama has just stated that he believes his team may be able to land a major contract—something all the team members thought was impossible. Kataoka points out one serious problem.

© Yamasaki & Kitami / Tsuri Baka Nisshi, Shogakukan

Kataoka: 時間が差し迫っているんです!!
Jikan ga sashisematte iru n desu!! time (subj.) is imminent/pressing (explan.)
 “There’s hardly any time left!” (PL3)

Sasayama: 分かっている!!
Wakatteru!! understand/am aware
 “I know that!” (PL2)

- sashisematte iru is from sashisemaru (“be imminent/impending/pressing”). When used with jikan (“time”), it implies “the appointed time/deadline/time limit is drawing near” → “there’s hardly any time left.”
- wakatteru is a contraction of wakatte iru (“understand/know”). Like shiru (“come to know”), wakaru refers to the momentary action “come to understand”; wakatte iru is used to express what you already understand and continue to understand.

Understanding the situation

Tōdō, manager of the Hotel Platon, and a hotel employee are trying to figure out what an elderly woman is doing snooping around the door of one of the hotel guests.

© Ishinomori Shōtarō / Hotel, Shogakukan

Tōdō: ど... どういう 事 だ!?
Do- dō iu koto da!?
 (stammer) what kind of thing/situation is “Wh-what’s the situation?!”
 “Wh-what’s she doing?!?” (PL2)

Employee: わかりません...
Wakarimasen... don’t understand/know
 “I don’t know...” (PL2)

- koto refers to an intangible “thing,” such as a “question/fact/matter/event/situation,” etc., so dō iu koto (da) = “what kind of situation (is it)?” → “What’s going on here?/What’s the deal here?” → “What’s she doing?”
- asking a question with da is masculine.
- wakarimasen is the PL3 negative of wakaru. He doesn’t know because he can’t figure it out from the situation and her actions.

Understanding or speaking a language

While Noriko was waiting for a friend at a Japanese restaurant in New York, two Americans began speaking to her in English and invited her to join them.

© Hirokane Kenshi / Kachō Shima Kōsaku, Kodansha

Noriko: いやだ、私... 英語 分からない。
Iya da, Watashi... eigo wakaranai.
 (exclam.) I English don’t understand
 “Oh, my goodness. I... don’t speak English.” (PL2)

- iya da often expresses strong displeasure or refusal, but here she’s simply flustered.
- wakaranai is the negative form of wakaru, which in the context of a language can mean either “understand” or “speak.” Ga to mark eigo as the object of wakaranai has been omitted. (See introduction.)

Understanding a request or command

It has become increasingly difficult for Haibara's boss to pay his monthly bills, and he's relied on Haibara to take out personal loans from a sarakin lender several times already. He has just asked Haibara to take out another such loan.

© Aoki Yūji / Naniwa Kin'yūdō, Kodansha

Boss:

また 照会 の 電話 が ある
 Mata shōkai no denwa ga aru again inquiry of tel. call (subj.) there is/will be と 思う から、ここで 待ってる から、 to omou kara, koko de matteru kara,
 (quote) think so here at will be waiting so できるだけ 急いでくれ や。 dekiru dake isoide kure ya.
 as much as possible hurry-(request) (emph.)
"I think there'll be an inquiry call this time, too, so I'll wait here. Hurry back." (PL2)

Haibara:

わかりました。 Wakarimashita. understood
"Yes, sir." (PL3)

- matteru is a contraction of matte iru ("am/is/will be waiting").
- isoide is the -te form of isogu ("rush/hurry"), and kure makes it an informal/abrupt request (masculine).
- ya is sometimes used with informal requests/commands to emphasize the speaker's desire that the action be done.
- the past forms of wakaru, either wakatta (PL2) or wakarimashita (PL3), are often used in response to requests or commands, essentially implying "I understand what you have asked/ordered and I will do it."

Understanding how someone feels

Kōichi is listening to his uncle, who is on his deathbed recounting the experiences that made him abandon a high-powered international business career for a quiet life by the sea.

© Yajima & Hirokane / Ningen Kōsaten, Shogakukan

Uncle:

その時 から、俺 は
 Sono toki kara, ore wa that time from I/me as for この 浜 で 暮らし 始めた。 kono hama de kurashi-hajimeta.
 this beach at began to live
"And from that time forth, I have lived here by the beach." (PL2)

Kōichi:

わかります。 Wakarimasu.
 (I) understand
"I understand your feelings."
"I know how you felt." (PL3)

- ore is a rough, masculine word for "I/me."
- kurashi is the stem form of kurasu ("live"), and hajimeta is the plain/abrupt past form of hajimeru ("begin").
- wakaru or wakarimasu in plain, non-past form is used to express that you know/understand how the other person feels or felt.

Knowing what to do

Nozawa thinks she is ugly as a boot. When a co-worker gives her flowers, she can't understand why, and can't make up her mind whether to trust him.

Nozawa: どう すれば いい のか... わかんない よ。 Dō sureba ii no ka... wakannai yo.
 what/how if do is good (explan.-?) don't understand (emph.)
 "What should I do?... I really don't know."
"I really don't know what to do." (PL2)

- sureba is a conditional "if" form of suru ("do"), so the expression dō sureba ii is literally "it is good if I do what?" → "I should do what?" → "what should I do?"
- wakannai is a contraction of wakaranai, the negative form of wakaru. A question ending in ka or no ka followed by wakaranai essentially makes an indirect question: "I don't know/can't figure out what ~."

© Kubonouchi Eisaku / Tsurumoku Dokushin Ryō, Shogakukan

Being accepting and supportive

Hamasaki is worried about the way Sasayama loses control after drinking, but Sasayama explains that it is just his way of releasing tension, and insists that the people at his favorite pub don't mind.

Sasayama: そのことを ポン太のママたちも
Sono koto o Ponta no mama-tachi mo that thing (obj.) (club name) of owner et al. also よく 分かって くれる!
yoku wakatte kureteru!
 well/very are understanding of me
"The Mama and the others at Ponta are very understanding about it!" (PL2)

Hamasaki: その通り!
Sono tōri! that is like
"Exactly so!" (PL2)

© Yamasaki & Kitami / Tsuri Baka Nisshi, Shogakukan

- mama (usually without -san) is one of the standard ways of referring to the female owner/proprietress of a drinking establishment, and mama-tachi here implies "the mama and the others who run the pub." Though -tachi is generally thought of as a suffix that makes plurals, what it actually means is something like "and the associated group" (e.g., watashi-tachi is literally "I and the group associated with me" → "we"), so mama-tachi should not be taken to imply the bar has several owners/mamas.
- wakatte kureteru is a contraction of wakatte kurete iru (lit., "they are understanding of/for me"), from wakatte kureru ("be understanding of/for me"), which generally implies the person accepts one's shortcomings or weaknesses and responds in a supportive manner.
- ~ no tōri means "exactly as/in the manner of ~." Since sono means "that/of that," sono tōri = "exactly as/in the manner of that" → "exactly that way/so."
- although Hamasaki appears to be agreeing with Sasayama here, he goes on to warn Sasayama about his behavior in establishments other than Ponta.

Understanding less

Kazamatsuri, the coach of Yawara's rival in judo, went on a date with Yawara to find out more about her skills. Yawara, not realizing Kazamatsuri's connection with her rival, was excited to have a chance to be a normal teenager on a Saturday afternoon date. Thus, she went out of her way to hide her judo background, leaving Kazamatsuri doubting whether she is really as good as he has heard.

© Urusawa Naoki / Yawara!, Shogakukan

Kazamatsuri: 猪熊 柔 と いう 少女 が
Inokuma Yawara to iu shōjo ga
(surname) (given name) (quote) say/called girl (obj.)

ますます わからなくなっただ！ masumasu wakaranaku natta.
even more/less not understandable became

“The girl called Inokuma Yawara has become even more unfathomable!”

“I understand this Inokuma Yawara girl less than ever!” (PL2)

- masumasu basically means “to a greater and greater degree,” so, depending on what it modifies, it can become either “more and more” or “less and less.”
- ga marks shōjo (“girl”) as the object of the verb.
- wakaranaku is the adverb form of wakaranai, negative of wakaru, and naru = “become,” so the combination literally means “come to not understand/become not understandable.” It describes a state of increasing confusion or uncertainty: “not understand/know anymore” or “understand/know less and less.”

Unexpected discernment

Matchi (in the middle) has just pointed out to his friends that the seal uses its whiskers for balancing the ball. They are duly impressed with his powers of perception.

© Saigan Ryōhei / Yūyake no Uta, Shogakukan

- tateterā is a slang equivalent of tatete iru (“is holding upright,” from tateru, “hold upright”) plus wa (colloquial emphasis).
- yoku is the adverb form of ii/yoii (“good/fine”), and yoku wakatta (wa) nē implies the speaker hadn’t noticed the matter in question and so is surprised and impressed by the listener’s observation.
- atama (ga) ii (lit., “head is good”) is an expression for “smart/clever/perceptive.”

Friend 1:

あっ、本当だ、ヒゲを立ててらあ！
A! Hontō da. Hige o tateterā!
(exclam.) true is whiskers (obj.) holding up-(emph.)
“Hey, it’s true. He’s holding his whiskers up [to stabilize the ball]!”
“Hey, it’s true. He’s holding it up with his whiskers!” (PL2)

Matchi:

ハハハ
Ha ha ha
(laughing)

Friend 2:

良くわかったわねー！
Yoku wakatta wa nē.
well understood (fem. emph.)
マッチ頭良いのねー！
Matchi, atama ii no nē!
(name) smart (explan.) (colloq.)
“How could you tell?! You’re so smart, Matchi!” (PL2)

... is a complete thought/sentence modifying ...

Translation Editor
Wayne Lammers

Japanese adjectives act a lot like verbs. To begin with, they make complete sentences all by themselves. That is, since they contain the meaning of the verb “to be,” so long as the subject is understood, there’s no need for a noun or pronoun—just like a verb: samui = “[I] am cold/[it] is cold” (cf. ikimashita = “[I/she/they] went”). When we translate into English, of course, we have to add the implied noun or pronoun for the sentence to make sense, but in Japanese the adjective can stand alone. Secondly, adjectives have past and negative conjugations like verbs: samukatta = “[I/it] was cold,” samukunai = “[I] am/[it] is not cold,” and samukunakatta = “[I/it] was not cold.” Finally, in longer sentences, this kind of adjective comes at the end of the predicate and sentence, also like a verb.

As modifiers, however, adjectives act more the way English speakers would expect them to, modifying the noun that follows: samui hi = “cold day.” One difference from English is that the adjective always has to come first. In Japanese there is no second option equivalent to “a day that is cold.”

Once we’ve shifted our focus to modifying, we can also turn things around and say that Japanese verbs act a lot like adjectives. Place any verb in front of a noun, like an adjective, and you’ve made the verb into a modifier for the noun. The verb can be in virtually any form—past, nonpast, passive, causative, -te form plus auxiliary, honorific—though it usually doesn’t appear in one of the more polite -masu forms in this use. Kita dōki = “the [you]-came motive” → “the motive why you came/your motive for coming”; nyūshu shita jōhō = “the [we]-obtained information” → “the information [we] obtained” (see panel to right). By comparison, relatively few verbs in English can precede the nouns they modify, and in relatively few forms.

Kōsuke: Saisen wa tamete oita ichien-dama 361-mai da. (PL2)
FX: Chari chari. Zā.

Tamete oita is the past form of tamete oku (-te form of tameru, “accumulate/save,” plus oku, “set/leave [in a place]”), implying “save up [for later use].” This verb modifies ichien-dama (“one-yen coins”). (p. 28)

All of this is by way of introduction to what I really want to talk about: those long sentence modifiers we point out in our manga notes with the phrase “X is a complete thought/sentence modifying Y.” The fact is, since even a single verb or adjective makes a complete sentence, we could make this claim about any lone adjective or verb modifying a noun: i.e., samui hi could be analyzed not as “a cold day,” but as “an [it]-is-cold day.” Since that doesn’t exactly simplify things, we don’t do it. The point is that we could.

Reporter: Sakihodo Kokaji-shi yori Fosutā Senshu no Nihon ni kita dōki ni tsuite no komento ga arimashita ga. / wareware ga Amerika yori nyūshu shita jōhō to kanari kuichigai ga aru no desu ga. (PL3)

The underlined portions are full sentences that modify the nouns dōki (“motive”) and jōhō (“information”). The bolded no and ga are both subject markers. (p. 80)

What does simplify things is knowing that whenever we say, “X is a complete thought/sentence modifying Y,” it means you can treat all of X as essentially a single adjective or verb that directly affects only the noun immediately after it. This, in turn, means you can often get a clearer picture of the main clause of the sentence simply by setting all of X aside and ignoring it at first.

If you initially ignore the underlined parts in the above panel’s compound sentence, for instance, you get “there was a comment about motive from Mr. Kokaji a while ago, but” for the first balloon, and “there is a considerable discrepancy with the information” for the second. The underlined parts do ultimately add crucial information—it makes a big difference in meaning whether it’s a simple “his motive” (which could mean Kokaji’s own motive for something) or “the player-Foster-came-to-Japan motive”—but grammatically, the longer modifier is no different from the short one. (Of course, when translated into English, the longer ones almost always have to come after the noun to sound natural.)

When a sentence is being used as a modifier, its subject is often marked with no instead of ga. As the above example shows, this is an optional substitution. Normally the switch would not be made if using no could be misinterpreted as a possessive or other modifying form, and a host of other stylistic considerations can affect the choice of particle as well. As a learner, you simply need to keep in mind that no can be a subject marker in this situation. ❖

vocabulary summary

From Binbō Seikatsu Manyuaru, p. 26

境内	keidai	precincts/grounds
おこなう	okonau	hold (an event)
集める	atsumeru	collect/gather
神聖な	shinsei na	sacred/holy/solemn
儀式	gishiki	ceremony
済ませる	sumaseru	finish/take care of (business)
貯める	tameru	save (money)
配る	kubaru	distribute/hand out
枝	eda	(tree) branch
焼く	yaku	roast/burn (v.)
連れ	tsure	companion
筆	fude	brush/calligraphy
上達する	jōtatsu suru	improve/make progress
健康	kenkō	health
過ごす	sugosu	spend/pass (time)
健全な	kenzen na	sound/wholesome
基本	kihon	basic/essential

From Manga Shorts, p. 34

パンク	panku	punk/punker
はし	hashi	chopsticks
たまに	tama ni	occasionally
楽しむ	tanoshimu	enjoy/take pleasure in
間に合う	maniau	be in time (for)
日没	nichibotsu	sundown
動く	ugoku	move (v.)
教える	oshieru	tell/inform
卒業する	sotsugyō suru	graduate (v.)
つかう	tsukau	use (v.)
晩ごはん	bangohan	evening meal/dinner
野菜	yasai	vegetable
お正月	o-shōgatsu	New Year's
底	soko	bottom
最初	saisho	beginning/first
今年	kotoshi	this year
ムリ	muri	impossible
住所	jūsho	address (n.)
銀行	ginkō	bank (n.)
美容室	biyō-shitsu	beauty parlor
大売出し	ō-uridashi	big sale
金融機関	kin'yū kikan	financial institution
来年	rainen	next year
まちがえる	machigaeru	make a mistake
昨年	sakunen	last year
本年	honnen	this year
届く	todoku	arrive/be delivered
めんどくさい	mendokusai	troublesome/tiresome/a hassle
ハガキ	hagaki	postcard
切手	kitte	postage stamp

From American Comics, p. 54

マヌケな	manuke na	stupid/silly
服	fuku	clothes
髪	kami	hair
とかす	tokasu	comb/brush (v.)
写真	shashin	photograph (n.)

様子	yōsu	situation/appearance/state
クリスマス	Kurisumasu	Christmas
バカげた	bakageta	foolish/silly
親戚	shinseki	relatives/relations
突然	totsuzen	suddenly
訪ねる	tazuneru	call on/visit
にっこり笑う	nikkori warau	smile sweetly
グチャグチャ	guchagucha	jumbled/messy
過ぎ去る	sugisaru	pass by
最悪	saiaku	worst

From Reggie, p. 75

感謝する	kansha suru	be grateful
合同記者会見	gōdō kisha kaiken	joint press conference
引っ張り出す	hippari-dasu	pull/drag out
上層部	jōsō-bu	upper echelon
マスコミ	masukomi	the media
作り上げる	tsukurageru	make up/concoct
続く	tsuzuku	continue/go on/follow
やかましい	yakamashii	noisy
先程	sakihodo	a while ago/a moment ago
動機	dōki	motive
入手する	nyūshu suru	obtain
情報	jōhō	information
かなり	kanari	considerably
くい違い	kuichigai	discrepancy/inconsistency
くだらない	kudaranai	trivial/worthless
通訳	tsūyaku	interpreter
頼みの綱	tanomi no tsuna	last hope/only resort
証明する	shōmei suru	prove/show
結果	kekka	result/consequence
汚名	omei	bad name/stigma
侮辱する	bujoku suru	insult (v.)
退場する	taijō suru	leave/withdraw
背番号	sebangō	uniform number
発表する	happyō suru	announce
決定する	kettei suru	decide
ホームラン	hōmuran	home run
打つ	utsu	hit (v.)
宣言する	sengen suru	declare
任務	ninmu	work assignment/mission
余計な	yokei na	excessive/gratuitous
英語力	eigo-ryoku	ability in English
いまましい	imaimashii	detestable/hateful
異質な	ishitsu na	different/alien
生まれ変わる	umarekawaru	be reborn
野球	yakyū	baseball

From Basic Japanese, p. 94

しらばっくれる	shirabakkureru	feign ignorance
差し迫る	sashisemaru	be imminent/impending
照会	shōkai	inquiry
急ぐ	isogu	hurry/rush (v.)
浜	hama	beach (n.)
少女	shōjo	girl
ヒゲ	hige	whiskers
立てる	tateru	hold upright

The Vocabulary Summary is taken from material appearing in this issue of Mangajin. It's not always possible to give the complete range of meanings for a word in this limited space, so our "definitions" are based on the usage of the word in a particular story.

• Classifieds •

CLASSIFIED ADS are $25 for up to 30 words, and $1 per additional word to run 1 time. Payment must be included with order. Commercial ads are $2.00 per word, $3.00 per word boldfaced, $30 minimum charge or $80/inch for display ads, discounts available for size and/or frequency (2 1/4" width, camera ready). Send to: MANGAJIN Classifieds, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

Categories: • PEN PALS • NOTICES & EVENTS • BOOKS & PUBLICATIONS • COMPUTERS & SOFTWARE • JOB SEEKERS • CONSULTING • EMPLOYMENT • MISCELLANEOUS (MANGAJIN reserves the right to edit or reject any classified advertisement.)

日本語のclassified OKです!

日本語のclassified OKです!

COMPUTERS & SOFTWARE

WHEN YOU FINALLY GET SERIOUS ABOUT LEARNING TO READ JAPANESE...

Kanji 2045

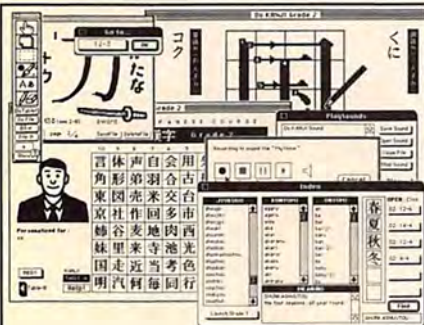

A software-based study kit for Microsoft Windows 3.1+

Full search capabilities
Mark and mark searching
Super user-friendly interface
Create your own search index
Can use with Canon Wordtank
Mnemonic ordering and comments
Requires Windows 3.1+, 8+MB RAM
2045 Kanji, including the full standard set
Cross-referenced to 4 popular kanji dictionaries
Test ON, KUN, meaning and character recognition
Make and search your own notes for each character

Send check or money order for $199
Free shipping anywhere in the world

Educational Software International

Tel: 808-396-1161 • Fax: 808-396-9231
272 Kalalau Street • Honolulu, HI 96825

Do KANJI Grade 2 for Macintosh/PowerMac

• 160 Kanji/Example Words/Recording/Exercises/Index •
• Needs English System 7 or later/16MB of Disk Space •

Do KANJI Grade 2 $46 [Group User: from 6 units $36]

Do KANJI Grade 1 (80 Kanji): $39 (group user from 6 units $29)
Shipping in US: $3 for first unit, each additional $2
NYS residents please add sales tax

email: kenjik@aol.com fax: 212-580-4807

Send Check in U.S. Funds Only. Payable to: Kenji Kojima
41 West 89th Street, New York, NY 10024

LANGUAGE SCHOOLS

LEARN JAPANESE IN TOKYO

The Quickest Path to Fluency!

Established Language School offers intensive Japanese, visa sponsorship, homestay consultation. OLJ Language Academy, Nihon Fudo Building 6F, 2-1-13 Shibuya, Shibuya-ku, Tokyo 150 JAPAN.

Tel: 011-81-3-3400-7181.

Internet: aaron.persky@iac-online.com

VIDEOS & TAPES

Experience the Mysteries of Japan with A6 Adult CD-Rom!

For a free full-color catalog of UNCENSORED, state-of-the-art, JAPANESE ADULT CD ROM titles available in the US for the first time, please call 714-773-5413.

Adults - 21 and over only please!

What a way to learn Japanese Culture!
DEALER INQUIRIES WELCOME!

Learn Japanese on Your Own!

Comprehensive self-instructional audio-cassette/book courses for learning Japanese and 90 other languages. Call or write for free 56-page catalog. 1-800-243-1234

Audio-Forum, Dept. 114,
Guilford, CT 06437

WORK & LIVE IN JAPAN

2-hour Videotape & Booklet

Details opportunities teaching English, modeling, and editing. Advice on salary negotiation, social customs, living arrangements and more.

Workbook with resource addresses included.

Send $35 + $2.95 shipping to:

Japan Marketing Group
400 Groveland Ave. • Ste. 312
Minneapolis • MN • 55403
612-871-7889

INTERNATIONAL MARRIAGE

Japanese women seek Western men

欧米人と日本人の 国際結婚

貴方との出会いを求めて
デートの前に相手の写真とプロフィールを送付
We will send you their photos and profiles before you meet them.

For more information
Call 03-5275-1885
or write Transpacific Marriage Agency
Togawa Bldg. 3F-60 7-12-1 Nishi Shinjuku
Shinjuku-ku, Tokyo 160
Also serving Japanese men and Western women.

EMPLOYMENT

WORK for MANGAJIN!

Marketing Associate

Mangajin is looking for a marketing associate to work at our home office in Atlanta. Applicants should have computer skills (PageMaker, Quark, 4D/ Filemaker, Internet/WWW), copywriting ability (for promo flyers, press releases), people/telephone skills, innovative thinking in developing new marketing methods, and a sense of humor. Compensation based on skills/experience. Please send letter, resume, and samples of work (if available) to Mangajin Marketing, PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065.

CLUBS

OTAKU NO ANIME is a nonprofit club dedicated to the promotion of Japanese entertainment and animation in the US. To join send a SASE to Otaku no Anime, 14185 Halper Rd., Poway, CA 92064.

A.F.W.J. is the Association of Foreign Women married to Japanese. To join us, please write or telephone Ann Endo, 5-7-30 Kosenba-cho, Kawagoe-shi, Saitama 350 Japan. Tel: 0492-25-9500

HEALTH & FITNESS

専門家による 整体・指圧治療

腰痛、肩こり、頭痛、Do-in 頸項痛、生理痛、等

導院

605 5th Avenue, 5F
(Bet. 48th & 49th St.)
212-644-9232

(7Days Open)

Shiatsu Massage

Straight from Japan

Back pain, leg pain, stiff shoulders, headaches, menstrual cramps, etc. ?

FOR PROFESSIONAL SHIATSU MASSAGE
IN NEW YORK CALL SUZUKI-SENSEI AT 212-644-9232

EXCHANGE PROGRAMS

Get yourself out of the classroom and into the culture of Japan—with JALEX

The Japanese Language Exchange (JALEX) program is an educational program that pairs native Japanese teachers from Japan with mentor teachers in the United States in precollegiate Japanese language programs.

JAPANESE LANGUAGE EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Interested in furthering your abilities as a Japanese language teacher?

JALEX cordially invites you to attend upcoming training events in Chicago October 1995 or March 1996. Past sessions have included Cyberspace: Using the Computer in the Language Classroom, Team-Teaching in Action, Developing Community Support for Japanese, and many others.

For more information, contact:

THE LAURASIAN INSTITUTION, ROSS HOUSE, 105 W. BURTON, EUREKA, IL 61530 USA; tel: 309-467-2208, fax: 309-467-3273

JALEX is funded by the Center for Global Partnership and administered by THE LAURASIAN INSTITUTION.

HOUSING EXCHANGE

NASA Engineer in Reston, Va., looking for native Japanese speaker for conversation or language exchange. Roommate situation also available; free rent in exchange for speaking only Japanese at home. Leave message at 202-358-2536.

Japanese Women seek friendship! Free brochure: PCC, 110 Pacific #208—AE, San Francisco CA 94111.

SJF, LDS, 27, University student, seeks friends who are interested in Japanese language and culture. Write in Japanese or English. Naomi Anjo, 1800 North State Street, #330, Provo Utah, 84604

My name is Pedro Antonio Villena Silva. I'm a Spanish otaku from Palma Mallorca. I'm interested in corresponding with Japanese girls from the ages of 18 to 23 who like to read comics, manga and books; enjoy the cinema, especially SF and fear movies; and also like role-playing games and pop-rock music. Please write me at: Santo Novico N°17 2° 1°; 07006 Palma DE Mallorca; Balears, Espana.

Vivacious 18-year-old American girl would like to find Japanese penpals. If you are a young male or female from Japan, write me. My interests include manga/anime, martial arts, and more!. Kelly McCoy, 422 Clearview Ave., Wheeling W.V. 26003.

Japanese male, 30 seeks sincere Chinese lady, 25-30, from any Asian country for friendship, possibly more. Write K.S., 6-6-10-503 Arima, Miyame, Kawasaki 216, Japan.

Mysterious American college student, 19, searches for pen pals all over Japan. If interested please write in English to: Doug Smith, 109 Lee Road, Wheeling W.V. 26003.

OLYMPIC RENTALS

2200 sq. ft. home located in Lawrenceville, Ga. Convenient access to I-85 and Georgia 317, about 40 miles from Atlanta. 2-years old. 4 bedrooms, 3 full baths, designer kitchen, home theatre, weight room, security system, 2-car garage. Desire to rent whole month of Olympics, $1000/day. Call Tim at 404-963-8843.

Charming 1920's house in Midtown Atlanta with 2 units available. 20-minute walk to subway/Olympic Village. Unit 1: 2-bedroom, 2-bath, designer kitchen, washer/dryer. Unit 2: 2-bedroom, 2-bath, fully-equipped kitchen, sunroom, off-street parking. Both units: central/heat/air, cleaning service, cable TV, phone lines available. Each unit $16,800/3 weeks. Inquire regarding additional days. Call John or Linda: 404-876-2994.

5-bedroom house in Athens, Ga. Walk to soccer venue. 2 baths, central heat/air, sunroom, sunken patio, off-street parking. 3 weeks/$21,000, inquire regarding additional days. Call John or Linda: 404-876-2994.

Opening, Closing Ceremony and other Atlanta 1996 tickets to Olympics available. Rent a multi-bath, 2-story townhouse with patio and laundry. Near mass transit, Olympic Village and Conyers. Flexibility, privacy. US 770-458-9515 (English only) or 2699 Frontier Trail, Atlanta, GA 30341 9月号発売中!

健康・保険大特集

HMOとはいったい何?—変革を迎える米国保険業界

保存版 日本語の話せるドクターズ・リスト

◆ ENTERTAINMENT ◆

シカゴ人がすすめるシカゴ

◆ SPECIAL REPORT ◆

「ハイテク島」ハワイの情報産業事情

月刊 U.S. FrontLine 定期購読申込み書

YES! 1年間 (11号*) 購読を希望します。 料金: ~~$82.50~~ (送料込) → $39.00

半年 6号購読 $24.00

3ヶ月3号購読 $14.00 *2・3月合併号

Name	Title
Company
<input type="checkbox"/> Home or <input type="checkbox"/> Business Address
Home Phone
Business Phone
Payment <input type="checkbox"/> Check Enclosed	Credit Card <input type="checkbox"/> Visa <input type="checkbox"/> Master Card
Card No.	Exp. Date / /
Signature	Date / /

U.S. FRONTLINE NEWS M

330 Madison Ave., 2nd Fl., New York, NY 10017
Tel: (212) 922-9090 / Fax: (212) 922-9119

FrontLine

劇画広告・世界は動く!

THE WORLD KEEPS CHANGING — A Dramatic Comic Advertisement —

Businessman 1: Na, nani!?
"Wha, whaat!?"

Businessman 2: Tanoshimi ni shiteta terebibangumi ga kyanseru ni natta dakeda.
"It's just that the TV program he was looking forward to got cancelled."

FX: GAAAN
(an FX word indicating shock or realization)

The Yomiuri Shimbun, providing a morning circulation of 9.7 million and 4.7 million in the evening, is the most read newspaper in Japan. It is unquestionably the country's most prestigious and influential newspaper. Today, The Yomiuri Shimbun Satellite Edition can be read in the U.S., Canada, South America, and Europe via an undersea optical fiber communications cable across the Pacific, which enables our audience to read the news at zero time difference.

The Yomiuri Shimbun. Delivering world news to all of the world.

読賣新聞

THE YOMIURI SHIMBUN

THE YOMIURI SHIMBUN 1-7-1 Otemachi, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo, 100-55, Japan Tel:(03)3242-1111 Fax:(03)3246-0455
YOMIURI AMERICA, INC. 666 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10103 Tel:(212)765-1111 Fax:(212)765-1610

The Best Japanese Language Program

As agreed by learners and critics alike...

"For a complete, full-scale Japanese course for beginners, nothing beats Power Japanese."

CD-ROM WORLD

"This program (Power Japanese) takes language training into another dimension, and its thorough but fun design is unrivaled."

PC WORLD

"If this isn't the very best way of learning basic Japanese, I'd like to know what is."

COMPUTER SHOPPER

"Power Japanese is a godsend...for those who have been floundering in a sea of Japanese grammar tapes, for months or years."

CD-ROM TODAY

"This isn't just one of the 100 best CD-ROM's; it's one of the 10 best."

PC MAGAZINE

"(Power Japanese and Kanji Moments) are a breakthrough in learning a forbiddingly complex language."

PC MAGAZINE

► Power Japanese for Windows

An enjoyable, self-paced, multimedia language course that gives native English speakers command of basic spoken and written Japanese.

Power Japanese uses a number of techniques including sounds, interactive drills and games, innovative screen designs, and careful selection of materials to provide a vibrant learning environment while helping you to retain what you have learned.

New in Version 2.0!

- Voice Record/Compare
- Japanese word-processor
- Voicetracks
- On-line dictionary
(sent to you FREE when you register)

► Kanji Moments for Windows

A self-guided multimedia language course which introduces some of the ideographic characters (or Kanji) used in Japanese.

As you read each article, you hear the pronunciation, see the Basic Minimum System Requirements: 386-based, Windows 3.1 compatible computer with 4 MB of RAM and a VGA display adapter. Available on CD-ROM and 3.5" disk. Requires multimedia (MPC) soundblaster compatible sound card and microphone for voice recording.

JUST IN! Power Japanese wins 1995 Multimedia World Readers' Choice Award sentences, and see a character written stroke by stroke in a fully animated fashion.

In addition to Japanese articles, Kanji Moments for Windows includes several kinds of interactive drills that reinforce learning.

► 60 Day Guarantee

If you are not satisfied with the program, you can return it for a full refund.

FREE*
1 Year Subscription to MANGAJIN
with purchase of Power Japanese & Kanji Moments
from BayWare, Inc.
LIMITED TIME OFFER!

For more information
CALL 1-800-538-8867

BayWare, Inc. P.O. Box 5554, San Mateo, CA 94402 Tel. (415) 286-4492 Fax: (415) 578-1884

* Limited time offer. Free 1 year new/renewal subscription to Mangajin with purchase of Power Japanese and Kanji Moments from BayWare, Inc. only. Please mention code #MANG45 when ordering. Power Japanese and Kanji Moments are trademarks of BayWare, Inc. All other products are trademarks of their respective owners.

SONY

Take the World with You

Cassette-case Size
World Band Receiver

- 1kHz STEP TUNING
- SYNCHRONOUS DETECTOR
- 50 MEMORY PRESETS
- SSB RECEPTION
- 24-CITY NAME/TIME DISPLAY
- STATION NAME TUNING/EDITING

WORLD BAND RECEIVER

SW100

FM Stereo/LW/MW/SW
PLL Synthesizer Receiver ICF-SW100

Bring the World
Home

Desktop-type Compact
World Band Receiver

- 1kHz STEP TUNING
- SYNCHRONOUS DETECTOR
- SSB RECEPTION
- 22 MEMORY PRESETS
- CLOCK

WORLD BAND RECEIVER

SW7600G

FM Stereo/LW/MW/SW
PLL Synthesizer Receiver ICF-SW7600G

Sony World Band Receiver

*Specifications and features may change according to country.

